Rail, Road and Lake Mishaps Mar Holiday

Three Perish In Quinte Area

By DON MACKENZIE
Staff Reporter

Tragedy was spelled out in capital letters across the nation over the holiday weekend.

And the Quinte area was no exception.

Three died, several more were injured.

Dead are Orville Leonard Ritaral, 20, of Petawawa, Hugh Osmond Dillon, 31, of Darlington, Ont., and Paul Henderson, 6, of Belleville.

Locally, the burn's spelling lesson began early Saturday afternoon when the Marmora ore train collided with three cars on the CNR line in Corbyville.

Impact from the collision was so forceful that a caboose was completely destroyed, seven boxcars derailed and 300 yards of track were torn up.

Missing were $100,000 in denominations.

Although the engineer, Sid Johnson, received minor injuries and a bystander narrowly escaped death, nobody was seriously hurt.

But others in the area were not so lucky.

Even before the train mishap Saturday a Canadian soldier, Orville Leonard Ritaral, 20, of the Petawawa base, was killed in a three-car accident near Shelton Friday night.

Two other fatalities followed later in the weekend.

At Tweed, provincial police scuba divers searched Lake Moira for hours Monday for the body of Hugh Osmond Dillon, 31 of Brighton, Ont.

Pte. Dillon drowned in the early hours of Dominion Day when he fell from a pontoon boat.

Police said he was returning from a dance at a lakeside pavilion with his wife, Ann, and others when the accident occurred.

The treaty to ban the proliferation of nuclear weapons was signed Monday in the capitals of the three sponsoring countries and news that the 59th state would soon follow suit.

Canada was not among the more than 40 countries whose representatives signed the treaty in Washington, Moscow and London, but was expected to sign it soon.

At the Washington signing ceremony President Johnson announced the U.S.-U.S.S.R. agreement to begin talks "in the nearest future" on limitation of offensive and defensive strategic nuclear weapons.

De Gaulle Utilizes Red Menace

PARIS (AP) — President de Gaulle's landslide electoral victory shows that a majority of the French people fear communism and dislike disorder.

The 77-year-old general's forces began the campaign for a new National Assembly on those two issues alone. It paid rich dividends, giving the Gaullists the biggest majority in the National Assembly any French government has won in 49 years.

Heart Transplant Patient Sits Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Gaetan Paris was able to sit up and eat normally only three days after he received the healthy heart of a 25-year-old man and became Canada's second heart transplant patient.

A bulletin issued at 5.30 p.m. Monday by officials of the Montreal Heart Institute said Mr. Paris, 48, an electrical designer from suburban Laval, had been moved to a special sterilized room for the duration of his convalescence, which is expected to last several weeks.

"While there are no signs of rejection or infection, the treatment against these two complications has been started since the day of the operation and is well tolerated by the patient," the bulletin said.

The next bulletin on his condition is to be issued at 5.30 p.m. today.

Britain Sends Ray Back to U.S.

LONDON (AP) — A British court today granted extradition of James Earl Ray, wanted in the United States as the accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The extradition order was granted by Chief Magistrate Fread Milton.

Legal sources said Ray would appeal the decision.

The magistrate granted Ray legal aid to pursue his appeal in a higher court within the required 15-day deadline.

Ray received the magistrate's decision without any outward show of emotion.

He was immediately led from court, still surrounded by a cordon of Scotland Yard detectives, and taken back to his maximum security jail at Wandsworth prison in south London.

Strikes Galore

Beer--Ontario Dries Up

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario drinkers are drinking their last beer bottles while no settlement to a brewery strike-lockout is in sight.

Stocks of beer are running low across the province as the strike enters its 12th day.

Peter O'Dowd, an official of the United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America, said Monday no talks are planned with Molson's Breweries (Ontario) Ltd.

It was the walkout by 300 Molson workers in Toronto at midnight, June 30, following a breakdown in union-brewery negotiations, that sparked the strike-lockout.

The brewing industry retaliated by locking out 2,700 workers at five Ontario breweries and the Brewers Warehousing Co. Ltd.

In Toronto, many taverns report dwindling supplies.

"They'll keep on drinking beer till that's all gone and then they'll go to Ottawa," said a spokesman for one Toronto tavern.

Seaway--Hope Flickers

OTTAWA (CP) — The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority signalled a slight easing Monday in its stand against any wage increase for its striking workers that would amount to more than 32 per cent over two years.

The authority said in a statement that a "compromise between 12 and 13 per cent might be justifiable" to relieve losses being suffered as a result of the strike.

The statement also invited a resumption of negotiations this week with the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, representing the 1,250 workers who have been on strike since June 21.

But it rejected outright the union's demand for increases totalling 25 per cent over two years. It quoted chief authority negotiator John Carvell as saying that any settlement over the compromise of 12 to 13 per cent would be "irresponsible."

Union President W. J. Smith, commenting on the statement, called on the authority to make a definite offer.

He said the Brotherhood will not resume negotiations until it has assurances "they're going to put something on the table."

Massey--Settled; Yule Holiday

TORONTO (CP) — Workers at the two Canadian plants of Massey-Ferguson Industries Ltd. in Toronto and Brantford, Ont., were to return to work today after a 10-week strike over wage parity.

At separate meetings in the two cities Saturday, members of the United Auto Workers voted 89 per cent in favor of accepting a new three-year contract, ending the strike by more than 2,700 workers.

The contract, did not include wage parity for Canadian workers with their United States counterparts.

But Dennis McDermott, the UAW's chief negotiator for the agricultural industry, said the Canadian contract has better fringe benefits.

Such benefits include a company shutdown at Christmas for 10 days with full pay and a vacation bonus of $100 in addition to vacation pay.

Mr. McDermott said the agreement left the workers about eight cents short of parity.

Crane Strains

The work of clearing up the wreckage after the Corbyville train-wreck Saturday started immediately, as CNR workmen came in from Belleville and Kingston. A heavy crane was needed to lift the derailed cars and engine out of the ditch and back into movable positions.

"Tell us that one again where they build a missile detonor!"

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Cooler air covers Ontario today. Unsettled weather continues throughout the more northern regions where there is considerable cloudiness and scattered showers. However, gradual clearing is forecast for the North later today. A few clouds are expected across southern portions today with afternoon temperatures in the mid seventies. Fair but cool conditions are expected throughout Ontario Wednesday.

Canada Celebrates Its Birthday---and Arrival of Summer

Ottawa Ceremony Draws 25,000 --- Man and His World 51,974 --- Wasaga Beach 75,000

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A mixed bag of celebrations was emptied during the Dominion Day holiday weekend.

There were speeches, fireworks, 21-gun salutes and special sporting events during the three-day weekend which began Friday for many Canadians.

In Ottawa, Governor-General and Mrs. Roland Michener joined an audience of 2,000 on Parliament Hill Monday night to watch a variety show featuring talent groups from across Canada.

On Sunday, about 25,000 people lined the Rideau Canal as the Michenors sailed aboard an RCMP yacht to the downtown Centennial Centre for midnight ceremonies welcoming Canada's 101st Dominion Day holiday.

By late Monday night at least 38 persons were killed in traffic accidents. The Canadian Highway Safety Council had predicted that between 60 and 100 persons would die in traffic accidents during the weekend.

Centennial-Plus-One celebrations in Quebec were focussed on Montreal where Man and His World, successor to Expo 67, attracted $1,974 persons by mid-afternoon Monday despite temperatures in the 80s and morning showers.

Nearly 75,000 persons were in the area of Wasaga Beach on Georgian Bay in Ontario Monday, and provincial police reported only minor skirmishes with motorcycle gangs who have used the resort as a battleground on other occasions.

In Toronto about 18,000 persons fled the city to Centre Island while another 20,000 persons, delegates to the Kiwanis international convention, suffered through high humidity and temperatures almost reaching the 90s.

Celebrations in the Atlantic provinces picked up Monday after rain and a cold snap cancelled many outdoor activities Saturday and Sunday.

In Manitoba heavy rains Monday cancelled the Canadian cycling championship and hampered the national sports car races. Other outdoor activities affected were the Canadian drag racing finals and a three-day cricket tournament.

Skies cleared over the rest of the Prairies by Monday, and peace returned to Naicam, Sask., after a protest group demonstrated against United States use of the area as a bombing practice run.

In Edmonton, a love-in to raise funds for a teen centre highlighted the day's activities.

Weekend celebrations in British Columbia included the start of the annual Vancouver-to-Victoria yacht race Monday and the seventh annual international athletic and vintage car meet at Cranbrook Sunday.

Quinte Folks Like It Hot

Quinte area residents, who suffered through a below normal June, swung into July with vengeance over the weekend.

Hot and humid, with only the occasional rain shower, the Dominion Day weekend brought thousands outdoors to enjoy the fine weather.

The little baby Copperhead that John Vout is holding in a bowl is cute — but deadly. The Vouts found the snake on their back doorstep Sunday morning.

Copperhead Snake Found by Youngster

It's very small, maroon speckled, fast and it can bite . . . not a very nice thing to find on your doorstep in the morning.

Mike Vout found a poisonous baby Copperhead snake on his back doorstep off Highway No. 2 in Bayside Sunday morning.

His sister almost stepped on it.

Now, the snake is safely contained away in a strong can covered with wire mesh and Allison Vout, Mike's father, is going to take it down to the Entomology Laboratory in Belleville this morning.

There are evidently very few Copperheads in the Quinte area and since the mother gives birth to seven at a time Mr. Vout feels that there may be a few more around his house.

Spafford Case Adjourned

TRENTON — James Malcolm Spafford, 29, of Trenton, who previously pleaded guilty to a charge of embezzling $21,000 from Tripp's Wholesale Ltd., saw his case adjourned today in Magistrate's court.

Magistrate R. C. Jackson moved the case over to Jan. 7, 1969.

He explained that "time was needed to settle figures in the case and to make some settlement on restitution."

He went on to say, "the man was foolish to try to live in a $14,000 bracket when he only earned half the salary."

"We will see how you behave during this time. As penitentiaries if you carry out restitution you will have many lean years for the few fat ones."

Spafford is due to be sentenced when his case comes up in January.

Ameliasburg Museum Opens

AMELIASBURG — The township museum here has been officially open for two days and already more than 400 people have paid a visit to the place.

The inaugural ceremony on Sunday on the eve of Canada's 101st birthday was attended by an estimated crowd in spite of threatening skies.

Museum board chairman Harry Bleeker escorted 360 signed the curator's guest book including Prince Edward-Hastings MP George Hees and his wife Mabel who travelled from their farm near Cobourg for the occasion.

Afterwards, Mr. and Mrs. Hees returned home to a family celebration of their 34th. wedding anniversary.

The setting on the grounds around the former United Church in the centre of the village was typically rural.

One visitor brought along a pony and tied it at the entrance to the blacksmith shop inside the museum to make the scene more realistic.

Results Altered Slightly

The service vote only slightly alters the June 25 election returns in Hastings riding.

Results of the vote with adjusted total tallies in brackets showed:

Burshaw (NDP) 21 (3,185); Grills 123 (13,691); Temple (Lib.) 211 (10,864).

There were two rejected ballots from the total service vote of 357.

SIGNS PROMOTE SAFETY

Huge neon signs are scattered throughout Moscow promoting safety, sobriety and communism.

The railway engine that collided with a caboose in Corbyville fell on its side in the ditch. Bystanders stood by all weekend watching cleanup operations.

Train Wreck Damage Estimated at $100,000

Canadian National Railway officials are still investigating the cause of the Corbyville trainwreck this morning.

The $100,000 mishap occurred early Saturday afternoon when a six car ore train from Marmora smashed into a stationary caboose and two empty grain cars that were on the line.

Impact from the collision sent one car barrelling 2½ miles into the Belleville CNR yards.

The caboose and engine were completely demolished. Several other cars were derailed as 100 yds. of track were torn up.

Sidney Robinson, engineer of the Marmora train was taken to Belleville General Hospital and treated for minor head injuries before being released.

A woman, who parked her car near the tracks only two minutes before the crash, narrowly escaped injury.

Flying debris from the impact shattered the car windshield as a stave was driven through the car.

Almost immediately after the crash CNR workmen moved into the area with heavy equipment and cranes.

It was a weekend task to clean up the wreckage and lift the derailed cars out of the ditch but the job is just about completed.

Officials from the railway have made no comment as to the cause of the costly accident.

Missed -- by Minutes!

Mrs. Ida Poye examines huge wood splinters which lanced windshield on driver's side of her car outside her home during Corbyville train wreck Saturday. She had parked vehicle and entered house minutes earlier.

Highway Contracts Announced

Work is scheduled to start July 15 on a $190,669 provincial highway contract at the north end of the Quinte district.

Highway 515 will be rebuilt for 4.8 miles south from Cornbermere and 5.5 miles of Highway 62 will be repaved for more than five miles, east from Combermere.

Nearly 24 miles of highways 62 and 62 will be patched from Combermere north towards Barry's Bay.

Contractor for all projects is Malleffle-Birge Construction Company, of Downsview, and the contract was announced by Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings.

Two Injured In Accident

KALADAR — A woman and her two children were taken to Belleville General Hospital Monday following a traffic mishap on highway 7 near Kaladar.

Injured were Mrs. Mugnette Larocque, 27, of Oakville, her son, Richard, 7, and her daughter, Monique, 9.

Mrs. Larocque sustained abrasions to her left shoulder. Richard and Monique are both in hospital for observation concerning possible head injuries.

The accident occurred Monday afternoon about 3.45 p.m. when their car was turned over. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

Her husband was travelling ahead of her in a truck with his infant son. He went back for her when the car failed to appear behind him.

Woman Drowned In Crowe Lake

MARMORA — An elderly Marmora woman was found drowned in Crowe Lake just east of here, early today.

Provincial police said the body of 73-year-old Mrs. Cora Eastwood was found near the east shore of the lake close to the Marble Point road.

OPP officer Sgt. Moshe say Mrs. Eastwood apparently drowned "some time during the night" but were still awaiting details from the scene.

Pupils Enjoy Museum Tour

TWEED — On Wednesday, June 26, the grades 7 and 8 from the S. H. Donnor Public School, Tweed, toured the Hastings County Museum, on Church Street, Belleville which was interesting to all the pupils.

The two chaperones who accompanied the students, were: Mrs. Donald Bateman and Mrs. Fergus Cassidy. The interesting articles at the museum included the lamp or lighting collection of Dr. W. A. Paul, now of Napanee, but originally from Tweed where he practised dentistry for over 30 years.

This trip was a sort of end-of-the-year project for the pupils.

Separate Board Plans Wider Units of Administration

Wider units of separate school administration would have come into effect next Jan. 1 in this area, even without the legislation introduced Friday by Education Minister William Davis.

"Before the minister's announcement Friday, the Combined Russian Catholic Separate School Board here had entered into union with surrounding boards at the request of the boards themselves," chairman E. J. Buckley said today.

The Belleville CRCSS now includes Sidney, Thurlow, Ameliasburg and Rolleville, Picton, Bata wa, Read, Marysville and Tweed had already agreed to union with Belleville CRCSS next January.

Trenton and Murray Township separate school boards had also agreed to unite in January, as had Bancroft, Whitney, Maynooth and Madawaska.

"Mr. Davis' announcement now appears to have extended the board's jurisdiction to take in all of Prince Edward County and to continue north to include that part of the district of Nipissing served by the school at Whitney," Mr. Buckley explained.

"It would seem our territory will form a long corridor from Lake Ontario to the Ottawa River."

Regional separate school boards are part of the popular trend in education," he added, "They managed with seldom they will be a good development, ridding the system of parochial concepts and taking educational services to outlying districts."

Because separate school supporters are concentrated in small pockets of population throughout a wide area, separate school trustees recommended a regional, rather than county, basis for administration some time ago.

Including of Prince Edward County and Nipissing district south to Algonquin Park with Hastings was recommended by the trustees.

Designation of the boundaries of the combined zones for separate schools will be announced by regulation after the bill has been given its third reading, an Ontario Department of Education official said today.

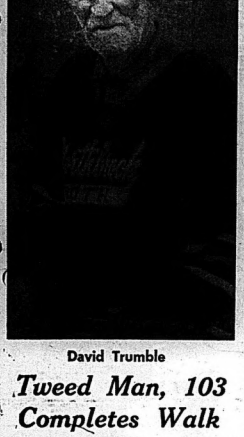
"The minister it attempting to meet the trustees' request but exact knowledge of the boundaries must await his announcement," Thomas Houghton, an assistant superintendent with the department in Toronto, explained.

He added that the area for allocation of trustees and the number to represent each area, must be decided before Sept. 1.

The method of allocation for separate school trustees differs from the method used for public school supporters.

County council will decide the wards from which public school trustees will be elected.

In the case of separate schools, allocation of areas from which trustees will be elected will be done by the clerks of the three municipalities having the greatest provincial equalized residential and farm assessment for separate school purposes in the counties affected.



Mr. Houghton said Hastings and Prince Edward counties, with a combined population of 106,988, would be entitled to 14 trustees on a combined separate school board.

If Hastings county alone forms a separate school board it would be entitled to 13 trustees.

If Prince Edward county alone forms a board, it would be entitled to 8 trustees.

Mr. Buckley said this morning that setting up a combined school board would be no great problem for separate school trustees in this district.

"We will borrow from the experience already gained by the public school board since last January, and we have fewer schools to administer," he said.

Tweed Man, 103 Completes Walk

TWEED — It may not have been the largest walkathon by a long shot.

But the sizeable Dominion Day holiday hike of more than 60 people from this town was long on the diversity of its participants.

The line-up included an MP and a reeve. One man carried a canoe, another rolled a tire.

But the top award for effort and enthusiasm goes to David Trumble who strode sturdily along despite his 103 years.

The commendation led a search to the Madoc Art Centre on Highway 7 that netted the centenarian $1,025 for service work in the area.

Also in the line-up was Lee Grills, MP Hastings and Tweed reeve Barbara Allen.

Mr. Grills completed more than a mile of the journey while Mrs. Allen is estimated to have finished about two miles.

Tweed councillor Kenneth Thompson borrowed inspiration from the voyageurs and turned his effort into a portage. He fiddled the walk in just two hours — carrying a canoe.

The project was sponsored by Kiwanis clubs at Madoc and Tweed and the art centre's Canada Centennial Park Committee.

The walkathon ended with a service at centre's peace park.

Thousands of Quinte Residents Bask in Sun

By BARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

There were few fireworks around the Quinte area to mark Canada's 101st Dominion Day.

But temperatures climbed like a lazy rocket over the weekend to dazzle the district yesterday with its hot holiday weather.

Thousands hit an outdoor trail blazed by a steadily-rising mercury for the three-day national birthday.

In the Belleville-Trenton area they basked in parks and picnic sites and at sporting events as the heat hit a high of 85 degrees yesterday.

Warm sun dotted early-morning humidity which, in spots, was 100 per cent.

Billowing cumulus and white wakes marked the Bay of Quinte where scores of boatmen sought to keep their cool on open water.

In Prince Edward County, thousands flocked to provincial parks. By Sunday night the number of admissions to the four big Ontario recreation sites had mounted to 26,700 for the week.

Busiest spot was the Outlet Park sprawling along the Lake Ontario shoreline where more than 22,000 people paid admissions during the week.

From Friday night, highways carried a steady stream of traffic to cottage and camp sites in the northlands.

Recreation hit a mixed weather bag in the northern townships.

The Tweed area may have been the hottest spot in the district. A high of 90 degrees was recorded yesterday by the department of lands and forests at Tweed.

Further north, in the Bancroft - Plevna region the weather cooled down to less than a mile of the journey while Mrs. Allen is estimated to have finished about two miles.

Tweed councillor Kenneth Thompson borrowed inspiration from the voyageurs and turned his effort into a portage. He fiddled the walk in just two hours — carrying a canoe.

The project was sponsored by Kiwanis clubs at Madoc and Tweed and the art centre's Canada Centennial Park Committee.

The walkathon ended with a service at centre's peace park.

tourists streamed through — joining a steady volume of campers and cottagers foraging for vacation stocks.

Towns like Bancroft and Marmora were crammed with shoppers in a spree that reached its peak Saturday afternoon.

Grocery and liquor stores did land-office business.

At Tweed, a Chamber of Commerce spokesman enthused over a "very, very busy" weekend, that saw crowds throng its Skoo lake park to beat the heat.

At Trenton, however, what started as a promising weekend for traffic through the Trent Canal dipped to averages by Monday.

Saturday saw 20 craft clearing the entrance locks. Heavier winds on Lake Ontario were blamed for reducing traffic Sunday and Monday to a total of 25 craft for both days.

Monday a stiff breeze sprung across the Bay of Quinte, blowing up to 25 miles an hour.

It kept many young swimmers from the water at Ewick's Island beach, sending the moppets to the nearby city wading pool.

But the island park itself drew steady crowds of shade seekers during the holiday. Canteen concession operators reported business way up over Dominion Day 1967.

Mishaps Take 3 Lives

The fatal accident occurred shortly before 3 a.m. as the group was enroute to a cottage in an area known locally as Back o' the Moon — on the lake's east shore.

Police recovered his body about 5 p.m.

Mrs. Dillon was the former Ann Rashotte of Tweed and the couple would have celebrated their first wedding anniversary this month.

The district's third fatal accident occurred yesterday at Marysville, in a two-car collision at Highways 302 and 49.

Victim of the mishap was six year-old Paul Henderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clare Henderson, 180 Station St. in Belleville.

The child was killed when his father's car was in collision with an automobile driven by Stephen Fisher, 22, of Kingston.

Provincial police charged Fisher with dangerous driving.

Mrs. Henderson was admitted to hospital with multiple leg injuries and her husband with lacerations.

A three-month-old daughter sustained possible head injuries.

Two other Henderson children, Aubrey, 14, and John, 10 were released after emergency treatment.

A passenger in Fisher's car, 18-year-old Lynda Loven, of Collins Bay, was admitted to Belleville General Hospital with a fractured nose.

Bass Season Opens Here

The opening of bass season over the weekend caused a 30 per cent increase in the number of fishermen taking advantage of area waters.

According to Bob Bisnd, proprietor of Bob's Sport and Repair Shop, "everyone seems to fish bass. It seems to be a family affair."

Mr. Bisnd mentioned that minnows had started to move. "There was a tremendous influx of tourists. This is the weekend the Americans take their holidays."

He said that in general it's a booming season as far as fishing and camping equipment is concerned.

"It seems to me that everyone is combining fishing with camping."

Muskie season which is now two weeks old has only been kind. There were still a few caught in Moira Lake over the weekend though," said Mr. Bisnd.

Gun Control Issue

Americans it would seem have an almost pathological dependence on firearms. It is that kind of a country — a melting pot where the very best of humankind unfortunately find themselves at the mercy of "the other half" whose baser natures give rise to the kind of violence so prevalent in the United States today.

Both halves keep weapons for different reasons — the law-abiding for their own protection, the others for a variety of reasons including the possibility in certain circumstances of taking life. A substantial number have sporting rifles for the purpose of hunting, and it is this relatively law-abiding segment ironically which is one of the most powerful opponents of gun legislation. The National Rifle Association comes to mind.

As if the NRA's lobby against control of firearms were not enough, a recent 7 to 5 vote by the Senate judiciary committee to delay further consideration of weapons control bills until July 9 is regarded as virtually a crippling setback to adequate gun legislation.

Thus Americans remain possibly their own worst enemies. It is not as if two political assassinations — of the Kennedy brothers — was the only reason for such legislation. Every year some 17,000 people in the United States are struck down by gunshots.

Lobby or no lobby, the United States administration should put public interest first. That would entail the outlawing at least of all hand weapons like revolvers and strict control of all other weapons including sporting guns. Failure to do so will only serve to perpetuate the present disgraceful state of affairs whereby guns are available practically for the asking.

Fun for Youngsters

With the long summer vacation at hand a Belleville mother has written to this newspaper with a plea for more recreational activities for the youngsters.

She suggests group outings to Zwick's Island but requires support for the enterprise. Here—surely is a project for parents to get together and organize. It could be a team effort by friends and neighbors and make for a pleasant day for young and old alike. Transportation could be by car or private bus. Perhaps the city could lend a hand in this respect.

And if Zwick's Island is a handy venue, why not a day at the beach — say The Outlet. The park authorities, on such an occasion, might consider admitting the visitors for a nominal sum.

It can be a problem keeping the children interested and entertained during the summer months. Recreational facilities are limited enough for the younger kiddies. Indeed they are limited all round, but here is an opportunity for some initiative by the parents themselves. And who knows, support may be forthcoming.

Personal Touch

Mayor John Lindsay of New York is gaining a reputation as a civic leader who can calm an ugly situation in the streets by walking right into the heart of things and talking with people.

A report from New York says he frequently takes walks through ghetto neighborhoods, often in times of racial tension. He is received well and the tours have been credited with keeping the city free of serious racial strife.

Mr. Lindsay worked his personal magic again the other day when he visited a Negro neighborhood where a 17-year-old youth had been accidentally shot dead by a policeman. The mayor talked with friends of the dead youth and with his mother in a world where the personal touch has been all but lost — in the big cities especially — this kind of action by a chief citizen goes far toward preserving public morale and sanity.

Sight Restored

Medical science these days continues to make dramatic progress. From South Africa, where Dr. Christian Barnard made history with the world's first heart transplant operation, comes news of a successful eye corpus transplant. The corneas — from the eyes of former Foreign Minister Eric Louw, who died recently — were grafted into the eyes of a woman who had been almost totally blind.

One of the brightest symbols of the best that is in mankind is the courage and determination of blind people. The skills they attain moreover are invariably of use to themselves and their families, as well as to the community.

And yet, to lose one's sight, either in part or completely, and have it restored again, is one of life's best rewards.

Ottawa Offbeat

MPs Prepared for Exhausting Grind of Political Life

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Just last week the poor guy was given the business — your constituency business in the nation's Capital.

So now, make this, in fairness, a "Be Kind to Your MP Week."

Its proclamation today, seven days after the deed was done to him, could scarcely begin to compensate the unfortunate fellow for what your constituency has done to him.

But at least it might give him a hint that you are not entirely unappreciative of the sacrifice he will be making, hopefully, in the case of the collective community good.

If this is to be his first exploratory excursion to the House of Commons, it'll be all the more of a shock to him, because he can't really know what he is getting into.

If he has been to Parliament before, and this is just a return trip to Ottawa's high and politically windy hill, then he doubly deserves a vote of appreciation because he well knows what he has got himself into again.

And to think he did it with his eyes wide open, if with a mind closed to common sense.

Look at it this way . . . for these last nine weeks prior to this setting the business last Tuesday, he was knocking himself out asking for it, rapping on doors, shaking hands, smiling, promising.

Now all those political promissory notes will be presented for payment, from his pledge of selfless parliamentary performance to his pre-election word that he would do something about old Mrs. So-and-So's pension.

Nothing in those long weary weeks of campaigning was too big or too small to warrant his personal attention.

Nothing was impossible.

Almost everybody, it seems, everywhere has problems with "those people in Ottawa." And now all those troubles become his.

If he didn't emerge from the campaign sorely overworked — and he had it, or he was leading — then he soon will be.

After you watch MPs at work and at play — though there never is much time for fun and games in this political league-through 26 years and 16 national election campaigns, you begin to wonder why anybody, in sober sanity, would want to make it to the House of Commons.

For the moment a man makes it here, his time, in fact, even his life is to be arduously his lived it, no longer is his own.

He is his own man no more.

He is at everybody's beck and call — and he better give freely and respond in smiling good grace, just as if people were doing him a favor by demanding the often impossible of him.

Aunt Emmie wants one of those good personnel jobs for her favorite nephew.

A broken-hearted mother pleads for a parole for an erring son.

An enraged taxpayer — and all those days of holiday and higher rates, isn't everybody? — wants to know what they're doing with all that money down in Ottawa and when is somebody in Parliament (you know who's elected) going to make them stop thieving it away?

The Weary Willie on welfare wants more of it and to heck with taxes.

The businessman wants to know when those Ottawa spendthrifts are going to be made to balance the budget.

The Chamber of Commerce wants a new federal building, the Flying Club wants an airport extension, the Junior Board of Trade wants this, the Lions Council that.

Everybody wants especially by the MP's sympathetic and understanding ear — and he'd better listen.

When a man decides to run for Parliament, and makes it, he has to resign himself to the hard fact of public life, that he ceases to be a private citizen and becomes a community chore-man.

And while in moments of cynicism you may laugh, it is your and Canada's good fortune that there are enough of these selfdistantly-motivated souls who face it, slightly crazy — people to want and do the job.

So just this week, give these people an applauding hand, make this "Be Kind to Your MP Week."

"We've taken over from the teenie-boppers."

Amelia Earhart, pioneer American aviator, and her navigator Fred Noonan disappeared 31 years ago today — in 1937—while completing a round-the-world trip. During a 2,556-mile hop from New Guinea to Howland Island in the Pacific, she reported she was short on fuel and lost. She was never heard of again. It was later suggested she had been asked to spy on Japanese fortifications and eventually was killed by the Japanese. But this was never confirmed.

1936—Adrien Arcand of Montreal was named leader of the fascist National Unity party of Canada.

Library Sanctuary

Windsor Star

A British parliamentarian, C. A. Howell, would like to see the "no not talk" signs banned from public libraries. While there should be some quiet rooms where people can read or study, libraries should become talking shops, says Mr. Howell. He even suggests that it might be possible to buy a glass of wine in a library.

Nonsense! Libraries should be for reading, for study, for quiet contemplation.

In Canada the public library is just about the last sanctuary of peace.

The time-honored picture of a quiet evening at home, "curled up with a good book," is attractive: But it ignores today's reality. It ignores radio, television sets, telephones, children, neighbors, visitors, and traffic noises. In most libraries you may not be able to curl up in an armchair, but you can at least find a good book and some reading time free from interruptions.

Let's keep it that way.

Over-Emphasis on Computer In TV Election Coverage

Peterborough Examiner

Gadgetry was to the fore and human analysis out in the cold in the election television coverage given by both the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation and its rival CTV. It made for dull, uninspiring coverage where every emphasis was placed on the projections of pre-programmed machines rather than on the spontaneous thoughts of seasoned political observers such as Charles Lynch and Claude Ryan.

After the initial response to the early tabulated results, viewers were subjected to far too much of the smatterings of returns rather than in-depth analysis of what had caused the shifts in Newfoundland, Ontario and Saskatchewan. Instead, viewers were subjected to constant interruptions as minor politicians were recruited to offer these results could have held for an additional five minutes while a discussion took place on causes, effects, trends and perhaps projections. Not even Stanfill are fine but a constant barrage such as occurred on Tuesday night loses its effect, and disrupts some comment, leaving a disjointed, frustrated and unimpressive program.

Hopefully in the interim period between now and the next federal election somebody at both the CBC and CTV is going to make the decision that the computer is not a god.

Relations with West Still Strained

Soviets Jittery Over Liberal Trends Among Satellites

An AP News Analysis
By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Like an elephant among mice, the Soviet Union's leadership seems today to be acting the role of frightened giant. Its jitters can prove a major obstacle to efforts for a more peaceful world.

Taking over as the U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, George W. Ball said Wednesday that while the Vietnam war poses a problem in the quest for better Soviet-American relations, there are other areas "in which we must work together."

But the Soviet leadership does not seem to be in the mood for that. Official press treatment of recent events indicate there are major worries preying on Kremlin nerves and inhibiting co-operation.

—The Soviet Communist party leaders obviously are frightened by the possibilities of contagion from movements for more freedom inside the bloc of European Communist nations and from the general ferment among youth and intellectuals around the world.

—They are worried by the progressive splintering of the Communist movement, by the increasingly independent attitude of Communist-ruled Romania, by the "democratization" process in Czechoslovakia, by the failure of a large number of Communist parties around the world to fall into line behind a Soviet drive for a world meeting of Communists.

—They are worried by the attitude of China toward the future of Asia and toward the war in Vietnam and they are worried, too, about the Vietnam war itself.

The elephant-mouse complex apparently has been generated by little Czechoslovakia, a land of 15,000,000, whose recent developments have thrown a scare into the leaders of the Soviet Union, a land of nearly 250,000,000.

Pravda and Izvestia these days carry articles which sound much like those of the Cold War at its coldest. They single out three main enemies for constant attack: the "U.S. imperialists," the "West German militarists" and the "Israeli expansionists."

It seems likely that the whole thrust of this campaign is to warn both the Soviet people and those of Communist-ruled countries that the big bear can be pushed too far.

The ferment in Czechoslovakia and the phenomenon of free expression in a Communist-ruled country easily could be hidden from Soviet intellectuals, who, along with those of other bloc countries, could easily be infected.

The Soviet problems and worries were built up at the April meeting of the Soviet party's central committee. This resulted in a directive which all parties had a duty "to do everything necessary to strengthen the community, politically, economically and defensively."

Many in Europe are concerned that the Kremlin will overreact to its worries. Literaturi Lady, a Communist publication, recently quoted an East German newspaper as saying that what is going on in Czechoslovakia is "counter-revolution."

The source was quoted: "A Socialist country cannot afford to look on passively. . . . In the case of an intervention, possibly a military intervention, there would naturally be a collective step."

Bratislava Pravda in Slovakia, did this article, called it "frightening."

There May Be Thorns Lurking on Proffered Olive Branch

By WILLIAM I. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The Soviet Union has extended to the United States what appears on the surface to be an olive branch, but it may have some prickly thorns.

Moscow has held out to Washington a possibility of agreement on what has been called the mad escalation of nuclear weaponry. The U.S. is jumping at the chance to make some progress in this field.

Progress may be possible, just as it was possible to limit nuclear testing and to achieve a nuclear non-proliferation treaty. There are huge supportive benefits for both sides in a new agreement.

At the same time, the context in which the offer was extended by Moscow suggests a sort of defensive peace offensive with a number of facets and objectives.

One objective could be to increase pressure on the Americans to think concessions in Vietnam. Another could be to place the U.S., before world opinion, in the role of the main obstacle to secure peace. Yet another could be to divert attention from Eastern Europe about which Moscow, from its many pronouncements on the subject, seems enormously worried.

The U.S. probably will examine all possibilities while going ahead with the talks, on the theory that the Soviet Union has much to gain in scaling down the astronomical costs of the nuclear weapons race. It may take time and much talk to achieve a new agreement, but if both sides want one, it likely will be considered well worth the effort.

The shoals ahead are clearly visible. The offer of talks on any or all aspects of disarmament was put forward last week by Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko in the United Nations. He blamed the world's troubles on the U.S. and the West and heaped fervent condemnation of the Americans should efforts at agreement fail.

"Experience shows," said Gromyko, "that without a resolute and constant exposure of the policy that implants militarism, it is impossible to count on the governments of capitalist powers agreeing to the solution of pressing problems, and especially disarmament."

This suggested a certain amount of Kremlin faith in the propaganda value of the proposals, which have an attractive sound to a world living in fear. Gromyko also proposed a "popular movement" in the world to "compel the opponents of disarmament to retreat before the voice of the peoples."

Gromyko told the Soviet parliament that better U.S.-Soviet relations depend on the United States. He pointed to Vietnam as the big obstacle. He inveighed at length against West German "militarism" and Israeli "expansionism."

He also put forward the offer of talks in the context of an eight-year-old Moscow blockbuster proposal for "general and complete disarmament," shrugged off by the West as unworkable and designed for propaganda purposes.

Monday, at the signing of the treaty to check the spread of nuclear weapons, Premier Alexei Kosygin proposed disarmament talks to include limiting nuclear weapons and means of delivery.

Like Gromyko, Kosygin attacked the U.S. on the Vietnam issue. He contended that Vietnam proved the need to eliminate all foreign military bases, and that U.S. accidents had proved the need to restrict flights of nuclear-armed aircraft.

As Gromyko had done, Kosygin assailed Israel and suggested that restrictions on the arms race there could be considered "only subject to the elimination of the consequences of Israeli aggression" and withdrawal of Israel from all Arab territories occupied last year.

Kosygin came up with a detailed omnibus disarmament proposal amalgamating Soviet proposals of the last two decades and adding others, including one to ban underground nuclear testing. That would make prohibition of testing complete. The 1963 agreement bans tests in space, in the air or under the sea. France and China do not subscribe to this.

More than 90 countries signed the non-proliferation treaty in Washington, Moscow and London Monday but Canada, one of its strongest backers was not among them. However, Canada is expected to sign in soon.

During the Washington signing ceremony, President Johnson announced the U.S.-Russian agreement to begin talks soon on the limitation of offensive and defensive strategic nuclear weapons including anti-ballistic missile systems.

(In Ottawa, an external affairs department spokesman welcomed Johnson's announcement. The spokesman said it is not clear what part Canada eventually could take in nuclear weapons control, but that it might be through the 18-country Geneva disarmament conference of which Canada is a member.)

The Soviet offer of talks comes at a time when conversations are going on, slowly, in Paris between the Americans and North Vietnamese. If added pressures were brought to bear on Washington to make concessions there, Moscow could figure to make points with its Southeast Asian ally.

Moscow's unremitting attacks on West Germany suggest an effort to isolate that country from the United States as much as possible, perhaps to raise suspicions that deals will be made at its expense.

Pat Jones is still partly shocked after being rescued from the Trent River last night. He rests, along with his friend Bill Smith, at the fire station.

Youth Rescued From Trent River

"Bill, I can't make it" were the last words spoken by a Trenton youth, Pat Jones, 20, before he was rescued from the Trent river after a near drowning last night.

A member of the Trenton fire department, Robert Heber, used a boat to rescue the youth who had gone under four times after losing strength in the middle of the river.

Pat and his 19 year old friend, William Smith, had decided to go for a swim to cool off. They were at the bottom of the new bridge 40 yards from the fire station.

They had just about reached the fourth pier of the nearby railway bridge when the mishap occurred.

"We were about 10 feet away from the pier when I knew I couldn't make it," paid Pat.

His friend Bill said he was "too weak" to be of assistance so he went for help.

In the meantime Pat had been carried by the current to the second pier of the Mac-Donald bridge where he was rescued.

After the youths were taken to the station and given coffee they were soon able to go home.

In Belleville, a three year old girl, Sandra Simpson of 205 Dundas St. went into the side of a car while crossing the road near her home.

She hit a vehicle driven by George Greenlee of King George Sq. at the rear and fractured her skull in two places.

New Teenage Group Seeking Opportunities

Summer jobs for young people are hard to find this year.

Opus Teens, a group of young people from Belleville's secondary schools, held several meetings recently to form an organization to seek employment for teens and to give volunteer service, such as entertainment to homes for the aged and other institutions.

Teens, 15 years and older, are invited to be present at a meeting in the YMCA auditorium on Tuesday, July 2 at 7.30 p.m.

There will be a lot of work to do in getting the organization into operation. There will be plenty of opportunities for all who wish to do something worthwhile.

Comittee of Opus Teens have already interviewed the manager of the Canada Manpower Centre, the director of the Volunteer Bureau of the United Community Services and have handed other planning to help get the organization under way.

As a result of a radio broadcast a number of job opportunities have been received. Information has been received on similar programs being operated in other cities.

In some of these, ways have been found in which young people can organize themselves to make some money. These will be examined by Opus Teens to decide which could be undertaken in Belleville.

Church Members Hold Their Picnic Inside

NAPANEE - June's unusual weather caused Trinity Church members to have their picnic lunch indoors, instead of having the outdoor outing they had planned. The church picnic was at Beaver Lake, as usual, and so the pavilion was available. However by afternoon it had cleared off, and so the program of sports and races went ahead as planned.

Mrs. Roy Lawrence and Mrs. Gordon Stephens made all the arrangements. Plates, cups, ice cream and coffee or cold drinks were provided.

There was a good attendance, although some of the older folk who look forward to this annual holiday get-together were kept at home by the weather.

Roy Lawrence was again in charge of the sports, with plenty of help from other adults and the children enjoyed the races.

MARMORA P.T.A. —

MARMORA — In the absence of the director, Father T. G. Scanlon, past president, Ray Black, installed the new executive of the CPTA of Sacred Heart School, Marmora, on Monday. Mr. Black explained the duties of each officer.

New president, Mrs. Bill Meehan Jr., stated that the CPTA is the only organization where members are concerned primarily and fundamentally with education as it affects both home and school. It offers parents and teachers an opportunity to pool their resources, to take a fresh look at their responsibilities and to better the conditions necessary for their children to receive the best education possible, she noted that it offers them, too, a chance to speak, as a team, for their rights, so that there may be equal opportunity for all in our educational system.

Principal, Mrs. E. P. McNamara, said that perfect attendance prizes and CWL prizes for high standing pupils will be presented at Field Day on Thursday, June 27, and Mrs. Bill Jones outlined the field day program.

In the new business, a program committee was appointed: chairman: Mrs. Michael Maloney, members: Mrs. E. P. McNamara, Tom O'Connor, Tom Brady and Mrs. Meehan Jr. A suggestion box will be installed at the back of the church. Mrs. Michael Maloney gave a report of the recent Diocesan CPTA convention in Kingston, summarizing recommendations contained in the education report forwarded to the Minister of Education.

Activities of the New Century Club were given by Mrs. Breen O'Connor. Members were asked to assist and patronize a bake sale on July 20 in the Glover building, sponsored by the Club.

A bulletin board is to be erected at the main intersection of Marmora by the Club and pictures of various buildings of the Village will be displayed this week for viewing during the summer months.

Successful Living

Mother Feels That Son's Girl Not His Kind

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Our son, 19, is interested in a girl of another faith. She is no good for anything, only to lie around. Her mother is living a common-law marriage. We are tensed up all the time.

I have talked, cried and grumbled with him. I asked him if he intended to have her and he said no. But I sent a letter he wrote her telling her she was the only girl for him. We have given him everything from his boyhood. I am afraid to say anything to him in case he would turn against us, and he is all we are working for.

I cannot stand this. I want him to get someone that he will be happy with. I know he will never be happy with her when he realizes he is not her kind. — Heartbroken Mother

Dear Heartbroken: Doubtless you have cried and grumbled to the limit. Now give your grown-up son the right to a mind of his own — which may be the only thing you have held back in those self-sacrificing years that you were raising him.

Until you do, he will not be free to make an independent decision about his or her whether she is, indeed, "not his kind."

* * *

Dear Doris: I have begun to go to church regularly. My secret ambition has been to become a choir singer. I have always been a good singer, however, I do not read notes.

My question is, how do I go about joining my church choir? I don't want to say, "Hey! I can sing. Let me in." — Sound of Music.

Dear Sound: If you have a song in your heart, there's a spot waiting for you, and that is for sure. Choirs are forever crying out for people who love to sing.

Many an opera career has begun in the home town choir, and often without any firsthand acquaintance with musical notes. This comes with practice (and by listening to the girl in the next seat).

Don't be shy about it. Tell the minister or the choir leader or a choir member you are not shy with.

Come Christmas you'll be reaching for those high notes in the Hallelujah Chorus along with the rest of them.

DISTRICT WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

CHAPMANS - TWEED W.I.

TWEED — The June meeting of the Chapman's-Tweed Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Lynn, with twenty ladies in attendance. Mrs. William Woods presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Milton Elliott. Mrs. Thomas Lynn requested that the W.I. donate a special prize to be used for the 4-H Club Girls' display, "Accent on Accessories" at the coming Tweed Fair, on October 4th and 5th this year. Joint.

A motion was also passed for the purchase of a bed-case for the use of the secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Claude Barnett introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Garvie Thompson, who showed colorful pictures of Germany, Bavaria and Switzerland. They were enjoyed by all. The meeting closed with a sociable half hour.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Tasty Fruit Barbecued Lamb Chops

By MARY MOORE

Maybe I was lucky. I read the notice in the meat department saying, "We have the cut you want. N ot on display ask for it." I wanted a frozen leg of lamb cut into slices. Domurely I asked the meat manager to "run it through your slicing machine — 1" thick slices will be just fine." With a smile he took it from my hand and in a few minutes it was sliced and back in its package in my shopping cart.

At home these steak - like slices were fat-trimmed and marinated in a mixture of pureed baby food fruits and then cooked. Four were wrapped in foil and barbecued outside over a charcoal fire. Two were pan fried. Two were broiled.

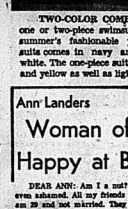
FRUIT BARBECUED LAMB STEAKS OR CHOPS

3 lbs. 1" thick lamb chops or steaks (weight after trimming off excess fat)
One 4¼-oz. jar prune puree (baby food)
One 4¼-oz. jar apricot puree (baby food)
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. nutmeg
1 tsp. salt
2 tbsps. lemon juice
¼ cup finely chopped fresh mint.

Arrange lamb chops or steaks in single layer in large shallow dish or on platter. Mix all remaining ingredients and spread over top. Store in refrigerator 24 hours turning over at halftime so that fruit marinade soaks both sides.

TUESDAY

Dinner Menu



Scotch Broth; Spanish Omelette; Buttered Oven Toast; Strawberry Shortcake; Tea.

1) If to be barbecured wrap each in heavy duty foil, spooning some of the sauce over each before closing package and cook over hot coals on barbecue until well done, turning package over once or twice.

2) If to be pan fried, lift from sauce, drain a little and fry in heavy frying pan in which you have melted a little butter, until well done. Transfer to preheated platter. Heat remaining sauce in same pan and pour over meat.

3) If to be broiled transfer to foil-covered broiler pan and cook five inches from preheated burner until brown. Turn over, spoon some sauce over each chop or steak and finish broiling other side until well browned.

This treatment will make many converts to lamb cooking.

ANN LANDERS

Ann Landers

Woman of 29 Years Happy at Being Single

DEAR ANN: Am I a nut? Frankly, I feel great. I'm not even ashamed. All my friends think I'm an oddball because I am 29 and not married. They swear I'm putting on a brave front to hide my misery.

I enjoy men — especially the high-voltage, conversational type. I like a fast game of tennis with a first-rate mixed player. I love to dance. I'm not immune to a physically attractive man who has a brain to go along with the brawn. And I've even been "involved" with a few gentlemen. But the thought of a double harness for life is most unappealing. No thanks.

I have an excellent job and I enjoy my work. I still live with my parents (which many friends consider odd), but we get along famously and I conduct my life with no interference whatever. Why should I trade this for housework, squalling kids, whooping cough shots, diapers, mortgages, and maybe even a two-timing or an alcoholic?

I'm not knocking marriage, Ann. For those who need it, it's wonderful. But why do people think there's something strange about a woman who doesn't want it? I wish my friends would quit pushing. I'm a contented gal. Can you think of anything that would change my mind?—PEACE-LOVING PEARL

DEAR PEARL: Yes. The right man.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are a menace to society. The morals of our young have never been in worse shape. If ever we need a figure of authority in family life it is now. Yet you take every opportunity to knock down the male as head of the house and his high look fooled him at.

American men are losing ground every day. Women own most of the property, most of the securities and most of the real estate. They run everything, including the government. (The wives of the country's leaders make the decisions and tell them what to do.)

What we need is an advice columnist who will tell women to stop being so bossy — to sit back and keep their mouths shut. Of course you won't print this letter because you have no answer. — ONE OF THE OPPRESSED.

DEAR ONE: I never made the statement that women are superior to men nor did I say they were smarter. But come to think of it, did you ever hear of a woman marrying a dumb man for his shape?

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I want to help the woman who wrote that she is a nervous wreck because her husband insists on smoking in bed. She said he fell asleep with a cigarette in his hand the other evening and burned a hole in the carpet.

I have a solution for this problem. It could save some lives. Please print it. Cigarette smokers should train themselves to hold the cigarette between the third and fourth fingers. It can never drop and anyone who falls asleep with a cigarette between the third and fourth fingers will wake up fast — as soon as the cigarette burns down that far. — D.R.S.

DEAR MRS.: I checked out your theory with my cigarette smoking friends and they say you are right. Many thanks.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you were 21 would you marry a young fellow who has no bank account, a few small debts, a mother to look after, a very good job, lots of ambition and unlimited faith in the future? — UNDECIDED.

DEAR UNDECIDED: I did — and today we are celebrating our 29th wedding anniversary.

Ontario Hospital Insurance announces NEW BENEFITS

Effective July 1, 1968

In keeping with its practice through the years of increasing benefits wherever possible, the Ontario Hospital Services Commission announces new benefits for hospital out-patient services and essential ambulance services effective on July 1, 1968. These benefits are now available to all residents covered by Ontario Hospital Insurance for whom such out-patient or ambulance services are medically necessary.

New Out-Patient Benefits

In addition to out-patient hospital services already covered (emergency care; follow-up treatment of fracture; radiotherapy; physiotherapy; occupational therapy and speech therapy) the plan now provides further benefits for the use of hospital facilities in out-patient treatment prescribed by a physician. These additional visits not previously insured, such as use of operating room for minor surgical procedures and the use of hospital facilities in the treatment of medical conditions, will now be covered by Ontario Hospital Insurance.

X-ray examinations and laboratory tests listed in benefits under the Ontario Medical Services Insurance Plan (OMSIP) will not be included in the new hospital insurance benefits. However, those diagnostic services will continue to be covered in connection with emergency out-patient services within twenty-four hours of an accident or when part of hospital out-patient service to complete treatment of a fracture.

The new benefits will NOT cover any charges made by doctors or dentists for professional services rendered at the hospital; the use of hospital facilities for regular injections of drugs, or dental care normally provided in a dentist's office.

Essential Ambulance Service

Ontario Hospital Insurance will now cover, also, the major part of ambulance charges when an ambulance is necessary to take a patient to or from a hospital. The use of an ambulance must be considered necessary by a licensed medical doctor, a coroner, ambulance dispatching service, a designated hospital official or another person authorized by the Commission. In the case of a road accident, a police officer may authorize the use of an ambulance. The ambulance must be supplied by a recognized ambulance service operator (municipal, hospital, and approved private and volunteer ambulance services).

Cost to Insured Resident. The amount payable by the patient for an authorized ambulance trip of 25 miles or less will be limited to $5.00. For longer trips on land there will be an additional charge of 15 cents for each mile over 25 miles, but no more than $25.00 will be payable by the patient for any land trip. Where use of an ambulance is specially authorized by the Director of Emergency Health Service of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission or a person designated by him, the patient will not have to pay more than $100.00, including the cost of any connecting land ambulance service.

Patient Pays Hospital. The patient will pay his share of the ambulance cost to the hospital which receives him or transfers him to a place of residence—not to the ambulance operator.

(An uninsured person will be liable for the full ambulance charges of $25.00 for a land trip of 25 miles or less, plus 60 cents for each additional mile. Air ambulance will be charged at the usual full rates for this type of service.)

The Ontario Hospital Services Commission will NOT be responsible for operating or dispatching ambulances. This will continue to be the responsibility of the ambulance operators which, in some cases, will be public hospitals.

The new out-patient benefits are designed to close the gap in protection between insured hospital services and those services which are benefits of OMSIP and other comprehensive medical plans.

The ambulance benefit will not only ease the financial problem for the patient but will assist in the development of a well-organized ambulance service throughout the province.

HALIFAX (CP) — An entry in the single-handed transatlantic yacht race was being towed to Portland, Me., by a United States Coast Guard cutter today after her skipper became ill as a result of drinking contaminated water.

The air-sea rescue centre here said Eric Willis was reported in "much improved" condition aboard his yacht Trimaran Colla. He is being accompanied by two coast guard paramedics who were dropped in the area Monday.

Willis was to be picked up by a Canadian Forces helicopter from Greenwood, N.S., and brought to hospital here but after reports that his condition had improved the aircraft returned to base.

Miss Dominion Chosen

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Nancy Wilson, 18, a Chatham, Ont., nurse, was selected winner Monday night of the Miss Dominion of Canada pageant.

Nancy, a brown-eyed brunette who measures 36-24-36, wept as she was crowned by Donna Barker of Toronto, last year's winner.

"I'm just so honored to represent Canada," she said as her parents and two younger brothers and two sisters crowded around her. She will celebrate her 19th birthday Wednesday in Miami, Fla., where she is entered in the Miss Universe contest.

She was selected from among five finalists, the runners-up being Carol Ann Robertson, 21, of Toronto, a professional model; Patricia Waterhouse, 20, a Hamilton secretary; Judith Ing of Muskoka, Ont., and Patricia Clark of Calgary.

Indian Boy, 8, Walks 25 Miles

WIARTON, Ont. (CP) — When, you're only eight years old and three feet, six inches tall, you try harder. Ask Nathan Keeshig of Cape Croker Indian reserve.

His feet swollen and blistered, the Indian youngster tramped 25 miles Saturday to help raise $2,000 to hire a recreation director for the reserve.

And the only thing that bothered Nathan was that his pride was hurt when a photographer took his picture while he was crying.

The walkathon, organized by Indian high school students with the help of the Owen Sound Human Rights Committee, started at the council hall at Cape Croker.

The Indian marchers were met at the end of their walk at Hepworth, 12 miles northwest of Owen Sound, by students, housewives, businessmen and Owen Sound Mayor Bob Rutherford.

The 245 marchers, who originally wanted to walk the nearly 40 miles from Cape Croker to Owen Sound, were paid an amount for each mile walked by sponsors ranging from relatives and friends to businessmen. Two-hundred finished the walk.

Henry Johnston, 72, of Cape Croker, the oldest marcher, slipped into a beverage room along the route for several minutes before completing the last 500 yards.

Five-year-old Jamie Lee of Owen Sound, the youngest walker, covered nearly 18 miles with his grandmother before his mother pulled him out of the race.

But sore feet and all, no one was going to cheat Nathan out of finishing the walk.

With less than 1,000 yards to go, someone tried to carry him across the finish line. But Nathan got away with a series of punches, kicks and screams.

Douglas Will Stay Until 1969

OTTAWA (CP) — The Liberal government added one seat to its victory margin during the weekend while New Democrats wrestled with leadership problems.

T. C. Douglas, personally defeated in last Tuesday's general election, met the NDP executive Saturday and said afterward that he has agreed to stay on as leader until next summer's regular convention. Then he would step down.

Mr. Douglas was beaten by only 93 votes in Burnaby-Seymour and was one of several defeated candidates hoping for an upset with release Saturday of the service vote.

But he picked up only 48 votes while Liberal Ray Perrault drew 110 to widen his lead to 155 votes.

The only seat to change hands with release of the 69,601 service votes was Shorbrooke, where Liberal Paul Gervais received 190 service votes to pull ahead of Creditiste Adelard Laroux, who had nine. Mr. Laroux had led by 32 votes after Tuesday's civilian returns.

The turnover left standings in the 264-seat Commons at: Liberals 154, Conservatives 71, NDP 23, Creditistes 14, Independent 1.

But the possibility remained of more upsets through official recounts. After the service vote, there were five seats where the victory margin was 25 votes or less and one where it was only 10.

The official ballot count began in all ridings this week. A judicial recount can be requested within four days after this count is announced.

The Burnaby lead is in Ontario-Whitby, where Conservative Michael Starr, the former labor minister, trails NDP winner Edward Broadbent.

Mr. Starr already had said he would request a recount before release of the service vote results, which gave him 31 votes to nine for Mr. Broadbent.

Fifth Annual Event

What's-His-Name Tops Pros at Quinte Tourney

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

"Who the hell is Lyle Crawford?"

That's what many members of the ogling gallery at Meadowdale's 54th annual Bay of Quinte Golf Club's "Pro-Day" event were asking themselves.

They had followed the Moe Norman, Wiff Homenuik, and Alvie Thompson around the course all afternoon to see the 16-hole tourney's winner, and now this guy Crawford had posted a one-under-par 70 to grab the title before anybody knew it was even up for grabs.

The 27-year-old Vancouver pro — one of 60 to step at yesterday's Quinte event on their way back from the Quebec Open — posted the first sub-par win on Quinte's par-71 layout in the five-year pro event's history.

He carded five birdies and four bogies in turning in 35's, en each Quinte nine, including a string of five threes on holes seven through 11.

Crawford was in the clubhouse, ordering a gin and fitting his plate from the buffet table while the gallery thronged around the scoreboard at the 16th hole wondering who he was.

Diminutive Wiff Homenuik, a former winner of the pro event here, appeared to be in the driver's seat as he came in 36 one-under-par.

Then the popular Winnipeg pro pushed his four-iron way to the right of the green on the 206-yard three-par, and his ball wound up behind three trees, a sand trap, and a storage shed.

He had to get down in two from there (although nobody knew it at the time) to tie Crawford's 70.

Four shots later, Homenuik joined the others at the scoreboard, looking for the winner.

Tied with Homenuik at 72 was colorful Moe Norman, who, along with former Quinte Club member Gary Bowesman, had attracted the bulk of the gallery during the day's play.

Norman's booming tee shots and a fast-paced play had spectators buzzing, while Bowesman — now a teaching pro at Toronto's Maple Down Club — got plenty of kibitzing from rooting in posting his 76 total.

He had won last year's "pro-day" event with a par 71.

Almost lost in the shuffle of gallery favorites, like Crawford, were Toronto's Leon Decaire and Victoria's Bill Wakeshed, who tied for second spot with 71's.

Ken Duggan of Millbrook, Ontario is at 72 with Normen and Homenuik; and Bob Ridges' Ken Gerard was all alone at 73.

There were four rookies at 74, six at 75, and five at 76.

Trenton club pro Mike Roche was one of three golfers at 77, but qualified by a Quinte area entrant.

Crawford's win was good for $300 of the $1,200 purse put up by the cream of the Canadian professional golfing crop.

And if a test of golf is what C.P.G.A. officials need to add them on the local club's pitch for a regular spot of the Canadian pro tour, yesterday's scores might have some influence.

Added and abetted by balmy westerly winds and a few rain-dampened fairways, the lengthy Quinte layout was asleep to scorecards of some of the best swings in Canada's gutties.

Some statistics in favor of the 6,858 yard Quinte annual meeting with the pros revealed:

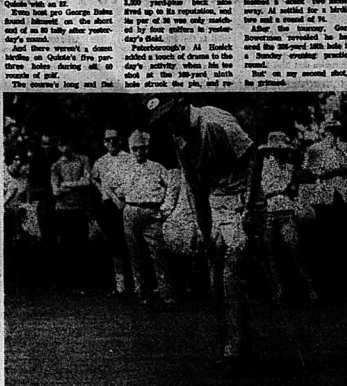
Of the 80 round shots in yesterday's tourney, 24 were scores of 80 or higher, not including 20 and 24 counters turned in by a pair of nameless pros.

Thompson's Alvie Thompson, one of the select group of Canadians on the U.S. pro golf circuit, could only come away from his encounter with Lady Quinte with an 82.

Even best pro George Bobo found himself on the short end of an 83 tally after yesterday's round.

But there weren't a dozen birdies on Quinte's five par-three holes during all 60 rounds of golf.

The course's long and flat 3,300 yard-plus back nine lived up to its reputation, and its par of 36 was only matched by four golfers in yesterday's field.



Peterborough's Al Hostek added a touch of drama to the day's activity when his tee shot at the 369-yard ninth hole struck the pin, and remained a scant two inches away. At stake for a birdie, and a round of 74.

After the tourney, Gary Bowesman revealed he had used the 369-yard 18th hole in a Sunday evening practice round.

But on my second shot, he grinned.

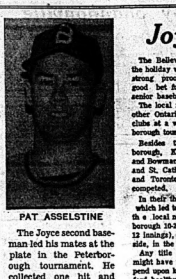
Pointers Upset Cheesemen

Point Anne moved City Hotel into third place in the Commercial Softball League Monday night as the Cementmen upset Black Diamond Cheese 2-0.

The Cheesemen were tied with City Hotel at 5-4 for the season and third place in the league.



The win puts Point Anne at 6-7 for the year, but didn't budge them out of fifth place in the six-team league.

Black Diamond collected three hits from Point Anne pitcher Ted Waite and the Cementmen lost two errors, but the Cheesemen couldn't capitalize on either. Waite struck out eight and didn't walk any.

Hard-luck Don Holoway, who's won only one of three two- hitters he's hurled this year gave up four hits to the Cementmen, struck out ten and didn't issue a free pass. The Cheesemen committed one error in the game — a costly fourth inning bobbled by first-sacker Jack Francis, which allowed Rick Rosebush to score from third on a ball hit by Jim Horwood. Rosebush had collected a triple to get in position to score the game's first run.

Horwood did his own scoring on the game's second run, however. He collected a single in the sixth, then stole second, and scored on Eric Maher's double.

Black Diamond's three hits came from Don Wood with a fourth-inning double, Jack Francis with a single in the fourth, and McTaggart's fifth-inning safety.

PAT ASSELSTINE

The Joyce second baseman led his mates at the plate in the Peterborough tournament. He collected one hit and one RBI against Tonzilo Leaside, an RBI and three hits against Peterborough, and two hits and two RBI's against Kingston.

Joyces Win Senior Tourney

The Belleville Joyces spent the holiday weekend gathering strong proof that they're a good bet for the provincial senior baseball championship.

The local nine bested seven other Ontario senior baseball clubs at a week - long Peterborough tournament.

Besides the locals, Peterborough, Kingston, Oshawa and Bowmanville of the EOBA and St. Catharine's, Merrition and Toronto Leaside entries competed.

In their three - game series which led to the tourney title, on a local nine downed Peterborough 10-2, Kingston 6-4 (in 12 innings), and Toronto Leaside, in the title game, 6-2.

Any title hopes the Joyces might have would seem to depend upon keeping Bill Latchford healthy.

The lanky public school teacher won two of the three Joyce victories this weekend going 11 innings against Kingston Sunday then taking the mound for nine innings against the Toronto nine in the finals.

In yesterday's championship tilt, "Latch" gave Leaside two runs on ten hits while swishing eight and walking three. The locals made four errors. Leaside pitcher Berbeck went six innings and took the loss. The team from Toronto gave up six runs on eight hits while walking five and making two mistakes.

Belleville first baseman John McKibbon scored the first run of the final game in the second after a single. Moe Hunter's sacrifice bunt and a fielder's choice got him home. That started the trend. The Joyces kept the big city team on the run for the rest of the game. Latchford turned a walk into a run in the fifth on a sacrifice by Ralph Plane and a double by Pat Asselstine's Lenny Mayers doubled in the sixth and scored with the help of sacrifices by Hunter and McKibbon.

Leaside scored in the seventh, but the locals retaliated with a three-run rally to round out their scoring.

In the semi-final game Sunday, the Joyces ran into trouble with Kingston, the EOBA team they walloped 16-6 last Wednesday at the Fairgrounds. The locals managed to pull off a 6-4 win to make the finals, but only after Bill Latchford relieved Rodger Hunter in the first and stayed on for seven innings.

The score was tied three-all through the tenth. Then Joyce centerfielder Leroy Plane collided one run on three hits and Belleville make them pay dearly with three runs on

BILL LATCHFORD

The right - handed Joyce pitcher went 11 innings Sunday against Kingston, then came back Monday and threw the locals to a 6-2 win over Toronto Leaside to take the Peterborough tourney title.

Softball Peewees Meet
City All-Stars Title Bid Foiled by No-Hitter

Belleville's Beich Construction Peewees played just one game too many in Saturday's nine - team softball tourney held here as a local wrap - up to minor softball week.

The city's peewee softball all - stars had won three games by 4.30 Saturday afternoon. Then they ran into North Bendale pitcher Tino Mangnarro, who threw his second no-hitter of the day at the locals to give the Scarborough team the tourney's "A" title.

North Bendale actually won no more games than the Belleville squad, downing Don Mills and Oshawa entries before crushing the Beich boys 15-0.

But the luck of the draw required the Belleville peewees to play three games to get into the "A" final.

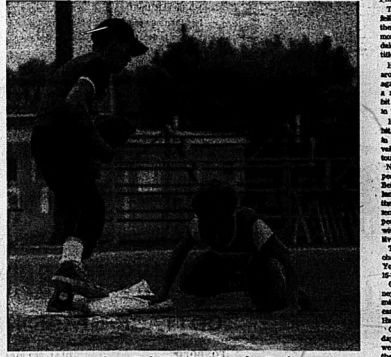
They started the day on the right foot by dumping Trenton 11-3 behind the four - hit pitching of Bruce Sutherland, who also belted a triple to aid his own cause. First - baseman Scott James contributed two singles and a double, while Beich third - sacker Martin Thistle stroked three safeties.

Belleville's second win came at the expense of North York by a 5-4 count. Wally Hull hurled a three - hitter for the locals, while left fielder Billy Phillips' two singles and second - baseman Cory Brant's triple paced the winners at the plate.

Bruce Sutherland threw a one - hitter at Warsaw Saturday afternoon, to give the city peewees a 12-1 verdict and qualify them for the "A" final game. Sutherland led his team at the plate, clouting a grand - slam, first - inning homer. Other Belleville hits were collected by catcher Bob McKay — a double and single, outfielder Billy Phillips and second - baseman Cory Brant — a brace of singles apiece; and centrefielder Ed Finlay — a double.

Then the proverbial roof fell in on the locals, when they encountered the bigger, more experienced North Bendale nine for the "A" group title.

Hefty pitcher Tino Mangnarro threw a 15-0 no-hitter against Belleville which made a nice mate for his 10-0, no-hit win over Don Mills earlier in the day.



In addition, he got a nine-hit, 5-4 verdict over Oshawa in earning himself the most valuable player award for the tournament.

North Bendale's second-year peewees slashed 15 hits off Beich pitchers Bruce Sutherland and Wally Hull, while the comparatively inexperienced, and tired Belleville peewees couldn't catch up with any of Mangnarro's deliveries.

The tournament's "B" championship went to North York, on the heels of their 16-7 win over Don Mills.

Other entries for the tourney, staged by the city's minor softball executive, came from Ameliasburg and Shrubtick.

Officiating services for the day-long diamond activities were donated by members of the Centennial Umpires' Association.

There were some good points about Saturday night's lacrosse exhibition at the Fairgrounds, but you'd have to think for a while to produce them.

The city recreation department's decision to sponsor the exhibition in an attempt to determine local interest in the genteel-stick game was an admirable one.

But it didn't take a crystal ball to predict the 100-odmen crowd that trickled into the arena.

The only worse possible time to try to attract spectators than any summer Saturday night would be a holiday weekend Saturday night.

If you subtracted the players' wives, friends, and friends in the arena, you wouldn't have had enough bodies for a tennis doubles' match.

The game itself, between junior squads from Peterborough and Campbellford, didn't really mean anything. An obviously more experienced Lifluck City team ran all over their opponents 18-2.

But somewhere between all those goals, those last few were on hand got some idea about what lacrosse is all about.

The fast break, fancy behind-the-back passing and steel-nerved goaltending against shot shirking and over-armed balls rubber ball — all these and more came through in even such a one-sided contest.

Organizers of the event are not to be blamed for the mismatch — repeated attempts to land a couple of slick entries from the booming National Lacrosse Association met with failure.

It seems giving a boost to their sport wasn't rewarding enough for the "big guns." They had something more substantial in mind.

A pair of tadpole teams provided comic relief during the Peter-Campbellford game, but also served to show the "crowd" that lacrosse is probably less restrictive on grounds of age than is hockey.

Some pretty short legs were slapping sneakers from end to end on the floor of the other, and although there was no fancy stickwork, the well-padded youngsters demonstrated both skill and enjoyment at their pastimes.

But where does all this leave the city's lacrosse boosters?

Well, they've already succeeded in helping establish a two-team Quinte league, with the Belleville entry playing their home opener at the arena tonight.

It'll be a rough road for a while, trying to get lacrosse on a good footing locally.

But we feel the best way is the way chosen — starting to nurture the sport through efforts at the minor level.

There may be some over-anxious, and try to get senior-class play right off the bat. But this would mean either starting a team from scratch, with players unfamiliar with the game trying to play it by ear, or importing players already schooled in the sport.

Neither method would provide a stable base for establishing the sport locally, and both could prove costly, in one way or another.

Races Add $1200 to Firemen's Fund

By Jerry Neff
Staff Reporter

From blocks away the Fairgrounds track looked like a digression dust bowl Monday night as more than 50 competition motorcycle riders competed in the Moncuar Dystrophy Benefit Races sponsored by the Belleville Firefighters Association and the Piston Pushers Motorcycle Club.

More than 2,000 attended the races and after the riders were paid their prize money and the sponsors paid off the expenses of running the race, there was nearly $1,200 left to donate to the Moncuar Dystrophy fund.

Star of the races was 20-year-old Dave Sehl of Watertown, Ont., who took first place in both the 500 and 250 cc. expert events.

Yvon Duhamel, regular rider at the Belleville events and one of Canada's top competitors, rode in only one race and didn't even qualify for the final heat. He had magneto trouble in both of the bikes he'd brought and wasn't in top shape himself after racing all day Monday at Mosport prior to reporting to the Fairgrounds.

Dave Sehl's younger brother Doug took the 250 cc. junior event on a 360 cc. bike after loaning his brother his 500 cc. engine when Dave found himself without a machine for Monday's competition. The older Sehl had blown his own engine in a race Sunday at Columbus, Ohio.

Other winners in Monday night's races were Gerald Caerrier of Green Valley, Ont. who took the title in the combined novice - expert 500 cc. final and Bob Kelly, Hamilton, Ont., who finished first in the 250 cc. junior final.

There were no injuries or serious accidents in the 17 races Monday night. Next motorcycle competition in Belleville will be at the Fairgrounds August 18 when the Ontario dirt track Championships will be held.

... While Rivals Scramble

This elaborate piece of headgear looks like it would be as much at home being worn by a spaceman as by top Canadian motorcycle racer Yvon Duhamel of Montreal. DuHamel was one of the racers to compete in Monday night's programs at the Fairgrounds sponsored by local firemen and the Piston Pushers Motorcycle Club.

Ready for Battle

But not against each other. Ten-year-old Terry Ferren was a member of one of two tadpole teams who gave a lacrosse exhibition at the Belleville arena Saturday night. Greg Thomas played goal for the Campbellford Trents, who played the Peterborough Junior Petes in the evening's main attraction.

South Hastings Play

Read Upset by Shannonville

Shannonville downed Read 7-4 Sunday in South Hastings Baseball League action.

Dave Lewis went the nine-innings on the mound for the winners, giving up the four runs on eight hits and six walks while striking ten.

Harold Pascoe did the pitching for Read, giving up seven runs on ten hits and three walks while striking out seven.

Top hitters for Shannonville were Mike Brant and Dave Lewis who collected doubles, Carl Boomhower with a double and a single and Larry Marshall, Wayne Sager, Clint Green and Bill Barber, stock with singles.

Ken Abrams hit a double and two singles for Read. P. Pascoe hit a single for a double, Carm Milligan hit two singles, and Harold Pascoe and L. Coffee hit a single apiece for the losers.

At Fairground Trots

Vance's Mare Continues Winning Ways

By CLAUDE D. TICE

The 11-year-old mare, Nida Dillard, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Al Vance, scored her third consecutive victory at the fairgrounds on Saturday night, when 809 patrons poured $14,900 through the mutuels. The threat of rain kept the crowd down but the caliber of racing continued to improve.

A lot of people who bet on a grey horse had their feelings on Saturday night when Bill Knight, with Al Caddy in the sulky paid off over the $13. dollar mark. Molly Van paced the fastest mile of the night at 2:12-4/5, despite a heavy track and head winds going up the back stretch.

Earl Akey's Miss Happy Hal and Don Johnston's Tiger Jim paid the highest wins of the night at $13.20. Ben Wemp's driver Judy's Ryan scored her second win of the year and has already gone over her winnings of last year. Lisa Lee Chief broke her maiden with Guy LaRush in the sulky and Tiger Jim also scored his first win in four starts.

The racing was formful, the fields well handled by the starter and everyone enjoyed the fine holiday card provided. The results:

Cobourg dowped the Belleville Legion Bantam EOBA team 5-2 Sunday in all-star action in the division. But Ellis Printers were winners in Midget A loop play, besting Ajax 10-2.

Livingstone and Kelly took the Cobourg win from Stan Brooks and David Wood of the Belleville team. The winners allowed no runs on three hits and seven walks while striking out 12.

Belleville's twosome allowed five runs on seven hits while walking two and striking out nine.

Top Belleville hitters were Mike Gregan, Barry Colkin, and Rick Meagher with singles. Orville of Cobourg hit two singles to pace his team.

Wayne Farrell did the honors for Ellis Midget, giving up two runs on one hit and two walks and striking out seven. Ken Hill pitched for Ajax, giving up ten runs on nine hits and seven walks and swishing four.

New Entries Kick Win

Golden Mile, a new entry in the PeeWee division of the Minor Soccer Association, downed General Bakers 4-0 Saturday in their first win since joining the league.

The newcomers seemed to have found their balance as their defence gave nothing away, while Brian Goodfellow and Eddie Grills were scoring two goals each.

THE CAR BUYER'S PROBLEMS

HERE'S SOME "GIRL TALK" ABOUT CARS

We don't mean the way they talk to us men. We mean the way they talk to each other when there are no men around.

How important are the girls' opinions? Well, figure it out for yourself: Studies show they are involved in 75 percent of all purchase decisions where most share the decision with their husbands.

And almost half of 6000 women who recently answered a questionnaire sent out by a national women's magazine also said they personally had their car serviced or were involved with service problems.

Though the magazine asked for complaints, most answers praised the riding and handling qualities of their cars, which took first and second place over style and economy.

The women's complaints, with the magazine felt were more candid because no men were involved, mostly centred around poor service and warranty treatment.

Real or imagined, many of the women drivers believed they were deceived or misled on service warranty they were given. Their description of vehicle symptoms, for instance, tended to be ignored, they said.

The greatest single feature praised on their present cars was the automatic transmission and the most desired future improvement was a rear window defogger.

It is a wise auto dealer who goes out of his way to please his women customers. He will find his efforts abundantly returned in their loyalty and confidence that has a way of spreading itself around via "girl talk".

Stockton Brings Home Bacon at Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — A check for $25,000 made Dave Stockton forget all about the oppressive heat.

"The hot weather bothered me. A horrible and dizzy," Stockton said Sunday after he won the Cleveland open golf tournament, his first tour triumph of the year.

The Californian staggered home with a one-over par 71, his worst round of the 72-hole event after earlier rounds of 69, 69 and 67. But his 276 total was two strokes better than rookie Bob Dickson of Tulsa, Okla. and eight strokes under par.

The first prize money boosted Stockton's winnings this year to $46,139. He won two tournaments last season and collected $94,333.

Dickson, the 1967 U.S. and British amateur king and playing only his seventh tournament, picked up $13,200. His biggest check before Sunday was for $835 after he finished in a tie for 45th at the U.S. Open.

Roberto de Vicenzo, the South American who finished second in the Masters, fired a 73 for a 279 total and a tie for third place with PGA illiist Don January.

Pros at Quebec

American Golfer Bests "Moe" by Two

MONTREAL (CP) — Calloway Clark Carmody, who had to be persuaded to enter the Quebec Open golf championship, swept home with a four-under-par 66 on the sodden Islesmere Golf Club course to collect $2,800 in prize money.

His 54-hole total of 208—eight under par—was two strokes better than that of Moe Norman of Gilbert, Ont., who took second prize money of $1,800 Saturday.

Amateur Claude Dudoux, an Edmonton member, finished one stroke behind Norman at 211. He also had a 69 on the final day.

Bob Boldt of Eugene, Ore., wound up with third prize money of $1,300 for his 213 total.

It was Boldt who persuaded Carmody to enter the Quebec event, part of a $100,000 cross-country tour for Canadian pros established this year.

Carmody, a shipyar pro, had won only $50 on the PGA circuit this year.

Bob Cox of Vancouver, Vaughan Trapp of Victoria, Babe Hisker of Burley, Idaho and Adrien Bigras of Montreal each won $275 for their even-par 216 finishes. Jack Bissegger of Montreal picked up $200 for a 218 total.

Toronto's Bob Breen and Winnipeg's Wilf Homenluk joined amateur Bob McGrath of Montreal at 220. Breen and Homenluk won $250 each.

Five pros each took home $111 for 221. They were Lyle Crawford of Vancouver, Byron Comstock of Sioux Falls, S.D., Gilles Lamoureux of Shawinigan, Que., Lee Brien of Montreal and Frank Whibley of Toronto.

Wayne Vallmer of Vancouver won $95 for tying at 22 with amateur Eric Reid of Montreal.

Four pros—Bob McCulloch of Montreal, Finn Sorenson of Shelbourne, Alta., Leon Decarie of Toronto and Robert Legare of Cap Rouge, Que.—were bunched at 223 and earned $61.25 each.

Seven pros won last prize money of $10.31 with scores of 224. They were Trevor Bateman, Damien Gauthier, Norm Hunt and Andre Maltais, all of Montreal, and Andy Black of Regina, Bob Young of Toronto and Doug Sullivan of Moncton. Amateur Don Davidson of Ottawa also wound up at 224.

There were 154 golfers entered in the tournament.

On Comeback Trail

He Won "Hand"-ily

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — Former heavyweight contender George Chuvalo has taken another step in his comeback by knocking out Johnny Featherman of Tombstone, Ariz., with a two-punch combination at 1:33 of the first round of a scheduled 12-round boxing match.

A crowd of 3,500 had barely settled into the seats Saturday night when Chuvalo landed a right hand to the head after scoring with a heavy jab to Featherman's face.

Featherman failed to beat the count by referee Dave Brown of Vancouver.

Manager Norman Arrington accused the referee of giving his fighter a "quick count", and Irv Ungerman, Chuvalo's manager, said the count might have been called "a little too fast."

"My boy wasn't even hurt—he was waiting for the nine-count to get up after half-slipping."

Arrington complained later in the dressing room.

The referee said Featherman admitted later that the first number he heard called was eight.

"He was hurt pretty badly," Brown said. "The right hand spun him right around and knocked him on the side of his head. It's just too bad it happened in the first round."

Chuvalo weighed 213 pounds as he won his 53rd bout against 12 losses and two draws. Featherman, 27, weighed 197.

The bout was Chuvalo's second since Joe Frazier of Philadelphia injured the 30-year-old Canadian champion's eye in scoring a technical knockout in New York last year.

Chuvalo defended his Canadian heavyweight title by scoring a 15-round decision over Jean Claude Roy of Montreal in mid-June at Regina.

At Toronto Meet...

Track Marks Fall In Olympic Warmup

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's top track and field athletes Monday warmed up for a European tour and the Olympics by breaking two native records and tying another at the Dominion Day track meet.

The meet was one of the first real tests leading to the Olympics in Mexico this October.

Later this month, about 30 Canadian athletes will represent Canada in meets in Norway, Sweden and England.

A crowd of 2,500 persons saw Wim Wedmann, 20, of Burnaby, B.C., clear six feet, 10¾ inches and better his high jump record of 6-10¾.

Bill Hethkis, 23, of Toronto broke his javelin record of 246 feet by an inch.

In the hammer throw, Mike Cairns of Calgary had a heave of 196 feet 10 inches. Although announced as a record, it was learned later that Cairns had thrown 197 feet, 1 inch at a meet indoors at Edmonton.

Bob McLaren of Victoria, B.C., ran the 440-yard hurdles in 52 seconds, equalling the record he set last year.

One of Canada's best hopes for an Olympic medal, George Puce of Toronto, won the shot put and discus.

Puce, 27, tossed the discus 194 feet, 9¼ inches, about 20 feet short of the world's record.

His shot put distance was 58 feet, 11 inches.

Two other athletes were double winners at the meet.

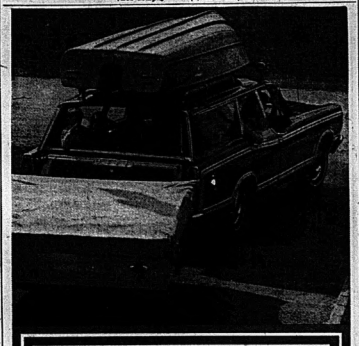
Irene Petrowski of Vancouver, who set a Canadian record in the 100-yard dash two weeks ago, won the 100- and 200-yard dashes.

Both times were slower than the records she holds. She did the 100 yards in 10.9 and the 200 in 24.3. The records are 10.5 and 23.5.

Jenny Meldrum of Toronto scored easy wins in the long jump and the 80-metre hurdles with a jump of 19 feet, 4¼ inches and a run of 11.1.

In other track events, Bill Crothers, Canada's top half miler, easily won the 880 in 1:52.1. Crothers holds the Canadian record of 1:46.4.

Dave Bailey of Toronto won the mile in 4:01.4, also slower than his record of 3:57.7 set last year.



Dave Ellis of Toronto won the six-mile race in 28:35.4.

Crothers Pays To See Track Meet

TORONTO (CP) — Bill Crothers believes in Canadian track and field, enough to dig deeply into his own wallet to help back a meet—and take a loss.

Crothers, who organized and participated in the Dominion track and field meet here Monday, estimated the crowd at the Canadian National Exhibition stadium at 2,500. If he had 5,000 at $2 a head, he would have broken even. With 2,500, he lost about 4,000.

Crothers said in an interview he was satisfied with the competition, but not with the turnout.

Tigers Dominate AL Action

Kaline Doffs Cast, Returns to Key Spot in Detroit Lineup

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Who's on first? Would you believe Al Kaline?

There was the Detroit slugger, back from five weeks on the disabled list with a broken right arm, trotting out to first base Monday night.

And there was Kaline, backbone of the Tigers' attack for 16 years, ripping a single to left in the sixth inning to score Mickey Stanley with the tie-breaking run in a 5-1 victory over California Angels.

The Angels didn't wait long to test the outfielder-turned-first baseman. Vic Davalillo, the leadoff batter, grounded to Kaline, who fielded the ball and flipped to pitcher Mickey Lolich covering the bag.

Kaline later caught a foul pop and handled three throws from infielders but was charged with an error when he took his foot off the bag on a throw from third baseman Dick Kenworthy.

Elsewhere in the American League, Cleveland Indians whipped Minnesota Twins 4-1, Chicago White Sox downed Baltimore Orioles 6-3, Boston Red Sox beat Oakland Athletics 3-0 and Washington Senators turned back New York Yankees 3-1.

Sunday's scores were: Chicago 12 Detroit 0; Minnesota 4 Baltimore 0; California 8 Washington 4; Oakland 1 New York 4; Cleveland 7 Boston 5.

Saturday's results: Chicago 2 Detroit 1; Cleveland 4-1 Boston 1-1; Baltimore 5 Minnesota 1; New York 2-3 Oakland 5-4; California 2 Washington 5.

Kaline, 33, played third base for part of one game in 1961 and spent the rest of his career in the outfield. He suffered a broken arm when struck by a pitch in a game at Oakland May 25.

"My arm still hurts when I swing, especially if I try to hold up on it," he said.

Kaline was not the only stand-out as the high-flying Tigers kept their American League lead at 7½ games over Cleveland.

Catcher Bill Freehan cracked his 10th and 11th homers, Tresvesh hit his 4th and 5th, Lolich, the erratic lefty, hurled a five-hitter and fanned 14, most by a Detroit pitcher this season.

Lou Johnson, the outfielder acquired last week from Chicago Cubs, blasted two homers and Sam McDowell fanned 11 as Cleveland beat Minnesota.

Buddy Bradford, a White Sox outfielder, had a two-homer night against Baltimore. He cracked his third of the season to ignite a four-run first inning after Luis Aparicio reached on an error, and hit another in the fifth.

Aparicio also homered, his third, while Brooks Robinson and Curt Blefary connected for the Orioles. The White Sox capped the opening inning with a double steal on which Ken Berry swiped home while Bill Voss stole second.

Veteran southpaws Dick Ellsworth and Juan Pizarro, a couple of National League castoffs, combined for a four-hitter as Boston blanked Oakland.

The Yankees not only lost a game to Washington but two pitchers and their manager, as well. Starter Al Downing left after one inning with a pain in his elbow and reliever Bill Monbouquette, the eventual loser, pulled a groin muscle in the fifth.

Monbouquette was the cause of manager Ralph Houk's ejection when he laid down a squeeze bunt that apparently gave the Yanks a 2-1 lead. But umpire Jerry Neudecker ruled that Monbouquette ran out of the baseline, called him out for interference and sent the runner back to third, where he was stranded. Houk objected.

NL Pitching Duel

Gibson Muffs Record Chance on Wild Pitch

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After Don Drysdale pitched a major league record six straight shutouts and 58 2-3 consecutive scoreless innings, everyone wondered what he could do for an encore.

He could have beaten Bob Gibson when the two clashed Monday night, but he didn't.

Gibson, on the other hand, lost his bid for Drysdale's records, allowing a first-inning run on a wild pitch in St. Louis' 3-1 victory over Los Angeles.

"I won the game; I'm not disappointed at all," said Gibson, the Cardinal ace who had buried five straight shutouts and amassed 47 innings of scoreless pitching.

"It didn't take long for Gibson to end the suspense for 54,157 fans at Dodger Stadium.

After retiring the first two Dodgers in the first inning, he gave up singles to Len Gabrielson and Tom Haller and, with Ron Fairly at bat, he bounced a pitch past catcher John Edwards for his third wild pitch of the season. Gabrielson scored easily.

"It was all my fault," Gibson said. "It was a wild fast ball."

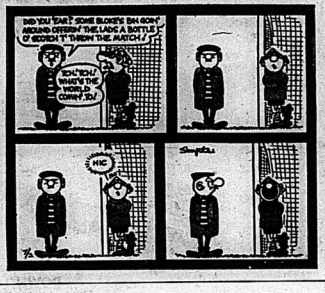
"It's too bad the way it happened; he's a great pitcher," commented Drysdale, who was knocked out of the game in the seventh inning.

Gibson, however, was around at the finish and picked up his 10-3 record. Drysdale also is 10-3. Gibson lowered his earned run average slightly to 1.13 while Drysdale's ERA rose to 1.46.

Elsewhere in the National League, Atlanta Braves defeated San Francisco Giants 8-1, Philadelphia Phillies trapped Chicago Cubs 6-4 and Cincinnati Reds edged Houston Astros 3-2 in 11 innings.

Sunday's scores were: St. Louis 3 Chicago 6; Pittsburgh 5 Philadelphia 2; New York 1 Houston 0; Atlanta 2 Los Angeles 3; Cincinnati 5 San Francisco 2.

Saturday's results: St. Louis 1 Chicago 10; Atlanta 2 Los Angeles 7; Cincinnati 5 San Francisco 0; Pittsburgh, 1 Philadelphia 0; New York 0 Houston 2.



Cleto Boyer led Atlanta past San Francisco. He doubled and scored in the third inning, then singled across a run in the sixth.

Relief pitcher Cecil Upshaw rescued starter Phil Niekro in the eighth inning and preserved the Brave victory.

Reliever John Boozer got the Phillies out of trouble in the ninth and saved the victory for Chris Short, who at one stretch retired 15 straight Cubs. Boozer retired Glen Beckert on a bases-loaded game-ending grounder after Willie Smith singled home two runs against Gary Wagner.

Tommy Helms sent Tony Perez home with the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the 11th inning for Cincinnati' victory over Houston.

Mantle Picked as All-Star For 16th Time in Career

BOSTON (AP) — Aging Mickey Mantle of New York Yankees will take his usual place with the American League All-Stars. But such super stars as Al Kaline and Frank Robinson will be missing in the annual classic with the National League July 9 in Houston.

Mantle, whose 529 homers rank him fourth in the all-time home run derby, was named to the all-star team for the 16th year Monday as manager Dick Williams completed his 25-player squad.

Williams, rewarded with the American League managerial berth for leading Boston Red Sox to the 1967 pennant, mostly followed the players' voting in filling his bench.

The fourth, fifth and sixth biggest vote-getters in the outfield balloting were chosen. They were Tony Oliva of Minnesota Twins, hot-hitting Ken Harrelson of Red Sox and young Rick Monday of Oakland Athletics.

Kaline, the Detroit Tigers' slugger who had been sidelined with a broken arm, was not named to the all-star team for the first time since 1954. He returned to action Monday night. Robinson, Baltimore's 1966 Triple Crown winner, has been plagued by injuries this season.

Mantle and Boog Powell of the Orioles were chosen the back-up first baseman for starter Harmon Killebrew of the Twins. Darrel Johnson of Baltimore was chosen as the No. 2 second baseman behind Rod Carew of Minnesota.

Other reserves chosen were Ollie Brown of San Francisco Giants, shortstop Ber Campaneris of Oakland and catchers Joe Azcue of Cleveland and Duane Josephson of the Chicago White Sox.

The league-leading Tigers will be represented by four players, Willie Horton. Bill Freehan, pitcher Denny McLain and outfielder Willie Horton.

The Twins, Red Sox, Orioles and Athletics each will have three representatives. The Yankees and White Sox have two apiece, with California and Washington only one each.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoidal tissues

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured inflamed tissues.

In hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "way stilling improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction (retraction) (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and in one important of all, results were so thorough that in this treatment was maintained over a 7000 of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and eliminates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Tyke Play

Cobourg Belts Locals

The Cobourg Tyke All-Stars topped Booth's Belleville Tyke All-Stars 24-3 Saturday in a minor baseball loop contest.

The Belleville team had B. Loveless, P. Hall, and B. Whalen try their luck on the mound while the Cobourg nine stuck to Crouter and LaFontaine.

Belleville allowed 24 runs on 20 hits and four walks while striking out eight.

Cobourg allowed three runs on three hits and six walks while collecting eight strikeouts.

T. Meagher, Ricky Hutchinson and B. Porter had singles for Belleville while Cobourg got their power from Friand who hit a triple, two doubles, and two singles. Crouter had three singles; triple and two doubles, and Kernaghan a triple, double, and single.

Welcome Mat ? Hah !

The Belleville Lions' Club Pee Wee baseball team picked a different kind of mat to roll out in thumping their opposition 40-6 Saturday in ESBA Minor action.

J. Cunningham and R. Sweet did mound duty for the Belleville nine and got plenty of help from their team as every Belleville player upped his batting average with at least one hit.

Terry Madden, who holds down first base, collected two doubles and five singles to pace the locals. Robert Vandewater hit a double, a triple, and two singles. Peter Molaski connected for a double and two singles.

Tykes Turn Tiger

On the Tyke circuit of the Belleville Minor Softball Association, West Hill action saw the Rangers trap the Bears 17-16, the Bobcats clip the Whips 10-15, and the Tigers trim the Leafs 30-3.

On East Hill, the Hawks swooped down on the Canadiens 13-12, and Tabernacle downed A and W 18-3.

In Bantam Division play the Phillies outdrew the Aces 19-2 in a make-up game.

Truckers Lose Kicking Contest

The Junior Oddfellows topped Lafferty-Smith Transport 3-1 Saturday in Belleville Minor Soccer League play.

S. Hitchen, inside right, led in scoring with two goals for the winners while D. Rosebush added one tally for the winners.

Goalkeeper R. Jordan of the Oddfellows prevented a closer score with several key saves.

Boy! It Was Fun When..

Ricky Mowers, 7, (left) and Lorne Papke, 6, demonstrate to each other how their plane flight over Niagara Falls went. The boys were part of a group of handicapped children from the Bay of Quinte area who were guests of 437 Squadron this week at CFB Trenton. The squadron treated the children to a tour of the base, a movie, a search and rescue demonstration put on by 102 Communications Unit, and a plane ride in squadron Yukon aircraft to Niagara Falls and back.

Sweeps Awards Elderly Invalid, Child Win Big Money

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An eight-year-old suburban Toronto girl, two men in almost-adjoining communities on the Quebec side of the Ottawa River and a 77-year-old Montreal hospital patient emerged Saturday as $130,000 Irish Sweepstake winners.

All four held tickets on Ribero, winner of the Irish Derby run at The Curragh track near Dublin. The race was the second of three each year which carry tickets on the international lottery held to aid hospitals in the Irish Republic.

Six Canadians won $53,000 each on Sir Ivor, the pre-race favorite who ran second to Ribero in a close finish, and seven Canadians won $26,000 each with tickets on the third horse, Val d'Assta.

Another 176 Canadians were drawn in Dublin last Wednesday on all 38 horses eligible for the race—only 14 sent to the post—will win consolation prizes of about $1,100 whether their horses started or not.

The total Canadian winnings on this sweepstake amounted to about $1,100,000, but because sale of sweepstake tickets is illegal in Canada, no one can tell how much Canadians contributed to the lottery.

Taycos Wakefield of Thornhill, Ont., just north of Toronto was "jumping up and down" with excitement when she learned her horse had won top money. The girl's startled mother, Mrs. K. M. Wakefield, hadn't known in advance that her daughter had been given a ticket by a relative. She said the relative would figure in plans for disposition of the winnings.

Reduction Predicted

Improved Exchange Cuts Lending Rate to Seven Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — The Bank of Canada's official lending rate drops today to seven per cent from 7½, a predictable reduction following four increases within the last year.

The central bank announced Monday the change would be made "in view of the improvement in Canada's foreign exchange position."

Market experts have been forecasting a small reduction for some time. There has been speculation that the Bank of Canada held off until after the June 25 federal election to avoid any suggestion of political influence.

The rate is what the Bank of Canada charges on its rare loans to chartered banks.

It represents the state of credit conditions the Canadian monetary authority judges appropriate, and in this case the bank appears to be following a trend rather than leading it.

Rates on bonds, mortgages and short-term investments of all kinds have been dropping for the past month or so.

As bank governor, Louis Rasminsky indicated in his announcement that foreign exchange reserves have improved to the point where some of the money borrowed in the January-March crisis period this year is being repaid.

A simultaneous announcement by the finance department Monday said reserves of gold and U.S. dollars in the fund rose $74,000,000 on June 30, compared with $2,695,000,000 on May 31.

This was a reduction of $121,000,000, but during the month the fund paid back $125,000,000 to the U.S. federal reserve system and $121,000,000 in borrowings from the International Monetary Fund. Canada still owes $125,000,000 to the federal reserve and $64,000,000 to the IMF.

In raising the bank rate Jan. 21 and again March 15 the central bank sought to stem actual and potential losses of investment capital.

From Jan. 1 to March 31, the exchange fund lost $709,000,000 in market transactions designed to hold the Canadian dollar close to 92.5 U.S. cents, its official rate.

About the time of the March bank-rate change and the two-price solution to the international gold crisis, the dollar strengthened and official transactions started to reverse.

The central bank began buying back U.S. dollars for the fund, and in the three-month April-June period these transactions accounted for $242,000,000 in net additions to reserves.

The government also arranged to borrow $262,000,000 in Europe and the U.S. as a further, rebuilding measure. Some $71,000,000 of this amount was received in June, leaving a final $29,000,000 for delivery in October and January.

Saturday's Puzzle Solved:

Rose Show Successful

Saturday was a real flower day at the Centennial High School in Belleville.

Over 1,000 exhibits from 199 participants filled the auditoriums at Centennial High School for the Rose Festival sponsored by the Belleville Horticultural Society.

It was a real heaven for flower children or grown-ups and they came from all over Ontario for the show.

Along with the individual flower exhibits, there were 21 major displays with exhibitors coming from as far away as Hamilton, Pickering, Port Credit and Toronto.

Opening the show at two o'clock on Saturday was Robert Patterson, president of the local society, who welcomed the visitors and introduced Orville E. Bowles, president of the Canadian Rose Society.

Alderman Gerald Joyce, on behalf of the mayor and the city, also welcomed visitors to the show.

A spokesman for the Horticultural Society said he was happy with the large turnout.

An auction of exhibits was held following the show.

Winning the black Diamond Award for the most points in the show, was Robert Patterson, president of the society.

Other local winners were Judge J. C. Anderson and Robert Temple.

Mrs. H. Laundry won the Ella Rowland Challenge Bowl for the best decorative arrangement.

Besides the flowers, the major displays included a Canada Centennial theme as well as assortments of flowers and examples of garden equipment and arrangement.

Hughes Seeking ABC Shares

NEW YORK (AP) — Financier Howard Hughes, through his Hughes Tool Co., offered Monday to buy 2,000,000 common shares of American Broadcasting Co., Inc., for $74.25 a share—a total of $148,500,000 in cash.

If stockholders respond with 2,000,000 shares, Hughes Tool Co. of Houston, Tex., would acquire a substantial but not majority interest in ABC.

The network has 4,727,000 shares outstanding.

Trading in ABC shares delayed in opening on the New York Stock Exchange until late afternoon, pending announcement of the Hughes Tool offer. The issue closed at $69.50 a share, up $11.12 for the day, on volume of 40,400 shares.

ABC made no immediate comment on the offer, but a spokesman said a statement was being prepared.

Japan Plans Increased Investment

VANCOUVER (CP) — The president of Japan's largest chemical company says his firm intends to increase its investments in Canada.

Hideo Shinojima of Mitubishi Chemical Industries Ltd. declined in an interview Friday to give details or amounts but said his firm is encouraged by lower interest rates here than in Japan.

Mitsubishi, one of the largest companies in the world, has investments in coal, pulp and copper in Canada, much of it in British Columbia.

Mr. Shinojima, arrived here from Tokyo en route to a Toronto to Kiwanis International convention to which he is a delegate.

UK Exports Jump But Not to Canada

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Britain has abandoned its traditional "soft sell" and the result has been a $2,000,000 increase in exports every day for 10 years, Sir Ralph Perring, former Lord Mayor of London, Eng., told a local service club Saturday.

In 1957, British exports were 10 billion annually, but last year they had risen to $15 billion, said Sir Ralph, who is chairman of the British committee for exports to Canada.

He said this increase is far in excess of what industry was asked to do five years ago by the government.

Of the $15 billion export total, only 4.2 per cent goes to Canada, which in turn represents only seven per cent of Canadian purchases overseas—against 79 per cent bought by Canada from the United States.

"We believe that more could be bought from the UK which would also help Canada with her own imbalance. It will certainly assist us to pay for the goods we want to buy from you —hard wheat, fish, lumber, pulp," he said.

Sir Ralph was speaking at a luncheon following the official opening of the third annual Fortnight Festival, at which he presented the city with a block of granite from historic London Bridge, which is being dismantled and sold.

Two Rules When Visiting Sick

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: I would like your opinion, or rules, about visiting the sick. I have a friend who has terminal cancer and has let it be known that she does not want visitors.

An even closer friend is convalescing from a stroke she suffered four months ago. I have visited her (she is still unable to talk). She became enormously upset when I arrived and again when I left, so I wondered if my visit did more harm than good.

What are the right words to encourage these people? — L. B.

Here are the five rules which, over the years, I have found to be good answers to most of the questions. I'll list them, then take them up one at a time for discussion.

1 — The first rule is to respect the patient's wishes.

2 — Don't remind the patient of all the cases you have heard about, people who suffered or died from the same illness.

3 — Don't visit too long.

4 — Don't express your concern or worry about the patient by your remarks or other expressions. The look on your face sometimes can undo everything else.

5 — If you can't be helpful or cheerful, don't visit. (Too often visits are motivated by sheer curiosity rather than benevolence.)

First Rule: If the patient doesn't want visitors, don't visit. He may be embarrassed by his appearance or his inability to communicate. He may be drowsy from medication. He may be just pooped.

I myself have experienced being so weary and sedated that I could hardly keep awake. I heartily wished my visitors would go — but I couldn't bring myself to tell them so. Maybe I should have, but you know how it is. Perhaps we need some "social signals." A patient should be provided with some instructions: for example, he could be warned to say "Oh, I'm getting so sleepy: it must be that medication" when he wants people to get the — well, to leave. But the trouble is that a very sick patient is in no mood to learn even such simple ploys of self-defence.

And if I may be allowed a personal gripe, some years ago when I was desperately ill my room had the "No Visitors" sign posted. Yet I knew so many people (naturally) in the hospital that I had a procession of doctors and nurses and other people popping in, despite the sign. I was exhausted. A sick doctor isn't a doctor; he's a patient. I hope my personal friends will take this to heart and not be offended.

Second Rule: Don't talk about other patients who have had the same ailment unless you can be genuinely encouraging. Don't tell how others suffered. Don't tell how others died.

Don't lie to the patient because it won't work. He has learned all he can of his ailment — be sure of that. If he has been on the "no visitors" list, but now can have visitors, it's certainly all right to admit that he was very sick or badly ill and is now better. But don't yap about others who have improved and then had relapses. Or things like that. Believe me, conversation about fatal cases, or otherwise disastrous ones, is all too common. Why? Don't ask me. But it happens, and it certainly plays bob with the patients spirit.

I'll continue this tomorrow.

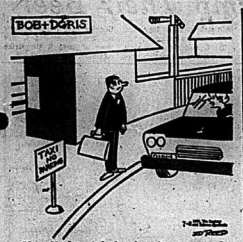
• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes polyps to form in the nose? — Mrs. V. S.

Allergy is a very common factor. When removed, sometimes the polyps do not recur; other times they do and have to be removed again.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: My little grandson was given a watch with a luminous dial for his birthday. Can he possibly receive radiation or have trouble from this? — Mrs. E. P.



The radiation is so extremely small that it can't be harmful.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

U.S. May Establish Standards For Life of Vital Car Parts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government will set safety standards for used cars—and it may start telling automobile manufacturers how long cars should last.

Transportation Secretary Alan S. Boyd sent Congress a report Monday outlining plans to broaden present safety rules for new cars to cover the 84,000,000 motor vehicles already on the road in the U.S.

The report says about half the cars have critical safety defects, and warns the chance of an accident increases with a car's age.

Boyd offered a program which would not require new legislation and which includes:

—Plans to issue shortly a proposed set of safety standards for cars already on the highway, covering brakes, steering, tires, headlights, seatbelts, exhaust pipes, mirrors, horns and maybe even bubcaps.

—A study of the possibility of setting standards on the minimum lifetime of critical parts in cars coming off the assembly line.

—Another study of ways to offer free public transportation in urban areas to take the poor-getting out of risky vehicles they can't afford to repair.

Some Explanations Needed

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

How near is the "near future" — a day, a week, a month, a year?

How far is the "not too distant future" — before long, eventually, finally, next year, within the decade?

How fast is "in high gear" — 40 miles an hour, or 60 miles an hour, or 120 miles an hour?

How often is "every so often" — once a day, once a week, once a month, twice a year?

How many are "not a few" — six or 12, or 20 or 200 or 2,000?

How small is a "small minority" — 20 percent, or 10 per cent, or 10 per cent, or 2 per cent?

How seldom is "seldom ever" — once a year, or once a month, or twice a century?

How soon is "upcoming" — tomorrow, or next week, or a month from now, or within the year?

How well is "well and good" — better than "good" alone, or better than "well" alone, or somewhere between the two?

How long is "at length" — is it longer or shorter than "in good time"?

How much between "fair" and "middling" is "fair to middling"?

How far below is "below average" — just barely below, or considerably below, or deeply below?

How few are "few and far between"?

How overwhelming are "overwhelming odds" — 2 to 1, or 5 to 1, or 10 to 1, or 100 to 1?

How far is "far-flung"?

How much faster or slower is a "twinkling" than a "trice" or a "jiffy"?

How much graver is a "grave emergency" than a plain "emergency"?

How heavy is the "weight of the evidence"?

How broad is a "sprawling building"?

How much under is "underprivileged" — slightly less than the national average, or half the national average, or less than that?

How widely spread is "widespread" — throughout England, or throughout a stratum, or throughout a particular neighborhood?

How much is a "whit"?

How easily is "with comparative ease" — as easily as turning a light bulb, or changing a tire, or solving an algebraic equation?

How much more acute is an "acute crisis" than an ordinary crisis?

The Sudbury woman's husband Clayton, suffered extensive injuries to his right leg when the train hit the car. He had gone to help his wife who had caught her coat in the car door.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For July 3

Your birthday today: You must move forward toward broader and more deeply developed viewpoints, realize the world is more complex than you had thought. The urge to improve your lot in the world will drive you to unusual personal achievements, intensifying your natural magnetic qualities.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Today is not the time to push for promotion or drastic changes in relationships. Work on the routines, relax early this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Whatever you say you want, you don't. See this as a passing phase. Tonight is apt to be very good.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): You are in the mood to mix things up just to see what will happen. Your loved ones, however, are in no humor to be rushed.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Your patient tact with family, close friends, neighbors today and tonight will reward you greatly later. It will pay you to listen to others.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Be prepared to go it alone. Nobody can be expected to go much beyond his own problems at the moment. Quit work as early as you can and unwind a bit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Sensitivity to financial matters affect personal relationships; your friends and family are on edge. Wait for a better time to make changes. Seek light entertainment tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Openings for your ideas are rare today. Use this time to revise your plans for later. Accept no nonsense today; offer none, either.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Distant people are not near enough to see what they are interfering with. Be ahead calmly. First priority: take care of any health problem that arises.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Money deals with friends are not favored today. Debate with people seems improbable now, so gather your facts for next week.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): It is all right now to step in to somebody's path while changing your own bright butterfly. Anyway, your sense of humor is priceless today, even if you are the only one enjoying it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Fill your day with normal operations. Whatever can be done alone, do without complaint. Philosophic materials tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Follow your intuition today and discover that some influential people lack good advice on financial matters. Find your own indicators.

U. S. May Ban TV Smoke Ads

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress was urged Monday to prohibit cigarette advertising on television and radio—and was told in Philadelphia that cigarette smoking can shorten life by up to eight years on the average.

The double-barrelled foray came in separate reports to Congress by the Federal Trade Commission and the U.S. Public Health Service.

The FTC asked for an advertising ban, while the PHS reported there is new evidence to back its repeated contentions that cigarette smoking imperils health and can be death-dealing.

Three of the five members of the FTC, in the agency's annual report to Congress on cigarette advertising, recommended a television and radio ban on such advertising.

U.S. Summer Residents of Ontario Have to Dump Their Beer

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — So you live in Ontario and the breweries have been closed by a strike and you're thirsty.

Consider, then, the plight of one of the hundreds of Americans with summer homes in Ontario.

He knows about the suds shortage, loads a good supply into his car and heads for his cottage—only to be forced to dump it, a bottle at a time, down the drain.

A Canadian customs man said Saturday that many caseloads have been confiscated from Americans trying to stock their Ontario summer cottages.

"It's tough," he said drily. "We make them dump it in the public washroom there."

He said the strike is hard on customs men, too. They can't buy beer, yet watch gallons of the beverage gurgle down the drain.

Under the regulations, tourists may take beer into Canada, but local summer residents, hundreds of whom spend their summers in Ontario cottages and commute to work in the Buffalo area over the Peace Bridge from Fort Erie.

However, a few enterprising Americans have discovered they may take in American suds if they can show a doctor's statement that they need it for medicinal purposes.

The Canadian customs man said a few of the medical certificates have begun to show up, and he expects to see more of them if the strike continues.

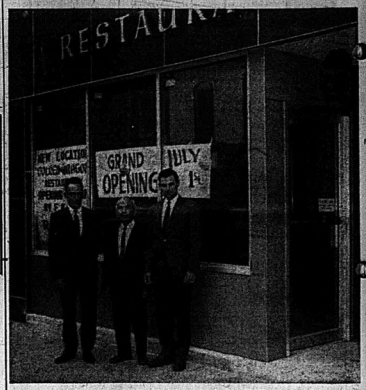
Socialism Stagnating – Thatcher

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan said Monday 20 years of "socialist government" left his province with industrial stagnation, retarded development, oppressive taxation and major depopulation.

Mr. Thatcher told the 53rd annual convention of Kiwanis International that since the defeat of the CCF in Saskatchewan his Liberal government has found there is nothing wrong with socialism—"except that it doesn't work."

"We found in Saskatchewan that a little bit of socialism is like a little bit of pregnancy. Once it begins to develop, it is pretty hard to stop."

Mr. Thatcher said that while Canada was enjoying a boom period from 1945 to 1963 Saskatchewan under the socialists was untouched.



"After 16 years of socialism, there were fewer jobs in manufacturing than existed in 1945, despite the investment of $500,000,000 in Crown corporations."

Buying a car this summer? You might just as well get a cool one . . . it won't cost you any more. That's if you buy an Ambassador. You see, this year, American Motors decided to make air conditioning standard equipment on the popular-priced Ambassador.

	Ambassador	Ford	Chevrolet	Plymouth
Standard Equip. Air Conditioning?	YES	NO	NO	NO
Extra Cost of Air Conditioning	NIL	$394.	$458.30	$441.15

After all, it's not the first time that American Motors has led the industry.

The other car manufacturers don't quite see it that way.

Until such time as they decide to follow American Motors' example, you reap double benefits. Not only will you enjoy the luxurious comfort of Kelvinator air conditioning, free, but when the time comes to trade your Ambassador, it will be worth more. Just because it has air-conditioning.

Tonight, take your last hot drive. Head for your nearby American Motors dealer and take an Ambassador out for a long, cool test drive.

When you've done that, answer this question: "Why should I pay more for air conditioning when I can get it free?"

Oh yes, one more thing. Save yourself the trouble of shopping around in the heat. Ambassador by American Motors is the only popular-priced car that comes equipped with air conditioning as standard equipment. The others just sell from air-conditioned showrooms.

Pamela Taylor Tops 29 Quinte Scholars

Only 8 Boys Listed

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

Pamela Taylor, a Quinte Secondary School student, had the highest percentage among district students completing grade 13 this year. Her average was 90.7 per cent.

Close runner-up was Susan O'Riordan of Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc, with 90 per cent.

Girls topped the list of Ontario scholars in five of the six Bay of Quinte secondary schools.

Only eight of the 29 students to qualify for the provincial award are boys. One of them, Robert Reid, was top student at Belleville Collegiate.

To qualify for an Ontario Scholar Diploma and the accompanying $150 award, a student must obtain an 80 per cent average in seven grade 13 subjects.

With the abolition of departmental examinations this year, the final grade 13 marks are based on the year's work and on examination set by individual schools.

BCI had the line this year, with six Ontario scholars, the same number as last year.

Robert Reid topped the list there with 97.6 per cent. Otrer BCI winners and their percentages were Mary Lynn Menahly, 86.3; Doris Day, 86.1; Mee Kin Seto, 85.9; Ernie Pope, 83 and Sherrill Taylor, 81.1.

Moira Secondary School's highest percentage was earned by Heather Hume, who scored 88.6

The other six of the seven Moira top students are Brenda PAMELA

Rail Issue Solved

MONTREAL (CP) — Representatives of the 3,400-member Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen have reached a settlement on a new contract with Canada's two major railways, it was announced today.

The announcement was made in a brief joint statement following all-night negotiations under Judge Rene Lippe of Quebec Superior Court, federally-appointed conciliator.

No details were released immediately.

The brotherhood, representing mostly firemen, a small number of locomotive yard workers and about 30 train engineers in Newfoundland, had called a strike to start last Thursday.

But the federal government stepped in and ordered a recessing of conciliation boards in the dispute with the CNR and CP Rail.

Postal Strike Delayed

OTTAWA (CP) — The possibility of a nationwide postal strike has been postponed until July 17 at the earliest, spokesmen for the parties in the dispute said today.

The postponement follows a decision Tuesday by Jacob Finkelman, chairman of the public service staff relations board, to extend the life of a conciliation board in the dispute until next Wednesday, July 10.

Under public service legislation, the 24,000-member Council of Postal Unions could not legally strike until seven days after the board reports, that is, Wednesday July 17.

Mr. Finkelman's decision was announced to the council and to the treasury board, which bargains for the government, Tuesday but not made public.

However, sources close to the dispute disclosed details of Mr. Finkelman's ruling today.

They said he ordered the conciliation board, headed by Prof. Andre Desgagne of Laval University, to extend its deliberations for a maximum of seven days. This decision followed a request by the conciliation board for an extension.

Mr. Finkelman is said to have added a deadline that the three-man board must submit a report "on or before July 10," and made clear no further extensions will be granted.

Meanwhile, spokesmen for the parties said there is a definite improvement in the "atmosphere" at the conciliation hearings.

For Pam: Something to Sing About!

Her Quebec Childhood Helped With Languages

By LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

It took a bit of an assist from the Province of Quebec to boost the Quinte district's highest ranking Ontario scholar to the head of the list.

Pamela Taylor, 17 who earned a 90.7 per cent average on seven grade 13 subjects, credits her childhood spent in Quebec with her interest and accomplishments in languages.

She intends to study modern languages at the University of Toronto next year.

Pamela has credits in 10 subjects on her honor graduation diploma. She earned her two credits in French last year, at the end of grade 12, and took eight this year.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Taylor, 12 Village Dr., she came to Belleville in 1965 when her father was transferred here by the Bell Telephone Company.

Her stay in the city has been brief. At the end of the month she will move to Chicago with her family. However, she expects the U.S. transfer to be temporary, and will settle in Canada after she gains her university degree.

Pamela hopes eventually to put her linguistic ability to work for the government, preferably in the external affairs department.

Drama is her second interest, and she is a member of the Forum Players and has acted in several school shows.

Susan O'Riordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert O'Riordan, Madoc, stood second in the Quinte district with an average of 90 per cent.

Susan, 17, is also interested in drama, and edited her school yearbook, The Patter, this year.

She will major in English at Trent University, and hopes to make social work or teaching her career.

Heather Hume, whose 88.6 per cent was the highest average at Moira Secondary School, will spend August in St. Pierre-Miquelon on a French course.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Hume, Belleville, she is now working in an office in Calgary.

Mayor Digs Into Own Pocket To Pay Picton Employee's Raise

By DAVID LEES
(Staff Reporter)

PICTON — Mayor Harvey MacFarland dipped into his pocket once again to get council off the hook.

A request for a $5 raise by a town employee was felt to be justified by the council, but there weren't any funds available.

For the duration of the year, that amount would total $120, a sum that just hadn't been budgeted for.

Councillors said town employees seeking raises should approach the council prior to budget setting sessions at the beginning of the year.

In any case, Mayor MacFarland offered to make-up the difference for the remainder of the year.

At a meeting last month, he pulled out his checkbook to grant $100 to the Farmers' Union. Prior to that he offered to donate several trash containers to the town.

The containers have been located on the main street and are stamped "With the compliments of 'your mayor'.

Comment and 'Clarification' Add to Seaway Confusion

OTTAWA (CP) — Comment, clarification and new charges added up to more confusion Tuesday about the prospects for further talks to end the strike paralyzing the great St. Lawrence waterway.

The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority released its third statement in as many days designed to establish just what happened at a meeting with union negotiators Sunday.

From the other side, W. J. Smith, who heads the seamen union team negotiating for 1,250 striking seaway workers, expressed renewed resentment about what he called "distorted" statements by the authority.

While both sides seemed willing to meet, neither approached the other directly to do so Tuesday.

The Trudeau government kept hands off the dispute, in a first test of its policy of non-intervention following declarations of support for the authority's position.

Saskatchewan Premier Ross Thatcher Monday called on Prime Minister Trudeau to impose compulsory arbitration.

At a press conference, the Liberal premier denounced the strike as "blackmail".

He said westerners have enough trouble selling their wheat overseas without having sales jeopardized by the strike.

Dr. Pierre Camu, president of the authority, repeated that the authority is ready to consider a wage increase of between 12 and 13 per cent over two years, but could not bridge the gap between the authority's standing 12-per-cent offer and the union's demand of 15 per cent.

Mr. Smith national president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, had hoped for a meeting with acting Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey to set the government straight on what happened during the fruitless four-hour meeting Sunday.

But he said Tuesday that he would be delighted to live with the government's non-intervention policy if it sticks when it comes to negotiations with other trades in the CBRT.

Canada Gets Proposals

Kosygin Presents Disarmament Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Soviet Ambassador Ivan Shapedko delivered to the Canadian government Tuesday a nine-point disarmament memorandum from Russian Premier Alexei Kosygin.

Informants said Canada will reply at a future date to the memorandum, which proposes disarmament measures for consideration by the 17-nation disarmament committee, of which Canada is a member. Mr. Kosygin sent similar memoranda to all governments.

The note is largely a recapitulation of previous Soviet disarmament proposals. It calls for an international ban on the use of nuclear weapons and eventual destruction of nuclear stockpiles.

One of its proposals directly concerns Canada: A ban on flights of nuclear bombers beyond their own borders. Canada maintains six squadrons of nuclear-bomb-carrying D F-104 Starfighters in West Germany.

Sources said it appears unlikely there there will be any bilateral Canada-Russia talks on disarmament.

The main negotiations for the time being would be carried on by the United States and Russia.

The Canadian defence department has been looking at the possibility of selling this country's Europe-based Starfighters to West Germany. The proposal has not reached the cabinet.

Prime Minister Trudeau has suggested several times Canada may reduce its military forces in Europe without withdrawing from NATO.

"Our natural area of defence is in the North American continent," he has said.

London Girl Tops

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Alanetn Tilottama Pajan, 17, Ontario's top Grade 13 student this year, studies diligently, is conversant in five languages and has had a five-year career as a published poetess.

She topped the province's 50,000 grade 13 graduating class with a 98-per-cent average.

MOSCOW (CP-AP) — William H. Lellbhead, 20, of Vancouver, was sentenced in Tashkent Tuesday to four years in prison for smuggling narcotics into the Soviet Union, a Canadian embassy spokesman here said. He could have been sentenced to 10 years. Minimum sentence under the law is three years.

Today's Chuckle

Women are creatures who can talk themselves out of almost anything except a phone booth.

The workers who struck along the seaway June 21 are lock and bridge operators, firemen and general tradesmen. The CBRT also represents many workers whose past strikes against the railways have been stopped or headed off by government action.

Mr. Smith said that if the authority has anything to propose, the union will listen.

Hanging over the dispute is the memory of the last settlement won by the CBRT for the seaway workers—a 30-per-cent increase that helped establish a country-wide goal in 1966 among labor negotiators.

The authority seems determined to draw a non-inflationary line this time.

Picton Council

Letter of Complaint Precipitates Sharp Answers in Rebuttal

PICTON (Staff) — Council snapped back at a sarcastic letter of complaint here yesterday.

Douglas Walmsley, a resident of West Main Street complained bitterly of the destruction of trees along that street, to facilitate the construction of a highway connecting link.

Said councillor Donald Thompson: "It seems that we can never get anything done without being burdened with squeaking and criticism, about cutting down trees."

Councillor Barney Hepburn complained that no one seemed to be aware of the accomplishments of the council. He pointed out that the connecting link in question had been constructed by the department of highways at a savings of almost $140,000.

Mr. Thompson explained that the trees had to be removed to construct the storm sewers along the street. The sewers, he said, had to be constructed, and the job had to be done near the curbs of the street.

The trench required for the sewer, said the mayor, took in trees, alongside of the street, severing their roots in any case.

Angus Leeson, town foreman, said that all but four of the trees along that stretch of road had been condemned and were in danger of falling prior to the project.

Mr. Thompson said the need of storm sewers had been great. Previously rain water had been carried from the street by sewage sewer lines. In the event of a flood, or even a heavy rain, the treatment plant would have been overtaxed and would have released sewage before it was completely processed, he said.

The storm sewer would have cost $48,000 by itself he said. Instead, by "retiring the arm" of the DHO the entire job, including a new road, complete with curbs and sidewalks, was accomplished at a cost of $15,000 to the town he notes.

That figure represents 10 per cent of the total cost of the project.

In his letter Mr. Walmsley commented as well that it seems "the town fathers are bent on covering every square inch of surface with concrete or asphalt."

He referred to the two foot strip of concrete between the sidewalks and the concrete gutters, implying that efforts could have been better directed towards planting grass.

Mayor MacFarland pointed out that two feet of grass would be of little benefit, costly to plant, and difficult to maintain.

He noted that in Cherry Valley, where a similar project had been undertaken, the DHO had been even less generous with the property left behind.

"The concrete there is inches not feet from the walls of houses."

Mr. Walmsley's final protest, that the proposed road way was little more than the "biggest drag strip for motorcycle racers, and automobile racers within 100 miles" was met as vehemently denied by Mr. Hepburn.

"I personally have had no complaints of speeding, the police have had their radar out, and I'm sure that they can handle the problem."

Mayor MacFarland expressed worry that if the provincial government is met with nothing but complaints and criticism for the money it poured into the town, then grants could be cut off.

"Why should it want to help when there are plenty of towns happy to receive their money," he said.

Trenton

Councillors Quarrel Over Sewer Again

TRENTON — The construction of an open sewer from the Trenton Cold Storage area to open water shortened tempers of council last night but little else was accomplished.

Councillor Warren said the construction of the sewer was required by a resolution passed by council in 1965 and should be updated.

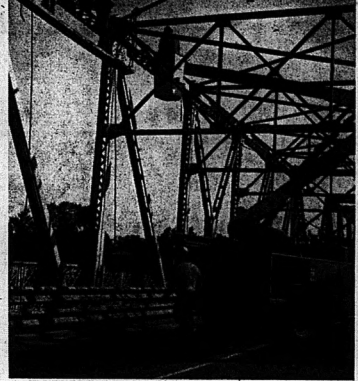
"I want to see the people of Trenton get what they deserve," said the councillor.

For Councillor Paul Tripp the whole exercise seemed futile.

"We should obtain a report from the town engineer to see if the sewer needs to go to open water," he said.

"If have been told by the engineer time and time again that it needs to go to open water," said Mr. Weaver.

"He never told me," reiterated Mr. Tripp.



Mayor MacDonald said the rock pile into which the sewer empties could be sufficient. He agreed with Councillor Tripp in suggesting a report be made by the town engineer.

"No one here really knows how much water is flowing through that sewer and we can't do anything until we find out", said the mayor.

Mayor MacDonald asserted if it is discovered that the extension is not needed the resolution could be rescinded.

On the other hand if it were needed the extension would be constructed.

Although Councillor Weaver deemed it "distressing" to see such a clear cut issue avoided by council "a report from the town engineer was chosen as the best solution for all concerned.

Down But Not Out

Trenton's Dundas Street bridge was closed today as servicemen worked to install a new lighting system. It is hoped the job will be completed within two days. Meanwhile the new MacDonald bridge bears the brunt of east-west traffic movement.

Council Tells Owner To Approach Planners

PICTON (Staff) — Blackbird Investments are perplexed at anything.

Rodney Sheppard, attorney for George Crown, owner of that company was turned down last month in a bid before town council, for approval of a soft ice cream stand on Lake Street.

Council pointed out at that time that the stand was to have been located in an area zoned as industrial.

Mr. Sheppard protested, saying that the zoning was unnatural and had only been applied to accommodate the already established Van Dusen Canning Factory, now defunct. The stand would be located in that building, but would be classified as commercial.

He requested that council grant a temporary permit, for the stand until rezoning could be put into effect. Council replied that rezoning was a costly undertaking.

Mr. Sheppard returned to council again yesterday, presenting a cheque for $300 to cover rezoning costs.

He again inquired about a temporary permit, pointing out that the stand was at best a seasonal undertaking.

Councillor Bob Walmsley pointed out that while he was sympathetic to the position of the enterprise, that rezoning did not rest in the hands of town council, and that Mr. Sheppard, should present his case to the Central Prince Edward Planning Board.

A temporary permit would be in violation of regulations laid down by the department of municipal affairs, it was pointed out.

Trenton Approves Pet Control Plan

"A better deal for pets is hopefully nearer realization.

Quinte Humane Society officials today reacted with enthusiasm to Trenton town council's decision to further a plan calling for a district animal pound serviced by the Quinte Humane Society.

The move follows a recent similar decision by Belleville city council to join a scheme providing animal protection along the Bay of Quinte shoreline.

Success of the scheme now hinges on decisions by Sidney and Thurlow townships.

However, QHS president Robert Whiten was optimistic of the project's success following last night's endorsement in Trenton.

"We feel it's a great step forward," he enthused.

The general manager of the Ontario Humane Society will be in the area this week to discuss the project, with local humanitarian and municipal officials, he said.

Mr. Whiten also indicated a site for the proposed $45,000 animal shelter could also be selected this week.

After that, the bid for participation by the township would be renewed, he said.

The Belleville - Trenton linkup could foster enthusiasm in the townships for the service.

"We can get the project under way first and approach them again," Mr. Whiten surmised. "We feel if there is something there they will be more sympathetic."

The scheme calls for the service to be initially administered by four OHS officers. The number will eventually be raised to six.

Cost to the municipalities has been estimated at 50 cents per capita.

Councillor Gerald Weaver last night told Trenton town fathers there were sufficient funds available to meet the expenditure.

He noted the operation could be cancelled after 18 months if not satisfactory.

However, say local humane society officials, any municipality participating in similar projects elsewhere, has been satisfied with the service.

Separate Schools Plan To Unite

TRENTON — Council was informed last night of the proposed union of the Roman Catholic School Board in Trenton with its counterpart in Murray township.

The decision, which was made at a meeting of the board on June 12, was read to council last night.

The union is to become effective on Jan. 1, 1969.

The correspondence, which came from the Trenton board, informed council that any assets or liabilities to the board should be vested to the combined school board.

The board is to be elected by the supporters of the separate schools involved.

TORONTO (CP) — Organizers of the Toronto Anti-Draft Program have launched an appeal for funds to cope with an expected heavy rush this summer of United States draft dodgers seeking shelter in Canada. In a letter to supporters made public Tuesday, they claim an "unprecedented number" of prospective immigrants is expected.

WILSON — In loving memory of a husband and father, Ernest W. Wilson, who passed away one year ago, July 2nd, 1968.

One year has passed since we lost you,
Many times we loved you can't say,
God took him home in his own time
And left us to carry on each day.

Where one we loved was called away,
God took him home in his own time
And left us to carry on each day.

Within our hearts he liveth still.

Ambulance Service in Area Now Paid by Ontario Body

Since midnight Sunday, most Ontario residents do not have to pay directly for ambulance service if they need it.

Ontario Hospital Service Commission now covers the costs for the 97 out of every 100 residents of the province who subscribe to the insurance.

Both Belleville ambulance services, City Ambulance and LaSalle Ambulance feel it's a good thing.

"I don't think there's any question that it will help," says Leonard Steele, manager of City Ambulance.

According to Mr. Steele, the change will help to offset the large number of accounts that remain unpaid at the end of the year.

"We have thousands of dollars out on credit."

The cash will be paid by OHSC upon verification by doctors, nurses, hospital ward clerks, police, firemen or "approved dispatching services."

Stuart Meeks, manager of LaSalle Ambulance also feels that it will be an advantageous improvement.

"I think it's a marvelous thing for the people. It will relieve a lot of hardships in our senior citizens."

As well, the new system will help service by extending the ambulance budget to cover vehicles, Mr. Meeks said. Previously the government budget lidded to do this.

Under the new system the government will pay $30 for each patient carried, up to 25 miles and 60 cents per mile for additional distance.

City Ambulance, at present, charges $15 and 20 cents per mile after the allotted distance under a contract with the department of health.

It is intended that this contract be cancelled as soon as the OHSC offers another. In effect Belleville rates will remain the same for a little while longer.

The OHSC will also give annual subsidies to ambulance firms. It is negotiating the subsidies, using ambulance firm records as a guide.

To receive the subsidy the ambulance service must have a license, a licence which is earned only when that service meets with equipment and personnel standards.

The cost of ambulance operation, says Mr. Steele, is far in excess of amounts taken in. This subsidy will help to engage proper help and will keep equipment up to date.

The new system will ensure the proper spending of money earned by the ambulance service. It will prevent too much profit and, on the other hand, prevent the service from going in the hole.

Some feel regulations may be attached to cover design, equipment in stations and color of vehicles.

Home and School Association News

KING GEORGE SCHOOL

The King George Public School graduation exercises were held recently in the school's auditorium. Class pictures were taken prior to the occasion.

Home and School president, Mrs. T. McCracken welcomed the parents and expressed the Association's best wishes for continued academic success to the graduates.

A large plaque bearing the school's emblem was presented the school on behalf of the Art Club by Paul Ackerman and assisted by Weston Rhodes-miner and Les Baker. This memento was accepted by Mr. M. Workman, vice principal. Winners of the athletic awards for the year as presented by Mr. M. Workman and Mrs. F. Howell were Gary Hughes and Darlene Cruse.

Academic awards, denoting the most improvement throughout the year, were presented to David Hannah and Carol Bailey. The presentations were made by M. Workman, in the absence of L. McQuaid, principal, who was absent due to illness.

Robert Leslie entertained with two fine piano selections. The valedictorian was Stephen MacDonald who stressed the importance of education for achieving future employment. During his speech, he conveyed the graduating class's thanks to the teachers and wished his fellow students "good luck" in their future endeavors.

Each graduate was presented with a certificate from the Home and School Association in recognition of their grade VIII year at King George School.

A social period of dancing followed, after which a lunch was served by members of the Home and School Association.

White Cane Club Picnic Is Enjoyed

Saturday afternoon, the annual picnic of the White Cane Club was held at Zwick's Island Park.

Guests from Kingston were Mr. Roy Lesperance, assistant field secretary, CNIB, his two children and Miss Lynn Beaton, home teacher.

A hungry time was enjoyed with games and contests. A treasure hunt was conducted as a means of "breaking the ice" and getting everyone moving around.

Winners of the weight guessing contest were: Alice Smith, Alma R. Cogo, Helen Wardhaugh, Roy Lesperance, Harper McElrath and Ted Rowe. Things to Remember caused much merriment and the winners were Vi. Waite, Pat Haverstock, Clarence Morris, Roy Lesperance Helen Wardhaugh and Lynn Beaton. The clothes pegs race was won by Wilma Bladen's team.

The spoon race was won by Harper McElrath and Roy Lesperance for the men and by Pat. Haverstock and Vi. Waite for the women. "Cross Wires" was thoroughly confusing and lots of fun.

A picnic supper was served in honor of associate member, Laurie Towner's 20th birthday, the White Cane Club provided a beautifully decorated birthday cake. Gladys Seldon described it for the benefit of those unable to see it.

Australia Ponders Communist Menace In Southeast Asia

Toronto Star Syndicate

Britain's 1971 withdrawal of forces from the Asian mainland is having profound effects on Australia. The power of the British Navy, Army and Air Force will not be there to screen this land far out in the South Pacific.

The outcome of the Vietnam war could further affect Australia and neighboring New Zealand. The United States might not be able to hold down the expansion of Asian Communism.

How can these thinly populated nations adjust to losing their two greatest protectors?

Australian Prime Minister John Gorton will try to persuade Britain to maintain her base at Singapore. It's doubtful he will, but that can be adjusted to more readily than a U.S. "withdrawal" peace in Vietnam. The Australians don't think the Johnson administration will sell out in Vietnam, but Lyndon Johnson has said he's not a candidate for re-election. They believe Richard Nixon, should he become president, would be no less firm than Johnson.

Any negotiated peace would favor North Vietnam and eventually let them take over all Vietnam. Neighboring Laos and Cambodia could be next in embrace Communism. After that, Thailand, reaching down into the Malay Peninsula would be an isolated and an easy target for the Communists.

The Gorton government indicates it plans to leave troops in Malaysia after Britain goes and is seeking accommodation with the Malaysians. Australia is also keeping an eye on Indonesia. So long as the U.S. stays in Vietnam and Indonesia's General Suharto keeps his country on an even economic course, there's not too much concern in that part of Asia.

At least two new military roads are being built from Cloncurry, Mt. Isa to Alice Springs through Leas and into the northern provinces of Thailand. Communist guerrillas control much of Laos and have infiltrated into pro-United States Thailand.

Whatever happens, Australia couldn't fight a major war. Her population, combined with New Zealand's is less than 12,000,000. Though there are 50,000 more fighting troops couldn't begin to stem the tide of an invasion from Asia's mainland.

New Faces

Canada's Parliament when it meets again in the Fall will present some interesting new faces — not least among them Len Marchand, a Liberal who wrested the British Columbia riding of Kamloops-Cariboo from former Conservative Justice Minister Davie Fulton, and Conservative member Lincoln Alexander who captured Hamilton West from the Liberals.

Mr. Marchand is the first full-blooded Indian to be elected to the Canadian Parliament, and Mr. Alexander is the country's first Negro member. The inclusion of these two new members in the Commons is a significant development which augurs well for improved race relations in Canada.

Canada does not have the racial problems that beset the United States. However that does not mean things are perfect here. Discrimination exists in Canada — discrimination by whites against both Indians and Negroes. For this reason the contribution of Mr. Marchand and Mr. Alexander toward the improvement of race relations will be watched with interest. Their presence in the House will certainly add interest to this new phase of Canada's parliamentary life.

Weekend Activity

As Britain swelters in unaccustomed heat and mops up after a mud-storm originating in the Sahara of all places, the Quinte area continues to blow hot and cold.

It was hot here at the weekend and thunder threatened at one point on Saturday. Sunday was more like the summer we once knew, but all in all the sun has been shining too infrequently these past few weeks.

The Outlet and other area beaches seem less well patronized than in years past. We recall one holiday weekend a couple of years ago when radio announcements were made saying that no more vacationers were being admitted to The Outlet. Such was the press of crowds bound there. On Sunday, with a breeze whipping the surface of the water and stirring up ocean-style waves, there was only a moderate number of visitors. Is it the increased fee for visitors that is keeping people away? Or the odor of dead fish, a problem all around the lakes and particularly so on a breezy day?

A fair number made it to Zwick's Island. Here one was afforded an intriguing insight into the recreational propensities of Canadians. Zwick's Island would be ideal for anyone wanting to indulge in a little jogging. There is plenty of room, but it was fairly plain that not too many, even among the younger crowd, have either the energy or inclination for serious track and field activities.

The children of course made good use of the swimming pool but recreation for the parents consisted mainly of preparing the ample picnic most had brought with them and sitting around and chatting. Evenings in Belleville there is the usual disinclination toward exercise of any kind. This is the time when patio chairs are popular.

And everywhere, of course, at the weekend there were cars. Somehow the air seems to get more noticeably polluted by exhaust fumes with each passing day. Anyone walking, say as far as Zwick's Island from North Front Street is likely to be regarded with amusement if not suspicion.

Yes, recreation in this country is many things to many people.

Next Stop Cuba

Anyone flying from points within the United States to Florida these days should be prepared to spend a night or two in Cuba. Yet another aircraft — Northwest Airlines Flight 636 from Chicago to Miami — was hijacked the other day and forced to fly to Havana. It was the second such incident in three days and one of at least half-a-dozen in recent months.

The enforced diversion of these aircraft is an embarrassment not only to the passengers and crews but also to the United States. Washington must continue to tolerate the communist regime in Cuba while remaining unable to do anything about the growing number of persons obtaining passage to that country by the simple device of pointing a gun at the head of any pilot flying air routes of the southern U.S.

Perhaps it is time the U.S. authorities instituted stricter checks of passengers flying to points in that region.

An Election of Youthful Involvement

Pat Wheelan in
The Windsor Star

The great phenomenon of the 1968 federal election may well turn out in history to be not Prime Minister Trudeau's personal charm but the vastly increased interest in politics by young Canadians.

Every party — not only the Liberals with Mr. Trudeau's vast appeal to youth — saw the youngsters deeply involved. It wasn't just young voters, either. It was students — university, high school and even some grade school seniors — who did much of the volunteer work. And as a result, Canadian politics are cleaner, better and sharper.

There were fewer paid workers at the grass-roots campaigning level this time. The gap was filled by young volunteers. And the parties have benefited from both the campaign service and the future interest and dedication of the young people. This election marks the eclipse, if not the end, of that type of campaign hanger-on whose services were available to the highest bidder.

Why the new interest on the part of youth? Partly, let's face it, the simple fact that summer jobs are very hard to find these days, and the election provided a cause. Partly the fabled disposition of today's youth to get involved. Partly the glitter of personalities: Mr. Trudeau and Mr. Stanfield and hundreds of candidates across the country.

I think there is something more to it than that. Could it be disillusionment with, or doubts about, the causes that traditionally attract youth — the church, organizations like the Scouts or the Y, over-organized sports? Politics offers a simpler and easier faith or philosophy than the church. A campaign button may be a more attractive symbol of belonging than a uniform. Political victories are bitaker, more exciting, more permanent and more important than minor sports victories.

Let's hope that all parties realize the help they've had from youth, and work to justify, and not to disillusion, the faith that youth has shown in politics and government.

Letters to the Editor

Belleville's Traffic Chaos

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

It appears that Belleville has set itself up as an independent state with regard to traffic control. It would be fair — even wise — to warn foreigners from such far-off places as Toronto, Picton, and Trenton that great hazards exist.

As an example: the Ontario traffic laws governing solid white lines in the pavement do not seem to apply. Presume a tourist enters the town on No. 2 Highway from Trenton. After passing Burton street on Bigland Avenue he decides he wants to make a left turn. By Ontario laws he can not do so until he has followed the highway to the corner of Pinnacle and Dundas — and then only if he took the left lane at the foot of Front Street.

Of course it is the west bound tourist who is in danger. He may not realize that those markings don't protect him from having people making left turns at Cedar or Coleman or any of the others. Belleville drivers know they are not expected to obey these markings. They can even ignore double solid lines! The same holds true of arrows. In other places arrows painted on the pavement command obedience. But in Belleville they are more of an artistic touch and no stranger should really risk his life by expecting them to be obeyed. There is one spot which should give the show away: there the giant points to a double solid line! Of course it does it with a graceful curve!

The tourist, however, should be warned. He might have an accident and kill one of us. Anyone planning to visit Belleville should be warned. It might also be a good move to erect large signs at the entrances to the city — just in case some American tourist should accidentally pass this way in search of new experiences . . . and laughs.

Not Fair

Fishermen Protest

Letter to the Windsor Star

It is high time the commercial fishermen had their problems aired along with the farmers. As you say, costs are rising in everything.

Our Ontario Hospital Insurance has arrived and it has gone up, along with twine, boats and leads. The unemployment insurance rate, income tax, provincial tax, etc., but what about the price of fish?

We have been receiving as little as seven cents per pound and yet the stores are charging as much as 79 cents a pound for perch in the same town where they are caught.

In Tuesday's Star I read that Stanley Randall, the Trade and Development Minister, told the Legislature that Ontario would press the federal government to approve re-organization of mortgage financing to make it easier for low and middle-income earners to buy homes. All this for those earning from $5,000 to $8,000 a year. What about those who don't make close to $5,000 per year?

For every dollar's worth of fish we produce, 50 per cent is divided among the crew which isn't much. The owner receives the rest to pay off operating costs. We produce only fish, the farmer has dairy products, chickens, and crops to make ends meet.

I fully appreciate the farmer's plight and we can sympathize with him but we have problems too and nothing much is published about it.

We have a huge investment which we are in danger of losing.

We have trouble gathering a crew but who can blame us when they can't compete with factory wages and the men do have families to support.

A WIDOW.

Accused of Leftist Slant

The CBC—Is It Affording Public Unbiased Coverage Of the Events of the Day?

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

In a publicly-owned corporation, such as the CBC, the taxpayer has a right to unslanted news coverage.

This service has been sadly lacking for quite some time, but never has it been quite so flagrant as in the past few weeks when the network has devoted itself to political coverage.

The news department of the Corporation appears to be dominated by Leftist sympathisers who introduce biased, editorial thinking into what should be straight news copy. Consequently, the vast majority of viewers, unaware of the rather subtle nuances and inflections, come to regard the outpourings of this giant propaganda machine as gospel.

Interview shows invariably end up with the CBC staffer spieling out his own preconceived ideas while the poor interviewee is left sitting in front of what is virtually an official heckler.

This dangerous situation of a small clique directing the thoughts of all Canadians with insidious brainwashing must stop immediately.

Let us make certain that the new Minister responsible for this publicly-owned network will make a clean sweep of this garbage flooding the airwaves.

ALEX R. ADAMS

Election Posters

St. Catharines Standard

The first order of business since the election should be the removal of all election posters and stickers, particularly those on public property, such as roadside trees and poles.

Globe and Mail columnist Bruce West has a very sensible suggestion. No successful candidate, he urges should be allowed to take his post in the House of Commons until he has personally supervised the removal of every single one of his election posters. As for the unsuccessful candidates, Mr. West suggests that they be made to forfeit their $200 election deposits, "plus, say, $500," unless they do likewise.

It's an excellent suggestion, and one we warmly recommend to city council.

Today in History

The city of Quebec was founded by French explorer Samuel de Champlain 360 years ago today—in 1608. It was the first permanent settlement in New France. For a number of years after its founding, Quebec was a trading post, reached only after a perilous voyage. By 1628, it had only 100 inhabitants and only six families who devoted themselves to farming.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—Sultan Mohammed—V of Turkey and Lord Rhondda, British food controller, died; French troops advanced between Autrechas and Meolles-sur-Tourbes; American and Australian forces engaged in fierce fighting south of the Somme River.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—the admiralty announced a great convoy recently crossed the Atlantic under shore-to-shore air cover of land- and carrier-based planes. Coastal and RAF planes attacked industrial districts of Cologne and Hamburg; the United States Navy reported nine heavy bombing raids on Japanese-held Kiska Island in the Aleutians; the Canadian prices board announced price ceilings on peaches, plums and pears because of a shortage of fresh fruits and high retail prices.

Walking for Exercise

Brockville Recorder and Times

There is now a National Council for Walking with headquarters in Montreal and the aim of this council is to get Canadians off their collective rear - ends and on their feet again.

In this age of mechanized transit and the "hoob tube", people generally are unaccustomed to walking for pleasure.

The federal department of health in its fitness program stresses the importance of walking for exercise to keep healthy. Canadians used to be among the world's most intrepid walkers. Today they have taken to the armchair like no other nation. There is a small glimmer of hope, however, that they are tired of sitting on their backsides and are getting the urge to do something else.

In the hope that people in this area will get the urge to walk one day, the Catarqui Conservation Authority is planning to restore the old Brockville and Westport Railway roadbed between Brockville and Westport as a nature trail.

Fifty Out of Work

Not Only Thirst Suffers in Beer Strike

By DONALD MacKENZIE
Staff Reporter

Inside or out of the taprooms . . . the beer strike is drying up pocket books as well as palates.

Taking a total from the hotels in town, there are approximately 50 people out of work as a direct result of the strike.

And only three hotels in town have any beer left — the Belvedere Hotel still has a two or three day supply of draft and bottles and the Queen's Hotel and Quinte Hotel, though out of draft, have a few bottles left in their coolers.

For most of the hotels, last Friday was "D-day" as the pre-holiday rush drained the last dregs, .

Both the City Hotel and The Canadian along with the most's rooms at the Queen's and Quinte Hotels went dry.

As did the throats of their regular customers.

It's summer, man, and it's going to get a lot warmer. Already a few at much beer men are beginning to see visions of the wet cards with cool pools of ale that lie south and east of the Ontario border.

Customs officials report larger than usual beer seizures on the Canada-U.S border and Toronto police say habitual drunks, lacking beer are now turning to barbiturates.

Two breweries not involved in the strike, Formost Springs Brewery Co, Ltd. and Doran's Northern Ontario Brewery, have been unable to keep up with the demand.

Formosa Springs closed Tuesday because it ran out of beer — so much for that oasis.

But the suffering is multitided.

Besides parched throats, shrinking wallets is another painful result of the strike.

Besides the number of part and full time workers out of a job the economy of the strike has infected other businesses.

Quite a few of the closed hotels have dropped their advertising — "there's not much sense in it when you have nothing to sell" said Norm Hickson of the City Hotel.

Barney Parsons of the Doctor's Hotel pointed out that owners of the sandwich and cigarette concessions must also be feeling the strike bite.

"We have a pretty large account with Elsmere's every month," he stated, "and I know some of the other hotels also deal there."

But while taverns close as the beer — and money — dries up, no let-up appears imminent in the deadlock between the breweries and the 2,700 workers involved in the strike.

In the meantime owners, workers and drinkers must "sweat their way through the draught.

Tyendinaga Township Mill Rate Shows Drop

The mill rate for Tyendinaga township public school supporters will be down this year by 9 mills on residential and farm properties to 75.5 mills.

The rate on commercial and industrial properties will drop 1.1 mills to 83.3 mills.

In announcing the new mill rate, W. J. Walsh, township clerk-treasurer, said that although debt charges for the new Tyendinaga public school start this year, the higher public school rate is offset by the lower high school rate.

The budget for roads totals $84,000 this year. Of this amount, $51,000 will be allocated for ordinary maintenance and $33,000 will be allocated for major improvements.

The taxes on residential and farm properties will be further reduced by the province of Ontario tax credit on dwellings.

The tax credit in the street lighting area amounts to $50.94. For public school supporters the tax credit is $45.38; for Marysville separate school supporters, $47.42; and for Read separate school supporters, $46.84.

Again this year, one-half the taxes become due July 31 and the remainder on Dec. 1. Tax credit will be allowed on both instalments.

Year-end Picnic Held In School

DESERONTO — Pandemonium reigned in the Quinte Mohawk School last Thursday all due to the weatherman. For 12 years fine weather has made the day before the closing day for the year, a gala occasion, with the three one-roomed schools visiting the Quinte Mohawk School for a Field Day.

Parents and younger brothers and sisters come along, not only to view the athletic prowess of the pupils, but also to enjoy the treats provided by the school committee hot dogs and pop and a choice of one other treat for every child. In addition, Carl Martin, owner of the buses which serve the Reserve, provided ice cream for everyone. It is the big event of the summer for the children and their parents, and there is always fine weather the end of June.

But not in 1958, perhaps because it is the 13th year. About 75 pupils from the three small schools with 100 from the school itself, the younger children, plus a number of parents, particularly the mothers, in addition to the eight harried teachers.

After waiting vainly for the downpour to moderate, principal Howard Allen bowed to the inevitable, and the committee served the refreshments, a far different matter in these crowded conditions from the usual method, with all out of doors to serve as a picnic ground.

Sopha Wants Reform of Laws Which Deal With Human Rights

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario law reform commission came under fire in the legislature Tuesday for concentrating on areas of law dealing with property.

Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury) said the commission should concentrate on laws affecting human rights and added that the public is justified in being impatient for reform of laws which seem unjust.

The government, since the commission's creation, has been reluctant to make changes without first consulting the commission and the result has been delays in needed reforms, he said.

He spoke as the legislature considered this commission's $180,000 budget for 1968-69 included in the spending estimates for the attorney-general's department.

Attorney-General Arthur Wishart, replying for a change, Mr. Sopha that Ontario was a generation behind Britain in law reform, said Britain led in some fields but lagged behind Ontario in others.

Mr. Wishart replied to a demand for reform in the area of limiting legal actions by saying the commission had already launched a study of the matter and was preparing a report.

Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) said law reform was needed to protect the public from "crooked" lawyers.

Mr. Sopha said the Upper Canada Law Society needed reforming. The government should propose that the society change its name and require that it hold annual membership meetings.

The Sudbury Law Society has threatened to ask for a separate law society for Northern Ontario if the provincial body refuses to grant regional representation on its governing body, Mr. Sopha said.

Mr. Wishart also said the province will have specific recommendations on writing a bill of rights into the Canadian constitution at the next federal-provincial conference on Confederation.

Opposition Leader Robert Nixon had charged that Ontario "scuttled" a federal proposal for a constitutional bill of rights at the first conference in Ottawa in February.

But Mr. Wishart said the idea was not destroyed and that although the provinces was cautious about the matter, that did not indicate opposition to a bill of rights entrenched in the constitution.

In other legislative developments Tuesday:

Lands and Forests Minister Rene Brunelle said his department was reviewing its policy of permitting its aircraft to give aerial demonstrations after Sunday's crash of a department aircraft at Sudbury.

Leslie Rowntree, financial and commercial affairs minister, said trading in stock of Pyrolex Mining and Exploration Co. Ltd. is under investigation by the Ontario Securities Commission. Dr. Shulman had asked if the commission felt there is a "corner" in trading.

QUESTION: We are spending our holidays in Nova Scotia and want particularly to see the historical spots in Halifax. Could you give us some leads on this?

ANSWER: You are indeed going to the older parts of Canada which is full of our early history.

Halifax, the capital of Nova Scotia is on the outer coast of the peninsula. The harbor, one of the finest in the world, extends 16 miles in from the sea. Tours of the city and harbor are available as are charter sport-fishing excursions.

Halifax, founded by Edward Cornwallis in 1749 as a naval and military depot for the British in North America, was probably the first town in Canada settled primarily by the English. Trading and fishing posts had been established perhaps 100 years earlier.

Some of the most noted historical spots are:

Halifax Citadel National Historic Park, begun in 1828 on the site of three older forts, was completed after nearly 30 years of work. It consists of a large star-shaped stone fort surrounded by a moat. The view from the driveway encircling the top is magnificent. The fort and military and provincial museums are open daily from 9 to 9 during July and August, to 5 the rest of the year. The firing of the noon-day gun has been a daily occurrence here for approximately 150 years. Free conducted tours of Citadel including ramparts, ravelin, underground casement etc. check locally for exact schedule. The colorful Junior Bengal Lancers mount guard daily during the summer.

Memorial Tower, completed in 1912, commemorates the convening in 1758 of the first elective assembly of what is now Canada.

Point Pleasant Park, at the extreme south end of the city, commands an excellent view of the harbor and the North-west Arm. The park covers 186 acres, provides natural trails and walks; no cars are allowed but the horse drawn carriages provide pleasant drives. The park contains many fortresses which are national historic sites. Most notable is the Martello Tower erected in 1796 by direction of the Duke of Kent, father of Queen Victoria.

Prince's Lodge, just north on Bedford Basin, was the site of the residence of the Duke of Kent from 1794 to 1800. It and Government House on Barrington Street, built about 1805, are not open to the public but are well worth viewing from the outside.

There are also some interesting old churches which are well worth a visit. Christ Church, Our Lady of Sorrow in Holy Cross Cemetery is a small chapel built one year ago by almost 2,000 men in one day. One stained glass window dates to 1901. Its altar carving from 1550, Old Dutch Church on Brunswick Street is only 40 by 20 feet. It was erected in 1756 by German settlers and is the first Lutheran Church erected in Canada. St George's Round Church on Brunswick Street, built in 1800, exhibits an unusual type of church architecture and St. Paul's Church, Barrington Street, erected in 1750, is the oldest Protestant edifice in Canada. The walls are covered with interesting tablets and there is a small museum in the Earl Gallery.

The Gaspe — One of Canada's most spectacular vacation trails is the 1,100 mile highway circling Quebec's Gaspe Peninsula.

This is a drive spiced with spectacular views and almost daring . . . groves of white birch and forests of fir . . . sheer cliffs . . . white beaches strewn with driftwood, . high-spired fishing villages with cod nets spread to dry . . . made-famed farms running to the river . . . roadside shrines, outdoor ovens , children with hand-carved boats or posing for pictures with their hitched-up dogs.

Alongside these relics of almost-gone era are new lodges, resort hotels, new restaurants grounds.

Good starting point for such a scenic drive is the old walled city of Quebec on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River. Follow the highway past the outstanding scenery around Isle St. Pierre, Les Eboulements and LaMalbaie. From St. Simeon, take the ferry to Riviere-du-Loup and travel eastward along highway 10. At Mont Joli, Route 132 becomes Route 2 and the belline around the peninsula. Climbing this is either-another every hairpin turn presents a new enchanting view.

Long before you reach Perce, you can see the famed Rock, lying like a gigantic battleship moored off shore. On nearby Bonaventure Island is the world's largest gannet colony, with some 50,000 birds nesting and raising their families.

From Perce, the road follows the Gaspe's south shore west along the Bay of Chaleur to the northernmost up the beautiful Matapedia Valley to St. Flavie and follows the coast of the St. Lawrence back to Quebec City on one of the most scenic trails in all-the-round trips on the continent.

Around the "Cat"

A rink of Jack Avery, Frank Morrell, Orlo Smith with "Jerry" Hyde as skip scored three games, one the hard way at the Lehah's tourney at the Bailey Beach Club in Trenonto on Saturday. Each of the players won a transistor clock.

In the final game the Hyde rink was one down coming home and was able to score the equalizer. Then two ends were blanked when the skips killed the end and the skip of the winning rink made a fine shot for a two count to win the contest.

Another rink of Ken Ashley, John Tracy, William Van Tassel and Percy Graham failed to enter the prize picture. All report a wonderful time.

One Sunday the Provincial playdowns for the district singles title was held at the Belleville Bowling Club and William Duncan Jr. of Kingston came out a winner. He defeated Will Simmon of the Trenton Club in the final game. A large gallery watched the play during the afternoon.

Seven mixed doubles rinks from the local club journeyed to Kingston on the holiday for the Whig Standard tournament and the ladies came home with prizes. "Jerry" and "Peg" Hyde along with Jack and Millie Wright were three games. John Sager, Wally Lavergne and "Jerry" Hyde, Jr. bowled with Kingston partners but did not enter the money circle. Walter and Eddie Elliot were also on hand. The players reported that the Kingston greens are a little heavier than in former years. There was a full single draw of 32 rinks.

Trudeau's Policies Take Form

OTTAWA (CP) — While Prime Minister Trudeau reflects on cabinet changes, the first fruits of his campaign policies are beginning to form.

Transport Minister Hellyer already is interviewing people for a planned "task force" that will travel the country to study housing and other city problems.

The Atlantic Development Board has put together preliminary plans for co-ordination of regional development, planning under a single ministry.

Mr. Trudeau is expected to name his new administration, including the regional development minister, late this week or early next.

Manpower Minister Marchand and Health Minister MacEachen both have been mentioned as possible choices for the job.

Mr. Marchand has been closely associated with programs for underdeveloped regions in his present portfolio. Mr. MacEachen is an economist and the only cabinet minister from the Atlantic provinces re-elected in the June 25 election.

While the job does not necessarily have to be an economer, the department will be largely concerned with the Atlantic provinces and this could be a factor in Mr. Trudeau's selection.

Whoever is chosen will join Mr. Hellyer in a summer involving more work than relaxation.

Both housing and regional development have been high on Mr. Trudeau's list of priorities and will require a good deal of planning before the 26th Parliament opens, probably in the second week of September.

In the housing field, Mr. Hellyer is planning the unusual course of doing some of the spadework personally.

Entertainers Leave Trenton

TRENTON — Next month Canada's best marksmen along with the country's foremost entertainers will leave CFB Trenton to attend the biggest display ever seated in the world.

The contest is to take place in Semadegar, Germany and to commemorate the occasion the CBC will provide a variety show.

The forthcoming show will be the first completely joint French-English network venture.

Executive producer is Kenneth Dalziel assisted by Jacques Bertrand. Mr. Dalziel is supervisor of light entertainment for the English network while Mr. Bertrand is supervisor of music for the French network.

The 37 member group will fly to Dusseldorf from Trenton on July 7 via Yukon Air Transport, returning to Canada on July 13.

They will present a two stage show at the Belisse Theatre in Soest which is headquarters for Canadian Land Forces in Europe.

All four shows will be taped and an hour long version is scheduled for broadcast sometime in the fall. The date of these broadcasts, on both French and English networks, will be announced later.

MAY CHANGE FARES

TORONTO (CP) — A single fare system for Metropolitan Toronto and free transfers may be introduced in 1969, the Toronto Transit Commission announced Tuesday. Expected is a flat 25-cent cash fare with four tickets for $1 and a five-cent transfer fee.

Young Woman Still Loves to Climb Trees

By DORIS CLARE

Dear Doris: I am 26 but I don't look it, and I don't feel it. Last weekend I was home at the farm and I was swinging and climbing trees like a little kid. This worries me sometimes because I never meet people my age.

I hate to dress stylish. I love "mod" clothes and the latest styles, mini's and so on. May be it is because they are the only clothes that come in my size. (I am five feet, 100 pounds.)

I feel great this way, but my chances of meeting men are limited because the high school kids hang around me. That is, they would if I hung around them.

Other girls, my age, seem, we just don't have anything in common. I work with a 26-year-old woman. I thought she was 30 and she thinks I am 18.

Small Fry.

Dear Small: Lucky girl to have a tree to climb that is all your own!

Combine that little-girl approach with some young-lady dignity when you are off the farm, and you'll really have something going for you.

The time comes when a gal misses out at the extreme teenage styles. Put yourself in the hands of a good dress adviser, and tell her your age. Play down the make-up. Let the hemline slip a little; let yourself slip not at all.

Work out some of that lack of ease energy in leadership work at the "Y". And don't scorn that old lady who would be a wide you; learn something from her.

Dear Doris: I have a neighbor who has two little boys. She has taught them to call me "Chickie", which I don't like, and she calls me the same in front of everyone, never by my own name.

I would like to tell her about this. Could you please tell me what I should do? I'm in my 50's, and it doesn't sound right. — Too Fifty

Dear Too Fifty: Don't chicken out without some thought. Was the nickname something you got when the boys were tiny and talking baby talk? Do they see it as a pet name now?

Sometimes families encourage little ones to use special names for folk who are close, seeing this as being friendly. The less formal than "Mrs. Fifty", "Aunty" is often used — and implies a certain respect for an older generation.

If "chickie" bothers you greatly, I guess you'd better tell her, rather than sitten up every time you hear it. Personally, I'm flattered when a friend finds me worthy of a pet name, no matter how kooky it sounds.

* * *

Dear Doris: I have long hair and it used to be thick but it is not getting very thin. Is there anything I can do to prevent it from getting thinner besides cutting it? — Goldilocks.

Dear Goldilocks: (1) Trim off the straggly ends — or, better still, cut it short for a while. A club cut, which is popular now, trims it off even and makes it look thicker.

(2) Scalp treatments will help new hairs to grow.

(3) Check up on diet: Are you getting the proteins, calcium, vitamins you need?

(4) What about what's happening under that scalp? Have you been at about it? If you are clashing with your hormones, if you are jittery and unsettled, it's bound to show up in not-too-healthy hair, as well as other ways.

(5) Send your name and address on a stamped envelope and 10 cents, for my leaflet "On Being Well Dressed".

* * *

When writing in, allow Doris four weeks for private reply, which will be sent in a three-cent-stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed.

Salad Has Eye-catching Appeal

By MARY MOORE

Popular as jellied salads are this colorful one got away to a sluggish start but caught on and became a firm hit.

Salad is a misnomer. It is a jellied dessert, but some folks insist on calling it a salad so I will go along with the popular trend.

It is a red and white layered mould so has eye-catching appeal.

RED AND WHITE LAYERED SALAD

(Serves 7 or 8)

Red Layer:

One 3-oz. pkge. raspberry jelly powder

2 tsps. plain gelatine

1-3 cup sugar

1 cup boiling water (or raspberry juice — see below)

1-3 cup cold water (or raspberry juice — see below)

2 tbsps. lime or lemon juice

1½ cups fresh raspberries (or 1 pkge. fresh frozen raspberries — see below)

White Layer:

1 tbsp. plain gelatine

¼ cup cold milk

2 cups hot milk

2 tbsps. sugar

1 tsp. vanilla

½ cup shredded or flaked coconut

(NOTE: The amount of gelatine may seem excessive but is to ensure mould holding its shape, especially in hot weather, you must strictly observe amounts of gelatine and liquid.)

Make Red Layer First: Combine raspberry jelly powder, gelatine and sugar; Stir in boiling water until dissolved.

(NOTE: If fresh frozen raspberries are used thaw and drain them. Reserve 1-3 cup of juice. To remaining raspberry juice add enough water to make 1 cup and bring to boiling point and use instead of all boiling water.)

Add the 1-3 cup cold water (or reserved 1-3 cup raspberry juice) and lime or lemon juice and chill until softly set. Fold in fresh or drained fresh frozen raspberries. Chill in a 1-quart mould until set.

Meanwhile make White Layer: Sprinkle the 1 tbsp. gelatine over the cold milk and let soak 5 min. Stir in hot milk, sugar and vanilla until gelatine is thoroughly dissolved. Chill until mixture is softly set. Fold in coconut and pour over raspberry layer in which you have made a small funnel at centre into which some of the white layer can flow to fit it in the red layer. Chill until firmly set. To unmould have ready as attractive serving plate. Dip mould in hot water, count up to five. Remove mould from hot water. Invert serving plate over mould, grip edges of plate and mould firmly and turn over and out. If desired garnish border with additional berries.

Ann Landers

Young Housewife Poor Coffee Maker

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll come right to the point and not try to make excuses for myself. The plain truth is that I have been married for four years and I do not know how to make a decent cup of coffee.

ANN LANDERS

I have burned the pot, the water, the brand of coffee, and finally, the stove. I have gone from percolator to drip to electric to the open pot method. I've tried nine different brands of coffee and have even bought coffee in bulk and ground them myself. The results are the same. Rotten coffee.

What is wrong with a woman who can bake a Danish torte and prepare baked Alaska but can't make a good cup of coffee?— HATE MYSELF.

DEAR SELF: The simplest things are the ones that can drive a person nuts. I know how you feel. I can't make Jello.

I don't know what you are doing wrong, but perhaps some of the great coffee makers in my reading audience will come up with some homey hints. How about it, girls? If there's a coffee secret out there, please spill it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What I have to say will apply to thousands of married children, not just our own. I hope I can express myself well enough so you will print my letter.

A few weeks before Christmas, our anniversary, Mother's Day, Father's Day, and so on, the phone calls start — first from the daug'ters, then the daughters-in-law. They all ask, "What can we buy you?"

Of course I can't tell them what we really want is not for sale. An invitation to a family meal with everyday chatter would be more delicious than a seven-course banquet in the finest restaurant.

An offer to drive us to town once in a while so we wouldn't have to fight the heavy traffic and park in a lot and feed meters would be pure heaven.

Even a 10-minute phone call that is not a request to babysit, but a call just to visit, would be a rare treat.

What a joy it would be if our children would ask us to join them at the theatre one night, or the symphony, or a movie — just knowing they thought of us would be a lift.

I guess what I'm trying to say is thoughtfulness and consideration are the best gifts of all. — MARRIED 40 YEARS.

DEAR MARRIED: Thanks for your letter. And to the married kids in the reading audience I say, "If the shoe fits — wear it."

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am to love with a married man. It all started innocently. When he told me he loved me, I knew I loved him, too. The third time we went out of town together he admitted he was married, so you see he is honest.

His marriage was a shotgun type. He never loved his wife and they have been living like brother and sister for two years. He decided to get a divorce a year before I came along. I want to marry this man but I don't want people to think I broke up his marriage. How can I protect my reputation? — MISS D.

DEAR D.: If the marriage is dead and you don't want to be accused of killing it, don't hang around the corpse. Tell him when he's a free man to call you up. And don't hold your breath waiting for the phone to ring, Baby.

Guidance in Schools Topic at Study Guild

The June meeting of the Women's Study Guild took the form of a potluck supper held at the home of Mrs. R. K. Jeffrey on Monday evening. The business meeting which followed supper was the annual meeting and election of officers. Each convener presented a report of the year's activities, the president, Mrs. R. Settle, gave the report of the nominating committee.

Elected to office for the 1968-1969 season were: president, Mrs. J. Cochrane; vice-president, Mrs. K. Delley; secretary, Mrs. L. H. Fenton; treasurer, Mrs. O. B. Ragsdale. Mrs. Settle thanked the executive of the past year for their enthusiastic co-operation, and extended to the new executive congratulations and best wishes for the coming season.

Mrs. R. C. Ellis took the worship service with the theme of youth. Adults today need to look back and their hearts to young people who are being educated so widely and in ways which differ so much from even a few years ago.

Mrs. L. F. Reid introduced the guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. W. Grant, guidance director of Quinte Secondary School, who spoke on the topic "What Will the Future Be?" Mrs. Grant touched on the latest scientific developments ranging from detergent foams to keep the seaway open in winter, language pills which aid learning time to a day, to new approaches to education which will end failure.

She gave members a fascinating glimpse into the future of education, which promises individual timetables, computer planned, co-organization of teaching methods, and of the buildings themselves, the elimination of the role of the teacher from authoritarian to counselling, the concept of schools with mobile interior carpeting, and specially designed desks; resource centres featuring computer with vastly expanded collections of books, technological aids, audio-visual devices, and study cubicles equipped with tapes, earphones, etc. — and these areas were pictured not only as the nerve centre of the entire school operation but perhaps of the community.

The expansion of existing post-secondary institutions and the launching of new ones in the future will be the prime reason for rising educational costs — and will afford more opportunity for up-grading in adult education.

The role of the guidance departments in schools as a part of the total school complex is vital, and increased personnel services will be required as changes are implemented in methodology, curricula and environment. A wealth of information, covering the total spectrum of interests is currently available to students at guidance offices. Counsellors listen, reflect, and suggest, but rarely make decisions for students, who are encouraged to do their own deciding once they have had realistic and positive answers to their questions. Study procedures, profitable use of leisure time, how to get and keep jobs, mechanical or clerical aptitudes, interest and learning capacity tests — all this and more through the school years from Grade XII students to the point where they can be really helped on their specific and weaknesses.

An effective guidance program, the speaker indicated, is imperative in schools today, and the services will be tripled in the not too distant future if the needs of students are to be met. Parents, teachers, members of the community at large, as a team working in the interests of young people, need to be sure that they are alert to the challenge of change.

Mrs. C. M. Roulet thanked Mrs. Grant on behalf of the Guild for her most interesting talk, and those followed a lively question and discussion period on that interesting topic.

Study Guild meetings will be resumed on the third Monday of September.

Mother: "I worry all the time when you are out on your bikes. Are you sure you always ride carefully?"

Mother: "We've discussed all the bicycle rules and you know you must follow them. Have a good time on your outing."

If you permit an activity, don't dim the pleasure by reminding everyone how much you worry. Have definite safety rules and be sure they are understood by the young bike riders.

Aussie Weds Woman Hostage While Armed Police Watch

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Wally Mellish and the young woman he held hostage for 31 hours in a Sydney suburban house were married here today.

The ceremony was performed inside the house in Glenfield by an Anglican priest, Rev. Clyde Paton. The two witnesses were the New South Wales commissioner of police, Norman T. Allen, and Detective Supt. D. Ferguson.

Mellish, 28, had allowed the Greek man into the house earlier in the day.

Arrangements for the marriage had been made at short notice by Allan who feared for the life of the young woman, Beryl Maddie, 20, ex Mellish was known to be armed. Her 10-weeks-old baby, Lesley, was held hostage with her.

After the ceremony the two police officers and the clergyman left the house.

Mellish, his new bride and her baby remain d there while outside a 40-strong cordon of police stood by armed with teargas and rifles.

All roads leading into the area were blocked and all press and television camera men barred from the area.

The drama began early Tuesday when Mellish held the girl in the house. He was believed to be armed with a shotgun, a .303 rifle and a .32 rifle.

When police surrounded the house he challenged them to use their tear gas. "If you do, I'll come out shooting," he said.

Neighbors said the house had been unoccupied for months but the telephone was still connected and police used it to call Mellish 20 times Tuesday. Police said each time he threatened to kill the girl and baby, then shoot himself.

Six shots were fired from or within the house Tuesday.

Tuesday night, the minister and Mellish's 13-year-old sister went into the house to talk to Mellish. It was then, according to reports that Mellish suggested to them he marry his hostage.

Heart Nourished 24 Hours Before Transplant

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The condition of the world's 34th human heart transplant patient was listed as satisfactory today as doctors watched for change in his new heart, which was artificially nourished for 24 hours while a recipient was sought.

George Henry DeBord, who received the heart in a two-hour operation Tuesday at St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital, was conscious and alert today and his vital signs were stable, a hospital spokesman said. DeBord remained on a respirator.

"His doctors at this stage are hopeful," the spokesman said.

"But of course it's still touch and go."

DeBord, 48, a contractor from Heloise, Tex., near San Antonio, was the fifth person to receive a human heart at St. Luke's. He received the heart of Maxie Elwood Anderson, 20, of Lufkin, Tex.

Anderson, the oldest donor in any of the heart transplants at St. Luke's, was transferred to the hospital Monday suffering from a brain hemorrhage.

Doctors said Anderson's brain waves were flat for 24 hours and the doctors kept the heart and lungs attached to a respirator while they searched for a recipient.

Hawks, Doves, Vultures, Parrots, Dodos, Magpies Visit Vietnam

NEW YORK (AP) — "Bird-watching" in South Vietnam, a retiring U.S. Marine Corps combat officer says, centres on Gen. William C. Westmoreland's "Audubon Society," the system devised to handle the deluge of visitors to the war.

Not only are there hawks and doves, he writes, but vultures, parrots, woodpeckers, magpies, dodos, humming birds and peacocks.

The game is described in The Retreat, a book published this week by W. W Norton and Co., Inc. The book is written by Lt.-Col. William R. Corson, 42, who retired Sunday after 25 years in the corps.

Westmoreland takes over today as chief of staff of the army. He arrived in Washington Tuesday from Vietnam where he was commander of U.S. forces for four years. His Vietnam successor is Gen. Creighton W. Abrams.

Corson, a combat veteran of the Second World War, Korea and Vietnam, offers a broad condemnation of military and civilian leadership in Vietnam, both United States and South Vietnamese.

In describing the "bird-watching" of VIPs, Corson outlines the treatment on arrival at "Westy's aviary":

The "birds" arrive by Jet at Tan Son Nhut Airport on the outskirts of Saigon.

"Without seeing their plumage aboard the jet, one can tell what kind of birds they are by the 'handlers' who are present to meet them. It the handler entourage includes Gen. Westmoreland, certain conclusions may be drawn about what species are on board and their size, age and plumage.

"Because many of the birds are smart and tough and could possibly see through the fancy footwork, the briefing takes place on the first night.

"The birds' briefers are as carefully chosen as a Ziefeld Girl. They must simultaneously project sincerity, assurance, resoluteness, moral fervor, optimism and confidence. Nothing produced on Madison Avenue comes close to this performance."

"Most of the nonsense and lack of understanding about Vietnam is a result of our officials lying to one another," Corson writes.

The vultures:

"The defence scientists . . . who advocate things like the DMZ barrier, defoliated forests . . . 'improved napalm' . . . The high priest of the vultures is a Texas crony of President Johnson's, Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defence research and engineering. . . ."

The parrots:

"The hardware-producing Industrialists of American Industry and their alter-ego researchers. It is interesting to observe the faces of the parrots as they are told about the destruction of jeeps, aircraft, tanks and the rapid turnover of supplies: most of them are discreet enough to close their eyes when the figures are announced.

"The licentious relationship of the vultures with the industry-academic 'think-tank' crowd is beyond comprehension."

The magpies:

The managers of the assistant secretary's office created by former defence secretary Robert S. McNamara to promote efficiency and cost effectiveness. The magpie's world is made up neat, orderly flow charts, pos ture statements and action papers.

"The woodpeckers:

The behavioral scientists, operations researchers, anthropologists and so forth. Their expenses are paid by the vultures and magpies. The woodpeckers have vainly poked and probed persons they thought represented the South Vietnamese people without producing anything of value.

The dodo:

A member of Congress. There are too many dodos who see in Vietnam an opportunity to promote an otherwise lackluster legislative record.

Hummingbirds:

Friends of the president undertaking special missions. "By and large the hummingbirds are fragile and the bird handlers make sure, insofar as possible, that they do not carry any tales of alarm back to 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue."

The peacock:

The professional entertainer, "one bird who is truly welcome."

Don't miss it!

Cheerful Leaders!

These girls are undismayed at the prospect before them — helping handle hundreds of holiday-happy Belleville youngsters for seven weeks. They're part of the city playground supervision force. Smiling, from the top (left to right) are Allison Mueller, Gail Spurgeon, Elisabeth Kuglin, Janice Ehler, Elaine Stickle and Cheryl Allan.

Playgrounds Ready

Belleville Swings Like A City Should

By HARRY MULHALL
(Staff Reporter)

The swinging time starts soon for Belleville youngsters.

Also the sliding time, running-and-jumping time; the time for crafts and community singing.

And, maybe just as important, it's the happy time for mothers already straining under the first week of school vacation.

Right now they're getting ready to open city playgrounds for another year.

By this time next week, up to 1,500 youngsters will be away from home daily on broaker's hours.

Monday to Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. they will throng the 21 playgrounds and two wading pools operated by the city's recreation commission for their enjoyment — and the relief of harried housewives.

At the moment, the commission is staging a dress-rehearsal at Zead Hill playground to set the pattern of programs for the new season.

One week has been lopped off the usual two-month playground schedule to give the commission's 28 supervisor's an extended training course in their duties.

To give it a touch of realism, neighborhood youngsters are being encouraged to participate as the supervisors learn the organizational details behind daily play sessions.

The practice sessions include sports, arts and crafts and periods of just plain relaxation — like storytelling, community singing.

Programs being offered also are being extended this year.

At the Alemite playground in the Pine Street area, a play area has been set aside for the youngest moppets.

Labelled a tot lot, it contains the latest ideas in playground equipment — a contrast with the swings-and-slides installations that have been regulation for years on other city recreation areas.

Recreation officials hope its specific designation may result in more specialized attention for younger children. If the idea catches this year, it may spread to other play centres.

For older groups, there's also a new tennis facility in the offing. School authorities and the commission have co-operated to turn the Moira Secondary School parking lot — vacant during summer vacation — into a tennis court.

This gives the commission three sites for the sport — the others are at Zwick's and on St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church — and free tennis instruction again is planned this year with registration July 10.

As for the playgrounds, enrolment opens Friday morning at each centre.

Zero hour for the moppets' invasion from the home front is 9 a.m. Monday.

A Pipe for Play!

He's only five and his first name is Daryl and that's all he had to say. He was too busy at the Alemite playground today getting a preview of new-style equipment on the city's first recreation tot-lot. Converted into a giant sandbox, the site includes slides, puzzle climbs — and tunnel-like pipes for crawling through.

Picton, Township Fire Plan Delayed

DAVID LEES
Staff Reporter

PICTON (Staff) — Yet another question has come up to interfere with a proposed fire protection agreement between Picton and the Township of Sophiasburg. A final decision has been put off until the next council meeting, to be held in August.

At a regular council meeting here last night, councillor Donald Thompson questioned the validity of insurance coverage on Picton firefighting equipment and personnel, while it was beyond town limits.

He pointed out that to combat grassfires in the township the fire department might have to race 25 miles or more to the scene of the fire, at high speeds, over often unfamiliar roads.

No one seemed to be sure whether the equipment would still be covered by insurance, or the crews by compensation beyond town limits, while they were travelling to and from fires.

Mr. Thompson also questioned what protection would be available to Picton while the town's equipment was in the township.

Fire Chief Duane Pouhay pointed out that one truck would always be in Picton, and that under mutual aid agreements, fire crews from Camp Picton, Bloomfield, Wellington, Napanee and Trenton could be called upon.

Mr. Thompson also raised objections, to the decision to send out the newest firetruck, a 1965 model, to combat fires in the township, while leaving the 1936 model in Picton.

The new truck carries 500 gallons of reserve water, and can pump water at a rate of 625 gallons per minute. The 1936 model can carry 340 gallons and can pump water at a rate of 420 gallons per minute.

Chief Pouhay said that additional equipment would be required in the form of a portable pump costing $300.

Under the agreement, Sophiasburg would pay the town $800 in stand-by fees, plus $75 per hour, for actual firefighting time spent in that township.

The proposal was first made by the township several months ago. At a meeting last month between Sophiasburg representatives and the Picton fire committee, Sophiasburg objected to a clause stating that the township be held responsible for all damages to equipment incurred during actual fire fighting.

The matter has apparently been settled.

The Gleaming Spire

The former United Church in Ameliasburg with its distinctive tower has been turned into a township museum. It stands out against the village's skyline and can be seen for miles from various approaches.

Playgrounds Can Be Fun!

City playgrounds will spot plenty of hard work in coming weeks for the young men and women acting as recreation supervisors. However, they enjoy their work too — as in this practice session for playground leaders at East Hill site yesterday. Play areas open next week. Right now, leaders are finishing training.

Letters, We Get Letters....and the Children Write Them

BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

"Dear Friends. We would like to thank-you for letting us visit your building."

This is the genoral introduction to thank-you letters received by The Intelligencer shortly after one of its tours throughout the newspaper's building.

Correspondence received from a Belleville Grade 4 class epitomizes the reactions of students whose gratitude far exceeds grammatical experience.

"I liked going in the Intelligencer because my teacher was nice. My mother is very nice and so were you nice."

The lady was my guide. She was nice to us."

Many of the pupils mentioned the highlights of the tour that gave them personal satisfaction, enjoyment and knowledge.

"I have enjoyed many papers but I'm sure your paper was most interesting. You must have many reporters. When I'm big enough I would like to be a reporter."

"I really did not know that one lady could read paper with holes in it." The student was referring to the punched paper tape used in automatic linecasting machines.

The same student ended her letter by saying, "Their were very many book ful of news. The rollars did a fine job. It was a terrible noise."

Another pupil closed her contribution with, "my guide taught me many new thinks. My family get the Intellinecer."

"I learnt a lot about the newspare how it was made," said another, "we are making a school newspaper. I am doing on sports. I read the Intellgencer every night. I learn a lot of things."

One student was pleased with a tour souvenir. "We all just about got a yellow piece of paper with dots on it it looks funny."

The press room of the Intellicencer is what usually causes the stir among the younger students.

"The best part I liked in building was press room."

"I liked the big paper rolls and it is amaizing how fast a paper is made."

"I liked the real noise room too. I think it was called the press room."

The morgue also received acclaim from the pupils. "I like the room were all the news was put into papers into book."

The direct method of appreciation, from the students leaves no doubt of the true feelings of gratitude.

"I would like mention that the building is very nice. I wish th tell you thank you."

"You showed us things that we didn't ever hear of before. We all hope to come again because we had a lovely time. Thank you for letting us come and for you to take time off to show us around."

"It was noisie but fun."

One student even went so far as to thank the Intelligencer for the fine tour he missed. "I was sick and was not able to go. But I know that if I did go I would enjoy it."

And finally, "well, I will be saying good-bye for now."

The Intelligencer Sports

Tour Resumes

Canadian Pros Ready for Millar Play

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP) — The $100,000 Canadian professional golf tour resumes this weekend with the Millar championship—third event on the schedule—set to here Thursday through Saturday.

An 18-hole pro-am tournament starts today, with the professionals shooting for a share of the $4,000 prize money.

The tournament proper, a 54-hole medal-play affair, carries prize money of $6,000. A total of 138 Canadian professionals have entered.

The tour is actually a nine-tournament event, with the 12 Canadian professionals qualifying for berths in the 10th championship—the Canadian pro tour championship at Woodbridge, Ont., Sept. 13-15.

Canadian winners of the nine previous tournaments qualify automatically for a berth in the $25,000 championship, while the other places will be filled by Canadian professionals who accumulate total points awarded to their standings in the nine previous events.

Amateur Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., won the first event—the Canadian Open in June—and Dick Charmody of the U.S. won the Quebec Open last weekend. Amateurs and foreign players are not eligible for the Millar.

Moe Norman of Gifford, Ont., is the top Canadian professional after the first two tournaments, with $3,000 and 37 points. Alvie Thompson of Toronto is runner-up with $2,795 and 35 points and Jerry Magee of Toronto is third with $1,700 and 19 points.

Magee missed the Quebec Open, after tying Thompson for top money in the Ontario Open, but returns to the four here this weekend.

The other professionals among the top 12 after the first two events (money won in brackets) are:

Dave Clayton, Toronto, 17 points ($1,333); John Henrick, Montreal, 16 ($900); Bob Breen, Woodbridge, Ont., 15 ($390); Al Balding, Toronto 14.5 ($675); Bill Wakeham, Vancouver, 14.5 ($375); Bob Cox Jr., Vancouver, 13.5 points ($725); Vaughan Trapp, Victoria, 13.5 ($725); Leon DeCaire, Toronto, 13.25 ($521.25); Adrien Dedre, Montreal, 13.5 ($375).

The next stop on the tour is the $6,000 Manitoba Open in Winnipeg July 11-13.

Commercial No-Hitter

Sheridan Avoids Stinson Bats

For the Commercial League's cellar - dwelling Brants entry to beat anyone is an upset. To down a second-place team is even more of a surprise. And to do it with a no-hitter — well, that's just too much to ask!

But Stinson's Construction forgot to tell Mark Sheridan this, and the lanky Brant hurler set the ballclubs down 2-0 without a hit in the second game of a double - header at the Alemite last night.

In the first tilt, City Hotel had done some upsetting of their own, edging league leading Belvedere 3-2 to grab sole possession of third spot in the standings.

But it was Sheridan's night. He got off to a poor start walking leadoff Stinson's batter Rick Locks, but things never got any worse than that.

In hurling Brants to their second win in 11 league games, Sheridan struck out only three batters, while issuing free passes to five Stinson batters.

But his mates' usually spotty field play was nowhere to be seen last night, with the exception of a lone third - inning error. The closest thing to a hit mustered by the Stinson's batting order was shortstop Kenny Genereaux's fourth - inning bunt, which got him on first, but which was scored as a fielder's choice.

Third - sacker Steve Ling led the winners at the plate, stroking a lead - off double to left in the sixth inning, and scoring on a error by the left fielder.

Second - baseman Barry Ryckman had singled home the first Brant tally in the fifth after Herb Scrimshaw drew a walk. Catcher Ted Drumm and pitcher Sheridan hit the other Brant safeties.

Doug Reid took the loss for Stinsons, despite allowing only four hits, while walking four, and fanning eight Brant batters.

CITY HOTEL 3 BELVEDERE 2

While Stinson's were having their second-place record reduced to 7-4, City Hotel edged closer to second, winning their second game against four losses at the expense of the first-place Belvedere Hotelmen.

Jerry Genereaux took the 3-2 verdict, by virtue of a five-hitter in which he struck out two and walked one.

Meanwhile, Belvedere hurlers Wayne McConnell and Doug Ellis allowed four City safeties, while walking four batsmen.

McConnell, who had been

gaining a league reputation as a fast-throwing strikeout artist, was off form last night, being charged with the three City runs on two hits and three walks.

He failed to fan a batter in his two and one-third innings he pitched. Ellis went the rest of the way, allowing two City hits and walking one, while striking out five.

City put McConnell in trouble in the bottom of the third, when they manufactured their three-run total on three free passes, singles by first-sacker Doug Murray and Jack Hughes, and a sacrifice fly by Doug Hall.

Reliever Doug Ellis got Belvedere out of the inning by fanning "Pug" Keller with three City runners on.

Belvedere staged a two-run rally in the top of the sixth.

Outfielder Don Smith singled, catcher Cliff Hyneman doubled, and Lyle Wannamaker walked to load the bases with one out.

Smith scored on a fielder's choice, then Bob Lloyd stroked a two-out single to bring home Hyneman.

Wannamaker tried to tie the game but was nailed by left fielder Jack Hughes' perfect peg to "Shiner" Murray at the plate.

Ameliasburg Tops Picton Peewees

Steve Doxtator and Gary Adams pitched their Ameliasburg PeeWee Minor Softball team to a 23-5 win over Picton in the Picton and District Minor Softball Association Tuesday night.

The two winners gave up five runs on four hits and two walks while fanning four.

L. Sharp, Picton hurler, gave up the 22 runs on 19 hits and three walks while striking out three.

Doxtator and Adams collected three hits apiece to lead the winners. Wayne Giles collected a home- and a single.

Monroe collected two Picton singles and Graham and Sharp hit one apiece.

All-Stars Drop Opener

The Barrage Juvenile Girls All-Star team, chosen from the Girls' Junior Softball League, lost their opening game of the season Tuesday night as they fell to the Middleton Park All-Star team from Trenton 16-15.

Coahc Bob Cook emphasized that both teams were strong at the plate, "but there were no long balls hit. It was a tight infield game with both teams scoring on their singles."

Cook praised the performance of Beth Palmer of the Barrage team. "She scored every time she got on base," he said, "She's the top base runner we have and kept Trenton busy whenever she was on."

Sharon Loomis and Susan Boulter pitched for Barrage while the win went to Donna Shields, Candy Ives, and Donna MacPherson.

The Barrage All-Stars will play Toronto Sunday at 2 p.m. at the Alemite in the first game of a double header. The second game will feature the Women' Softball All-Stars vs. Morrisburg.

1st Loss for Ellis

Midgets Fall to Oshawa

Ellis Midget EOBA Minor All-Star team took its first defeat of the season Tuesday night at the hands of Oshawa, 10-2.

The locals went down in front of Oshawa pitcher Grove Bennett who allowed them two runs on three hits and three walks while fanning nine.

Belleville's midgets took the loss behind pitchers Midge McTaggart and Wayne Farrell who allowed the ten runs on eight hits while walking six and striking out 14.

Wayne Tutin led Oshawa at the plate with three singles, Paul Bishop with two safeties, and Bill Taylor, Bennett, and Allan Taylor had a single apiece.

McTaggart led the plate power of Ellis with a double and a single while Terry McAgher hit a single.

The scoreboard at Monday's gala "Pro-Day" tourney at the Quinte Golf Club would soothe the hearts of every hacker within distance of one of Moe Norman's drives.

It takes a lot of coaxing to get the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association to point members of their tour in any direction. It takes a guaranteed purse, of course, and some assurance from the directors of a prospective tourney site that their facilities are up to the standards to which golfing professionals have become accustomed.

Oh yes, it has to provide "a good test of golf" too.

Well, the Quinte Club's apparently harmless flat fairways tested some pretty good golfers to the point of frustration during the course of Monday's 18-hole play.

Sure, some of the lush fairways were rain-soaked, but the C.P.G.A. officials handling the tourney pampered the pros with a prefered-lie provision which, we might add, was generously applied.

And yes, it was windy day, but should man who make their living playing golf expect to ply their trade in a total vacuum?

Let's face it, pros, some of you just might have underestimated Quinte's I'll ole 6,800 yards.

After all, winner Lyle Crawford could negotiate his way around the par-71 layout in one-under style, and he's not even one of the select group of Canadians admitted to the suspicious ranks of U.S.G.A. circuit players.

On the other hand, Toronto's Alvie Thompson is.

He came in with an 82 here Monday.

In fact, one out of every three of the 60-plus entries found themselves unable to break 80 on Lady Quinte.

Not to mention the fellows who shot rounds of 90 and 94.

The course appears to be one that definitely caters to long-hitters. After missing a drive on at least five of the par-fours, most golfers would probably find themselves using another wood to reach the green.

And nobody, not even the pros, can say that Quinte's four 3... yard-plus par-three are "birdie holes."

Monday's results should be encouraging to the bewildered local duffers who have wondered why they can't break 100 — let alone 90 — on their home course.

Just so long as they don't let it go to their heads.

Lacrosse Locals Win Opener

To say no one was crowded in the audience for the opening game of the Quinte Lacrosse League Tuesday night at the Arena would be putting it mildly.

Despite free admission, no more than 20 people wandered in and out of the arena during the game if there were that many.

Not that those who didn't show up missed anything spectacular. The Belleville team downed their Picton competition 2-0 in a 20-minute game.

The game was called after the first period because Picton only floored a team of seven men. And in lacrosse that makes for exhausted action before long.

Then Belleville loaned the opposition a few of their 17 players and the contest turned into an exhibition game for the last 30 minutes.

One thing was evident in the 20-minute performance — Belleville is going to have a good minor lacrosse team, outplaying Picton by a wide margin.

Hot - shot for the locals was A. Partington who sparked the Belleville offensive attack and was a mainstay going the other way too.

Partington — possibly the only bearded lacrosse player in the province — collected the first goal of the game with an assist by Chris Buckles. D. Layne capped the second tally in the official competition with an assist by Partington.

New City Track Club Sees Plenty of Red In Opening Summer Competition at Almonte

The fledling Belleville Track Club brought home 16 red ribbons from Almonte Dominion Day Track and Field Meet competition in the club's first outing.

The local athletes picked up their 16 wins while breaking 11 meet records. The club also had 14 seconds, 17 thirds, and 15 fourths.

As a team, the locals were second in the competition. The meet champions were the Uplands Harriers who collected 190 points to the 155 accumulated by Belleville.

"The Harriers picked up 60 points in the Intermediate and Senior Women's divisions by just having people entered," Belleville coach Gord Silkin said. "They were automatically awarded first place points because there were no other entries."

The top Belleville winner was Marie Brain who took the Individual Midget Champion honors.

Murray Dales, Frank Johnston, and Dave Mercer were runner-up to the individual championship in the men's Midget, Junior and Intermediate classes, respectively.

Miss Brain collected her championship for three firsts in the Midget Ladies circuit. She won the 50 (:06.6), 100 (:12.4), and 220 (:28.5) dashes, and set new records in all three.

Dawn Yateman took two firsts in the same class. She won the standing broad jump (7 ft., ten and three-quarter inches), and the high jump (four feet, five inches) for new city records.

Dales set a new record in the Midget Men's 220 at :27.8. He was second in the 100 and the long jump.

Johnston set two new records in the Junior Men's competition. He did the 220 in :24.1 for a red ribbon and a new mark and then did the 440 in :57.1 for his second red one and his second record. Dave Simonds set the 880 in the same classification, setting a new record of 2:14.3. He also finished third in the mile.

In the Intermediate Men's class, Maracle set a new record in the long jump with 19 feet, ten inches. He was second in the triple jump and third in the high jump. Paul Hayes went five feet six inches for the red ribbon in the high jump and a new record. Steve Buckles topped the field in the 220 and finished second in the 100 and fourth in the long jump.

Tim Howard set a new mark in the 880 in the Intermediate Men's record at 2:09.2 for a first, then was second in the mile.

In the Senior Men's competition, the track club's mile and half-mile relay teams captured firsts. The mile foursome is Bob Pinke, Bob Powell, Tim Howard, and Frank Johnston. Pinke also took first in the 440 class with a time of :53.6.

The 880 relay team is composed of Steve Buckles, Tom Wills, Gerald McConnell and Jim Sled.

Next practice for the city track group is a Moira Secondary School's track Thursday at 7 p.m. Coach Smith extends a special invitation to all those interested in competing in the senior men's events and intermediate and senior women's classes.

Optional practices for the team members are every Tuesday and Thursday at the same time and place as above.

Marichal Seeks Magic "30" Plateau

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Juan Marichal apparently has nothing to fear from the rest of the National League in his quest for a 30-game season. It's his fabrics he has to worry about.

Marichal, whose greatness has been hampered lately by a series of injuries, breezed to his 19th victory against three defeats Tuesday night as Philadelphia five-hitter as San Francisco Giants defeated Atlanta Braves 5-1.

The triumph gave Marichal a victory week every team in the league, made him the winningest pitcher in the majors and placed him at the halfway mark in his effort to become the first 30-game winner since Dizzy Dean in 1934.

In other games, St. Louis Cardinals defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3, Houston Astros blanked Cincinnati Reds 3-0, Pittsburgh Pirates edged New York Mets 2-1 and Chicago Cubs defeated Philadelphia Phillies 5-3.

For Marichal, a four-time 20-game winner, this is the earliest he has ever won his 19th. Previously, the earliest he reached this point was July 25, 1966.

But in that season, as in all but one—1965—the 28-year-old right-hander has been pitching time because of injuries.

In 1968, Marichal failed to win from July 24 to Aug. 30. During that time he had a car door slam on his right hand and he sprained his left ankle during running exercises.

Last year the Dominican native had 14 victories when, on Aug. 4, he pulled a hamstring muscle while running in the outfield. He pitched only once the rest of the season.

He missed most of the last month of both 1961 and 1962 with foot injuries, and in 1964 he missed a number of starts because of a back ailment.

In 1965, he was suspended for 11 days for hitting Dodger catcher John Roseboro with a bat.

The victory over the Braves Tuesday was his first against them since Sept. 26, 1965. While Mays provided most of the support, rapping three straight hits.

Mike Shannon's run-scoring single in the eighth inning snapped a 3-3 tie and spoiled the Cardinals' road debut in Los Angeles.

Denny Lemaster limited Cincinnati to four hits in bringing his record to 8-1 for Houston.

Pittsburgh edged New York on Bud Harrelson's two-out error in the ninth inning. Dock Clendenon scored from third when Harrelson lost Manny Mota's grounder.

Pitcher Ferguson Jenkins of Chatham, Ont., doubled in two runs in the eighth inning, then survived a ninth-inning rally by Philadelphia.

Surprise! - Mays Named All - Star

CINCINNATI (AP) — Willie Mays was named to the all-star team for the 19th consecutive year today as National League manager Red Schoendienst completed his squad for the July 9 game.

Mays, the colorful San Francisco Giants' centre fielder, will be making his 19th appearance in the summer classic, which will be played this year in the Houston Astrodome against the American League All-Stars.

From 1938 through 1961 when two games were played each year, Mays appeared in all eight.

Schoendienst, manager of the defending champion St. Louis Cardinals, went along with the player balloting in adding nine more players.

He chose all eight runner-up in each position and selected rookie catcher John Bench of Cincinnati Reds, who finished third behind starter Jerry Grote of New York Mets and Tom Haller of Los Angeles Dodgers.

Others picked besides Mays, Grote, Bench and Haller on the 25-man squad were:

First baseman Rusty Staub of Houston Astros, a .311 hitter with 43 runs batted in and four home runs; second baseman Julian Javier, St. Louis, .256; shortstop Gene Alley, Pittsburgh Pirates, .220; third baseman Tony Perez, Cincinnati, .253, 45 RBI and eight homers.

Also outfielders Matty Alou, Pittsburgh, the league leading hitter with a .353 mark, and brother Felipe Alou, Atlanta Braves.

Sport Briefs

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Negro newspaper man said Tuesday all black athletes who qualify will participate for the United States in the Mexico City Olympics — but will show their discontent by slamming the victory stand and possibly the opening ceremonies parade. The newspaper, Sport Today, said the decision was made at the national Olympic trials at Los Angeles, which he attended. The reporter, who requester anonymity, said: "I couldn't name one black athlete who will not go to the Olympics if he qualifies "But they decided there are other ways to demonstrate their disgust with their situation."

MOSCOW (AP) — European diving champion Mikhail Sydnev and Olympic champion weightlifter Aleksei Vakhonin, have been kicked off the national team for "violation of moral and ethical principles," a Soviet newspaper said Tuesday. Sydnev's roster came nine days after he was accused in the press of repeated drunkenness at competitions. Vakhonin, who came third in last month's European and World weightlifting championship, has been criticized in the press for failing to train enough. He was a gold medalist at the 1964 Tokyo Olympics.

GLENEAGLES, Scotland (CP-AP) — Brian J. Robson of Nairobi, Kenya, shot a 74 Tuesday to lead the first qualifying round for the international senior's amateur golf championship. Kenneth Langdon of Georgetown, Ont., and A. Griffith Hill of Toronto both shot 81s.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — All-star second baseman Cesar Tovar was traded Tuesday night by Minnesota Twins manager Cal Ermer after Carew disappeared from the team hotel and showed up just before the game with Cleveland Indians.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — With the Canadian Little League championships due to begin in Windsor in less than six weeks, local baseball officials are pulling out all the stops to raise enough money for the event. Less than half the $8,000 donation required to run the tournament Aug. 13 to 17 has been raised. Teams at the championship will represent the British Columbia, the Prairies, Central Canada and the Maritimes. The winners will compete with entries from 37 countries in a little league World Series at Williamsport, Pa.

League Waits for Slump, But Nobody Told Tigers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A couple of American League managers have predicted recently that Detroit Tigers are due for a siege of misfortune any day now.

But don't hold your breath. The Tigers are giving anything but an indication of a summer slump.

Willie Horton's first-inning single Tuesday night delivered a pair of runs that helped the Tigers to a 5-1 conquest of California Angels—Detroit's seventh win in eight games.

And Detroit's first-place lead was widened to 6½ games over runner-up Cleveland when the Indians were victimized 6-0 by Minnesota Twins.

Boston Red Sox came from behind to nip Oakland Athletics 4-3 in the only other league game. Rain postponed the New York at Washington and Chicago at Baltimore games.

Although the Tigers continue to dominate the race for first, a big logjam is developing for the runner-up spot. Only four games separate the Indians from the seventh-place Red Sox.

Tiger right-hander Earl Wilson picked up his sixth victory in 11 decisions but had to pitch out of trouble constantly.

Horton sent him on to the early lead after Jim Northrup doubled and Norm Cash walked then both advanced on a wild pitch.

Rookie Tom Matchick's first homer accounted for Detroit's other run in the seventh.

California's Jim Fregosi ran his hitting streak to 12 games with a solo homer in the eighth, his seventh of the year.

Minnesota's Jim Kaat blanked the Indians despite giving up seven hits. The Twins put it out of doubt in the fourth when Jack Hernandez doubled in two runs and Cesar Tovar and Jim Holt each singled in one.

Ken Harrelson's two-run double in the eighth rescued Boston after the Athletics had taken a 3-2 lead. Dalton Jones, who scored twice, helped out with two singles and a double.

St. Jean Baptiste Day Shattered Separatists' United Front

MONTREAL (CP) — A virulent St. Jean Baptiste Day holiday June 24 appears to have shattered temporarily the dream of a united front of Quebec separatist elements.

The first open break came three days after the separatist riot that disrupted the annual parade in Montreal, when Rene Levesque announced that his Quebec sovereignty movement had suspended negotiations on political unity with the province's largest separatist party, the Ralliement pour l'independance nationale.

Another crack appeared Tuesday when Gilles Gregoire—leader of the third major separatist group, the Ralliement National —expressed support for Mr. Levesque's action.

Like Mr. Levesque's Mouvement Souveraineté-Association, he said in an interview, the Ralliement National "does not approve of violence or calls to violence."

Mr. Gregoire said he remains convinced of the need for unity among Quebec separatists, but he does not know how or when negotiations can get started again.

There had been tentative arrangements to discuss separatist unification.

The RIN, claiming 12,000 members, is led by Pierre Bourgault, who was among 291 persons arrested near the St. Jean Baptiste parade reviewing stand during a violent clash between separatist sympathizers and police.

The MSA condemnation of violence drew many expressions of support from separatist quarters. The Montreal headquarters of the movement, which is to become a full-fledged political party at a founding convention this fall, said Tuesday it had since signed up nearly 100 new members.

Leaders of members of the movement have expressed the view that Mr. Levesque will attract even more support as Quebecers become convinced that he will not ally himself with violent elements.

In his statement Thursday, Mr. Levesque said that before the June 24 parade "there was direct incitation to employ violence as a means of political action."

Violence could only divide and weaken the movement, and the MSA was completely opposed to it.

Directors of the MSA are to meet Saturday to decide on the movement's future relationship with the RIN. At one point in his Thursday press conference, Mr. Levesque said it is inevitable that the MSA will form a political party without the RIN.

Both the RIN and Mr. Gregoire's Ralliement, which claims 12,000 members, contested the last provincial election in 1966 but neither elected a member.

Mr. Levesque sits in the provincial house as Independent member for Montreal Laurier. A former Quebec welfare and resources minister, prominent in the Quiet Revolution days of the early 1960s, he quit the Liberal party last fall when it rejected his thesis of a sovereign Quebec within a Canadian economic union.

Stanfield Declines Comments on Criticism by Diefenbaker

OTTAWA (CP) —Conservative Leader Stanfield said Tuesday he expects his party to plan for a policy conference in the aftermath of its election defeat, but he does not anticipate any change in its constitutional stance.

Mr. Stanfield, who returned to the capital from his Halifax home earlier in the day, said he expected the party organization to work toward a policy conference. But he did not think it would take place before the opening of Parliament, expected in September.

The Conservative leader declined comment on criticisms of party policies and personalities made earlier in the day by his predecessor, John Diefenbaker.

On the party's constitutional policy—which Mr. Diefenbaker called a political monstrosity— Mr. Stanfield said he supposed this would be one of a number of areas that would be reviewed.

"But I think our position with regard to the constitution—one Canada with two founding peoples—is well clarified during the course of the campaign.

"I wouldn't anticipate any particular change in that area."

Mr. Diefenbaker had said last year's Progressive Conservatives' Conference — he thought the word thinkers should be deleted — had produced a "political monstrosity," the (deux nations) phrase that caused the party so much trouble in the campaign.

"My French isn't perfect, but I know how to translate two founding peoples and it's not deux nations," he said sarcastically.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who kept reporters chuckling with him for more than half an hour at a press conference about last week's election campaign, critics of policy by the grassroots of the party is long overdue.

Mr. Diefenbaker used the press conference to renew his sniping at an old foe, Dalton Camp, the party's national president, and to criticize Conservative policy and strategy during the election campaign.

A statement by Mr. Camp during the campaign that existing medicare legislation would be scrapped by a Conservative government had contributed to the defeat of several Conservatives, including Alvin Hamilton, in Saskatchewan. He said Mr. Camp should have quit the presidency when he decided to run in Don Valley riding.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he can no longer be blamed for the party failing to win seats in Metropolitan Toronto. If urban dwellers had failed to understand him, they understood others less. "I never understood urbanization, they said. Apparently (present Conservative) policy was developed on a Chinese laundry ticket."

His views about Canadian federalism and those of Marcel Pelletier, who was the Conservatives' chief candidate in Quebec, are "far apart if not diametrically opposed," he declared.

Mr. Diefenbaker was critical of the Conservative campaign. He did not think the issues had been discussed throughout the country. Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's call for one Canada had been accepted and the Liberals had been able to avoid discussing their economic record.

He said the legislation revising the ground rules for national labor-bargaining units proposed by the Pearson Government proves there is no similarity between his concept of one Canada and Mr. Trudeau's.

The legislation, designed to help the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions win bargaining rights for Quebec workers in nation-wide companies, was the offspring of Manpower Minister Jean Marchand and Mr. Trudeau, he said.

It was a "dangerous, outrageous proposition" which he hoped the Conservative Party would oppose strongly in the new Parliament. It would lead to the balkanization of bargaining units in the Canadian National-Canadian Pacific system and encourage regional strikes.

"It would set up not just two nations but 10 nations."

Despite his criticisms of the party's campaign and some of its personnel, Mr. Diefenbaker avoided any criticism of the new leader. When asked whether he could get along with Robert Stanfield, he said quickly: "There's no question about it."

ANAF Weekly News Notes

Owing to the beer strike in Ontario the president regrets having to inform the members that until things return to normal, only members with cards can be served.

Cards must be shown to the stewards upon request. There will be no guests allowed.

Things look pretty grim and, if things continue as they are, many envious glances will be cast at the lucky contingent of members who are attending the Dominion Convention in Calgary in August. Steward Reginald Featherstone extended his 60th birthday last Friday and was presented with a huge card on which his many friends had inscribed their names and also an appropriate gift in recognition of his valuable services.

The most surprising news of the week came from members of the Dyke Band when they announced that drummer Tommy Fraser had finally succumbed to the charms of Cupid and joined the ranks of the benedicts on Saturday. All members join in in wishing a long and happy life with his charming lady. The Pipe Major also announced that any lads 12 years of age or older, with a desire to become pipers or drummers, would be welcome to attend the band practice held on Wednesday evenings.

They will receive expert tuition from competent instructors and as soon as they become proficient would be eligible to join the Duke of Edinburgh Unit 201's Pipe Band.

Chairman of the sick committee "Mac" McArthur reports that Cde. G. Hay is in a Toronto hospital. Unfortunately Mac has been unable to find out which end would appreciate it very much if anyone knows, would they please call the steward and let him know.

The recently retired sick chairman, Cde. Ray Fletcher, is also in hospital again, would be glad to visit Cde. Hay and see that he is looked after as soon as he receives the name of the hospital.

Cde. J. Lane is still in the Belleville hospital.

If anyone has 10 inches of the 1914-15 Star ribbon they would be doing an old soldier a great favour if the ribbon was left or sent to the Club.

It seems to be very scarce these days as the military stores having any on hand. Nothing to report on either sports or entertainment until the big picnic in July.

SUICIDE BRIDGE

There have been 332 recorded suicides at the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco.

Ukrainian Cardinal Is in West

EDMONTON (CP) — Joseph Cardinal Slipyl, for 18 years a prisoner in Russian labor camps, May called on the Ukrainian-Canadians to work ambitiously and to contribute generally to a world of justice and freedom.

He told about 1,500 persons at a national Ukrainian Catholic conference the faith, work and freedom he has seen on his first visit to Canada could not be understood in a world "where there is not this air of understanding and freedom."

Cardinal Slipyl was sentenced by the Soviet government to forced labor when he refused to renounce Rome and to lead his people of the Russian-controlled Ukraine into communism. He was released in 1963 after appeals by Pope John XXIII and the late U.S. president John Kennedy.

He is reluctant to discuss his years of imprisonment, fearing reprisals against his people and priests who remain prisoners.

Split Firms Protested

Government Appeals Unfavorable Tax Ruling

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has lodged an appeal in the Exchequer Court of Canada asking it to uphold a law that allows the revenue department to lump together the profit of firms which appear to have been split to avoid high corporation taxes.

The appeal is expected to become a test for several other cases involving hundreds of Canadian corporations.

The controversy is over a section of the Income Tax Act, proposed in 1948 by former finance minister Walter Gordon in his first controversial first budget speech to Parliament.

He said the section was intended to prevent a firm from splitting itself in two so its total profits would be subject to lower corporate tax rates.

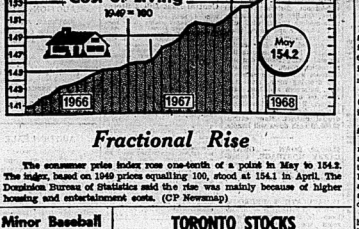
A firm now pays 32 per cent in taxes on annual profits over $35,000. Profits under $35,000 are taxed at 22 per cent.

The 1948 law was to enable the revenue minister to deem that companies are associated with each other when he is satisfied:

—Splitting them was not done solely for the purpose of carrying on business in the most effective manner, and,

—One of t's main reasons for their creation existence was to reduce the amount of taxes they would otherwise pay.

Bowman and Howson, Ltd., of Blyth, Ont., took its case to the tax appeal board after the act was applied against the firm, a flour milling business, was owned by Howson and Howson. They set up a separate firm in 1950 to operate a retail feed business in Cargill, 18 miles away, and a store at Wingham, Ont.



Each company earned just under $35,000 in 1953, and each thought it was to be taxed at the lower rate. The revenue department, however, said that the two companies should be taxed as one, at the higher rate applied to their combined profits in excess of $35,000.

When the feed-retailing firm was established, the wives of the owners of the original firm became the owners of the new company.

The senior partner of Howson and Howson said the firm was aware of the tax savings, but the main purpose of splitting the firm was to spread the family's investment risks.

The tax appeal board ruled March 28 in favor of the separation of the two companies for tax purposes. Cecil Snyder, chairman, said in his written judgment that it was clear the companies were separated in 1950, before DMA became law. In order to separate the functions of the company and spread the family risk involved.

A revenue department spokesman said the government is appealing the board's ruling to the Exchequer Court. A notice of appeal was filed with the court June 19.

Fractional Rise

The consumer price index rose one-tenth of a point in May to 154.2. The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, stood at 154.1 in April. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said the rise was mainly because of higher housing and entertainment costs. (CP Newsmap)

Minor Baseball

Two PeeWee division and one Tyke circuit game completed Tuesday night's action in the EOBA Minor League.

Alhambra wiped out HBSW 20-4 in the Tyke contest while Mead Johnson topped Fountain Park 8-4 and Sines Shell dropped Bastiaga 11-6 in PeeWee competition.

Alhambra won their contest behind B. Balyz, R. Deline, G. Bongard and Randy Hotchinson who allowed four runs on two hits while walking seven and striking out 13.

Top hitters for Alhambra were B. Porter with a double and four singles, Deline with a double and three singles, and Balyz with four singles.

L. Tryjer led HBSW at the plate with a double.

In the Mead Johnson - Fountain Park contest, the Mead-Johnson nine took the win behind M. Mott, who also was allowed four runs on six hits while striking out eight.

D. McDiggett and B. Sweet led the Fountain Park nine, allowing five runs on 14 hits while striking out six.

Three homers highlighted the win over Bastiaga with G. Cunningham and T. Coughlin on the rubber while the loss went to A. Ricketts, P. Mosakski, and G. Goegan.

The winners gave up two runs on eight hits while striking out ten. The losers allowed 11 runs on 12 hits and nine walks while striking out six.

Top hitters for Sines was M. Mott with a triple and a single, G. Chrisanthe and P. Crawford collected triples and S. Simpson hit a double. Crawford and Sheppes also had singles.

West Protests Travel Curbs

From AP-Reuters

MOSCOW (CP) — The Western Big Three called on the Soviet Union today to overrule East Germany's new restrictions on access to West Berlin, but Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev said East Germany has a "right to protect its territory."

The envoys of Britain, the United States and France delivered separate protest notes to the Soviet government calling on it "to fulfil its international obligation to ensure freedom of access to Berlin."

Net Earnings

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Net earnings reported for nine months ended May 31: 1958, $1,853,705, $1.87 a share; 1957, $1,827,306, $1.73.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar in terms of Canadian funds was down ¼ at $1.07 7-16. Pound sterling was down ¾ at $2.9614.

UK Reserves Show Drop

LONDON (Reuters) — British gold and U.S. dollar reserves fell by £26,000,000 ($62,400,000) to £3,118,000,000 ($7,480,000,000) in June, the government announced Tuesday.

During the month £13,000,000 ($31,200,000) was spent on service charges for loans.

The May drop in reserves was £11,000,000 ($26,400,000).

At usual, the Bank of England maintained silence on the reason for the decline, apart from the reference to loan charges. But financial observers saw it as reflecting recent pressure on sterling and the mounting cost of imports.

During the last month there have been many signs that the bank had had to dip into its U.S. dollar reserves to prop up the ailing pound.

Lawyers Far Ray To Appeal

LONDON (AP) — James Earl Ray's British lawyers today began preparing his appeal against Chief Magistrate Frank Milner's ruling that he should be extradited to the United States for trial on a charge of murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Milton Tuesday rejected the argument by Roger Frisby, Ray's British lawyer, that the killing of the Negro civil rights leader was a political crime and therefore not subject to extradition.

Frisby planned to enlarge this argument in his appeal to the High Court.

Ray remained under close guard in London's Pentonville jail. The appeal will delay his return to the United States until late this month, at the least.

Pyrotex Investigated

TORONTO (CP) — Leslie Rowntree, financial and commercial affairs minister, told the legislature Tuesday the Ontario Securities Commission is investigating trading in the stock of Pyrotex Mining and Exploration Co. Ltd.

He was replying to Morton Shulman (PC—Toronto, High Park) who asked whether the commission feels there is a "corner" in the trading, and if so what action is planned.

"The action which they may take will depend on the information brought forth as a result of the pending investigation," Mr. Rowntree said.

U.S. Airliner Held by Russia Arrives in Japan With Troops

TOKYO (AP) — The U.S. airliner held two days by the Soviet Union for violating its air space arrived in Japan today with its 214 troops bound for South Vietnam, and one said they "had a kind of a party during the time."

The chartered four-engined jet, which also carried a crew of 17, flew to Yokota, 30 miles west of Tokyo, from Itorup, in the Kurile Islands north of Japan, where Soviet fighter planes forced it to land Monday.

The U.S. Federal Aviation Administration said Soviet airspace was violated because the plane crew made a navigational error. The state department apologized, and the Soviet government released the plane with unexpected swiftness.

Especially because the big DC-8 was carrying U.S. troops to Vietnam, some American officials had feared the incident might develop into a long exchange, with China and North Vietnam trying to bring pressure on the Kremlin.

The airliner, owned by Seaboard World Airlines, was forced down as it headed for refueling stop at Yokota, en route to Cam Ranh Bay, in South Vietnam.

There was no immediate indication when its passengers would fly on to Vietnam and whether the same plane would take them the rest of the way.

The soldiers were tired and unshaven but seemed cheerful when they left the plane at Yokota. One reported that one of the Russian MiGs that intercepted them fired two rounds from its cannon.

"I wasn't scared although I was a little worried, especially when they fired those two cannon rounds," said Pfc. Dan Bugarsky of Crivitz, Wis.

"There was no panic," he said. "Everybody was calm and cheerful. We sang and had a kind of party during the time. But we were really glad to get to Misawa, I can tell you."

The plane refueled at Misawa, 300 miles north of Tokyo, after leaving the Kuriles.

Bugarsky said the landing strip at Itorup was so short "that about 200 of us guys had to push the plane to turn it around for takeoff."

Specialist Jim Griffith of Grand Rapids, Mich., on his way to a second tour of duty in South Vietnam, said the passengers were fed bread and cheese, given water and allowed to leave the plane to smoke.

"They made us keep the blinds on the windows of the plane's left side closed, but they let us walk around near the plane," he said.

The DC-8 left from McChord Air Force Base near Tacoma, Wash., and was a special model making its maiden flight. But Douglas Aircraft, the manufacturer, said the $10,000,000 plane contained no secret equipment.

Shipowners Back Union On Using Foreign Ships

OTTAWA (CP) — The Dominion Marine Association has joined the Seafarers International Union in criticizing the Canadian Wheat Board for using foreign ships to carry grain from the Lakehead to Halifax.

The association, in a statement Tuesday, said the wheat board's "arbitrary preference for foreign ships over Canadian vessels to carry Western wheat could easily be an insidious softening-up process to further reduce the price paid for transporting wheat cargo."

Philip R. Hurcomb, general manager of the association said in the statement the board "has thus shown once more its flagrant disregard for national interests as well as an arrogant indifference to the role of Canada's inland fleet operators in the nation's economy."

He said association members, prime movers of bulk cargoes through the Great Lakes, were appalled early in June when it was reported that foreign flag vessels were carrying wheat to Halifax.

The earlier criticism by the SIU accused the wheat board of fostering unemployment by using foreign ships.

A union spokesman said a regulation requiring the wheat board to use Canadian ships for internal traffic was being circumvented by shipping to Halifax which is beyond the mouth of the St. Laurence.

Pro Politicians Not Best

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Although I am as much against Ronald Reagan as a man can be for President, for Governor, and especially for head of the school board — I still think it's an unfair criticism to point to his acting career as a disqualification for public office.

There is no valid reason for believing that a professional politician makes the best office-holder, or that lawyers (which most political leaders began as) are particularly better qualified to run any government that anyone are.

An actor can be an informed and intelligent man: in fact, many of the new breed are exactly that — more humane, more broad-gauged, and certainly better-educated than most of the old fogies who control the essential committees in the present deplorable U.S. Congress.

The whole point of the American system, indeed, the philosophy on which it was based, is that politics is not the province of a special elite, or professional cadre but should offer equal opportunity to men of all ranks and occupations in our society.

It is worth recalling that Washington was a surveyor, Franklin a printer, Jefferson a farmer, Paine a journalist, Hancock a merchant — and Hamilton an illegitimate child! Just imagine what a modern political campaign could make of that.

In a pure democracy, such as ancient Athens, all free men were held equally capable of holding any public office, and drew lots for the rotation of offices. And even today, in some cantons of Switzerland, all the electorate participate personally in annual legislative actions, which are not dominated by a professional clique of politicians.

But such democracy presumes two things — first, a relatively small society, in which men can interact personally and evaluate each other on the basis of character rather than of "images"; and, secondly, a uniform degree of education, so that a stone-mason or a shop-keeper would be as knowledgeable as any other citizen.

We lack both these requisites in American society: We neither know our candidates personally, nor are all of us equally well-informed on the basic issues of our time. Because of these two grave defects, our "democratic republic" often finds one kind of phony pitted against another kind of phony, each exploiting the provincialism and prejudices of a particular segment of the population.

There is absolutely nothing wrong with an actor entering politics; indeed, it is heartening that non-politicians are willing to devote themselves to public affairs. But, then, they must show that they have prepared themselves as thoroughly, and as deeply, for the obligations of office as they have, in the past, for the performance of roles.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

For July 4

Your birthday today: Prosperity and a busy rush are expected to mark the coming year. The initiative is in your hands; this is the period to use it for a critical decision.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Early in the day you must find common ground with your mate, then stick to plans you make together. Safety first for the afternoon. Younger people attract your attention this evening.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Patience with older people and chronic problems pays off very well. The day's projects will be generally successful.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Your own advice is your best advice. Be prepared for some confusion among other people, but keep to your own path, and this evening you are apt to meet people who can bring much good into your life.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Be prepared for varied criticism and constructive discussions. Family squabbles can be smoothed out nicely with persistent tact.

LEO (July 23—Aug. 22): Distant relatives may have dissenting views, but aside from this it's a great day for family conferences and planning. Outdoor activity would suit the occasion

VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Watch what you tell your family. Excuses will not do. Criticism is not to be attempted today; spend some time with an indoor hobby this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): — The morning is busy, but the afternoon is satisfying. The evening is great for seeking advice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Today hidden factors, unmasked by the holidays, come to light. The opposition is in a vulnerable position, so move boldly toward your goal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Avoiding the spotlight matters for good politics — and sensible survival tactics — today. In friendships, let well enough alone.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Straighten out, in your own mind, the complications caused by outside interference in your family and business affairs. Be good to your loved ones.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): The advice you hear today is the very best and the very bad together. Some of it comes from people with (unrecognized) clairvoyance.

PISCES (Feb. 19 Mar. 20): This is not the proper time to try to settle scores in family matters. Relax with diversion. Save the serious business for next week.

Ghost at Wooler Is Tape-recorded

Spoons Thrown, Animals Scared

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

WOOLER — A 58-year-old mailman has delivered a weird note of disquiet to this pleasant rural retreat.

The home of Fred Coulthard nestles in the rolling Northumberland countryside, now at its smiling summer best.

But for its owner, the two-storey frame house has become a nest of eeriness, haunted by strange happenings.

His residence, believes Mr. Coulthard, has attracted some sort of spirit, an unworldly force that has forcefully been making its presence known for nearly a week.

Household articles have been thrown through the air, a window smashed, animals panicked. There have been strange noises and odors but no visible presence.

"It's breaking up the home — that's what it's coming to," complains Mr. Coulthard, father of six who last night said he moved his wife and younger children to Trenton.

His predicament has drawn a mixed reaction hereabouts.

"I didn't believe it at first — until it happened while I was here," says Butch Mallory, a 20-year-old neighbor who has tape-recorded noises he says marks the spirit's visitations. "A lot of people around here won't believe us. But they won't come and sit in the kitchen."

More skeptical is Rev. Gerard Sullivan, the Coulthards' parish priest at St. Adolphus church here.

"He's certainly convinced there's something going on," says Father Sullivan. "But I'm beginning to believe there is somebody playing tricks on him."

Whatever the reaction, the Coulthard house has excited the curiosity of friends and workmates of its owner at Trenton post office.

They've been dropping in to share the family's nightly vigil. Last night so many cars were parked outside the darkened home the provincial police became curious. However, their official report didn't dabble in the occult, merely explaining the reason for the automobiles.

Sirhan's Brother Escapes Bullets

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Saidallah Bishara Sirhan, brother of the man accused of killing Senator Robert F. Kennedy, says two men fired at him as he drove on a freeway.

Sirhan, 25, told police the shots were fired from one of two cars that pulled alongside his after following him for six miles before dawn Wednesday.

The first bullet struck a coat lying on the back seat of his car and the second ripped past his head and buried itself in the door beside him, he said.

"If he had been sitting upright, the projectile probably would have passed through his neck," a Pasadena police officer said.

The cars turned in opposite directions after another 100 yards at the end of the freeway, Sirhan said, and he proceeded directly to the Pasadena police headquarters.

Police Lieut. Gerald Wright said he had "no doubt at all" about the incident.

"We're taking it for a fact right now," he said.

Sirhan's 24-year-old brother, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, is in Los Angeles County jail awaiting trial on charges he shot Kennedy early June 5 at the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles.

Second eldest of the five Sirhan brothers, Saidallah Sirhan is single and unemployed and lives in a Pasadena apartment away from the Sirhan family home.

The Sirhan home is under heavy police guard and police earlier urged him to move into it. After Wednesday's shooting, police said, Sirhan was offered protection but he said he didn't believe he needed it.

Dynamite Rocks Consulate

NEW YORK (AP) — A dynamite blast rocked the ground floor offices of the Canadian consulate general in midtown Manhattan early today, breaking a number of windows.

There were no reports of injuries in the explosion which could be heard several blocks away. Police said a bomb was placed outside the corner of the midtown Fairs Bank S. A. building at Fifth Avenue and 54th Street. The Canadian consulate is nearby.

The blast shortly after 3 a.m. shattered the window of the ground floor Canadian travel information office and cracked panes in the storey above and in two stores across the street.

Police said a witness told them he saw a man running from the scene immediately after the explosion. The witness also reported seeing two mini-skirted girls fleeing down Fifth Avenue.

No one was in the Canadian travel office at the time of the explosion.

U.S. and North Vietnam Seem Nearing Dialogue

PARIS (Reuters) — U.S. and North Vietnamese negotiators today appeared to be moving toward a dialogue on the use of the 1954 Geneva agreements as a basis for settlement of the Vietnam war.

W. Averell Harriman, chief U.S. delegate to the Vietnam preliminary peace talks here, renewed his call at a full-scale session Wednesday for a settlement based on the fundamentals of the Geneva accords which ended the French Indochina war. He stressed that one of the accords' first provisions was a ceasefire.

Chief Hanoi negotiator Xuan Thuy replied that the U.S. had systematically distorted the Geneva agreements, but "speaks as though it is the defender of these accords."

The 11 sessions so far have seen each side stating its views, but no negotiations.

But Western diplomatic observers pointed out that while the North Vietnamese rejected the U.S. interpretation of the agreements, they appeared to agree that the Geneva accords could serve as a basis for discussions.

In the meetings so far, now going on for almost two months, Hanoi has insisted on a total and unconditional stop of U.S. air raids against its territory, and the U.S. has demanded reciprocal restraint by the North in scaling down the war.

Hanoi's decision, formally announced here Wednesday, to release three more U.S. pilots was seen here as a positive gesture. Harriman told Thuy he hoped the release indicated a willingness to move toward a peaceful settlement of the Vietnam conflict.

Diplomatic observers detected another hopeful sign.

The session Wednesday of just under three hours was one of the shortest since the talks opened May 13, yet it afforded the delegates a break of 50 minutes—their longest yet—for informal conversations and refreshments.

Neither side gave details of their conversation during the break. The Americans hope these chats will develop into useful contacts at which substantial matters can be discussed outside of the formal publicized statements.

Round-World Voyage End

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuters) — A single cannon shot boomed across this south coast port today to mark the end of Alec Rose's 28,000-mile solo voyage around the world.

Sirens, horns and fireworks mingled with the thunderous cheers that greeted the cannon shot.

Professor Urges Curb On Police Use of Guns

TORONTO (CP) — Police should be prohibited by law from using their guns except when their lives or the lives of others are immediately threatened, says Stanley M. Beck, Osgoode Hall law professor.

"The value of human life should be placed above the necessity to effect an arrest," he writes in the Law Quarterly, a publication for judges and lawyers.

"Capital punishment has been abolished except in killing police officers and prison guards. Why, then, possible death for fleeing car thieves and others by the use of guns to affect arrest?"

In a comment on the wounding of a 15-year-old boy by a Toronto police officer who was acquitted on criminal negligence charge last month, he said:

"The incident, accidental or not, raises the question of whether the police should use their guns to effect an arrest where neither their lives nor the lives of any other citizens are immediately threatened."

He wants a change in the section of the Criminal Code that allows police to use "as much force as is necessary to prevent an escape unless the escape can be prevented by reasonable means in a less violent manner."

Police Cook Breakfast for Bridal Pair, Then Have Chief Held Hostage for an Hour

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — A state police chief and a Presbyterian minister were held hostage today for more than an hour by an armed man holding a woman and baby captive in a suburban cottage here.

Norman Allan, police chief of New South Wales, and Rev. C. Paton were released after police officers met a demand from the gunman, Wallace Mellish, 23, for a transistor radio.

Wednesday Allan let the gunman marry the girl, Beryl Mudalie, 18, whom he has held captive with their 11-week-old son Leslie for the last two days. Mellish and the girl had been living together for some time.

The drama began when police went to the cottage to arrest Mellish on a car theft charge. Mellish, an ex-convict, threatened to kill Miss Mudalie and "a thousand other people" if he were sent back to jail.

He later demanded to be married to Miss Mudalie, and a bizarre ceremony was performed by Paton, with Allan as one of two police witnesses.

Police this morning cooked the couple a steak-and-egg breakfast at a mobile police canteen and Paton took it to them. He also took diapers for the baby.

Mellish at first promised to give himself up to police 90 minutes after Wednesday's ceremony, but later asked for an extension until 8:30 this morning.

But after 8:30, when Mellish did not appear, Allan re-entered the house with Paton to try to persuade him to surrender his shotgun, rifle and pistol.

Police armed with rifles, pistols and teargas surrounding the cottage watched Allan and Paton enter the house.

After several minutes, Det.-Supt. Don Fergusson told reporters his chief and the minister were being held hostage.

"Mellish has demanded a transistor radio," the officer said. "I plead that radio stations do not broadcast any of these details or developments. We have gone for a radio."

After police carried a radio to the cottage, Allan and Paton were released unharmed.

Police were anxious to do nothing to excite Mellish, and cause him to carry out his original threat to kill the girl.

"To try to end this situation where lives are at stake, I made every promise in the book," Allan said.

Allan promised Mellish he would drop a warrant he held for his arrest and charges of shooting at police in an effort to make his surrender.

Youths Charged In Break

The alert eye of Belleville police constable Barry Titterson last night resulted in the arrest of two youths for break and enter.

Jacques Rodier, 17, and Carl Algaia, 19, both of Westbrooke were charged with break and enter after they were placed under arrest at the Auto-Haus Volkswagen dealership on Dundas St.

Constable Titterson, who was on foot patrol noticed Rodier on the premises of Auto-Haus and thought he looked suspicious.

He placed him under arrest for trespassing and called for aid.

Upon the arrival of three more constables Algaia was apprehended inside the building.

Both youths appeared in court this morning and were remanded until Friday.

Accident Damage Totals $3,600

TWEED — Two motor vehicle mishaps yesterday resulted in $3,600 damage.

At 9.30 a.m. yesterday a car driven by Robert Gerrard Gaffney of Tamworth, was in collision with another automobile driven by Dennis Patrick O'Coline of Toronto.

Both cars sustained $750 damage each. No one was hurt.

Later yesterday, about 5.55 p.m. at the junction of County Road eight and Highway 62, Lawrence Derrick Lowe, 37, of Bancroft was in collision with Lois Loretta Thompson of Moira.

Again there were no injuries. The Lowe vehicle sustained $900 damage and the Thompson vehicle $1,200 damage.

Afloat: Weeding Out the Harbor

Ashore: Tree Disease Problem

City Workmen Sprucing Up Harbor Area

It's spruce up time in Belleville's harbor area.

Yesterday the inlet was yielding its annual harvest of weeds to harbor commission workers, while ashore at Victoria park, trees and grass verges were being trimmed by city crews.

Recent heavy rains have had contrasted results in the waterfront zone.

For the park, it has meant a luscious growth of green lawn, a fresh, trim highlight for the whole area.

For the harbor, heavy rains have meant higher water levels, say workmen, and therefore a bigger-than-average weed crop.

Still, deep water and the warmth of summer have combined to make the nuisance burgeon.

The harvest is being forked from the harbor by the raftload and trucked away for dumping.

On land, there was also a problem of nature yesterday.

City workers moved in on trees shorting up Victoria Park's west bank, stricken by the infection that has plagued Belleville for years: Dutch elm disease.

Wooler Ghost Active

Spoons Fly, Animals Panic

Mr. Coulthard's experiences are confirmed by his oldest son, Fred junior, a 24-year-old corporal with the Ordnance Corps stationed at Petawawa.

In fact, the whole business started with the young soldier's arrival last week to spend leave with his family before posing to Germany tomorrow.

Usually the family is in bed early because of Mr. Coulthard's post-office work hours.

But Cpl. Coulthard was still sitting up at 1 a.m. last Saturday when he first "sensed" the arrival of the disembodied visitor.

He says horses in a field behind the home purchased by the Coulthards in 1943, began running amok in the pasture. The household kittens sitting in the porch, bristled and fled across the road.

He heard noises and thumping at the back of the house, took a flashlight and investigated, but found nothing.

At the time, the corporal also noticed a strong odor "like roses" around the house.

The aroma and scrabbling of the air have since identified the "presence" each successive night, the Coulthards claim. This and the fact it always throws spoons.

Saturday night, Cpl. Coulthard sat up in darkness with his 18-year-old brother Wayne, equipped with flashlight and camera.

Again there were the noises. At one point, switching on the flashlight, they claimed to see a tube of shampoo flying through the air.

With intermittent noises going on through the night, Mr. Coulthard and his two sons decided to have a glass of wine — still in darkness.

Suddenly, they say, the glass was wrenched from Wayne's hand and smashed.

Sunday night, the noises and spoons were active again. This time a pack of cards was hurled at Fred jr. as he flashed his camera in the direction of the "presence," the Coulthards say.

"The pack was thrown with terrific force," says the soldier.

The following night a back porch window was smashed.

And, on the front porch say the Coulthards, an ash tray was thrown with force close by Wayne and a friend, John Lidster.

Tuesday night word of the "happenings" had spread and friends and neighbors crowded the property.

The crowd dwindled with the early-morning hours and later the spoons and thumpings were at it again, says Mr. Coulthard.

Last night the pattern was something similar.

Today, the family still is unable to explain the reason for reported visitations.

Tuesday night, Cpl. Coulthard says he saw strange lights hovering over a valley about three miles east of the house — the direction from which, they believe, the "presence" emanates.

Both Cpl. Coulthard and his father conjecture now that the household agitations may not be supernatural but the results of visits from an "alien being."

Alice DeBruyn

Prettiest Deputy Clerk in Province

PICTON (Staff) — The town of Picton has a prettier deputy clerk-treasurer than any other municipality in the county. Even if another municipality has a deputy clerk treasurer, it would have a hard time competing with 20-year-old Alice DeBruyn.

She was granted her new title by council Tuesday night.

According to Miss DeBruyn the title is more impressive than her new duties. That however does not seem to be the case.

As a secretary with former clerk - treasurer, Douglas Perry, and now with Andrew Jarvis, she is in charge of, or connected with most of the duties of the clerk treasurer.

She has enough training, and ability already to take over that position, if the need arises," clerk-treasurer Jarvis says.

"She pretty well takes over the office, no matter what her position."

As deputy division registrar, she was responsible for recording births, deaths, and marriages. She issues licences, collects taxes, takes shorthand and is responsible for typing up council minutes.

Now in her new position, she is responsible for anything the clerk treasurer might do, as well as everything she did as secretary.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter DeBruyn, of Stirling and grew up near Wellington but was born in the Netherlands.

She graduated from the commercial course at Prince Edward Collegiate in 1965.

She says her job provides plenty of variety, and the opportunity to meet many people.

Chances Slim For New Docks

TRENTON — The chances of the Trenton Chamber of Commerce having a floating dock on the Trent River by this summer seem very slim.

But with good reason.

Robert Carleton, president of the Chamber, said today "there are certain areas that we are now looking into more closely."

He pointed to waterway restrictions as the main bone of contention.

Asked if this type of dock on the Trent is like building something across a highway," added Mr. Carleton.

The chamber president noted it was far different to put up this kind of a dock where further building might be done as opposed to an individual putting up his own private dock.

A six-week delivery date on the dock has been mentioned and would just about negate any use this summer.

"If we get the dock too late the people will not get back from it what they should."

Always hopeful, Mr. Carleton said that if he received an affirmative reply by next Tuesday and the delivery rate could be speeded up, a floating finger dock would be in the Trent River this summer.

Collapsed Sewer Repaired

Repairs on a collapsed sewer at the north-east corner of East Dundas and George streets are expected to be completed today.

City engineer Wilbur Purcell said crews are patching the road surface and will soon remove the barricade around the hole on Dundas St. East hill.

A series of set-backs delayed the repair work on one of the city's oldest main truck sewers. The 18 inch pipe required had to be ordered, and further hold-ups occurred when work crews were required to excavate around a gas main and catch basin crossing the sewer line.

Heavy rainfall in the last two weeks also delayed crews working on the job.

Roses Never In Better Shape

Baseball games, family picnics and summer holidays weren't the only things rained out during the unseasonable wet weather in June.

The roses in Corby Park took a drubbing too, and passed the peak of their blooming period a week sooner than usual because of the excess rainfall.

This, combined with heavy rain on open blooms, caused some petal spotting and a rumor that the 2,000 bushes in the park were dying.

Not so. The plants were never in better shape, thanks to the parks' department's steady spray-gun warfare against the fungus diseases encouraged by humid weather.

The parks' department introduced several new varieties of roses this spring, including a few standard roses.

"A municipal rose garden should be more than just a beauty spot," parks director Lloyd Spry explained. "It has an informative function too — visitors should be able to view a wide variety of roses and choose those plants they prefer for their own gardens."

His attempts to provide an information service in the park have been stymied recently by children who playfully switch labels.

"Corby Park is too shaded by the surrounding trees for ideal rose garden conditions," Mr. Syer said. "However, this is an advantage in winter, for the area is sheltered and a heavy snow cover drifts in and remains."

As a result, the winter-kill rate was astonishingly low in the garden's first year.

Police Operate Safety Check in Belleville

In cooperation with the department of transport, Belleville police are pulling cars off the street for safety checks.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said "it was found that those who voluntarily brought their cars in were usually the ones who took care of their vehicles."

"This year we are making more compulsory checks," he said.

Each vehicle goes through a headlight test as well as physical tests on alignment, steering and braking.

Other equipment on the car such as parking lights, flasfiers and general safety are also carefully checked.

The course of action taken for an unsafe car depends on the extent of the defect.

For a drastic mechanical flaw the car would immediately be pulled off the road and held until the owner had the problem repaired.

Something like a burnt out light is let through as long as the driver corrects the situation as soon as possible.

At the end of the safety session, on Friday, a report will be issued by Belleville police as to the number of vehicles checked and the results of the safety checks.

Napanee Hospital Auxiliary Garden Party Held Inside

NAPANEE — The Auxiliary of the Lennox and Addington County General Hospital felt safe in planning its garden party for June 26, as the end of June always brings warm, sunny weather. But 1968 has been entirely different, and so what was planned as an outdoor event in the lovely garden of Dr. and Mrs. E. R. Elliott, had to be transformed into an afternoon tea in the parish hall of St. Mary Magdalene's Church. Just for fear, the committee had made tentative plans for such an eventuality.

The morning's steady downpour saw the alternative plans put into operation, and there were no regrets when the sun came out in the afternoon. The soggy garden and high wind forbade the use of the garden, and the sunlight and the indoor location brought out many people who could not otherwise have attended.

A profusion of flowers brought the garden indoors. Standards of the larger gardens flowers were near the tea table; an arrangement of red roses in a gray pottery bowl graced the supply table.

Mrs. Malcolm Chester, Auxiliary president and Mrs. Ellicott received the guests, with Mrs. William Paul concentrating on making out-of-town guests feel at home.

Mrs. Geoffrey Wynn and Mrs. William Roffey were conveners for the tea. The white damask covering the tea table was centred with an artistic arrangement of pastel shaded gladioli which was flanked by white tapers in silver candelabra.

Pouring tea were: Mrs. George Morton, president of the Ontario Hospital Auxiliary Kingston; Mrs. R. J. Allain, president of St. Mary's of the-Lake Hospital, Kingston; Mrs. R. B. Lynn, president of the Auxiliary of the Kingston General Hospital; Mrs. F. A. Beeby of Belleville, chairman of the District Auxiliary; a representative from the Picton Hospital Auxiliary and local women, Mrs. H. L. Armstrong, Mrs. N. F. Burke, and Mrs. James Hepburn.

Arranging plates, making the many pots of good tea, seeing that it reached the women who were pouring, and generally making themselves useful were: Mrs. Clifford Crawford, Mrs. A. E. Fyffe, Mrs. Thomas Webb, Mrs. Cora Barker, Mrs. Kenneth Johnston, Mrs. Harold Wreford, Mrs. Earl Morrison, and Mrs. Clayton Metcalfe.

Serving the guests, wearing their colorful uniforms were Candy Stripers of the hospital.

The cooked food table was in charge of Mrs. Kenneth Lipsey and Mrs. Bert Asselstine, assisted by Mrs. Jesse MacLean, Mrs. Earle Fowler, Mrs. William Fresier. Mrs. George Robinson, Mrs. Walter Switzer, and Mrs. Glen Collins.

A "touch and take" table arranged by Mrs. Ellicott was in charge of Glenda Collins.

There were several other special attractions. Miss Emily Macdonald once more has shown himself a friend of the hospital. He displayed a large collection of his paintings, all beautiful, and many of them of scenes in this district. Moreover, he has again donated a beautiful painting to the auxiliary, and tickets were sold on it for the first time last Wednesday, and will be on sale until fall. Mrs. Stanley Babcock and Miss Irene Wagar were in charge of ticket sales at the tea.

Two beautiful hand-hooked rugs had been donated to the auxiliary by Miss Evelyn Aylsworth, and by Mrs. Reginald Chapman. Mr. Chapman drew the tickets for these, one bearing the name of Mrs. Shirley Normile, and the second one that of Mrs. Joan Hawley.

Tickets were sold, also, on the floral arrangement on the tea table, and Mrs. Walter Switzer held the winning ticket. Miss Marguerite Way held the lucky ticket for the draw for a garden chair donated by the local supermarket.

A number of volunteers received recognition for their many hours of work in the hospital itself. To Karen Hewitt and Patricia Couchman went the caps which they will now proudly wear as Candy Stripers. Certificates were presented to 20 adults and to 14 younger volunteers for duties in connection with the X-ray department, and to 18 girls, plus in addition.

In spite of disappointment at the change in location, the annual Hospital Auxiliary Garden Party was an unqualified success. The attendance was splendid, with many guests from other cities and towns joining those from the county.

Conciliation Report Expected Today

TRENTON — Mayor James MacDonald said today he is expecting a conciliation board report from talks between the town and the Canadian Union of Public Employees in Trenton.

Today is the deadline for the report.

Conciliation hearings began on June 4 when a conciliation officer was brought in to meet with the town and local 709 of CUPE.

The main issue, according to the mayor, is a demand for an across the board increase of $1. an hour.

Douglas Lindsay, national representative for the CUPE, indicated, at that time, the town's offer was "slightly better" than 25 cents an hour.

The union has agreed on a strike vote if their demands are not met. The workers may walk out seven days after the report is filed.

Further talks are expected to take place to discuss the board's report.

Construction workers devote full attention to the entrance of the new Trenton library annex on Dixon Drive as they strive for a July opening date. The addition will house about 12,000 books.

Library Annex Almost Completed

TRENTON — Trenton's new library annex should be ready by the end of this month.

This was the date given by J. F. Cox yesterday. The chairman of the Trenton Memorial Library said that "in about ten days the exact opening date should be known but right now we are hoping for the end of the month."

It was hoped the unit would be ready by the end of June but "foul weather and difficulty in obtaining some materials" have held it up.

Mr. Cox went on to mention what he called "a hundred and one other details" which had to be taken care of before the opening.

The building itself is located on Dixon Drive at the southeast corner of the Marmora intersection.

The $36,764 unit is being constructed on ground level. The brick exterior is presently being put on the building.

The 12,000 books in the new annex will be for lending while the reference room will remain in the main library on Quinte St. and Fraser Drive.

A staff of three is expected to handle the work in the new building.

A canopy across the front of the building will provide shade or shelter, depending on the weather. Construction has been handled so eastward expansion may take place in the future if necessary.

Divorce Rush

For any number of reasons the parties to divorce actions may not regard the ending of their marriage as a great calamity. There is even a quality of determination and fortitude among those who have waited for years to obtain their freedom under Canada's new divorce laws.

Yet for those who believe in marriage as an institution, men and women who make a commitment to each other and take their vows seriously, there is something infinitely sad about any marriage breakdown. It is a kind of premature dying.

Hitherto the principal ground for divorce in Canada was adultery. Other reasons could be cited under the previous legislation but adultery was the most common. And because of this a frequent ruse by people seeking to go their separate ways, or re-marry, was to establish "evidence" of adultery whether it had been committed or not.

Another phenomenon of Canada's marital laws is the fact that Quebec and Newfoundland do not have divorce courts and applications from those provinces consequently must be made to the Senate. Each week these applications are listed in The Canada Gazette, an official chronicle of government business including proceedings under the Bankruptcy Act — and the names of the parties to the above divorce actions. The issue for the weeks June 8 to 22 inclusive, for instance, listed 44 applications in Quebec. All gave adultery as the ground for divorce and one or two listed desertion as well.

Now with the law broadened to include many other grounds, including what is termed marriage breakdown, the list in The Canada Gazette inevitably will lengthen, just as the courts elsewhere in Canada are already being flooded by divorce petitions. Applications may reach 20,000 annually.

It is a sad development in many ways, but probably a humane one in the long run. The old law lacked both realism and compassion. Moreover, under the new legislation applications likely will level off in time and should make for a happier society at large.

The Litter Problem

Since jobs for teenagers are scarce this year it is encouraging to note that some of them have formed a group to seek employment and to give volunteer service.

There is something else the teens might undertake, if only to set an example to the rest of the community — and indeed to the country at large. We are thinking of the ever-increasing piles of litter that cover streets, sidewalks and even trim lawns and gardens.

Those teens who find nothing else to do could do worse than form themselves into district units to pick up litter. The problem is really one for the city but it can perform only so much. There isn't the manpower available to cover the entire city.

In the ultimate it is a matter for each man, woman and child. Parents and the schools have a responsibility to teach their children not to throw paper or bottles to the four winds. Trash cans generally are within easy reach downtown and in the parks. They should be used.

Belleville is not alone in this problem, but if appearances are any guide the city could well qualify as one of the most litter-bugged in the country. However if Belleville is bad the problem from the national viewpoint is appalling. Every year, according to the Canadian Tourist Association, Canadians dispose of five billion cans, 2.5 billion bottles and jars and billions of miscellaneous packages. Of these a high proportion are thrown out indiscriminately. Litter discarded on the highways, moreover, costs more than $500 million annually to clean up.

Costly North

If housing is scarce and costly in Canada proper, what must it be like in the more remote sections of the country where everything from gasoline to food must be shipped in by a variety of means of transportation.

We say "Canada proper" because people who are long-term residents of the Arctic and sub-Arctic regions look upon the rest of the country as the "outside." Sort of beyond the pale. People living in the far north tend not to want to return to civilization, except for brief visits.

But speaking of housing, Air Marshal Hugh Campbell of Ottawa, a member of the Northwest Territories Council, says action is needed to help northern residents get money to build their own homes. He says interest rates on first and second mortgages in the territories are so high they act as a deterrent to those who otherwise would like to build or buy their own homes.

There is a familiar ring to this. It is difficult enough in areas of dense population. Up north it is harder still.

Ottawa Offbeat

You're Nobody Until Somebody Wants Your Vote

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Isn't it just a bit ironic that you who have been courted and cultivated through these last nine weeks of fleeting time as the subject of all political affection, come up as always, a nobody?

So it might not be too soon again to remind you that after paying the tax bills, footing the election costs and casting the ballots, you did not come in with the winners.

For in all contemporary life there is probably no switch as swift as your status and standing before and after the election.

Before you are everything, in fact, all that counts for anything is you.

After, you are nothing.

It is the same after every election.

There are the winners . . . the new winners who win for the first time . . . the old winners who have won before . . . and the ancient and honorable order of the permanent winners whose winning ways come built-in with their appointed place.

And there are the losers, among them you.

Seeing is believing: so turn to the back pages of the parliamentary Guide and discover the official caste system that few Canadians below the heights of the National Capital probably ever dreamed existed.

It is the table of official precedence, and in case you have been thinking that all men were created equal, better open your eye over it and learn that equality is formally classified.

Some people, — in fact, hundreds, could be as many as a couple of thousand or so — are more equal than others.

There are 26 officially listed gradations of equality, from the Governor-General at the top of the totem pole of precedence to the provincial legislators, the low men there.

But not as low as you who, while paying all the bills for the fuss and feathers of precedence, remain, as always, the lowest of the low.

In this federal "Who's Who," between the GG in Ottawa's Rideau Hall and the hundreds of MLA's in the provincial capitals, rank the prime minister (he's No. 2 in the official pecking order), the foreign envoys (No. 3), the opposition leader (No. 11); the senators and MP's (Nos. 18 and 19.)

And by Order in Council, passed just two years ago — you thought this rigid caste system was a relic of another era perhaps? — official titles, designated forms of proper address were proclaimed for a great many of these chosen people.

How did it all happen?

Here is how, as well out, in part by the parliamentary Guide:

"Precedence has been defined as the priority of place, or superiority of rank in the conventional system of government under which the more eminent and dignified personages of a community are classified.

"... an ordinary sense of decency, not to speak of dignity ... demands that the superiority of the place of honor be put beyond the accomplishment of the assuming upstart and unworthy elements ..."

It all goes back historically to the coronation in 1399 of King Henry the Fourth of England when, by royal proclamation, there was prepared "a table of order of all estates and nobles and gentry."

And while there are no Canadian nobles, there definitely are "estates" of status and official standing, and just as surely, members of the "gentry."

Very carefully. Parliament has refrained from giving this classification of supposedly classless Canadian society any legal or legislative determination.

So, again to read it in the Guide, it is all the quietly discreet imposition of the law of usage and established custom."

It is "precedence" then that separated the "dignitaries" from, well, what, the "undignitaries?"

Look at it more practically and it is "precedence" that separates the taxspenders from the taxpayers.

And policing properly respectful observance of the order are the mandarins, the federal deputies of the Civil Service, who modestly rank themselves No. 21.

Minis Part of the "Scenery"

Old Folk Who Are Young at Heart

ADRIAN WALLER of the Hamilton Spectator interviews residents of an old people's home and obtains their views on the modern generation.

PERCY MARSHALL, 81:

"Mini-skirts? I love 'em. You see more of the scenery. That's what life's all about, scenery. I don't think much of The Beatles and other symbols of teenage life. The Beatles have no talent. None at all. Pop music's for the birds, anyway. I like a good gangster movie and Canadian football on television.

"I spend my time here kidding the girls, and d'you know something? I like teenagers.

* * *

MARGUERITE CUMMINGS, 76: "They're too grown up for their age — too worldly. In my day we had to be in at a certain time at night. We had to stay in and help around the house. We also had to be obedient.

"Some teenagers have there qualities. But on the whole they don't."

* * *

JOHN GRAHAM, who at 100 is Macassa Lodge's oldest resident: "Time young people today are full of life. We should not condemn them for this. They are very interesting people. As for their mini-skirts, I don't worry about these things because I don't think they're important. What is important is that these people should have confidence in heads. Most have. Anyway, I wouldn't want to be a teenager today; I wouldn't even like to be young again. I'm very happy with conditions as they are. Life's been enjoyable. But it's been good."

* * *

ARTHUR COLE, 85: "I think that on the whole, teenagers are more advanced and intelligent. But it seems they do not use their brains to full advantage.

"When I was a young man, there wasn't the same opportunity, partly because of the lack of education. But when you look at some of us old people, we didn't really do that badly, did we? When we were 14, remember, it was a matter of getting out to work not for ourselves, but to help keep the family.

"But this doesn't seem to apply today."

* * *

ADA REGAN, 74: "Teenagers? I don't think very much of them. But they can't help it. It's the way they've been brought up. They're too saucy and their manners aren't very nice. This doesn't apply to all, but generally speaking it's true.

"Mini-skirts? I don't see any harm in them; in fact I've got a little dress myself."

Quebec Leader's Message Speaks of "Two Nations"

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

Following is the text of a congratulatory telegram sent by Quebec's Premier Daniel Johnson to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau following the federal election:

"I congratulate you on your election. The responsibilities conferred upon you by the electorate are very heavy ones.

"I wish you a fruitful term and offer the collaboration of the Quebec government to ensure the wellbeing of each citizen, the prosperity of our country, and the broadening of the two nations of which it is composed."

The last paragraph speaks for itself concerning Mr. Johnson's views on Quebec's status. Needless to say, the results of the election in Quebec province have been interpreted as a repudiation of a "two nations" policy for Canada as well as an endorsation by the Quebec electorate for a unified country.

Mr. Johnson's telegram can be interpreted as a definite sign that Quebec under the Union Nationale government, still will continue to be a major problem for Ottawa as long as Mr. Johnson's administration is in power.

Dr. Penfield Favors The Bilingual Brain

Watertown (N.Y.) Times

Dr. Wilder G. Penfield, Montreal's famed neuro - surgeon, has stepped into a growing school crises in a Montreal suburb, arguing that the bilingual brain is a superior instrument as compared with the early unilingual brain."

The suburb has just voted to teach classes only in French, thus ending use of both English and French in the class rooms.

Dr. Penfield, who retired three years ago to write books, won an honorary degree from St. Lawrence university in Canton N.Y. in 1956. He was cited for his close contact with northern New York through the Neurological Institute, an affiliate of McGill University. Dr. Penfield long argued that man should not specialize to such a degree that he lose sight of the intellectual opportunities afforded to him.

He has tried to prove "it is not true that most men make no contribution to make in the last 20 or 30 years of life." Dr. Penfield spent his active working days specializing in knowing and discovering the complexities of the brain, and now in retirement he uses that knowledge in a broader school crises.

His statement that the bilingual brain is a better brain than a mind tuned to speak only one language, infers much more than teaching two languages to all school children. Dr. Penfield seems to be saying that a school district requiring two languages is better than a district requiring but one.

In the Days of The Village Smithy

Ottawa Journal

Weather - beaten blacksmith shops have gone. Engines have replaced horses and yesteryear's shops are spic-and-span filling stations. The countryman has watched revolutionary changes over half a century and he is opposed to them. Sight miles an hour behind a chunky roader is fast enough to go through life.

The old shop was dark, pungent-smelling and cluttered. Windows were smudged with cobwebs; the floor was deep with hoof parings, debris and dirt. In one corner was a pile of old horse shoes. New shoes hung on rafters overhead — big ones for work horses, small ones for light roaders.

It was always good news on a rainy day when a lad was told to take the team to the shop. The blacksmith was a friend who told stories of farm life. He worked the bellows, took a red hot shoe and pounded it to shape. He dunked it in a tub of scummy water and greasily smoke billowed up among the rafters.

Quickly he lifted a leg and the acrid smell of burning hoof filled the shop. A farm boy learned early that the trick did not hurt the horse. Sometimes the shoe had to be reheated and fitted. When all was ready, the blacksmith drove the nails home with quick hard strokes; he twisted off the nail ends and then smoothed the hoof with a heavy rasp.

Farm boys no longer take work horses to a blacksmith shop. But a countryman knows that a tractor or a car cannot whinny a friendly greeting, and a modern garage is not the same as the old blacksmith shop.

PM and the Baptiste Parade

Vancouver Sun

Journalists who talk to taxi drivers to get the taste of a town court gamble Dominion reaction to Prime Minister Trudeau's attendance at the riotous St. Jean Baptiste Day parade in Montreal shows that some cabbies sometimes make more sense than some politicians and some journalists.

"If Trudeau had stayed away or if he had gone for cover like (Premier Daniel) Johnson, the journalists would have had him," said one. taxi driver as quoted by Sun Quebec correspondent Stan McDowell. "... they would have said he talked tough in the rest of the country but chickened out in Quebec."

Mr. McDowell said the cab driver's opinion seemed to reflect the general view. It would follow then, that the criticism of Mr. Trudeau's attendance made by Premier Daniel Johnson, Marcel Faribault, and Claude Ryan, editor of Le Devoir, did not. This may be the most hopeful sign to emerge from this ugly, dangerous and lamentable affair.

Principals Differ on Release Of Ontario Scholar Marks

MICHAEL FITZGIBBON

MICHAEL MARINO

CATHERINE DONOHOE

DONALD TRACEY

Secondary school principals at Trenton and Picton refused to divulge the percentage standings of individual top students.

The standings were withheld as both schools announced lists of Ontario scholars.

The reactions of J. C. Garrett, Trenton High School principal, and John McNeil, of Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, contrasted with those of other secondary school heads in the Quinte district who yesterday reported the percentages gained by their top students.

Mr. Garrett indicated he believed revealing the standings was the prerogative of each individual pupil.

"I've no great bias against it," he said. "But last year some students didn't want their percentages made public."

The wining scholars, he pointed out, had all taken different credits and therefore percentages "don't mean that much."

At Picton, Mr. McNeil said the 12 Ontario scholarships awarded grade 13 students, was a group achievement.

"These students make up 12 per cent of their class — and the class itself was excellent," he added.

Prince Edward Ontario scholars are: Lesley Baxter, Bob Cairns, Allan Dupuis, Nina Fischer, Dauphne Folkard, Elaine Gilmouki, Pamela Needham, Jack Miller, Lynn Minnaker, Donald Smith, Henry Wormsbaugh, Alfred Winchett.

Nicholson Students Receive Awards

Nicholson Catholic College today announced the names of five Ontario scholars in its grade 13 graduating class.

Donald Tracey topped the list, with an average of 86.2 per cent in nine grade 13 credits. In the fall he intends either to enter Ignatius College in Guelph to study for the priesthood or enrol at the University of Toronto.

Sister Karen Marie Walsh came second, with 85.7 credits.

Catherine Donohoe scored an 81.4 average in nine subjects. Michael Marino, this year's student council president at Nicholson, achieved an 80.5 per cent average in seven credits.

Michael Fitzgibbon averaged 80 per cent in seven subjects.

'No Beer' Possibility Looms in Picton

PICTON (Staff) — Picton hotels aren't dry yet, but the spectre of 'no beer' looms ever larger.

A. K. Black, owner of the Globe Hotel here, said that he expects to hold out at least another week. He explained that he had picked up his last shipment shortly before the strike started.

Norman March of the Rickarton hotel reports a disturbing trend among drinkers. Instead of rationing the remaining supply, drinkers, particularly during the first week of the strike, had staged a rush on the hotel.

Business was up by about 25 per cent last weekend he said. However crowds balanced out during the second week.

Mr. March now expects to stay in business until next week.

The Prince Edward Yacht Club, which has liquor to augment its beer supply, will not last much beyond this weekend, according to officials there.

The Royal Hotel will be closing its doors to the beer-drinking public later today or early tomorrow.

B. C. Hepburn, manager, said that the bottled-beer supply could last until Saturday at the latest but added that he didn't expect it to hold out until that time.

The hotel has been out of draught beer for the last week, he said.

Since the first of the week the hotel has closed at 10.30 p.m. to preserve its diminished supply of beer.

Beverage room staff will go on vacation at the end of that time. The holidays with pay last from one to two weeks, although longtime staff may be kept on for as long as three weeks.

JOHN BARRETT

DONALD SPROULE

Albert College Scholars

A 17-year-old youth from Newburgh, New York, headed the grade 13 class at Albert College with an 87.3 per cent average to become one of that institution's two Ontario scholars this year.

Donald Sproule will enrol in the faculty of engineering at the University of Toronto this fall.

He was offered a total of $2,600 in scholarships, some of which he had to decline.

Donald was president of the class of 1967-68 at Albert, was active in athletics and interested in folk singing.

Another 17-year-old, John Barrett, from Hamilton, Bermuda, also achieved Ontario scholar standing.

His grade 13 average was 83.6 per cent.

John will attend Trent University in Peterborough next year. He attended Albert for three years, was student council president, a prefect, gold medalist in grade 12 and a member of the debating team which placed fourth in Canada in debates at Trinity College School.

Items for the sale were donated. Auctioneer Creighton Carr volunteered his time.

The funds will be put towards community service work by the club.

DEMORESTVILLE — David Boos, of Belleville, is spending summer holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Boos.

Mrs. Roy Covert and Mrs. Everett Wood have returned from a holiday in the United States.

Thursday evening the W.I. entered to a banquet for the teachers, reeve, school board officials and graduates of the Sophiasburg Conival School, after which a program was enjoyed at the school.

Nine Trenton Teens Receive $150 Awards

TRENTON — How would you like to be an Ontario Scholar? All it takes is an average of 80 per cent and a total accumulation of seven credits in grade 13.

Margaret Colbert, grade 13C, received a first in English, mathematics A and B, physics, biology, and a second in chemistry. She hopes to attend the University of Waterloo and will major in mathematics.

Correction

Quinte Secondary School in Belleville, which had seven Ontario scholars to its credit this year, had three students who achieved the honor last year.

It was incorrectly reported yesterday that Quinte had no Ontario scholars last year.

Magistrates Inconsistent, Opposition Members Tell Wishart

TORONTO (CP) — The "mumbo-jumbo" of judicial fidelity in Ontario courts is unnecessary and should be eliminated a lawyer-member of the Ontario legislature said Wednesday.

First to go should be the prisoners' dock, especially in magistrate's court, said Elmer Sopha (L—Sudbury).

Since the majority of those appearing before a magistrate there us only one occasion in their lifetime, "the atmosphere should be as commensurate with human dignity as we can make it . . . and the prisoner's dock detracts from this."

Persons charged are "herded in in something less than human, segregated and kept confined with a guard at their side during the trial."

In supreme courts, it is difficult for a jury not to believe that the prisoner is guilty, Mr. Sopha said.

He suggested that accused sit at a table with their counsel.

Meanwhile, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart faced opposition critics who argued that he should intervene when magistrates make mistakes.

Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park), citing cases where he alleged that magistrates were inconsistent, said a man was fined $200 after pleading not guilty to a charge of illegal possession of beer in a public place when he could have pleaded guilty and paid a $20 fine by mail.

In another case a "hardened criminal" was set free on $200 bail when a first offender accused of the same offence was held on $2,000 bail.

Dr. Shulman said it was obvious that the magistrate had mixed the pair up, but Mr. Wishart had refused to intervene.

Mr. Wishart replied that Dr. Shulman had a misconception of the attorney-general's duties and said he had no intention of intervening since this would destroy the independence of the judiciary.

In other business Wednesday, the legislature:

—Gave third and final reading to 12 government bills, including two which will permit municipal councils to legalize Sunday horse racing and racing boards to introduce bilingual high schools;

—Learned from Health Minister Matthew Dymond that a call for a Pembroke, Ont., ambulance to go to the scene of a fatal car crash in Quebec Saturday was cancelled by the Quebec Provincial Police.

Legal Aid Program Detrimental to Family, Juvenile Courts: Charge

TORONTO (CP) — James Bullbrook (L. Samia) suggested in the Ontario legislature Wednesday the province's legal aid program is having a detrimental effect on the operations of juvenile and family courts.

During the debate on the spending estimates of the attorney-general's department, he also questioned whether or not legal aid should be provided to persons with long lists of convictions for the same type of crime.

He proposed legal aid might not cover the first appearance in family court when the judge is often attempting to bring about a friendly settlement.

Mr. Wishart replied that when the system was introduced, the government hoped it would not get extensive use in family courts, but the right to counsel could not be removed. Some juvenile court judges have said they are grateful for the help of counsel, he said.

Mr. Bullbrook said lawyers often refuse to act for repeaters and suggested some line might be drawn in the legal aid system to prevent it being used by criminals.

"Does our health plan cover a sick elm tree?"

Attorney General Rejects Demands

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart rejected Wednesday opposition suggestions that persons who earn their living by driving should not be deprived entirely of their licences when convicted of impaired driving.

It is impossible to distinguish between classes of people coming before a court on that one can be treated differently from another, he told the Ontario legislature.

The man who drives while impaired is a threat to life, and "is no more entitled to endanger lives because he needs his vehicle to earn a living than is anyone else."

Ron Knight (L—Port Arthur) said the punishment for impaired driving is inequitable because some convicted persons are deprived of their livelihood.

He sugested they should be given a special licence for work purposes only.

Ontario already permits "a person whose licence is suspended for a long term to apply for restricted driving privileges after three months.

NB Supreme Court Rules English Official Language

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Mr. Justice Charles J. A. Hughes of the New Brunswick Supreme Court, appeals division, Wednesday issued a judgment proclaiming English the "official language" of the province's courts.

The court turned down an appeal application earlier by two Quebec students asking that court proceedings be heard in French.

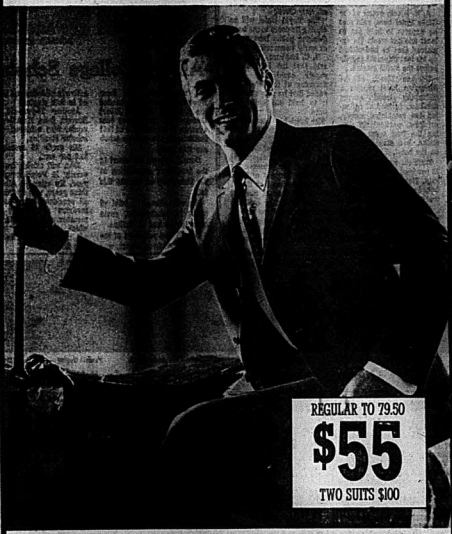
Jacques Belisle, 22, of Terrebonne, Que., and Jacques Moreau, 23, of St. Saveur, Que., filed the appeal application after they were convicted of placing a pig's head in the residence of Moncton Mayor Leonard C. Jones. Both were University of Moncton students at the time.

The ruling says English became the official language of the province's courts through English statute law passed on through the British North America Act.

It cites an act of English Parliament passed in 1650 prior to the restoration of the monarchy.

The act stipulated that court proceedings must be heard in the English tongue only. While this was repealed after the restoration, the judgment says this does not affect its application in New Brunswick.

It says "protection is afforded the accused person who is ignorant of the English language" because evidence is translated to him and his own testimony is translated to the court. "It cannot be assumed that any unfairness will result to him where this procedure is followed."



Add New Ships

HALIFAX (CP) — The current construction program of the Canadian Armed Forces, including eight ships and a submarine, will be completed by 1972, officials said. Last of three Oberon submarines has been launched at Chatham, England, and was commissioned HMCS Okanagan. HMCS Quest, a research vessel, will be ready in April, 1969. Two support ships —Protecteur and Preserver— are due in June and November, 1969. Four helicopter destroyers are scheduled for 1972. Canada's experimental hydrofoil, Bras d'Or, is to be completed Aug. 31.

Child Reveals Gossiping Mother-in-Law

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My mother-in-law is a trouble maker. Talks about us to the other brothers and wives, and has made a split in the family so that they never come to see us.

The final blow came when we were leaving after a brief visit. A five-year-old grandchild came over to the car and said to me, "I know why your voice sounds so funny — you've got cancer."

His grandmother, my mother-in-law, laughed so loud and repeated what he had said. "I was so completely stunned I never said a word. Evidently there has been a lot of discussion about me and since I had laryngitis and a throat operation they have said I have cancer! A five-year-old child could never think of that all by himself.

I feel that they are people who profess to be religious and in reality are evil. My husband has often said that to see them go to church and come home and talk about the minister and his family was just too much. Set Us Straight.

Dear Set: Take a tip from a tiny tot. There is plenty of loose talk going on.

Your job is not loving grandparents for your children, the fact is you haven't got them — at least not on your husband's side.

Be glad you are not living under this meddling, gossipy influence. Be glad of your faithful husband and happy childhood. And see the in-laws as little as possible.

Dear Doris: We are paying on our house and are also plagued with numerous debts (weddings, etc.) which keep us nearly always broke and sometimes unhappy and quarrelsome.

How could one have these debts, or at least some of them put in one payment to ease the burden? Although we both have good jobs I know my

Dear Anxious: Cross words over money rank high on the list of causes of marital discord.

There are some who just don't have enough money to pay their debts; and some, more fortunate, who have enough if it is properly organized.

What we need is a good deal more education in How To Live in a Credit World. Family agencies are pushing for credit counselling services, and we do have some in our larger cities, with others being developed.

Go, with accounts and receipts in hand, to your local caseworking service. for a talk and a plan. A skilled worker will either help you or steer you to where the help is to be had.

I expect you owe a good deal to that wonderfully encouraging rehabilitation worker. Let her know you appreciate her. And you'll be thoughtfulness goes well beyond the call of duty.

Final Sunday Service Held at White's Church

WHITE'S DISTRICT — The final service of White's United Church was held on Sunday afternoon with the Pastor, the Rev. John Bunker, assisted by Dr. H. Swann of Front Road United Church, a former pastor, and the Rev. James Payton of Grace Church, Trenton, officiating.

White's Church has served the community for 127 years, but is being closed to make way for a more modern church to serve a larger community. All who have attended this church for the many community events — the services, meetings, Sunday concerts, dinners, socials and quiltings — are saddened by its closing.

The service opened with singing, and later, a Scripture reading by the Rev. Dr. Swann. Dr. Swann extended greetings to the congregation and commented on past day, and days to come.

Rev. Bunker gave the announcements and thanked Dr. Swann and the Rev. Payton, for attending the final service. Both Mrs. George Bilham and Miss Carole Pesley (president of the HI-C Club) gave testimonials. The last communion was administered by the Rev. Bunker, Dr. Swann and the elders of the church.

Visitors were present from Campbellford, Trenton, Belleville, Wallbridge and Toronto.

WEDDING

BORDEAU — FULTON

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville was the scene of the June wedding when Father D. Cummings joined in marriage Marguerite Louise Fulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fulton, of Belleville, to Joseph Francois Bordeau, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Bordeau of Longueil, Quebec.

Miss D. Grant rendered the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an Empire style gown of peau de sole and Chantilly lace. The shoulder length veil festured a band of white roses and lily-of-the-valley. She carried a crescent shaped bouquet of white mums and lily-of-the-valley.

Maid of honor, Miss Cheryl Waite, was attired in a yellow floor length Chantilly lace gown, lined with yellow taffeta. She also wore a shoulder length veil, with a band of yellow roses and lily-of-the valley.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Rose and Laura Fulton, sisters of the bride, were gowned identically to the maid of honor; with Miss Rose Fulton in blue and Miss Laura Fulton in pink. They carried white mums, tinted carnations and lily-of-the-valley.

Attending the bridegroom was Peter Stanton; the usher was John Le Gresley. The ring - bearer was Master Louis Fulton, brother of the bride.

The reception was held at Moose Hall where the bride's mother wore a lime and Chantilly lace ensemble lined with taffeta with a three - quarter length coat and beige accessories and a complementing corsage of white carnations.

For the wedding trip to eastern points, the bride chose a shocking pink dress with princess line and three - quarter length matching coat, and a corsage of pink sweetheart roses and white accessories.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Jacques Cartier, Quebec.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Father: "Remember how much fun it was shooting off firecrackers when we were kids. Wish I could get a hold of some fireworks for Tom and Jim."

Father: "The state law forbids fireworks because they are dangerous. Years ago, lots of children lost their eyesight or were seriously burned every Fourth of July."

No amount of fun and "good old days" for the injuries children suffered.

Surprise Bridal Shower Held For Bride-to-Be

FRANKFORD — On Wednesday evening, Miss Dorcas Grant was hostess at her home at a surprise bridal shower in honor of July bride-to-be, Miss Donna Adams.

The home was decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells, as was the guest chair. The program began with the singing of choruses. Miss Heather Murray read a poem, entitled "Sweetheart". Three games were enjoyed by the guests, and Miss Adams was then presented with many lovely gifts; for which she graciously thanked her friends.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Miss Dorcas Grant, assisted by co-hostesses Miss Myra and Janice Chapman.

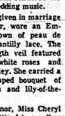
Church Groups

(Ladies' Aid - WMS.)

Deloronto - Women of the Deseronto Presbyterian Church Woman's Missionary Society and Ladies Aid combined for the final get together before the summer months, when no meetings will be held.

This time there was no business meeting, but a potluck supper at the home of Mrs. Don McMillan. It was intended to have a picnic, but the weatherman drove them indoors, as he has so many similar gatherings planned.

Honored guests for the occasion were the minister, Rev. Robert Jones, with Mrs. Jones four-year-old Susan, and Robert, born May 2. In reality, Robert was the star of the evening, as it was a baby shower for him. As he was a bit young to take an active part, his mother and little Susan opened his gifts, and his father read the messages on the cards. The parents extended their warm thanks not only for the gifts, but also for the thought which prompted the evening.



An hour or so of fun followed, with coffeats presented by Mrs. McMillan and by Mrs. Jones.

Ann Landers

No Pregnancy Lasts 17 Months

DEAR ANN LADERS: Is it possible for a pregnancy to last 17 months? Here is my story: I went with this girl for two years. One night I went to another and the next thing I knew Verna said, "We'd better get married right away." Although I wasn't exactly thrilled with the idea, I did the honorable thing and married her that weekend.

A few months later Verna began to wear maternity clothes and complained that her feet were swelling and her back ached. She is in her 17th month as I write this letter.

ANN LANDERS

Verna has gained 60 pounds. She has knit nine baby sweaters, crocheted seven bonnets and five bootie sets. We even bought baby furniture and have a room ready but there is no baby.

My friends and relatives are driving me crazy with questions and I don't know what to say. What does this sound like to you? — DELAYED FATHERHOOD.

* * *

DEAR DELAYED: It sounds like excellent salesmanship with no product to back up the pitch. But don't get the idea that you were framed, because there is such a thing as false pregnancy. It is called pseudocyesis.

I suggest that you have a talk with her doctor at once and learn whether or not a baby is on the way. If so, it's not the same baby Verna talked about 17 months ago. No pregnancy can last 17 months. It only seems that long.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Whenever I'm on the phone my husband walks over to me and says "Who is it?" Then he asks "What does she want?" The next question is, "Why waste your time talking about that?" After a couple of minutes he says, "Get off."

It is awfully hard, in the middle of a phone conversation to answer his questions. It is also embarrassing because the person on the line can hear him. I decided a few weeks ago that the best solution is to ignore him. This makes him furious.

Can you offer a solution? — ULCERS SOUTHERN STYLE.

* * *

DEAR ULCERS: A husband who is so childish that he cannot stand being excluded from anything — even a routine telephone conversation — should be dealt with on the same level he has forced it which he operates.

Keep a note pad and pencil by the telephone. When he asks: "Who is it?" write the name of the person and add, "I'll tell you all about it later, dear." This should quiet the little darling until you get off.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is in the service. My father-in-law travels a lot so my mother-in-law and I play gin rummy almost every evening.

She is a lot of fun and I enjoy her company but I can't afford the losses. Last week I dropped $100 one week before. Bill don't want to insult her or appear to be a poor loser but I'm — HURTING.

DEAR H: Tell your mother-in-law she'll have to cut this stakes or find another fish — I mean card player. This is no insult. It merely shows you have better common sense than card sense. And P.S. Don't bank with nine aller half the deck has been played, Dummy.)

Kitchen Tested Recipes

Easy-to-Make Fritters

By MARY MOORE

A question friends and acquaintances often ask is "Where do you get all of your ideas for your columns?" My answer is "Everywhere — seasons, readers, suppliers, hunger, travel — yours truly!"

This idea for Pineapple Fritters was sparked by my sister's trip to Hawaii this spring.

In February we gave you a recipe for Passenger Fritters in which pineapple tidbits were stirred into an egg-y batter. Today's version uses pineapple rings coated with batter.

Frankly these fritters are a nuisance to make for they have to be fried in deep fat just before they are served. However there are cooks in this audience who care more about flavor and results than they worry about time and inconvenience. (That description fits this speaker from her soapbox.)

Actually Pineapple Fritters, surprisingly are easy to make.

PINEAPPLE FRITTERS
(About 7)

1 cup sifted soft wheat (cake) flour
2 tbsps. icing sugar
1 tsp. baking powder
Shake of salt
1 egg
½ cup milk
½ tsp. vanilla or rum or brandy flavoring

Add 7 slices drained, canned pineapple

Place after - over mixing bowl and into it measure the flour, icing sugar, baking powder and salt and sift into bowl. Add egg, milk and flavoring and with rotary beater beat until batter is smooth. Let stand 15 min.

Pat the drained pineapple slices to dry them somewhat with paper towels. Heat 1 cup oil in shallow pan (about 8" frying pan) to 350 deg. Fahr. Dip one pineapple ring into batter, drain a moment, slip carefully into heated oil and cook are side until golden and carefully turn over with slotted spoon and cook other side. This one test ring is to see if your fat temperature is correct. Now you can cook two rings at a time, but you must watch them every second. Serve at once, sprinkled with icing sugar.

Rail Dispute Settled at All-night Session

MONTREAL (CP) — Agreement hammered out in an all-night session brought an end Wednesday to the threat of a national strike by firemen against Canada's two major railways.

Two separate contracts with Canadian National and Canadian Pacific Railways respectively brought wage increases of 15 to 24 per cent to 3,400 members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen.

Varying increases were settled for three classes of firemen. Those working on freight trains get 15 per cent, those working in railway yards get 18 per cent and those working on passenger trains receive 24 per cent.

The 36-month contract was announced in a joint statement after negotiations led by Judge Rene Lippe of provincial court, appointed as conciliator by the federal government.

The contract is effective without a membership vote because the union negotiating committee was authorized to sign on members' behalf.

A strike by the men was to have taken place last Thursday. The federal government ordered reconvening of the conciliation board, making a walkout illegal, and the union cancelled the walkout.

The contract for the CNR firemen runs' May 1, 1967 to July 1, 1970. That for CPR firemen runs July 1, 1967 to Sept. 1, 1970.

The passenger and freight firemen are paid on a basic day of 100 miles. The yard men have a set daily rate.

Following are basic daily rates paid under old contracts and at end of the new contracts:

CNR

Passenger firemen $14.32
$17.72

Freigh firemen $15.18 $17.46
Yard firemen $17.35 $20.47

CPR

Passenger firemen $14.30
$17.60

Freight firemen $15.18 $17.45
Yard firemen $17.35 $20.47

In both contracts the increases are to be paid in five stages, three of them retroactive.

Kiwanis Endorses Vietnam War

TORONTO (CP) — Kiwanis International closed its four-day 53rd annual convention Wednesday with a strong endorsement of United States Vietnam war policies.

Amid feeble resistance from Canadian and other non-American delegates, the convention passed a tough resolution entitled Defence Against Communist Aggression.

The resolution said:

"It should be the solemn duty of the governments of free people of the world to prosecute this the Vietnam war or any such conflict with vigor and determination so as to secure a speedy and honorable conclusion."

A Kiwanian from Kingsway, Ont., Robert Phillips, told the session he felt it inappropriate for the predominantly American convention to use an international forum to endorse one nation's government.

Bill Lewis, a Welland, Ont., delegate, noted that the Kiwanis motto is We Build and said a "blanket endorsement of the Vietnam war is inconsistent" with that objective.

The voice vote on the resolution ended a 44-minute debate heard by about 7,000 persons in the Maple Leaf Gardens. Most of the 1,365 accredited Kiwanis delegates attended.

Kingston's 'The Animal' Arrested in Quebec

ST. VALENTIN, Que. (CP) — Four young men and a 20-year-old girl, all alleged members of the Satan's Choice motorcycle gang, were arrested Wednesday in a farmhouse which served as the gang's headquarters.

A 15-man force of Montreal and Quebec Provincial Police auto theft squad officers raided the farmhouse in this community 25 miles south of Montreal and also seized eight loaded rifles and a number of motorcycles which they believed were stolen.

Among those arrested was the 22-year-old president of the Satan's Choice group in Kingston, known simply as The Animal. The other youths were from Montreal.

London Police Use Mace

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police said Wednesday they were forced to use Mace, a chemical stun gas, to break up an unruly crowd of about 300 teenagers at a street dance Tuesday night.

About 30 officers were hit by bottles. One was taken to hospital. An auxiliary policeman was beaten about the face and head, two police cruisers were damaged and windows in two buildings were smashed.

Sgt. Russell Culp used Mace, a chemical gas which is supposed to render victims helpless within 30 seconds, to spray three youths who had backed him into a corner during the disturbance. It made their eyes water. Sgt. Culp also got some of the spray in his eyes.

Four London youths were arrested.

In magistrate's court Wednesday, two of the youths, Paul Sydney Phoenix, 21, and Alexander Patrick Kilby, 17, were sentenced to two months for obstructing Constable Chris Allott.

Joseph Albert Tupholme, 18, pleaded guilty to causing a disturbance by fighting and was fined $100 or 30 days in jail.

The fourth youth, Gary Stanley Noseworthy, 20, pleaded not guilty to a charge of assault and his case was adjourned to today. Bail was set at $500.

President Named

TORONTO (CP) — Kiwanis International installed its 1968-69 president Wednesday at the close of the service organization's annual convention.

Harold M. Heimbaugh of Los Angeles took the gavel from retiring president James M. Moler of Charles Town, W.Va.

The 63-year-old lawyer becomes the 31st president of the 225,000-member organization.

Robert F. Weber of Detroit is the Kiwanis president-elect for 1969-70.

Seaway Strike Issue

Trudeau Regime Out to Shed Pearson Formula

OTTAWA (CP) — The Trudeau government, in its first days of majority power, is sitting tight and hoping to rid itself of an albatross that has been around about two years.

By refusing to intervene in the St. Lawrence Seaway strike, it is trying to leave behind forever something that opposition critics called the "30-per-cent Pearson formula."

One critic, Conservative Patrick Nowlan, also called it an economic albatross that "is going to choke the government when it attempts the settlement of other labor disputes."

The Pearson Formula of 1966 averted a seaway strike and ended a Quebec longshoremen's strike but has been an embarrassment to the government ever since.

Mr. Trudeau's handling of the current seaway strike, now in its 14th day is an apparent attempt to ensure that history doesn't repeat itself.

The prime minister set the pattern June 18 by describing as "fair and reasonable" the increase of 12 per cent over two years recommended in the majority report of a conciliation board and endorsed by the seaway authority.

Acting Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey confirmed it this week by refusing a union request to take a personal hand in negotiations.

Mr. Mackasey, a onetime Montreal longshoremen who likes to call himself a "labor man," made a point of linking the refusal with Mr. Trudeau.

He said he had been in touch with the prime minister "who has confirmed that it is not the policy of the government normally to intervene in the free collective bargaining process."

The stance is in contradiction to the 1966 atmosphere when Mr. Pearson himself took part in late-night manoeuvring to head off a seaway shutdown.

The present dispute has all the marks of a test case by the government of its determination to curb inflationary pressures and keep wage increases in line with advances in productivity.

And on the other hand the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, representing the 1,200 striking workers, has accused the seaway authority of inflexibility and threatened to play out its definitely if necessary.

If the government is drawing a hard line, there are several factors working in its favor.

Both business and opposition critics have been demanding tough government action against inflation and can hardly condemn the government for backing a Crown agency in its attempt to hold wage increases in check.

The New Democrats have called for action to hold down prices as well as wages. But with Parliament not sitting, their scope for prodding the government is limited.

Is better position

And Mr. Trudeau, fresh from election victory, is in a better position to take an unpopular stand than former prime minister Lester Pearson ever enjoyed.

While Mr. Pearson insisted there never was a "Pearson Formula," some members of his cabinet have conceded the 1966 settlement had far-reaching effects.

"It set off a round of wage increases and the government was caught up in it," Transport Minister Hellyer said recently.

The seaway authority says its extra percentage point beyond its two-year, 12-per-cent increased wages figure would cost $50,000 a year.

At the same time it is losing $96,000 a day in tolls. The total cost to the economy is not known but inland shippers estimate the operating costs of their idle fleets at $500,000 a day.

Premier in Hospital

Johnson Still Intends To Pay Visit to France

QUEBEC (CP) — No change in plans for a two-week visit to France was announced for Premier Daniel Johnson after he was taken to hospital Wednesday for observation by a heart specialist.

Aides said Mr. Johnson, 53, is weary from overwork and suffering from a heavy cold.

He is due to leave July 11 by air for Paris to stand on the main reviewing stand with French President Charles de Gaulle during the Bastille Day parade July 14.

He leaves France July 21 for London and flies home July 26.

Dominique Lapointe, the premier's press secretary, said of the hospital visit:

"Everything is normal. Mr. Johnson is undergoing examination and is getting as much rest as possible."

The premier is in the Cardiology Institute at Laval Hospital in suburban Ste. Foy.

Mr. Johnson's voice was faint during an assembly committee meeting Tuesday.

Wednesday morning he had trouble breathing when he rose. A heavy cold had made his voice hoarse.

He had breakfast with Roland Giroux, a Hydro-Quebec commissioner, and afterwards was examined by Dr. Yves Morin, cardiologist and director of the cardiology institute.

On Dr. Morin's advice Mr. Johnson went to the institute in Mr. Giroux' car.

Hastings Man Wins Montreal Prize

MONTREAL (CP) — This city, slying away from a possible $50,000,000 tax deficit in 1968, prepares to give away $100,000 worth of silver when 151 finalists in its second "voluntary tax" scheme meet here Sunday.

The finalists, chosen from among 610,000 contributors to Montreal's second tax-gathering venture, were picked Wednesday night in a two-hour draw.

Almost 20 per cent of those drawn to take a chance of the big prize come from outside Quebec.

Ontario had nine finalists (including Gordon Simpson of Hastings) among 28 from outside the province right, were from British Columbia, five from Alberta; three from Saskatchewan and one each from Manitoba, Newfoundland and Nova Scotia. Sunday's questioning of the contestants will be based on knowledge of Montreal, facts about which are printed on the back of each $2 receipt.

Entries in the June contest also included entries mailed from Mexico and Italy. Use of the United States mail to promote the plan has been banned because the scheme is regarded there as a lottery, but a New York City resident was among the winners.

The scheme, devised by Mayor Jean Drapeau to avoid increase city taxes, was planned to take place monthly for one year.

But although two draws now have been held, the question of its legality is before the Quebec Superior Court.

The mayor has suggested the question may go before the Supreme Court if an unfavorable ruling is handed down.

He said in an interview Wednesday night that revenue from the draw will decrease the amount that Montrealers will have to pay in offsetting the expected budgetary deficit.

He said he hoped more persons would take part in future draws after the question of its legality is settled.

Prizes will be awarded in the form of silver ingots worth $100 to the first 100 names drawn Sunday, $500 each to the next 20 $1,000 for the next 30 and a 3,150-pound silver lode, valued at $100,000, to the last name selected. The silver may be exchanged for cash on the spot.

NDP Says Medicare Abstention Costly

TORONTO (CP) — Donald MacDonald, Ontario leader of the New Democratic Party, issued a statement Wednesday declaring that the Ontario government is "blazing away" $650,000 a day by refusing to join the federal medical care plan which went into operation July 1.

"The passed-up grant amounts to $25 for every man, woman and child in this province," Mr. MacDonald said.

"Medical insurance premiums could have been cut in half if the province had opted into the plan."

The NDP leader said a recent study by the Canadian Tax Foundation concluded that the effects of the plan on federal taxes "need not be severe."

He said tre government's refusal to join the plan shows it is "in league with the insurance companies and the medical associations."

Sniper Had Photos of Nazis

NEW YORK (AP) — The slain Central Park sniper who killed a young woman and wounded three men lived in a sparsely-furnished apartment decorated with photographs of Nazi leaders.

Detectives found pictures of Hitler, Field Marshal Hermann Goering and Joseph Goebbels, the Nazi propaganda minister, hung in the gunman's apartment.

They also found a mystery as to his name. A bankbook found in his pocket after he was felled by police bullets Wednesday carried the name Angel Angelof but police said after their search it was "only a part of his real name."

The gunman, using a long-barrelled .45-calibre revolver, brought an hour of terror to a normally quiet corner of the park in the neighborhood of 85th Street and Fifth Avenue, three blocks north of the Metropolitan Museum.

Firing from the roof of a public lavatory, he sent nursemaids with toddlers fleeing from an adjoining playground. Passers-by halted Fifth Avenue traffic and bus passengers dove for cover.

Less than 12 hours after the Central Park incident, another sniper opened fire in Harlem, wounding Patrolman John Mousa, 28, in the leg.

The victim of the Central Park killer was Lilah Kistler, 34, daughter of a Kingston, Pa., physician, who earned her living by walking dogs for apartment dwellers.

The gunman also shot Charles Bach, 30, twice in the back, as he sat on a park bench, and wounded patrolmen Philip Sheridan, 28, and Jess Hubbard, 35.

Miss Kistler was shot through the back of the head when she went into the lavatory after tying the leash of a sheepdog terrier to an outside railing.

Maurice Johnson, 56, a park attendant in charge of the lavatory, heard a noise, apparently the shot, and went from his office through the men's section to open a locked door to the women's section.

"I saw a man climbing above the stalls, breaking open the skylight to the roof," he said. "He had his head through, so I couldn't see his face. I yelled to him something like 'Hey, what are you doing in there?'

"Then I saw the revolver in his belt. He reached for it with his right hand, and I realized we were dealing with a crazy man. So I closed the door quickly and locked it, making sure to take the key."

He summoned police who exchanged sporadic fire with the gunman until two emergency officers arrived and lobbed tear gas grenades onto the roof.

As the gas enveloped the sniper, Patrolman Albert Salan, 26, pulled himself into a leafy maple tree across the street. Braced against the trunk he aimed his revolver with both hands.

"His back was to me and he was firing down from the roof on the guys out front," Salan recounted. "He sensed me behind him and started to turn. I put two shots into him."

Angelof sprawled wounded but not dead. Then Lieut. Arthur Deutsch and Capt. Robert McLaughlin climbed ladders and scrambled over the parapet to blast from close range.

"He was down," Deutsch said, "but he raised up and fired three shots out of his revolver. I let him have 12 in the chest and McLaughlin hit him, too."

From material in the apartment detectives learned he had lived in the Soviet Union, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia before coming here on a Greek passport in 1966.

Quebec Police Check On Liquor Imports

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec Liquor Board negotiators will hand to union representatives Friday draft copies of new contract clauses as part of a bid to end the province-wide employees' strike, a board spokesman said Wednesday.

None of the clauses involved deal with pay, basic issue in the dispute, he added.

The board's 2,500 employees went on strike June 26.

The unions seek a two-year contract with increases of between $31.50 and $7.10 weekly depending on the job classification. The old contract, which expired last November, gave weekly wages ranging between $78.23 and $81.25.

A government spokesman has said the government offer would give employees an average weekly wage of $98.72 at the end of the proposed three-year agreement.

Meanwhile provincial police were getting tough with persons trying to bring large shipments of alcohol into Quebec from Ontario.

Insp. Paul Champagne, head of the alcohol squad for area between Trois-Rivieres, Que. and Ontario, said Wednesday no arrests have been made but five seizures have been made of "abnormal quantities" of liquor including the vehicles used for the shipments.

It would be up to the courts to decide whether to return the vehicles to the owners.

Quebec provincial law forbids shipment of liquor across provincial boundaries by unauthorized persons. Although technically an offence, police were not yet hunting for persons taking a small number of bottles across the boundary. There were no plans to set up checkpoints to check all vehicles entering from Ontario.

New Direction in Eskimo Art

These are three examples of Eskimo ceramics which were recently shown at an Ottawa art gallery. The Eskimos were recently introduced to ceramics at the start of the 1960s and are now experimenting with their new art. On those days when it's so hot and muggy you can almost cut it with a knife, there's nothing to compare with the joy of driving home in an air conditioned car.

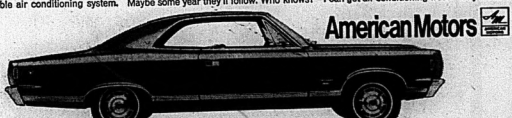
American Motors understands. That's why we put Kelvinator air conditioning into every Ambassador... free! Everyone should be cool.



The other manufacturers don't go along with us on this. They all want more for a car with a comparable air conditioning system.

	Ambassador	Ford	Chevrolet	Plymouth
Standard Equip. Air Conditioning?	YES	NO	NO	NO
Extra Cost of Air Conditioning	NIL	$394.	$458.30	$441.15

Well, we've led the industry before... In rustproofing... In compacts... In single unit construction. Now, it's air conditioning. Maybe some year they'll follow. Who knows?

In the meantime, though, you get two advantages. The sheer pleasure of driving an air conditioned car, plus the increase in trade-in value... just because your car is air conditioned.

On the way home from work tomorrow, stop in at an American Motors dealer and take a test drive in a cool one... a 1969 Ambassador. Then ask yourself: "Why should I suffer when I can get air conditioning free?" Why indeed.

Carol Armstrong demonstrates the fine art of free-style archery which won for her the national women's title in Toronto last August. The city bow-woman journeys to Regina, Sask. to defend that crown later this month.

City Woman Prepares Defence of Bow Title

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Carol Armstrong has a lot going for her in preparing to defend her national women's archery title later this month in Regina — her own backyard practice range on East Moira St., a combination husband-coach, and, she grins, "a neighbor next door who goes to mass for me."

Last year's title win in the gruelling, four-day competition in Toronto was Carol's reward for letting her husband Floyd coax her into archery some four years ago.

It also places the responsibility of a championship performance on her pretty shoulders.

"It means anywhere from two to eight hours practice a day," says husband - coach - chief supporter Floyd, watching Carol's performance on a target some 60 yards distant through a pair of binoculars.

He paused, just long enough to watch Carol fire an arrow into the four-inch, inner-gold target circle that looks pretty tiny from 60 yards.

"And the weather has to be considered a factor. All of the title competition is outdoors, and if there's a wind, the archers have to cope with it."

"I shot in 57 mile-an-hour winds in Winnipeg last year," Carol interrupted. "In really heavy winds you sometimes have to allow as much as two feet on the four-foot-diameter target."

Even in the event the weatherman smiles on Regina for the July 22-27 nationals, defending her women's title will be no easy task for Carol.

For openers, this year's competition will involve some 200 participants in contrast to last year's field of 75 at Toronto.

And cloudy, sunny, warm, or chilly, Carol will still have to draw her 30-pound-test bow about 600 times during the four days of varied competition.

Skills are tested at ranges from 30 to 70 metres, with the target size decreasing as the archer shoots from closer range.

"Field" competition is comparable to playing a skill-testing golf course, says Carol.

"And you don't dare slip," Carol hastens to add, "because you can have 10 shooters with only a point or so difference between them."

Her record under the pressure of top-notch competition is the soft-spoken Mrs. Armstrong's best reference.

She finished fifteenth out of 59 women competing in the last year's World Championships in Holland, and was a member of a seventh - place Canadian women's team.

And she takes pride in the fact that "the best were there" when she won the 1967 national title in Toronto last August.

"We'd just got back from Holland, and I went to the nationals practically on a dare," she giggles.

One corner of the Armstrong living room looks like a jewelery store display window containing her collection of archery silverware.

But instead of resting on her laureis, the 27-year-old champion, under the patient eye of husband Floyd, is preparing for even stiffer tests.

First there are next summer's world championships in Valley Forge, Pennsylvania to think about.

And then, although Carol admits "it's a long time to plan ahead," there are the 1972 Olympics, which will mark the first time in the modern history of the Games that archery competition has been included.

In the more immediate future, she could be a member of the Canadian mixed team vying for the Ambassador Cup against six U.S. archers this September, depending on her performance in this month's national championships.

Meanwhile, it's practice, practice, and more practice, with Carol's bow aimed at the ringed target in her backyard practice range, but her sights set all the way to Regina.

What's It Doing Out Here?

It's a pretty fair shot from 60 metres, but not good enough if you're defending Canadian Women's Archery champ like Belleville's Carol Armstrong. With husband Floyd she examines the results of her daily 2-8 hour practice program in preparation for this year's nationals in Regina. The four-day competition begins July 22.

Joyces Excel With Bat As Opponents Get Dropsy

By MAURICE SWITZER
Sports Editor

Belleville's Senior Joyces last night demonstrated how to capitalise on opposition weakness. The EOBA league - leaders posted their eighth win in nine starts, belting out an 8-3 decision over an error - riddled Bowmanville squad.

Eight members of the Joyce lineup hit safely, while their opponents were hooting, hobbling, and over - throwing the ball eight times.

Catcher Larry Mavety showed the Fairgrounds' spectators why he bats clean - up for the Realtors, hammering out a pair of doubles in four plate appearances, driving in three runs, and scoring once himself. "Mav's" average before last night was a healthy .459.

Meanwhile, Bowmanville third - baseman George Salisbury was playing Santa Claus the hard way, committing five errors that allowed two Belleville runs, and permitted another three eventual scorers to get on base.

Joyce shortstop Gary Goyer found particular delight in giving Salisbury fits, belting three hard ground balls which the hapless third - sacker bobbled. Goyer was safe at first and later scored on each occasion.

The locals had been frantic about the six - week loss of star hurler (4-0) Bill Latchford, who will be attending a teachers' summer course in Ottawa.

But right - hander Joe Hastings rose to the occasion, holding the visitors hitless until the fifth frame.

A four - bit, three - run Bowmanville seventh inning the only blemish on an outstanding 14 - strikeout performance by Hastings. He walked two in throwing a six - hitter.

Left-hander George Jones started for Bowmanville, allowing three Joyce runs on five hits, fanning five, and walking one. He gave way to Jim Moorcraft in the sixth.

The reliever was tagged with the loss, yielding the remaining five Belleville runs on five hits, while walking one and striking out one.

The locals gave Hastings a 2-0 cushion in the first, when Mavety's double over the Bowmanville centrefielder's head scored Craig Rump, who had singled, and Gary Goyer, on by virtue of an error.

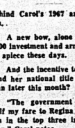
Mavety's second two-bagger — this time to the right field fence — brought Goyer home again in the fifth.

The winning fourth Joyce tally came in the sixth frame. Third-baseman "Moe" Hunter singled through the left side of the infield and advanced to third when Bowmanville fielders lost Doug Dafoe's pop-up in the lights.

Hunter came home on Dafoe's attempt to steal second, which succeeded in drawing a throw from the Bowmanville catcher.

Bowmanville finally got to Hastings in the top of the seventh, collecting three runs on a walk to Kelly, Crombie's home run over the right field fence, and singles by Ball, Coyle, and Jones.

But the Joyce's bounced back with three insurance tallies in their half of the inning, and added one for good measure in the eighth frame.



The loss was the first in three EOBA starts for Bowmanville.

Nice guys don't necessarily finish last, as Leo Durocher used to say.

Sometimes they're just overlooked.

There's one nice gal in this city that has had her share of adversity for being a rarity in this neck of the woods — a national champion.

Carol Armstrong won that distinction for herself last August in Toronto when she was declared the best woman archer in Canada after the annual four-day gruelling test of bow skill.

But Carol's personal sense of accomplishment must be offset by a lack of support from those who have a stake in her success, whether they know it or not — her community and her country.

She's represented both in admirable style, and part of her reward has been a chance to see how discouraging standard-bearing can be in this country.

For carrying Canada's colors as far afield as Holland last year, the champion archer received — absolutely nothing, but about as close to it as possible.

Her husband Floyd estimates that the Armstrong family budget had to yield some $2,000 for the expenses behind Carol's 1967 archery success.

A new bow, alone represented a $100 investment and arrows run about $3 apiece these days.

And the incentive to train and defend her national title in Saskatchewan later this month?

"The government says I'll get half my fare to Regina back IF I finish in the top three in my competition," Carol notes.

The city of Belleville made a present to CaNit last summer of a white competing ensemble, consisting of skirt and blouse.

That was appreciated, but perhaps the city could look into the crannies of its municipal pocket-book now and see some token contribution could be made to a local athlete's career as a national champion.

During 1967, the city's recreation department spent $199 on advertisement, most of it locally.

During 1967 Carol Armstrong advertised Belleville's name all over this province. In the United States, and Europe, while paying her own expenses.

She leaves to defend her national championship in Regina July 22.

She has our wishes for a successful performance, if nothing else.

Laver Advances to Wimbledon Open Finals

WIMBLEDON (AP) — Rod Laver, Australian tennis professional, won't be a penny richer if he wins the first open all-England tennis tournament Friday and collects the first prize of $15,200.

It will be deducted from the money guaranteed to him by his promoter, George MacCall.

"I'm guaranteed $90,000 a year for playing tennis," Laver said as he prepared to play fellow-Australian pro, Tony Roche, in the final.

"Whatever prize money I win here will be paid in against the guarantee.

"But it's not money that lures you to Wimbledon. It's still the greatest tennis title in the world. Everyone who plays tennis seriously has been hoping for an open Wimbledon and hoping to win it."

Laver swept into the final by crushing Arthur Ashe of the U.S. 7-5, 6-2, 6-4 Wednesday.

Roche defeated another U.S. Davis Cup star, Clark Graebner 9-7, 8-10, 6-4, 8-6.

Laver won Wimbledon in 1961 and 1962 and then turned professional. He's the top money winner of MacCall's troupe.

Rocre, 22, and a star of the rival group run by promoter Lamar Hunt, is in the final for the first time.

Both are left handers.

Meanwhile, two American girls were in the lineup for today's semi-finals of the women's singles.

Defending champion Mrs. Billie Jean King, of U.S. professional, faces Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain, in a replay of last years final.

Nancy Richey, American Wightman Cup amateur, plays Judy Tegart, the seventh-seeded Australian.

Mrs. King downed Mrs. Jones in last year's final, and for the last four months has been touring with her in MacCall's professional setup.

Miss Richey won the French title last month by beating Mrs. Jones. The Texas girl has never won a title at Wimbledon.

Tiant Sets Strikeout Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleveland's Luis Tiant threw 132 pitches against Minnesota Twins Wednesday night and 101 were strikes. The other 34?

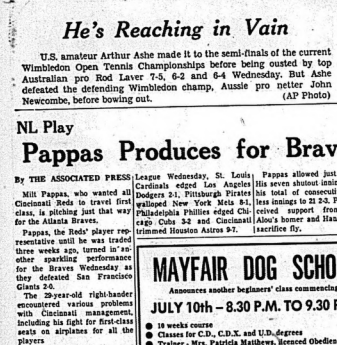
"I don't have good control like I usually have," explained Tiant, whose 19 strikeouts helped him break one major league record and tie another in the Indians' 1-0 10th inning victory over the Twins.

In other American League action Baltimore Orioles swept a doubleheader from Chicago White Sox 3-1 and 1-0, New York Yankees dropped Washington Senators 4-1, Detroit Tigers defeated California Angels 5-2 and Boston Red Sox edged Oakland Athletics 4-3 in 11 innings.

Tiant's 19 strikeouts gave him a two-game total of 32, breaking the record held by Sandy Koufax, and a three-game total of 41, tying the mark set by Koufax in 1965.

Tiant's three-game total was one better than the 40 strikeouts team-mate Sam McDowell accumulated for the AL record earlier this season. His 19 inning total of 19 was two short of Tom Cheney's extra-inning record of 21 set in 1962 for Washington.

Tiant struck out the side three times—the last one in the 10th when the Twins got runners at first and third with none out.



The shutout was Tiant's seventh this season and lowered his earned run average to 1.11—best in the American League.

The Indians let the game's only run in the 10th when Lou Johnson beat out an infield hit and took second on Cesar Tovar's wild throw. Joe Azcue followed with a single to right, scoring Johnson. That was enough to beat Jim Merritt, who allowed just two hits until the 10th.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching—Luis Tiant, Indians, struck out 19, breaking one major league record and tying another as Cleveland shut out Minnesota Twins 1-0 in 10 innings; Tiant has 32 strikeouts in his last two games—one more than Sandy Koufax' record of 31. Tiant's 41 strikeouts in three games ties the mark held by Koufax.

He's Reaching in Vain

U.S. amateur Arthur Ashe made it to the semi-finals of the current Wimbledon Open Tennis Championships before being ousted by top Australian pro Rod Laver 7-5, 6-2 and 6-4 Wednesday. Buti Ashe defeated the defending Wimbledon champ, Aussie pro netter John Newcombe, before bowing out. (AP Photo)

Pappas Produces for Braves

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milt Pappas, who wanted all Cincinnati Reds to travel first class, is pitching just that way for the Atlanta Braves.

Pappas, the Reds' player representative until he was traded three weeks ago, turned in another sparkling performance for the Braves Wednesday as they defeated San Francisco Giants 2-0.

The 29-year-old right-hander encountered various problems with Cincinnati management, including his fight for first-class seats on airplanes for all the players.

The travel feud stemmed from the Reds' policy of handing first class airplane seats to front office personnel, the manager, coaches, press, radio and television people before allocating them to the players. Those players who didn't make it into the first-class section went tourist.

Elsewhere in the National League Wednesday, St. Louis Cardinals edged Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1, Pittsburgh Pirates walloped New York Mets 8-1, Philadelphia Phillies edged Chicago Cubs 3-2 and Cincinnati trimmed Houston Astros 9-7.

Pappas allowed just six hits. His seven shutout innings raised his total of consecutive scoreless innings to 23 2-3. Pappas received support from Felipe Alou's homer and Hank Aaron's sacrifice fly.

Gary Bowerman -- One of Young, Eager Golf Pros On Way Up

By Geo. H. Carver

A momentary cloud of disappointment flashed over the handsome features of Gary Bowerman, as he studied his card after playing in the Bay of Quinte Festival Pro Tournament Monday.

It read 38-38 for a 76-five over par for the dampish windblown course.

Last year, Gary, a Bay of Quinte Country Club protege won the festival tournament with a par 71. Last Sunday afternoon in a practice round he equalled that score firing a hole-in-one on the ninth green.

"Guess it was not my day today" he sighed.

He learned his early golf at Quinte under the tutelage of club pro George Balazs. He took to the game like a duck to water and was rated an outstanding junor of his time. He developed an easy accurate swing and showed early potential of becoming a top golfer.

Development of style, knowhow and a willingness to learn attracted the attention of out-of - town professionals. It was not long before he was offered a position as assistant pro at the Islington, Toronto country club.

Success in this sphere of golf made him decide to take up golf as his life's work. Today he is assistant pro at the Maple Downs Country Club and has set his sights at becoming a member of the Canadian Professional Golf Association's pro tour.

"It is a slow hard road" Gary told me. He played in the recent Canadian Open, shooting scores of 74-75 before bowing out of qualification.

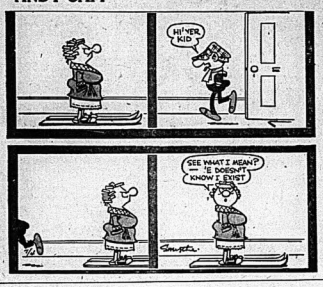
"American pros have a decided edge on their Canadian counterparts" he said" inasmuch as they can play the game 12 months of the year as against six for us unless we take off for the south in the winter months and spend all our money playing in minor tournaments".

"Last year" he said "I saved my summer money and went to Florida to keep my hand in. I came home without a dime cent in my pocket — but I got the experience."

A couple of years ago Gary went south and played in a Florida Keys Tournament setting a course record of 66 and defeating the club's top professional.

But the son of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Bowerman, well-known Bay of Quinte Country Club officials has confidence in himself. He feels that his potential is not yet fully developed. When it is rounded out he feels he will become a regular on the Canadian pro tour.

"With this in mind" he says "I am playing as much winter golf as I can afford but I'll never become a millionaire in the doing. It takes a lot of money what with entry fees, travel, living expenses, tips caddy fees and whatnot."



The American golf tour is not beyond his wildest dreams but that necessitates attending a school, qualification and with successful emergence a wealthy sponsor. Costs amount to approximately $400 a week and according to Gary "That ain't hay".

Ambition fired by practice is showing results. Gary's game is improving with each year. Determination to give all his efforts to the game especially in wintertime is paying off.

Natu ally he was disappointed with his showing on Monday but as he said "it was not my day".

"On both sides of the border" he said" the younger crop of professionals are taking the spotlight from the veterans. Time always takes its toll and within a few years I predict the top ten runners to the bank will be the youngsters of today".

Kidd Makes Hall of Fame

TORONTO (CP) — A world champion curling rink, a Toronto runner and a Montreal sports writer were elected Wednesday to Canada's sports Hall of Fame.

The Richardson rink of Regina, runner Bruce Kidd of Toronto and columnist Elmer Ferguson of the Montreal Star were named by the hall's selection committee.

The Richardsons, a family rink skipped by Ernie Richardson, won the world curling championship on four occasions, a feat unmatched by any rink. Ernie's brother Garnet was second with cousins Wes and Arnold lead and third respectively. The foursome won Canadian and world honors in 1959, 1960 and 1962-as a family unit. Garnet left the rink in 1963 and was replaced with Mel Perry as the team again won world honors.

Kidd, who scored a world schoolboy record in the two-mile event at an indoor track meet in Boston when he was 17, holds the world indoor mark of 13:34.6 for the three-mile.

He also won a gold medal for Canada in the six-mile event at the 1962 British Empire Games in Perth, Australia.

Ferguson, 83, is a veteran of more than 65 years as a newspaper man and sports columnist. He was for 40 years sports editor of the Montreal Herald and retired in 1962. He remained as columnist until it folded in 1957 and then joined the Star.

Departmental Play

Motormen Railroaded

Basement-dwelling Electric Motors saw their last-place plight registered Wednesday night as they fell to the CNR Combines 4-2 in Departmental League softball action.

The motormen tried to even things up by replacing starting pitcher Rick Rosebush with Ralph Boomhower in the sixth, but it didn't help. Combine hurler Junior Day held the losers to two runs on seven hits while walking two and fanning seven.

The two Electric Motors pitchers allowed the winners four runs on three hits, one walk, and two errors and couldn't strike out anyone from the Combines.

The four hits for the Combines were singles by Graig, Lentini, Schrieder, and Mc-Murder.

Bob Dafoe, Glen Reynolds, and Ouderkirk hit singles for the motormen with Rosebush and Ralph Davis collecting doubles.

Twin-Hill Minor Softball Play

Action in the Squirt division of the Belleville Minor Softball Association in West Hill circuit saw Tuck swat the Cubs 7-5, the Reds plaster Peacock 17-16, and the Bombers explode for a 14-9 win over Stevenson.

In the East Hill loop, the Redskins and the Seals took Stephen Licence and Shopping Plaza 9-0 in two default games, Vaughan dumped the Browns 18-11, and Kiddies Korner scalped the Indians 22-7.

Softball Seniors Dumped

The score in Wednesday night's Trent Valley Senior Softball League game between Belleville and Trenton was Trenton Carm's Cleaners 7, Woods' Construction of Belleville, 4.

No score or summary was submitted by the local seniors, who now have a 2-5 season record.

Commercial Play

Belvedere Writes Off One Cinderella Tale...

Two Cinderella teams had their carriages turned into pumpkins last night at the Commercial Softball League doubleheader on the Alemite diamond.

City Hotel, who had downed first place Belvedere Tuesday for a tie with Black Diamond in the No. 3 spot, fell to fifth-place Point Anne 5-2 last night.

And Brants — the league cellar-dwellers, surprised everyone Tuesday night by taking a no-hitter win from Stinsons, but came down to earth Wednesday night by falling to first-place Belvedere 10-4 in a rescheduled tilt.

Brants didn't fully erase their potential with the loss, however. Although starter Gary Matier gave up seven runs on eight hits in one and two-thirds innings, Mark Sheridan, who pulled the Stinson surprise Tuesday came in and proved that there is a possibility the Stinson contest wasn't a fluke.

Sheridan pitched five and one-third innings and gave up three runs on three hits while walking two and striking out five against the powerful league leaders.

Belvedere went all the way with pitcher Glen Gray who gave up the four Brant runs on 11 hits while walking none and fanning four.

Top hitter for the winners was Lyle Wannamaker with three singles, Gary Gow collected a homer in the fifth with a man on and catcher Cliff Hineman connected for two safeties.

... While Point Anne Rewrites City Script

In the Point Anne-City Hotel contest, Point Anne stuck with Jamie Hunter all the way and the pitcher justified the confidence by allowing only two runs on seven hits and three walks, while fanning seven.

City Hotel tried desperately to change their luck with three pitchers, all in the slab. Dave Feeney started the game and went two and one-third innings, then Gerry Genereaux came in for four and one-third innings with "Moe" Hamilton taking over for the last out in the seventh frame.

The three City pitchers allowed five runs on 12 hits and two walks while striking out three.

Top hitters for Point Anne were Jim Horwood and Larry Fraser with two and three safeties respectively.

Hawkins was the only City Hotel batter to connect twice.

South Hastings Play

Plane's Dump Latta 10-5

Latta picked a bad night for its initial home game of the season in the South Hastings Baseball League.

The home team took a 10-5 blasting from Planes.

The whole night started out wrong as the visitors scored six of their ten runs in the first inning, four of them unearned. The Planes nine backed up that inning with a run in the fourth, two in the fifth and a closing run in the ninth.

Latta came up with two tallies in the third and three in the fifth.

Planes took the win behind hurler Bernie Coughlin, who allowed the opposition five runs on eight hits and two walks while fanning two. The hosts committed four errors.

The losers went with three pitchers. John Hall started and allowed one hit and three walks in the first inning, but was replaced in the initial frame by Bob Smith who lasted until the sixth. Smith allowed three hits while striking out five and walking three.

Doug Geen finished off the night for Latta, striking out four and walking one while holding Planes hitless for the final three innings. The winners committed one error.

Bob Moon led the Plane's hitters with two singles. Don Forsythe picked up a double and Coughlin added a single.

Pitcher Bob Smith aided his Latta mates with a triple and a single, Murray Whitmore added a double and a single, Damon Richardson collected a double, and Geen, Royden Mills and Terry Casselman had singles.

Canniton Planes and Latta are jointly sponsoring a dance at Club Cedars at 8 p.m. Friday to raise money for the teams. The public is invited and admission is $3 per couple.

Garagiola Hosts Carson Show

Joe Garagiola, a former big-league baseball catcher and now a sportscaster, tells how it feels to be in charge of a network television show.

By JOE GARAGIOLA

NEW YORK (AP) — There I was, sitting in my office at NBC when the telephone rang and a voice told me a network vice-president was calling.

I had some doubts about what he might want. I learned early in life about telephone calls from the boss. Like the time I was in the bull pen, and the manager called, "Joe, come on in, and bring your glove."

While I was thinking that I was going to get a chance to play, the manager said, "Del Rice (who was catching) broke the webbing on his glove, and he wants to borrow yours."

Each time I got a phone call from the general manager, I figured that I was going to be traded. It was amazing how many times I was right, too.

While I was thinking about these things, the man himself came on the line. I started "Joe, Johnny Carson is going to take a couple of weeks off, and we were wondering how you'd feel about sitting in his chair for one of the weeks he is away?"

I had some doubts, and there were some people I wanted to talk to before I accepted. I'd been on the Tonight show many times, often enough to realize that Johnny Carson's job is not as easy as he makes it look. I wondered whether I could handle it.

One man I wanted to talk to was Jack Paar, who gave me my first big-time television shot on that same show.

Jack told me he was confident that I could do the job and that he'd be glad to give me any help I needed. That offer looked like a nice, hanging curveball, and I jumped at it. I told Jack that if he wanted to help, he could be my very first guest on the show.

They'd been after Jack to go on the show ever since he left it, and to that he'd always said, "No, thanks." When I asked him, he said, simply, "I'll be there."

How well did it turn out? The answer to that is not mine. But I can tell you that it was both a challenge and an exciting week for me.

My guests were interesting and co-operative. If I were doing the show again, I'd like to do it with the same people.

Beatles John Lennon and Paul McCartney were a little bit of a problem when they first sat down. They were tired, they were on the defensive. Eventually, though, they loosened up, and made my job easier. They also made me a big man with an eight-year-old lady in my house.

Before my very first show as the host on Tonight, I got a wire from Soupy Sales. It wished me good luck, and ended, "With your luck you'll probably get traded to Sermonette (the short, cheap religious program on NBC)."

I'm grateful to a lot of people that that didn't happen. Just one thing bothers me. Do you think I'll be traded to Sermonette turned down the deal?

Minor Baseball

Farrell's Have "Fair"-Day

Games in the Belleville Minor Baseball League Wednesday night saw the Farrell bantams top Fair 17-11, Reid's shade Deacon Bros. 11-10 and the Lions Club tie Calcivue 10-10 in the Tyke loop, and Riverside squeak by Watkins 2-2 in the Tadpole section.

Farrells took their win over Fair behind pitcher P. Wolfe who allowed 11 runs on ten walks, five hits, while striking out three. B. Mullins pitched for the losers, allowing 17 runs on eight hits and seven walks and striking out four.

Top hitters for Farrell were D. Woods with two triples, J. Rumore and J. Richardson with two singles. D. Lupenette paced Fair with a double and a single.

Reid pitchers P. Hall and S. Desroches won, allowing ten runs on five hits and three walks while fanning 11. Pitcher B. Loveless and B. Whalen took the losers as they gave up 11 runs on nine hits and 12 walks while striking out 14.

Top hitters for Reid's were I. Hall and Desrochers with doubles. Dave Bros had their plate power in M. Burke with a triple and M. Potts with a triple and a single. B. Loveless had a double.

In the other Tyke division game, Lions Club pitchers P. Weeks and G. Pearson broke even with Calcevue hurlers C. Routley and B. O'Sullivan.

The Lions Club two allowed ten runs on 11 hits while walking two and fanning eight. The Calcevue hurlers allowed ten runs on 16 hits and nine walks while striking out 11.

Heavy hitters for the Lions included P. Weeks with a homer and two doubles and two singles and B. Coughlin and D. Andrews with two singles each. R. Graham paced Calcevue with a double and two singles, and C. Routley had four singles.

Pizza-makers Best Breadmen

Beppi's Pizzaria downed General Bakers 2-1 in the PeeWee division of the Belleville Minor Soccer Association Wednesday night.

The game was highlighted by good offensive play on both sides. Strong goalkeeping for Beppi's from David Finch kept the visitors ahead. Pat Wright scored Beppi's first goal with an assist from Bobby Crawford in the first half. Peter Crawford scored from Joe Muldoon for the winning tally.

Brian Goodfellow scored the only General Baker's goal early in the second half on a deflection shot off a Beppi's fullback.

Gallant Loathed War Years

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Thoughts at Large:

Men who talk freely about their war experiences arouse my mistrust: the most gallant soldiers I have known are those who loathed war service and want to forget it as much as possible.

• • •

The recent publication of my new book reminds me of the only true definition of a "successful" author — one whose royalties make up for the number of free copies he gives away to friends and relatives.

• • •

Social life is based more on appearance than on reality: For instance, almost any woman in the world, faced with the choice, would rather lose her virtue than her reputation.

• • •

The stupidest way to handle a child is to refuse to answer a difficult question because "you are too young to understand"; the child should be told rather more than he can understand, which is how he learns to stretch his intellectual muscles and keep his sense of curiosity in shape.

• • •

Young people need to be taught more forcefully that it isn't hard to achieve success in the world; what is hard is avoiding its spiritual and moral consequences.

• • •

Vacation time is the proper period in which to appreciate the truth of Kin Hubbard's clipped remark of many years ago: "We're all purty much alike when we git out o' town."

• • •

Any touring American who has sipped what is called an "ice cream soda" in France may have some idea of what a Frenchman feels when he takes a taste of what we call "French dressing" over here.

• • •

If I were a workman, I'd be more inclined to trust an emule truth of Kin Hubbard's clipped remark of many years ago: "We're all purty much alike when we git out o' town."

• • •

Any touring American who has sipped what is called an "ice cream soda" in France may have some idea of what a Frenchman feels when he takes a taste of what we call "French dressing" over here.

• • •

If I were a workman, I'd be more inclined to trust an employer who treated me like a man than one who treated me like a child.

• • •

There is a great moral for mothers in the myth of the "Achilles' heel" — it was the place she held him by when she dipped him in water to render him immune from harm; and, of course, the one part of her son she clung to became the vulnerable area he died from.

• • •

The best explanation for the persistence of bigotry in the face of facts was given long ago by Oliver Wendell Holmes when he said: "The mind of the bigot is like the pupil of the eye — the more light you pour on it, the more it will contract."

• • •

A special Toastmasters Award should be given annually to the man who can interest the guests at a speaker's table without using the termpleyer who inherited his least."

Expansion Stepped Up

BC Railway Brings Industrial Boom to North

NORTH VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP) — In northern British Columbia building the Pacific Great Eastern Railway or is the PGE building directors B.C.?

Railway officials really don't care as they point to a year of growing profits coupled with expansion of the rail route which extends from North Vancouver to Fort St. John near the northeast B.C.-Alberta border.

Industrial expansion is booming along the tracks with projects worth millions of dollars either planned or under construction.

This activity has stepped up expansion plans, recently outlined by Premier W. A.C. Bennett, PGE president.

He told an industrial seminar in Prince George, hub of the line's operations, that the route will be extended west to Stewart, B.C., and north to Fort Nelson.

Clearing will start this fall on an 80-mile extension from Fort St. James to Takla Lake and extension of 300 miles from Fort St. John to Fort Nelson will be surveyed immediately.

Last year the company set profit and revenue records with net earnings of $595,322 and gross revenues of $25,000,000—a sharp contrast to losses of $500,585 in 1956, $1,700,000 in 1957 and $486,878 in 1964.

Officials say the railroad is "very healthy" after the first five months this year and "our net position will stay in a reasonable line with that of last year, but that depends on a few ifs."

Chief among these variables is the pending settlement of a labor situation and shipments of Peace River grain and shipments from the Peace projects.

The forest, and petroleum industries have made Prince George in north central B.C. the new focal point of the line's operations.

Development there includes Northwood Pulp, $60,000,000 mill, Prince George Pulp and Paper's $25,000,000 mill, International Forest Products' $20,000,000 mill, B.C. Chemical's $1,000,000 facility and Union Oil's $20,000 refinery which opened this week.

Last year, three planer mills, a pulp plant and several warehouses were completed in the railway's Prince George industrial park, the roundhouse of a line the PGE terms "at the world of beginning from the Peace to the sea."

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials continued their advance in active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Base metals and western oils were fractionally off.

Inco gained 1¼ to 110¾, Leigh Instruments 1¼ to 41, CPR ¼ to 60, Abitibi ½ to 9¼ and Sherritt ¾ cents to $4.70. Brinco slipped 16 cents to $3.90 and Canadian Goldale ¾ to 18.

Jockey-Club, the most active industrial, jumped 35 cents to $3.90.

Noon Products fell ½ to 41¼. The company has signed a preliminary agreement to acquire Reimer Express Lines of Winnipeg in a share exchange. Im-

Castro Produces Negatives Says They Are of Che's Diary

HAVANA (AP) — Premier Fidel Castro gave foreign newspaper men photographic negatives Wednesday night which he said were of Ernesto (Che) Guevara's Bolivian diary.

He challenged President Rene Barrientos of Bolivia to let them compare the negatives with the original seized by the Bolivian government after Guevara was killed.

Castro's government said earlier this week it had obtained a photostatic copy of the diary and published it. Barrientos claimed the diary published in Havana is a fake.

BURNABY, B.C. (CP) — National Leader T. C. Douglas of the New Democratic Party said Wednesday night he will ask for a judicial recount of ballots cast June 25 in the Burnaby-Seymour riding.

Tolerances for Caffeine Vary Widely

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: We have all heard that coffee contains caffeine and too much is bad for the nerves. Because of my one time ulcer, my doctor says I can't have coffee. I substitute coffee, and drink milk and tea.

I hear that tea contains tannic acid which is not too good for you; also, that tea contains more caffeine than coffee. Is it true? — another way of saying tea has tannic acid, or are both equally bad? I drink just as bad for you as coffee? — L. B.

I don't like saying that either is "bad for you." Rather, it is a matter of individual tolerance. Too much of either — meaning too much caffeine — can produce symptoms (largely nervousness, jitters, etc.) in anyone. But the amount that is "too much" varies enormously from one person to another.

A strong cup of tea can contain more caffeine than a weak cup of coffee, and vice versa. Roughly speaking, a strong cup of coffee brewed from a tablespoonful of coffee grounds will have about the same caffeine content as a cup of strong tea brewed from a teaspoonful of dried tea leaves.

But as a general thing, most of us tend to drink coffee stronger, and we usually do not brew tea as long because of the bitter taste that can develop. In short, ounce-for-ounce, tea leaves contain more caffeine than coffee, but the usual methods of brewing generally mean that tea is weaker than coffee in the final liquid we drink.

The puckery taste from overbrewed tea is from tannin (not tannic acid) which is extracted by long brewing. This is quite apart from caffeine.

For most folks, there's nothing wrong with having a properly-brewed cup of coffee or tea. It perks you up. Too much can make you jittery.

As to controlling ulcers, it is my policy always to restrict coffee, tea and tea, because the caffeine can stimulate acid production in the stomach, which is what we want to avoid.

A weak cup of tea or coffee, if you can stand it, probably would do no harm, but I find that while most patients do not like weak coffee they often find very weak tea tasty enough. That's probably the reason for your doctor's advice, barring coffee but not tea.

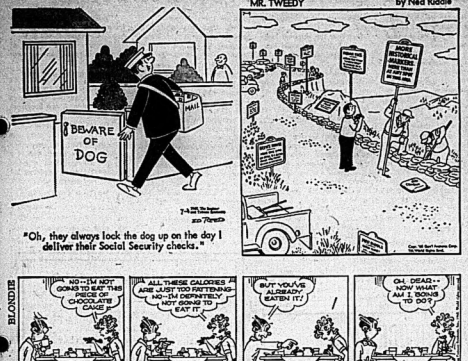
The final answer, however, depends on how you are affected, and that can be, as I said, wide differences. Some folks take a cup of coffee at bedtime and still sleep like baby. Others, with the same amount of coffee, will be stimulated to insomnia, palpitation, and nervousness.

That's why I say we can't be arbitrary and say a hot cup "isn't good for you." It depends on your personal tolerance.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: I've written to you before but did not get an answer. Is "virus of the testicle" the same as lymphopathia venereum? — D. F.

You didn't get an answer because I have no way of knowing what was meant by "virus of the testicle" I guess. You'll have to ask whoever used the term to explain what he meant by it. As far as I guess, it might be lymphogranuloma venereum, or "venereal warts," caused by a virus, a transmissible disease (usually by sexual contact) which causes a warty-like growth.



• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Occasionally a small white gristmay appear on the surface of a piece of curled-up string, comes out of my mouth. I can feel it coming up from my throat. How can I tell if I have worms? — Mrs. J. D. H.

Have your physician examine the substance with a microscope. It is most unlikely that this is a worm.

It Will Be Long, Dry Summer For Ontario's Beer Drinkers

TORONTO (CP) — A long dry summer appears certain for Ontario beer drinkers as the province's major breweries and 2,700 striking workers both warned they plan to stick by their guns.

The workers, members of the International Union of United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America, were told Wednesday night by their negotiators the strike will be a long one.

Meanwhile, the breweries and their sales co-operative, Brewers' Warehousing Ltd., ordered their non-striking foremen to go on vacation—an indication no new bargaining sessions are scheduled.

Latest developments left the beer drinker with only two small breweries in the province still producing. Both of those reported demand well ahead of sales Wednesday.

As the strike entered its 14th day, the following developments were reported:

—Formosa Springs Brewery Co. Ltd., the province's only non-union brewery, announced its outlet in Formosa, Ont., will be open today until its 2,000-case supply is exhausted. Customers are limited to one 24-bottle case a sale.

—Dominion Northern Ontario Breweries, the only other brewery unaffected by the strike, reopened outlets in Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Timmins and Port Arthur Wednesday but customers were rationed to two cases a sale.

—Beer sales in Hull, Que., across the river from Ottawa climbed more than 70 per cent and deliveries are being made around the clock.

—The Liquor Control Board of Ontario announced a noticeable increase in liquor sales.

—Hotels and taverns across the province closed their doors and laid off waiters as the beer supply ran out.

—Customs officials at the United States-Canada border stepped up their check of cars to maintain a Canadian limit of 40 ounces of alcoholic beverage brought into Ontario.

In Toronto, a union statement said a presentation will be made to Prime Minister Trudeau saying the union has reports of pressure being put on the Liquor Control Board of Ontario to import beer from outside the province. So far, it said, the board has refused to submit to this pressure.

"If any attempt is ever made to break the strike by bringing beer in from outside the province, you can rest assured that the organized brewery workers in other parts of Canada and the U.S. will not stand for this type of strikebreaking and will close it down every operation trying to break the strike."

The beer sequence has made the province's drinkers jittery to say the least.

At Formosa, a village of about 300 persons 35 miles southwest of Owen Sound and in the heart of Ontario's cottage country, the brewery opened at 10 a.m. Wednesday and was forced to close at 2 p.m. when beer ran out.

Despite a limit of one case to a customer, police had to station a car near the outlet to keep traffic moving.

Dorsan's Breweries was forced to close its outlets in the Sault, Port Arthur and Sudbury Saturday when they ran out of stock and they didn't reopen until Wednesday.

"We believe we can keep up with the demand now," said J. M. Coulter, the company's general manager. "We're putting a limit of two cases per purchase but a customer can go out and get back into the lineup again."

Beer parlors continued to close throughout southern Ontario and most centres reported drought was sold out.

Hotels in the Galt, Preston and Hespeler areas expect their bottle supplies to run out today. Barrie hotels reported bottle supplies running low and most beer parlors are closed.

In Brockville, one of the city's two taverns is already closed and the second is expected to exhaust its supplies soon. Many Brockville residents have taken advantage of their proximity to the U.S. to quench their thirst and several bars at border points are accepting Canadian money at par.

Meanwhile, bootleggers are having a field day. In Stratford, the tab on a 24-bottle case is $23 —a profit of $17.31 a case.

While some beer drinkers turned to wine or liquor, others have tried to make their own beer. One Alcheser supermarket said it sold a normal month's supply of homebrew kits in three days.

Sorry Spring and Sad Summer for Students

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sorry spring has merged into sad summer for thousands of unemployed Canadian students.

Manpower centres across the country unanimously report more idle students and less available work than last year. In some cases, the slump is the worst in five or 10 years.

A cross-Canada survey by The Canadian Press shows that provincial and municipal governments, as well as many companies, are following the austere lead of the federal government by cutting their hiring to the bone.

In Montreal, Winnipeg and Vancouver at least, some companies have decided this year to close down for a holiday period, releasing their entire staffs. For the first time, they will need no summer replacements.

"Bleak," "very bad" and "grim" are words being used by officials of Canada manpower centres in cities from St. John's, Nfld., to Vancouver.

"The whole economy has slowed down and jobs are fewer," says Alice Martin, student placement officer on the Regina campus of the University of Saskatchewan.

"More students than any other year and fewer jobs than in the last 10 years," says Murray Perry, spokesman for manpower's Pacific region.

In Montreal, the Man and His World exhibition hired 2,500 students, and some have since been laid off. Its predecessor, Expo 67, hired 10,000. Fewer than one in five Montreal students has a job.

The situation in Toronto appears better than anywhere else, but compares unfavorably with 1967.

It is too late now in Saskatchewan for university students who have not found a summer niche.

The British Columbia forest industry, usually a big summer employer, has endured one strike and another threatens.

One result of the job famine has been the decision of many students to keep studying. Summer school enrolments are up at some universities.

Further, university registrars expect virtually all students to return to class this fall whether or not they have built up a nest egg. Bursaries, loans and dad's bank account will absorb the shock.

The picture by regions:

ATLANTIC PROVINCES

"The situation is really bad here," says Clarus Barrett, manpower's student placement officer in Newfoundland.

"We have had a number of students who were unable to find work in Newfoundland go to the mainland and even in Toronto, they were pounding the pavement unable to find an been placed, and perhaps another.

He attributes the job shortage to a general economic slowdown.

In Halifax, manpower centre manager Norman Muir says the main problem is the increasing number of students in the labor market.

Of 1,500 who have applied to the centre, only about 250 have been placed, and perhaps another 250 may get some employment for part of the summer.

In Saint John, N.B., the best many students can expect is work for a week or two.

"Many employers who normally hire undergraduates each summer just do not have the requirements this year," says an official of the manpower centre.

QUEBEC

Layoffs due to a slump in tourist business are making the situation in Montreal worse now than a month or two ago, say placement officers.

The manpower centre has 7,000 students registered and expects more now that high school is out.

"This year the situation looks very bad," says Raymond Poirier, metropolitan manager of the centre.

"Last year was a special situation because of Expo, but this year is far worse than 1966 as well."

One-sixth of the students at Sir George Williams University have found work.

"The public service usually have about 2,000 summer openings in this area, but now they aren't giving students summer jobs because of government economy," says Denis Seguin, director of the university's placemnt service.

Fifteen students at Loyola College have told Graham Nevin, president of their student association, that they cannot afford to come back this fall.

ONTARIO

The University of Toronto had placed 2,537 of 4,628 student applicants in jobs by June 30, compared with 2,238 of 3,124 at the same time last year.

York University placed 192 students in jobs between May 10 and June 18, but 800 still were looking. The university says prospects are picking up.

The Toronto manpower centre this year has students directing separate employment units in each of its nine metropolitan offices. The experiment is working out well, but the job situation for students is described as tight.

Ottawa placement officers report that some students who turned down jobs at $1 and $1.25 an hour this spring are not so fussy now.

Mrs. Irene Tremblay at Carleton University is critical of students who "want high money for a job they're not qualified to do."

"Parents are going to have to make their kids go out and earn," she says.

Summer school enrolment at Carleton is up 22 per cent over last year.

WESTERN PROVINCES

A slowdown in construction and its supporting industries has hit Manitoba, and the province lacks the boost it enjoyed in 1967 with the Pan-American Games.

In Edmonton, the University of Alberta has found work for 700 of 3,500 applicants, and the manpower centre has placed 116 of 3,278 registrants.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

In Vancouver, manpower's Murray Perry estimates B.C. has 4,000 unemployed students.

Use of Mace Destroys Public Respect for Police---Wishart

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario police forces were told by their attorney-general Thursday that by adopting unproved weapons like the riot-control chemical Mace they destroy public respect for the law and create the impression they are the public's enemy.

In a warning only slightly veiled in the niceties of legislature debate, Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said he hoped municipal police officials can be persuaded to stop purchasing and using Mace so that it will not be necessary for him to introduce emergency legislation to ban the chemical.

In his third attempt to influence police by persuasion—Mr. Wishart says he has no authority under existing legislation to do anything more—he repeated his warning that police using Mace may be liable to court action if damage results to its victims.

In at least two cities, however, police scoffed at the warning.

Chief Finlay Carroll of London, Ont., where Mace was used to subdue teen-agers during a street disturbance Tuesday, said his department is equally liable to legal action through indiscriminate use of firearms.

And in Stratford, Deputy Chief Norman MacDonald said the department is liable to action for use of any weapon, "billy, boots, fists, guns, anything."

Chief Carroll said London officers will continue to carry and use Mace until he is instructed not to do so by the attorney-general's department.

Deputy Chief MacDonald said the chemical has been used on two occasions in Stratford.

Mr. Wishart, obviously upset as opposition members Thursday night peppered him with evidence of widespread distribution of the chemical he says may be dangerous, pleaded through the legislature for police restraint in the use of all weapons of force.

Mace, a chemical delivered in a spray from an aerosol can, can temporarily render unconscious those it touches.

Its United States manufacturers say it is harmless, but American health authorities have warned about possible harmful effects.

Police make a serious mistake when they think they "must carry a canister to spray in the face of a drunk," Mr. Wishart said in reference to an incident in Preston, Ont.

"We don't need that type of force in this province."

Too many Ontario police forces are copying law-enforcement agencies in the U.S., when force of any kind is rarely necessary here.

Mace has not been proven safe, it is an unnecessary weapon and Ontario police have not been properly trained in its use, the attorney-general said.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon, reading from an article in the Hamilton Spectator, indicated Mace has been obtained by several police departments in addition to Hamilton, London and Stratford.

Preston, Hespeler and Waterloo police have it but will not use it again until the attorney-general approves.

Windsor, Amherstburg and Sandwich West townships also have it and say they will like it if necessary.

Police in all centres claim it is more humane than bullets or billies.

Donald MacDonald, leader of the provincial New Democratic Party, said that if municipal police continue to use the chemical against the attorney-general's advice then "the government must protect the people against the police."

Alan Grossman, minister of corrections, told Mr. Nixon that to his knowledge the chemical has not been obtained for use by guards in Ontario institutions.

The agent for a Preston company which has supplied most of the Mace sold to police departments was reported to have said it was purchased for some institutions.

Sales also were reported to the RCMP.

No Mace in Belleville

Deputy Chief Harold Reid of the Belleville police force said this morning that Belleville has never had Mace.

However, he stated that he did not see anything wrong with it if it was proven harmless.

"There are some rumors," he continued, "that it causes permanent eye damage — I wish someone would clarify this one way or another.

"If it isn't harmful, then it is really no more than normal tear gas," he finished.

Egypt Would Accept Return of UN Force

Peace Hopes Raised

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON
Associated Press Staff Writer

Senior diplomats in London say Egypt has offered to take back a United Nations peacekeeping force on its soil as part of an Arab-Israeli settlement.

Meanwhile, a boost in Egyptian military spending was reported in Cairo.

The diplomats in London said the readiness of Egyptian President Nasser to restore a UN peace force under some guaranteed form of tenure has been conveyed to the mission of UN envoy Gunnar Jarring.

It was deemed a hopeful development because Nasser's expulsion of UN troops was a major factor in the train of events that led to the six-day Middle East war of June, 1967.

In Ottawa, a spokesman for the external affairs department

100 Police Pour Bullets Into Jail

CHICAGO (Reuters)—Prisoners fought a two-hour gun battle with police and guards in Cook County jail early today during an unsuccessful escape bid.

Before the attempted break was quelled, two prisoners were wounded—one shot as he clambered over the 20-foot prison wall—and a guard was injured when he was throttled by steel wire.

More than 100 police and guards poured gunfire into the jail on Chicago's southwest side after five prisoners escaped from their cells, attacked and overpowered a guard, seized his rifle, and forced three other guards to hand over their uniforms at gunpoint.

Police dogs roamed around the prison as powerful searchlight beams swung across the compound and lit the walls during the gun battle.

Five prisoners got into a courtyard, crept up behind a guard and throttled him with a two-foot length of steel wire, grabbing his 30.06-calibre rifle, the officials said.

Then they went to the basement and caught three other guards about to go on duty who were changing into their uniforms. The prisoners forced the guards to hand over their uniforms, donned them and raced for the prison wall.

Four of the prisoners clambered up the wall and police in an adjoining parking lot spotted them scrambling along the top of the wall and prevented their escape.

Johnson Cancels His Trip to France

QUEBEC (CP) — The first medical bulletin is expected today on the condition of Premier Daniel Johnson whose planned two-week visit to Britain and France was cancelled after he entered hospital here Wednesday.

Mr. Johnson, 53, was taken to the Quebec Cardiology Institute Wednesday morning suffering from a heavy cold and what was described as "circulatory troubles."

Jean Loiselle, one of Mr. Johnson's public relations advisers, said Thursday night it is likely the premier will remain at the institute for 10 to 15 days before a proposed transfer to a Montreal hospital.

His doctor said Mr. Johnson's condition is satisfactory but he would not give further details.

Still Some Beer Left, If You Are in Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — There is still some brew left in Ontario, but the beer drinker may have to be a hospital patient in Toronto to enjoy it.

The chief maintenance staff at Toronto Western Hospital trucked in a good supply prior to June 21 when 300 workers at the Toronto plant of Molson's Breweries walked off their jobs.

Beer, liquor and other alcoholic beverages are dispensed through hospital pharmacies. Doctors sometimes prescribe beer, ale, stout or porter to regenerate failing appetites or as a kidney stimulant.

Toronto General Hospital also anticipated the strike and a spokesman said Thursday that the hospital has enough beer for another four or five weeks. Beer consumption is about 30 bottles a day, he said.

Only Baby Food Provided
Police Plan to Starve Out Aussie and Bride Hostage

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Police today decided to starve out an armed man who has held his new bride and their baby son hostage in a country cottage near here since Tuesday.

Norman Allan, New South Wales police chief, gave the order to some 50 policemen surrounding the house to send in only baby food. No immediate results were expected as the man is believed to have enough food to last three weeks.

The man, 23-year-old Wallace Mellish, has threatened to kill his wife Beryl, 18, and their 11-weeks-old son if police try to arrest him. But Allan promised no charges would be made against him if he came out of the house unarmed and with the woman and child unscathed.

Prisoner Tries To Seize Plane

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A prisoner aboard an airliner carrying 71 passengers tried to hijack the plane Thursday.

John Hamilton Morris told a stewardess: "I've got dynamite in this bag. Turn this plane around and fly it to Mexico."

The stewardess told the pilot. He told aviation authorities in Los Angeles by radio. They ordered the plane to slowly circle southern Nevada. Then, as the plane landed here, Morris bolted for the door. His guards grabbed and subdued him.

His Round-world Solo Voyage Selfish Project Declares Rose

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — Alex Rose woke up today after a good sleep in a stationary bed, went back to work at his vegetable shop and dismissed his round-the-world solo voyage as a selfish project — not important.

The Queen today granted him a knighthood.

Lavish headlines and editorials celebrated his homecoming Thursday from his 28,500-mile voyage in the 36-foot ketch Lively Lady, and the cheers of a crowd of 250,000 echoed through this historic English seaport, his hometown.

But Rose, 59, took it all as quietly as if it hardly mattered.

He said he felt he had been a bit selfish — "just going off and doing something that I've always wanted to do since I was a child."

But he felt a better man.

"One must have the shadows of life to appreciate the light," he said.

In 354 days at sea, Rose endured the ultimate in loneliness and stared death in the face.

Seven Ontario Families Settle Thalidomide Case

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyers for seven Ontario families with thalidomide babies said Thursday there has been an out-of-court settlement in a $10,000,000 damages suit against the American manufacturer of the drug.

Donald P. Traci of Cleveland and Allen M. Linden, an Osgoode Hall law professor, said they will not disclose the amount of the settlement involving seven Toronto and Hamilton couples.

Mr. Traci said the settlement was approved by Chief Justice Dalton Wells, Richardson-Merrell Inc. of Ohio, the company involved in the suit, had initiated the talks, he said.

The Ontario actions were brought by Carmine Molisse, Carl Betson, Patrick Gallagher and their wives, all of Toronto and the Settle, Hatch, Nemoh and Breeden families of Hamilton.

Hospital Now Collector for Minimum Ambulance Service Fee

Since Sunday of this week ambulance firms don't have the spectre of collection hanging over their business but it doesn't mean the service has become absolutely free to the user.

Starting this week the Ontario Hospital Services Commission will pay ambulance firms for all patients taken to hospital. However, it has transferred the collection responsibility from the ambulance company to the hospitals.

Anyone Can Become A Master Beer Brewer

Two ways to dampen the beer strike — take a trip to the U.S. or Quebec or brew your own beer.

And you don't have to be a chemical engineer to do it.

Price - wise, approximately $12 for the first 40 bottles, home made beer is well within everyone's reach.

After the first batch the price goes down to $4. — basic stock, it's all up to the brewer.

Before the person starts his home brewery a letter of consent must be obtained from the Registrar of Excise Duty at 1 Front St. West in Toronto.

From that point on it's clear brewing . . . and nine days later (when the batch becomes drinkable) you can enjoy the fruits of your labor.

The letter of consent stipulates the beer produced will be for the use of the applicant and adult members of his family.

As for guests being allowed to have a drink . . . it doesn't say yes . . . but then it doesn't say no either.

Drugstores in Belleville who handle the homebrewing equipment and the necessary ingredients, malt extract, yeast and clarifier, have noticed a definite increase in sales.

"But it's not nearly the jump that they're getting in Toronto," stated one manager.

Other stores in the area have also noticed an increase in sales of brewing ingredients.

John Hill, Quinte Secondary School teacher now taking a guidance counsellors' course, works the switches of an air change system in the Deloro-Stellite factory here. He is one of four teachers gaining on-the-job experience in local industry during the month of July.

Snake Harmless Technician Claims

A research technician at the Entomology Laboratory in Belleville, Thomas Stovell, identified a snake believed to be a Copperhead as a milk snake.

"First," he said, "there are no poisonous snakes in this part of Ontario . . . and there aren't any Copperheads in Canada.

However, there are quite a few milk snakes — they're the third most common snake in the Quinte region.

Mr. Stovell pointed out that they are harmless and are helpful to farmers as they consume rats and mice.

As a matter of interest milk snakes don't even have any connection with cows or milk.

Around the "Cat"

Three rinks of women's trebles journeyed to Peterborough on Wednesday to engage in the Dorothy Gimlett Memorial trophy tournament and a rink of Irena Trudeau, Thelma Fitzgibbon with Grace Clapp as skip won three games but were only in third place in the Belleville tourney.

Two other rinks, Anne Avery, Kay Fuller with Millie Smith as skip and Eadie Elliott, Pearl Carr with Vera McIntosh as skip won two games but not enough score to get into the prize money.

On Thursday afternoon the regular women's schedule was played at the local greens and a rink of Thelma Fitzgibbon and Carm Mott won top score.

A rink of Pearl Legault, Ann Watkin with Edna Jackman was second and Anne Avery with Betty Vince was in third place.

There were seven tables of bridge in play in the clubhouse during the afternoon and the bowlers joined with the bridge players to enjoy a social hour at t'e conclusion of the games.

The tea hostesses were Bernice Wills, Ilene Coyer, Irene Whalen, and Teresa Zelly.

Beer Almost Gone Throughout Quinte Area

Drier by the day is the story shaping on the beer situation up in the Quinte area . . . and now even the last supplier of Canadian beer is beginning to ration.

Proprietor of the Queen's Hotel, Ben Yanover, is not selling beer between two and four o'clock in the afternoon.

However, Mr. Yanover says his supply is dwindling quickly. In the evening the Queen's sells what's left of the day's allocation and then . . . no beer 'til the morrow.

Not far away the Quinte Hotel isn't as lucky . . . they ran out of Canadian beer two nights ago.

A spokesman said that up to yesterday afternoon there were a few bottles of imported brew left but it's doubtful that it will be there for long.

And the Belvedere Hotel, which had a good supply of beer a few days ago, has gone dry.

"We couldn't control the crowds that were in here," said the manager, "they drank us dry and we even had to close up early a couple of times."

As for local bootleggers, they're raising their prices, that is, if they have any beer left.

Beer was selling at most illicit sources for $8 to $10 for 24 bottles — compared to $4.70 for 24 at the warehouse.

Those bootleggers that still have beer left have raised prices to between $12 and $15 for a case of 24.

That's not quite as bad as the prices in Stratford which have skyrocketed to $22 for a 24-bottle case.

One supplier said that a few loads of Quebec beer coming into the area had hurt the bootlegging business — the Quebec beer was selling for $7 a case.

Peace

said Canadian authorities had no comment to make on the reported Egyptian proposal for a return to UN peacekeeping.

Efforts toward a settlement of the June war have been stymied by Israel's refusal to give back captured Arab lands without direct negotiations with the Arabs, and the Arabs' refusal to meet face to face with the Israelis. The United Nations has called for Israel to withdraw from captured territory and for the Arabs to end their belligerency toward Israel.

Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain told reporters in London Thursday that prospects for progress in the Middle East seem better.

One encouraging development, he said, was a statement attributed to Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Riad that "we recognize realities and Israel is one of them."

But the Egyptian government, in announcing a $4,600,000,000 budget Thursday, said it was geared mainly to "sacrifices to enhance military expenditure and to liberate Arab lands occupied by Israel."

No defence figures were disclosed, but semi-official sources said this year's defence appropriation is the highest in Egyptian history.

A special $293,250,000 emergency fund was created to consolidate the armed forces and popular resistance against the Israeli occupation of the Egyptian Sinai Peninsula and the east bank of the Suez Canal.

Nasser conferred for the second day today with Soviet leaders in Moscow, and observers said the visit could provide a chance for Egypt and its Soviet patron to weigh any new efforts to end the Middle East stalemate.

However, it was understood Nasser also would ask for more Russian arms aid.

Sisterly Registration

Playground supervisors Peggy Ackerman and Tom Gill took care of the registration of their summer responsibilities this morning. Sydney Richards and her sister Peggy of 281 Bleecker Ave., get their names on the list.

Teachers Back at School

Four district teachers have gone back to school for the summer.

Nothing unusual about that, but in the case of these men their classrooms are local factories and their instructors industrial workers on the job.

The teachers, John A. Dixon, John Joseph Doran, Clive J. Kingston and John W. Hull, are completing a four - year summer course in guidance counselling.

During July, each man will spend a week in four different city industries, gaining on-the-job knowledge of the qualifications employers look for in high school graduates.

The program here was arranged by the Chamber of Commerce and the Ontario Department of Education, in cooperation with the industries concerned.

Industries involved are Steelwarner, Stephens - Adamson, Northern Electric, Mead Johnson, Union Carbide, Deloro-Stellite, Belleville General Hospital and the C.N.E.

"This experience has been invaluable for me," Mr. Hull said as he watched Deloro-Stellite workers mix the Stellite alloy in the factory.

"I'm gaining an insight into what industry requires of our students and knowledge of how to prepare them for what they can expect on the job."

Mr. Hull, a chemistry teacher, gained a bonus at Deloro. He claimed he learned many practical applications of the theoretical chemistry he teaches, which he will use to illustrate his courses next year.

The teachers will spend a week at evaluation seminars in Toronto before receiving their specialist certificates.

Government Endorses Dundas Street Project

Work may start late next standing-most-debated public project in Belleville's municipal history.

The first phase of the Dundas Street traffic artery across the Moira River has received formal provincial government endorsement.

Approval of the Highways Department for the construction of an overpass across the CPR tracks from Dundas Street West, was received at city hall today.

It was the first of three phases in throw a new main traffic route across the Moira River.

The $361,804 contract was granted to a local firm — Lightfoot Construction — last week by city council.

A Lightfoot spokesman said at yet the contractor had received no notification of the provincial - government approval.

However, he said, it meant that work now would probably start in the "latter part of next week."

The contract calls for the project to be concluded within 120 working days.

Allowing for normal bad-weather holdups and a winter shutdown, the project would be completed about next June, said the spokesman.

moving away for a few days.

"It's upsetting our whole family life," he complained this morning.

Last night, after a hectic day of answering the front door and telephone, he and his family went to bed early — ending a series of overnight ghost-watching vigils that began a week ago.

Nightly since last Friday, he has shared the watch with his older sons, neighbors and friends.

In that time, claims Mr. Coulthard, household articles have flown through the air, a window and a wine - glass have been mysteriously smashed inside the home.

Thursday night he said he had moved his wife out of the home. Last night, however, the family was reunited — and went to bed early — leaving the residence undisturbed.

"I gave instructions nobody was to stay up and start anything," says Mr. Coulthard.

As a result, he had no new manifestations to report today. But, he added, "things are there to happen if you want them to happen."

He says he will wait awhile before renewing his investigations into the happenings in his home, when the presence of youthful humour apparently provokes the disembodied visitor.

Forewarned

Whenever life is quiet and uneventful — as it is for the most part in Canada — it is a mistake to suppose that it will ever be thus.

Consider the student riots around the world, in France, in Germany, in Italy, even in England, and then look at Canada. Here there has been relative calm, apart from the recent trouble at Simon Fraser University in British Columbia and earlier demonstrations in Toronto against the war in Vietnam.

With a population of only 20,000,000 spread across a vast area, the seeds of emotionalism have less cause or opportunity to come into play than if the populace numbered many more.

There is nevertheless a continuing trend toward urbanization. As cities become more crowded, and afflicted with the associated problems of congestion, pollution, racial differences and poverty, so the sociological problems tend to increase also and there is tension. In such a situation student restlessness tends to flourish.

Dr. Claude Bissell, president of the University of Toronto, has been looking at student agitation and he predicts that Canadian universities have about two years to ward off demonstrations and protests similar to those that have been occurring overseas.

In that time he says the universities must try and sort out what students will demand and find the answers, or be forced to accept student solutions. Dr. Bissell does not anticipate anything as violent as the European-pattern demonstrations, or even the eruption at Columbia, in New York, but he does suggest the universities should anticipate student demands and provide solutions.

That is where student representation on university administration comes in. It was an issue in the Simon Fraser dispute and it could arise again at other institutions. If students in an era of increasing emphasis on youth are aware they have adequate representation on university bodies, the less trouble there is likely to be.

The Big Thirst

There is something rather pathetic about the great thirst that grips the province as a result of the brewery strike.

People are charging about hither and yon in search of those elusive cartons of beer. Even single bottles are becoming scarce and two breweries unaffected by the lockout were obliged to close briefly to replenish their stock.

For these two establishments it has been like the gold rush of '98. In addition, large sums of Canadian money are filling United States coffers as people flock across the border to quench their thirst.

Efforts are being made to obtain additional supplies of overseas beer. But here too the fellow in search of a cool drink is out of luck to some extent. Nine thousand cases of European beer are reported to have been caught up in the St. Lawrence Seaway strike.

As we were saying, it is a little pathetic. Canadians like their beer, but an enforced period of abstinence could improve waistlines and health generally.

Aid for Police

Let's hope it is not an indication of violence to come, United States-style, but police forces here are starting to equip themselves with significant new defence equipment.

In London, Ontario, a police sergeant is reported to have used Mace, a gas that stuns its victims, against three teenagers during a recent disturbance at a student street dance. The gas hitherto has been used only during race riots in the United States.

Meanwhile, in Montreal, where 44 police officers required hospital treatment following the St. Jean Baptiste Day disturbances, the city's new riot squad is sporting knee-to-head plastic shields, three-foot long batons and plastic face masks brought in from the United States.

Trouble had been expected on Dominion Day but it did not materialize. One thing about such equipment for the police, it is defensive rather than offensive. And it should save lives. There are too many people around only too willing to make trouble, and threaten life and limb, that any reasonable measures of defence must be considered legitimate.

Revisionism—From Prague to Peking

Russia Putting the Squeeze on Czech Liberals

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News Analyst

The liberal reform movement in Czechoslovakia's ruling Communist party is facing increased Moscow pressure.

An unrelenting Soviet attack is supporting the conservatives who have a stake in the hard line and want no part of reform.

Moscow thus presents a curious spectacle these days. On its left, China blasts away at the Soviet leadership as a bunch of revisionists seeking to restore capitalism.

At tre same time, Soviet ideological artillery thunders at Prague, accusing those who stand for liberalization there of revisionism and of endangering the authority of Communist parties throughout the bloc.

The Kremlin seems intent on making it a long, hot summer for the Prague liberalizers. Almost daily the Soviet press carries suggestions only thinly veiled that Czechoslovakia is on the verge of counter-revolution and that something should be done about it.

The campaign continued into July with a big blast in Izvestia assailing a few Czechoslovak writers who, it claimed, sowed distrust of the Soviet Union, downgraded the Soviet "liberation" role in the Second World War, endangered the authority of the Czech Communist party and belittled the party's role in the last 20 years.

A Prague radio correspondent in Moscow characterized all this as a "vast campaign." He took particular note of many meetings organized around the Soviet Union in support of the People's Militia in Czechoslovakia. That was organized 20 years ago when the Czechoslovak Communist party was taking over the country. It is armed. It has privileges it wants to protect, and it is considered the most hidebound of conservative Communist organizations in the country.

There have been suggestions from reformist Czechoslovaks that this military arm of the party should be demilitarized or at least put under government control rather than the control of the party alone.

The campaign is echoed elsewhere in Eastern Europe by attacks on "rotten bourgeois liberalism and abstract humanitarianism."

"From the way the press presents events," wrote a Yugoslav correspondent from Bulgaria recently, "it is clear that the socialist development in Czechoslovakia is feared here, and those aspects of the development are disapproved which Bulgaria's leadership dislikes and does not want to have at home."

The result of the Soviet campaign may be, at the least, a slowing down of the reform movement. Czechoslovak leaders obviously are apprehensive that if their reform goes too far or too fast, the Russians will take steps, possibly by helping the conservatives to power again.

Farm Accidents Exact Heavy Toll in Canada

Regina Leader-Post

There are more than 100,000 people in the farm population of Canada involved in accidents each year — and of these, about 30,000 receive permanent injuries and more than 2,200 lose their lives.

This tragic loss could readily be reduced, says Norman H. Bell, president of the National Safety League of Canada and general chairman of the Canadian Highway Safety Council, which are co-sponsoring the annual observance of Farm Safety Week next month.

Mr. Bell has made an urgent appeal to all persons and groups serving or allied with agriculture to intensify efforts to curtail farm accidents, emphasizing the fact that farm safety is a family affair involving everyday hazards in living, working and playing. "In industry," he says, "there are safety engineers. On the farm, the entire family must work together to eliminate hazards and forestall careless acts."

He recommends that every farm family take advantage of Farm Safety Week to work out a safety plan for the farm—the home, buildings, fields, machinery, chemicals and all other aspects of farm life.

"Make the plan work and reap happiness and satisfaction," he said in a statement drawing attention to the week.

In Saskatchewan, since spring work started on the farms, there already have been several deaths reported which were caused when tractors turned over on municipal roads.

Airline Passenger Volume Becoming A Headache

Ogdensburg Journal

In the airline business, apparently, nothing succeeds like success.

Expecting a passenger volume of 220 million people a year by 1975, airline executives, airport managers and architects are already getting headaches trying to figure out how to handle all of them.

Just getting 500-some passengers on and off one of the new jumbo jets will be problem enough, let alone arranging for all their baggage to turn up in different cities.

One suggestion that is being run through the fan jet is see if it smokes is to "preload" passengers. This has nothing to do with liquor, although that might help.

The idea is to have passenger pallets that would move into an airplane with passengers already in their seats, thus saving the unloading and deplaning time.

It's coming to that.

Family Doctors Are Scarce

London Free Press

The disappearance of the family doctor is a problem of crisis proportions in Canada, it is confirmed "by discussions of medical organizations in London. It is more serious in smaller communities where the family doctor is the only doctor.

Dr. J. F. McCreary, of the University of British Columbia, told the conference that soon after the close of the Second World War 23 per cent of those involved in medicine were specialists. In the 1960s that number has gone to 50 per cent.

The lure of specialised medicine once had something to do with economics. Today doctors are being driven out of general practice by the sheer pressure of workload.

Fitness Keeps Heart Beating

(Dept. of Health)

Can a man who has had a heart attack come back? The answer is an emphatic yes, according to the Department of National Health and Welfare. The department's booklet "Get Fit — Keep Fit" says that a heart attack, for most persons, leaves no permanent disability. Recent studies show that more than 85 per cent can and do return to work after the heart has healed from an attack. Exercises of gradually increasing intensity are prescribed by heart specialists. A person can be more fit after an attack than before. However, it is wise to consult your personal physician before undertaking a program of activity. Have a check-up, and if you're found fit, give your heart a break — exercise intelligently.

Tommy Douglas' Defeat

Petrborough Examiner

Defeat for T. C. Douglas, the New Democratic Party's indefatigable hatchet, constitutes a bitter pill for the party. Although not damaged numerically as were the Conservatives, the New Democrats sustained a moral defeat. Not only was Douglas defeated but the younger, new wave went down with him.

Douglas's defeat is attributable to several factors among which political candor must be considered the biggest mistake; by admitting publicly that there was little chance for his party to form the government he must have done himself and others inestimable harm. Being the remaining 'old' party leader in the light of the Tories' and Liberals' bright new hopes, was a force of circumstance which also left him at a disadvantage when added to the fact that the party's platform, while timely and sound, was presented in a rather shopworn fashion. The electorate had all heard it before.

The effect of Trudeau and an able team with whom the electors of Burnaby-Seymour were thoroughly familiar proved just too much for Douglas. His greatest establishment Tommy Douglas often proved that he and the NDP were more incisive in their parliamentary tactics than the other Opposition parties. When Parliament is reconvened there will be 23 NDP members but it is doubtful that they will be the same scrappy, zealous bunch as before without their Douglas.

Queen's Park Will Enforce Basic Shelter Exemption

The Globe and Mail

If landlords have started to wear a hunted, persecuted look, venturing out of doors only after dark and under heavy disguise, one can readily see why. Circumstances (and to some extent their own behavior) have conspired to make them objects of considerable suspicion.

A group, they are enjoying the benefits of a sellers market, as St. Allen Leal, chairman of the Ontario Law Reform Commission, pointed out, but when they gain on the seller's market swings, they appear to have lost on the social roundabouts. They are being nagged and harangued from every quarter.

Premier John Roberts was at it again recently, warning Ontario landlords that if they tended to be sticky-fingered about passing along the basic shelter exemption allowances to their tenants, they would face prosecution and fines. They have had the firm Commisalch has undertaken a special study to determine the extent to which the tenant is getting a rough deal from his landlord. It's open season, and the air is full of verbal buckshot.

Wheat to China—From India!

Daily Telegraph, London

Incredibly, after two years of drought and semi-starvation, the world's largest recipient of aid now faces a crisis of apparent plenty.

The news that thousands of tons of rice and wheat are being privately exported from India to China will be received with mixed feelings by the international consortium of donors, including Britain, who are almost permanently seeking to stave off disaster in India. In particular, the United States, which has given and lent to India in the past two decades on an unprecedented scale will see irony in the seepage of food to an arch-enemy, China.

The export of food, which is desperately needed at home by any normal standards, is an indication of just how intractable are India's age-old problems.

Seaway Representatives Attempt to Resume Negotiations

OTTAWA (CP) — Representatives of the St. Lawrence Seaway and its striking workers sit down together for the first time in five days today in an attempt to resume negotiations.

In the 15th day of the strike that has tied up the waterway, the two sides will meet with a labor department representative, William J. Kelly, director of conciliation and arbitration.

President W. J. Smith of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, said the session is designed to clarify positions rather than to negotiate.

Mr. Smith called on Acting Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey last weekend to convene such a meeting in view of "distortions" by the seaway authority about the reasons for the breaking off of a secret negotiating session.

Mr. Mackasey refused the union leader's request to preside personally at the meeting but Mr. Smith said Thursday night he is content with Mr. Kelly's presence.

"He'll give an accurate report to the minister—I'm sure of that."

When the secret session broke off Sunday, Mr. Smith said, the authority was holding to its offer of a 13-per-cent increase in two stages—six per cent in each year of a two-year contract.

Since then, he had read in the press the authority statement that it was prepared to discuss a compromise between 12 and 13 per cent, but that anything above this would be irresponsible.

This "doesn't appear to leave much room for collective bargaining," he said.

The CBRT is demanding increases of 16 per cent in the first year and five per cent in the second year of a two-year contract for the 1,200 striking workers.

The authority has said that the Sunday meeting broke down when the union refused to modify its demands. The union said it came down to the 15-per-cent total from 18 per cent, but the authority insisted this was "not a new concession."

Labor Minister Pepin meanwhile endorsed the decision of Mr. Mackasey, who has been acting in his absence, not to intervene directly in the dispute.

It is not government policy to have ministers intervene directly, he said in an interview, although they must sometimes act through the department to get the two sides together.

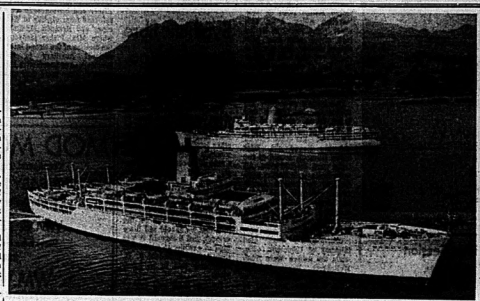
Government policy, he said, is "to hold the line and advise the heads of government agencies that wage increases should be linked to increases in productivity."

"We don't want ministers to get involved in the front lines of these disputes within Crown agencies but they'll always be there behind the lines," Mr. Pepin said.

Bolivian Head Talks With LBJ

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (CP) — President Johnson today faces a microcosm of the problems facing most of Latin America when he has a private talk with Bolivian President Rene Barrientos Ortuno on the LBJ Ranch.

The meeting with Barrientos, a U.S.-trained pilot who became a general and then president of his country, is one of the key points in Johnson's current round of hemispheric diplomacy.



The United States has poured more than $300,000,000 worth of aid into Bolivia since the Second World War but has cut down drastically on its aid in recent years.

Johnson is interested in wining support from South American leaders for accelerating the pace of Latin American integration, particularly in multi-national works which tie the continent together.

Barrientos is interested in modifying U.S. surplus tin disposal policy because of what Bolivia considers adverse effect on its exports of the metal. Bolivia's main foreign trade staple.

Johnson will take part in a Central American summit conference this weekend.

He will fly to El Salvador Saturday for talks with the chief executives of Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica and el Salvador.

Nigeria's Potential Riches Offset by Bloody Civil War

LAGOS (AP) — Nigeria, a country of vast potential riches and the most populous in Africa, continues to wallow in a bloody, year-old civil war and efforts to arrange a ceasefire so far have been futile.

The federal government in Lagos holds the upper hand in the fighting and has occupied large chunks of the secessionist Eastern Region—Biafra—and most of the area's major cities.

Both sides would like to end the conflict that has driven the country to the edge of ruin, tortured millions of refugees in Biafra and killed untold numbers of Nigerians.

But ceasefire negotiations in May broke down in disagreement over conditions. The Biafrans want an unconditional ceasefire and withdrawal of federal troops. Lagos wants assurances, before it withdraws its forces, that Biafra will rejoin the federation as three separate states.

Contacts are continuing and there is a possibility new talks may begin in London.

Meanwhile, the situation in Biafra grows more and more desperate. There are an estimated 4,500,000 refugees in what is left of Biafra and a generation of youngsters in the area is being crippled by protein starvation, relief officials say.

International relief agencies say that as many as 1,000,000 Biafrans will die of starvation before the end of summer unless more food can be supplied to the Biafrans, now jammed into about 10,000 square miles, what already was the most densely populated territory of Africa.

The area is under tight blockade by the Lagos government and the federal air force of Soviet-built MiGs and Czech-made Defina controls the air.

Montreal Tax Plan Falls Short

MONTREAL (CP) — The money taken in by the city in its voluntary tax plan appears to be far short of the amount expected by Mayor Jean Drapeau when he announced that the plan was being set up.

In two monthly rounds, the city has received a total of $2,485,000—$1,250,000 in May and $1,235,000 in June—for an average monthly take of $1,242,500.

If the current trend continues, the city will draw $14,910,000 a year from the plan—less than half the $32,000,000 it was expected to take in.

Operating expenses, including the awarding of $150,000 in prizes each month to contributors and the mailing of contribution forms and receipts, were to take up about $4,000,000, while the rest was to balance a forecast municipal budget deficit.

If the plan is unsuccessful, it will probably mean a tax increase for Montrealers to pull the city out of the red for the 1968-69 fiscal year.

The Quebec Superior Court is testifying the legality of the plan under Criminal Code provisions against lotteries.

A draw Sunday will determine the distribution of the 1951 prizes ranging from $100 worth of silver for the first 100 winners whose names are drawn to the $100,000 stack of silver ingots which goes to the last person selected.

But winners will have to answer skill-testing questions on Montreal to collect their silver prizes, which may be converted to cash on the spot.

United Church Marks 100th Anniversary

LONSDALE — After having been closed since last July when the doors of so many small churches were closed in this and in other areas, the Lonsdale United Church was open last Sunday afternoon for a service marking its 100th anniversary. The church was filled and Rev. Willard Hendry, pastor of the Quinte charge.

A group of children sang a selection directed by Mrs. Francis McCullough.

It was a happy occasion, and yet a sad one. People greeted each other warmly, glad to be in the old church once more, but sad to think that it would again be closed next Sunday.

Following the service friends and relatives decorated the graves in the churchyard with flowers.

Gregory Waning In Hunger Strike

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Entertainer Dick Gregory, showing signs of "physical distress" in the 23rd day of a fast to protest racism and war, ordered taken to hospital in nearby Tacoma Thursday.

The Negro civil rights activist has taken only distilled water since he was jailed June 7 on a 90-day sentence for illegal net fishing two years ago to dramatize what Washington Indians claim is a state violation of their traditional fishing rights.

Jack Tanner, Gregory's lawyer and a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Washington governor, said Gregory was released from the jail after a physician noticed a "sharp deterioration" in his health.

He was reported in "satisfactory" condition in Tacoma General Hospital. Other details of his ailment were not released.

Tanner said Gregory "has ordered his wife not to consent to medication or intravenous feeding" at the hospital and "asked me to take whatever legal steps necessary to prevent them (the hospital) from doing so."

The Tacoma lawyer said Gregory's weight has dropped to about 110 pounds from about 135 since he was jailed.

Blames Metal

LONDON (Reuters) — Metal fatigue caused the crash of an air freighter which killed six persons and eight prize horses at London Airport Wednesday, a Board of Trade assistant said Thursday night. It said there was a complete failure in the mechanism operating the landing flap on the port wing caused by a wrecked rod. Passenger flights by other Elizabethan aircraft were grounded for checks.

Man She Dated Is 15 Years Her Senior

By DORIS CLARK

DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Late last summer I started going out with this guy 30 years old. I am 20. My parents objected to my seeing him so often, so in January I decided it would be better for everyone if I quit going out with him. I later found out that my mother did not really object to my seeing him.

Months have gone by now and I still think of him every day. Now that I've had a chance to think about it, I don't find that 15 years' difference is that much. I know lots of people around our place that have a big difference in age and are happily married.

Would it be wrong of me to ask him to come back to me? — Anxious

Dear Anxious: Ask yourself: (1) Do you miss him because of the emptiness of Saturdays and Sundays?

(2) Have you really given dates a chance?

I don't mean trying a one-date judgment of a comparative stranger; but a friendship with a 20- or 25-year-old might bring some unexpected common interests. Fifteen years is nearly a generation of difference.

If you feel sure of your feelings and want him back, write a note saying you miss him. Invite him to call up and drop in for coffee some evening. Then it's his move.

* * *

Dear Doris: Since I am not working I cannot afford to travel by bus, so I ride my bicycle wherever I go, unless I am wearing heels and dressy clothes, and then I walk. Most people think there is something wrong in my riding a bicycle. They always have some smart remark to make when I ride by.

This upsets me to the extent that I begin to think I look funny riding a bicycle. When I ride it, I am usually wearing slacks or a decent length skirt. — Sensitive.

Dear Sensitive: Ride it out: the jeers, I mean. You are the smart one, to get your daily dozen while getting places free of charge.

QUEBEC (CP) — Carolyn Firth, a 16-year-old Quebec high school student, has won the Gold Cord, the highest honor given any guide or ranger. It is presented to one outstanding guide every three years, Carolyn had to have three years of work behind her and complete seven assignments and tests in camping, first aid, crafts and housecleaning.

In some highly civilized countries, like Great Britain, it is quite the thing for adults to ride a bike to work. And to picnics. And to distant cities and resorts.

Perhaps then, you might relieve him of responding to the toast to the bride's mother. Instead, have a toast proposed to the two mothers, with the groom's father as responder.

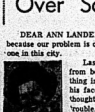
QUESTION: Would you give the recipe for your cookie called Mud Pies? — Mrs. El E.

ANSWER: This was popular so I am repeating:

MUD PIES
(Repeated from August, 1965)



2 cups white sugar
½ cup milk
½ cup shortening
5 tbsps. cocoa
1 tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. salt
3 cups quick-cooking oats
1 cup fine coconut

In a saucepan bring all but oats and coconut to boil. Remove from heat and at once add oats and coconut. Stir well. Cool a little then form by neat spoonsful approximately 1½" in diameter, onto wax-paper-covered cookie sheets — about three. Allow to harden. These keep well in covered tin cookie box. They must be one or two hours old before serving. We have kept them as long as three weeks.

Ann Landers

Parents Heartbroken Over Son's Problem

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife suggested I write to you because our problem is one we don't want to discuss with anyone in this city.

ANN LANDERS

Last week our 16-year-old son came home from boarding school. He said he had something important to tell me. From the look on his face I knew he was distressed. My first thought was "He's gotten some girl in trouble." Well, Ann, I wish it were true. It would have been simple compared with the real problem.

The boy confessed he is a homosexual. His mother and I are crushed. I blame myself for failing as a father. I feel guilty for not spending more time with him. My wife says this way of life was probably inflicted on him by the other boys at school. Is it possible?

Our son has always been a fine student, an outstanding athlete popular with both boys and girls. He is also very handsome, almost beautiful, which adds to the problem.

Should we send him to a co-ed high school next fall? He says he doesn't want to see a doctor because he's not sick. I assure you that his mother and I are. Please advise. — HEARTBROKEN DAD.

DEAR DAD: Insist that the boy see a doctor. There's a chance that he might not be a homosexual. The amount of ignorance on this subject is appalling.

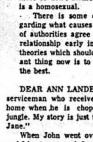
A co-ed high school might be a good idea. A change of scenery and companions could be helpful. Be aware, however, that homosexuality cannot be "inflicted on" a normal male so don't blame the school if it turns out that the boy is a homosexual.

There is some disagreement among the experts regarding what causes homosexuality while the vast majority of authorities agree it is the result of a poor child-parents relationship early in the youngster's life, there are other theories which should not be totally discounted. The important thing now is to get the boy to a doctor and hope for the best.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You hear a lot of talk about the serviceman who receives a "Dear John" from his girl back home when he is chopping his way through some faraway jungle. My story is just the opposite. You might call it a "Dear Jane."

When John went overseas I promised to write every day and I kept my word. I sent him newspaper clippings, snapshots, homemade cookies, also many small but thoughtful gifts. I do voted all my spare time to letting him know I loved him and was living for the day when he would come home. This went on for ten months.



John was never a letter writer so I didn't expect much, but when he did write, his letters were warm and wonderful and I read them over so many times I knew them by heart.

Yesterday I received a note saying, "Sorry, I didn't tell you sooner but I'm going to marry a Red Cross girl I met here the week I arrived."

I am in a daze. I don't know if I should forget about him, write him and wish him luck, or hope he'll change his mind and come home to me after all.

My parents think he played a rotten trick on me. I'm confused and hurt. Please advise. — JANE.

DEAR JANE: Pick up the pieces and get back in circulation. And don't be bitter, dear. A lonely guy 8,000 miles away from his girl is exceptionally vulnerable. The females he meets overseas may not be overwhelming but they are over there.

Self-improvement Plan Success

By Reba and Bonnie Churchill

Have you heard about "Project Advance?" It's a self-improvement plan we developed for a group of young people, and now it is winning national recognition. Instead of goofing off during the summer, they invest four hours a week in a personal expansion program. Part is spent in philanthropic work, part in individual accomplishment. As Universal actress Sara Lane discovered, even a visit to a museum, art gallery or photo exhibit can broaden your interest. The line, color and composition pointers learned here can be applied everywhere from selecting clothing to illustrating a term paper.

If you have no one to guide you in your personal improvement plan, let your librarian help you. There's a whole world at your fingertips. She has lists of the top fiction and non-fiction best-sellers. Scan a few of these books, and your conversation will be sprinkled with up-to-the-minute topics. Dig into reference material on party planning, etiquette, foreign languages, finance, make-up, craft projects, politics, then try adapting the helpful information to your needs. Don't shelve the ideas: utilize and share them.

The information obtained from these learning "safaris" also can benefit others. And such study projects need not be confined to indoors. For instance, Sara, seen in the Universal TV series, "The Virginian," often captures many of the location scenes in old paints and donates them to fund-raising charities. Another outdoor enthusiast, keen on sports, practices his push-ups by instructing a group of underprivileged youngsters in athletics. Finally, there's the young animal lover, who has opened a "dog-wash," and would you believe it, he has yet to have a yelp from his customers!

Cherney's FURNITURE WORLD

Seat of Most Powerful Government in World Has Jitters

WASHINGTON (CP) — The city of Washington, seat of the world's most powerful government, has the jitters.

Despite the admonition of Mayor Walter E. Washington that too many people are "yelling from the rooftops and hiding under the bed," creating the impression that things are worse than they really are, these facts remain:

—The city, already protected by the largest, most expensive police force in the United States, on a per-capita basis, has asked for 1,000 more men, a 35-per-cent increase.

—In the traumatic aftermath of the April riots, following the slaying in Tennessee of Negro civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the crime rate continues to soar, with four merchants and a bus driver killed in a span of several weeks.

—Night bus service was non-existent in the two weeks of a drivers' revolt that followed the stabbing death of their colleague and the robbery of four others—all in one week in May.

—The Canadian embassy felt it necessary to order six girl employees to leave their downtown apartments for the comparative safety of the suburbs, after several were verbally accosted. They moved May 27 after Ottawa approved the minor expenses involved.

Even Mayor Washington has conceded that preliminary figures indicate hotels and restaurants could lose as much as $40,000,000 in gross revenue as the tourist business—a major Washington industry—slumps to record lows.

For many in the city where about 62 per cent of the 850,000 population is Negro, the feeling of potential danger was intensified by the Poor People's Campaign, with its accompanying demonstrations arrests and short - lived outbursts of violence.

Hope that the atmosphere gradually would return is normal, and the tourist business would recover somewhat, were dashed by a sort of mini-riot June 24, with Mayor Washington, a Negro, immediately imposing a 9 p.m. curfew.

The 51-year-old mayor, conceding "we have tensions, we have problems," continues to urge visitors to come here and reported recently that "we have saved at least 12 large conventions" considering changing plans.

But the outsider's view is bound to be colored by the incredible spectacle of a capital that has virtually admitted it cannot ensure the safety of bus drivers. With drivers refusing to carry the usual $50 to $100 "bank" for changemaking, saying it was "holdup bait," the night service finally was resumed with passengers urged to produce exact fares.

When the passengers can't, the drivers issue change in the form of scrip, redeemable for cash at a company office.

Montreal Benefits by Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — The only beneficiary in the strike of 1,220 St. Lawrence Seaway Authority workers—now entering its third week—would appears to be the port of Montreal.

Business is booming in Canada's biggest port to the extent that the turn-around of ocean ships is averaging one day behind normal in unloading and loading. The problem is not lack of wharf space or handling facilities on the 13.5-mile waterfront, but a shortage of long shoremen to handle cargoes originally intended for Great Lakes ports.

The strike, in fact, has given new life to Montreal, which in the last two years had been described as "sick," "corrupted" and "finished" in shipping circles because of recurring dissatisfaction on the part of its 4,500 dockworkers, one of the most militant groups within the International Longshoremen's Association in North America.

While the ILA and the Shipping Federation agreed to binding arbitration of their many differences last March—with no strikes, lockouts or deliberate slowdowns before the spring of 1969—tension between the two sides was so great as recently as a week before the seaway strike that there was talk of a port showdown.

The effect of all this was clear. Shipping companies were avoiding Montreal when at all possible and port officials admitted they had a slump on their hands.

All that changed with the Seaway strike, and now the fear of administrators of Great Lakes ports is that it is their harbors the owners of foreign oceangoing vessels may think of trying to avoid in future, preferring the assurance of a clear passage to the sea from Montreal.

More than 70 foreign-flag ocean-going vessels have been trapped in the Great Lakes by the seaway workers strike. Also trapped in the system is the bulk of Canada's 200 Great Lakes fleet of inland vessels.

500 British Teachers Hired

TORONTO (C) — About 500 British school teachers will arrive in late August to take up positions with public and separate school boards in more than 30 Ontario communities.

Richard Illingworth, deputy director of the department of economics and development immigration branch, which assists school boards in their overseas recruiting, said Thursday Toronto will be the new home of almost half the new teachers.

The Metropolitan Toronto separate school board has hired about 130 British teachers while the Toronto board of education recruited about 100.

Other public schools boards hiring several British teachers were Mississauga and Hamilton, about 50 each, Kingston, about 25, Renfrew, about 10, and Sarnia, 5.

Tax Havens Will Vanish

TORONTO (CP) — Amendments to the Corporations Tax Act now before the house are designed to crack down on firms which have been escaping federal and provincial corporation taxes, Provincial Treasurer Thursday.

Replying to questions in the legislature, Mr. MacNaughton said the amendments were framed in line with non-resident firms which own land in Ontario but have no permanent establishment in Canada.

Under the new bill the definition of "permanent establishment" will be broadened to include land owned in Ontario by corporations which are not otherwise established in Canada and are incorporated in countries which have not entered into a tax convention or treaty with Canada.

The change in the act will make such firms subject to Ontario corporation taxes.

The treasurer said the bill will affect "so-called tax haven" corporations which are incorporated under the laws of a foreign jurisdiction and . . . are subject to little or no income tax in the jurisdiction in which they are incorporated."

He said that at present such firms can own land in Ontario or beneficially own it through a trust arrangement "and earn profits in Ontario, and yet pay no income tax.

In other legislature business Wednesday:

—The house was told by provincial Secretary Robert Welch that licenced premises are not permitted to obtain beer supplies from any other source other than those used before the beer strike.

—Education Minister William Davis said his department will not become involved in a dispute over the resignation of the president of Lambton College of Applied Arts and Technology.

—Ontario will offer financial aid to help pay for damage done by severe winds to farm buildings in eastern Ontario June 30, Agriculture Minister William Stewart told the house.

—Education Minister William Davis declined to discuss whether information on students collected by schools should be made available to police forces because "there are no final answers."

This chart shows a typical example of the five new rate periods now available Monday thru Saturday, and the two rate periods offered on Sunday, between any two points in Ontario and Quebec.

STATION-TO-STATION Montreal—Toronto	MONDAY thru SATURDAY 3 mins.	5 mins.	10 mins.	ALL DAY SUNDAY 3 mins.	5 mins.
Day: 8 a.m.—5 p.m.	1.30	2.10	4.10	.65	1.05

Night-Owl: Midnight—8 a.m. (On calls dialled direct)	.45	.75	.75*	.45	.75

*Family Calling Time rates are fully explained in the text below.

Notes and Explanations

These new, reduced rates apply on all calls between any two points in Ontario and Quebec as well as on calls to points in Labrador and the North West Territories served by Bell Canada.

All figures shown on this page give you the price for station-to-station calls. These are the calls you dial direct, or calls which our Operator places to the distant number. They always cost less than calls you ask for a specific person.

The main change in the Day Rate is a reduction of up to 65 cents in the price of calls over 360 miles. On the other hand, the initial time period on calls of less than 10 miles has been cut from five to three minutes for 10 cents, and overtime units are now two minutes instead of three for 5 cents.

As you can see from the chart above, your real savings come into effect after 8 p.m. on weekdays, and all day Sunday. The cost of a three-minute call is now just 50% of the Day Rate on calls of 100 miles or more; for shorter distances, the percentage of savings is a little less.

Family Calling Time is in effect all day Sunday, Monday thru Saturday, it now begins at 10 p.m. instead of 8 p.m.

On person-to-person calls over 360 miles, reductions range from 20 cents to $1.10; on calls under 100 miles, there are increases ranging from 5 to 20 cents.

*This is how Family Calling Time works:

All day Sunday, and after 10 p.m. Monday thru Saturday, you pay only for the first five minutes of your call; then, there is no charge for the next five minutes. In other words, you get 10 minutes of calling time for the price of five. If you wish to talk longer, every two additional minutes are charged at just one.

The "Night-Owl" Rate applies seven nights a week, from midnight to 8 a.m., but it applies only to calls that you dial yourself. If this service is not yet available where you live, our Operator will place such a call for you at the same low rate.

Typical examples of the new rate rules for station-to-station calls between any two points in Ontario and Quebec

BETWEEN	Cost if 3-minute station-to-station calls are dialled direct by you Monday thru Saturday 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.	Maximum cost if 3-min. calls are dialled direct by you after 8 p.m. Monday thru Saturday and all day Sunday

Direct Distance Dialing is this easy—and gets you there in seconds:

Boaters, Yacht Club, Police Combine to Avert Tragedy

LENNY WILLIAMSON
Staff Reporter

The fourth of July weekend cruise of a group of Rochester yachtsmen ended in near tragedy yesterday in Quinte waters when a five-year-old child sustained head injuries in a tumble down the forward hatch of his father's sailboat.

John Freiderith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Freiderith, of Rochester was reported in satisfactory condition in Belleville General Hospital this morning. He suffered a possible concussion and may be released today, his parents said.

He was taken to hospital by City Ambulance and a police escort late yesterday afternoon after the Freiderith's yacht, Anoatok, docked at the inner harbor.

The emergency ended on a note of international goodwill as the American yachtsmen praised Bay of Quinte Yacht Club officials and city police for their efficient handling of the distress call.

The Freiderith's boy was injured shortly after Anoatok entered the Bay of Quinte by way of the Murray Canal.

As the boat raced toward Belleville, the lad's father signalled a passing cruiser, Ray Mar III, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lander of Rochester.

Mr. Lander immediately began sending wireless messages calling for an ambulance and medical aid to stand by awaiting their arrival at Belleville harbor.

Trenton harbor officials picked up fragments of the weak signal and alerted Belleville police of a possible emergency situation.

At the same time Robert Roth of Rochester, skippering his cruiser Fascination on the bay, picked up the entire message. His yacht is equipped with ship to shore telephone and he immediately called the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

BQYC commodore Jack McFarlane notified city police, who dispatched an ambulance to await Anoatok's arrival at the harbor.

"The Belleville police did a remarkable job", said Mr. Roth.

"They even had a motorcycle officer at the bay bridge when we came through. He had the bridge master hold the bridge open awaiting our arrival. Traffic was tied up in all directions for us. Remarkable!" he repeated.

"The truth is, we couldn't find the bridge master's telephone number in the directory, so we had to dispatch a man to notify him personally," a city constable confessed. "When a human life is at stake you can't hesitate."

The Fourth of July holiday weekend in the United States brought about two dozen visiting yachts into Belleville harbor last night. Another dozen or more were turned away because of lack of docking space.

Most of the visitors, like Mr. and Mrs. Roth on Fascination were cruising on a course from Rochester, across the lake, through the Murray canal and the Bay of Quinte and back across the lake to Rochester.

"We always enjoy cruising Canadian waters," Mr. Roth said. "And no place treats us better than Belleville."

Fishing Morning Away

For Holidayers It's Again Fun

By BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

The Belleville Yacht Club was one of the areas affected by clear skies and farm temperatures over the past 24 hours.

Visiting docks at the club received an overflow of yachts and sailing craft from Rochester and other American centres.

According to one club spokesman at least a dozen boats were turned away for lack of space last night.

Most of the sailing and cruising enthusiasts were using the July 4 Independence Day holiday for an opportunity to cruise around Canadian and American waters.

Still, one skipper mentioned this morning that he was beginning a two-week holiday at the end of this week. He will be remaining at the club until tomorrow.

This morning was spent in cleaning up and, in some cases, preparations for continuance of the boater's cruises. Some were heading back home to resume pre-holiday work.

Chores such as mopping the decks and equipment clean-up were the order of the day. Kindled with the holiday talks was a spirit of friendship on the docks.

Cameras clicked as some undertook to ensure lasting memories of July holiday 1968. Everywhere were hand shakings and farewells.

And then, for some, there was the casting off and eventual departure from the club. Others just went on a short cruise planning to return.

According to Jack McFarlane, yacht club commodore, many will be remaining for a steak cook-out Saturday at the club.

"Many feel that Belleville is their favorite spot," he said. "The only other place they could go would be Picton."

Mr. McFarlane also commented that July 4 holiday boating was slightly heavier this year.

He explained that the main reason is the increasing interest in boating. "I expect that it will continue to increase for the next few years." He said that there were more people buying boats.

"It's a crime to turn them away," he said about last night's overflow Mr. McFarlane feels that facilities for docking are inadequate.

Commercial Play

Brants Don Glass Slippers Again

The cellar-dwelling Brants Commercial League entry can't make up their minds whether they want to play Cinderella or not.

The magic that led them to a 2-0, no-hit Tuesday win against Stinson worked again last night as Brants shaded fourth-place Black Diamond Thursday night 1-0 for their third win of the season and their second victory over the Cheesemen.

In between this week's pair of Brant upsets, the Bodymen seemed to revert to form with a Wednesday night 10-4 drubbing at the hands of Belvedere Hotel.

In the other game of last night's Alemite doubleheader, Belvedere successfully defended its league lead against second-place Stinson by collecting seven runs in the fifth inning for a 7-2 margin.

In the Brants tussle, pitcher Mark Sheridan allowed the cheesemen an embarrassing five hits — embarrassing because they just didn't accomplish anything.

And while Black Diamond hurler Sonny Holoway was hurling his second one - hitter of the season, the cheesemen just couldn't seem to pray, curse, buy or steal a runner home.

Jack Francis collected a double for the losers in the fourth and died on second. Gene Francis got a single in the fifth and died on first. Wayne McTaggart did the same in the sixth. "Hip" added a seventh - inning double which should have driven Holoway home, but the pitcher who'd reached third on a triple — was cut down at the plate and McTaggart died on second.

Brants collected their winning run in the fifth. Secondsacker Barry Rykman moved around to second when cheesman third - baseman Wayne McTaggart overthrew on his grounder. He advanced to third on a fielder's choice, and scored on a wild pitch by Holoway for the game's lone run.

BELVEDERE 7 STINSONS 2

In the second game, the two top teams of the league standings seemed to have settled down to a pitchers' duel for the first four innings.

Then Stinson blew it.

The fifth inning saw Belvedere pick up seven runs on five of their six hits for the game and five Stinson errors.

"They shouldn't have gotten one single run that inning," fumed Stinson coach Harold Reid.

It all seemed to have started when the coach decided to put Neil Goyer on first and move regular first-sacker Paul Stinson to second. Stinson had a bad night in his new position.

He collected three of the five errors which cost his team the game. But he wasn't the only one. Starting Stinson hurler Bobby Boyle got in trouble as the Belvedere batters got his range, so young Scotty Reid came on in relief in the fifth. Boyle went to second, and Stinson, with gratitude, left the game.

Stinsons started a comeback rally in their half of the fifth, but it fizzled after two runs were scored.

Reid gave up no runs on one hit and fanned five while walking none. Boyle was charged with the loss, giving up seven runs on five hits, walking none and fanning two.

Belvedere went all the way behind hurler Wayne McConnell. McConnell allowed the losers two hits for two runs while fanning eight and walking none.

Hitters for the winners were Gary Gowe with two singles, Bob Lloyd with a double, and singles for McConnell, Don Smith and Lyle Waonamaker.

Stinson hits were a single by Rick Locke and a triple by Neil Goyer.

"Swing That Hammer"

Bob Lloyd, Belvedere left fielder, hammers a fifth-inning nail into the coffin of Commercial League second-place team Stinsons during Thursday night's game. The league-leading Hotelmen won the game 7-2, scoring all their runs in the fifth. Lloyd collected a double here.

With the official opening ceremonies of the 19th Modern Olympiad in Mexico City barely four months off, a spectre of controversy shrouds the classic competition before the first crack of a starter's pistol.

The spectre is two-toned — black and white — and the likelihood of its being ignored is about as possible as mistaking one color for the other.

Reports and counter-reports from south of the border indicate at least a partial boycott by U.S. Negro athletes of the traditional Olympic program.

Some Negro athletes say if winners, they will shun the victor's stand.

For the serious exponents of athletic "black power," like Harry Edwards — a former college athlete and part-time university instructor — the boycott should be a genuine defection of Negro athletes from the American team.

"For years we have participated in the Olympic Games," he says, "carrying the United States on our backs with victories, while now at home, race relations are worse than ever.

"We're not trying to lose the Olympics for the Americans. But it's time the black people stood up as men and refused to be utilized as performing animals for a little extra dog food."

Edwards has rallied some pretty important cogs in the U.S. Olympic wheel to his way of thinking, like Tommie Smith, rated the world's fastest human at distances from 100 metres to the quarter-mile.

But somehow the Edwards' road to racial equality seems to start off on rough footing.

Some Negro athletes lean towards former Olympic sprint medalist Bob Hayes' attitude to the situation.

Now a $50,000-a-year back with the Dallas Cowboys, Hayes says: "The Olympics have always given blacks the greatest chance for success most of them will ever have."

"Look at me."

Whomever those caught in the middle decide to heed, one thing can be said for certain. Nobody wins if the Olympic tradition crumbles from political tremors.

Quinte Soccer Play

Juniors Best United

The Belleville Juniors soccer club downed Belleville United 5-1 Thursday night at Zwick's Island.

United played well, but were handicapped by their goalie's lack of experience. The score at the end of the first half was 1-0 in favor of Belleville United. The lone tally for United was scored by Tony Frost on a close-in break-away.

The second half saw goals collected by Belleville Juniors Gary "Lefty" Lovett and Zoltan Csazmar and Joe Romano. Romano dealt the coup-de-grace to United by collecting a hat trick in the closing half.

Carmel Peewees Collect Win From Frankford

The Carmel-Thurlow Pee-Wees downed their Frankford counterparts 5-1 Thursday in an EOBA contest at Frankford.

Paul McDonnell of Carmel registered 16 strikeouts and collected a double. Hitters for Carmel included Roger Ruckstuhl, Dale Tumon and David Deni.

Kyle Connelly, the Frankford pitcher, and R. Branch collected safeties for the losers.

Carmel will journey to Kingston Tuesday to play the EOBA "A" team at Megaffin Stadium at 8.30.

Intell Strengthens Lead

The Intelligencer took their seventh win of the Departmental Softball League schedule last night, as hurler Rod Bennett set the Post Office entry down by a 9-4 count.

Bennett scattered nine Postie hits, while walking one and fanning three. He allowed a pair of runs in the third, and again in the fifth innings.

Second - baseman Merv Thompson led the winners at the plate, collecting a double and single.

Bennett aided his own cause with a brace of singles, and Intell outfielder Randy Johnstone also contributed two safeties.

Al Lee, Garry Wood, Terry Hiddleston, John Edwards, and Maurice Switzer hit singles for the winners.

The Postmen used two pitchers in their effort to down the first-place Printers.

George Johnson was touched for four hits and gave up one walk in pitching five Intell runs for two innings' work.

Reliever Jack Calnan, who started at second base for the Posties, went the remaining five innings, giving up four runs for seven hits, issuing three free passes and striking out four Printers.

Reid, "Soup" Campbell and Boban each hit two singles for the losers.

Sherstobo Gord St. Louis, Tebworth and Sinfield contributed singles to the Posties' plate attack.

The winners stranded 10 baserunners, while seven Postmen were left holding the bag.

Six errors contributed to the Posties downfall.

Aaron Can't Hit; AL Batters on Spree

National League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The all-star voters, Hank Aaron said about his selection to the National League team, must have voted the first day of he season.

Aaron showed again Thursday why he made that quip.

Atlanta's erstwhile batting error grounded into double plays his last two times at bat as San Francisco Giants trimmed the Braves 6-4 and tied them for second place.

Aaron's lack of hitting has been evident all season, True, he has hit 15 home runs, second best in the league, and driven in 42 runs, sixth-best.

But many of those RBI have not significantly aided the Atlanta attack, and he's hitting a low .231.

Still his fellow players voted him into the starting line-up for the all-star game next Tuesday.

"This is the biggest surprise I've ever had," Aaron said when informed he had beaten out Willie Mays by nine votes for the third outfield berth.

In other NL games Thursday, St. Louis Cardinals edged Los Angeles Dodgers 3-2, Pittsburgh Pirates nipped New York Mets 3-2 before losing 4-3, Philadelphia Phillies downed Chicago Cubs 7-4 after losing 6-2 and Cincinnati Reds defeated Houston Astros 7-4.

The Braves couldn't halt Dietz. The Giants catcher drove in four runs with a two-run double in the first and a two-run homer in the seventh that snapped a 4-4 deadlock.

Vike Shannon's two-run homer in the eighth broke a 1-1 tie and sent the league-leading Cardinals to their fourth straight victory over Los Angeles.

Eighth-inning doubles by Don Clendenon and Bill Mazeroski carried Pittsburgh past New York in the first game and handed Jerry Koosman his fourth loss against 11 victories. Koosman drove in one of the Mets' runs with a single. Maury Wills stole three bases for the Pirates in the game.

The Mets came back in the nightcap behind Don Bosch, who socked a two-run homer in the third, then doubled and scored in the fifth.

Billy Williams ended an 0-for-15 slump by igniting three-run rally for Chicago in the fourth inning of the opener with a single and then homering in the fifth. Ken Hit a two-run homer for the Cubs in the eighth.

American League

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Great Hi Famine took a back seat Thursday to an old fashioned Fourth of July fireworks show of home runs in Detroit.

Jim Northrup, Norm Cash and Don Mincher took turns hitting baseballs out of sight and when they were through, the Tigers had a 13-10 slugfest victory over California Angels.

It was the fourth straight triumph for the Tigers and ninth in the last 10 games, giving them an 8½-game lead in the American League.

Northrup and Cash had two homers each for the Tigers and Mincher two for the Angels. Willie Horton and Bill Freehan also connected for Detroit and Jim Fregosi for California as the two teams used up 11 pitchers.

Elsewhere in the American League, Baltimore defeated Chicago White Sox 4-3 in 12 innings, Cleveland Indians pounded Minnesota Twins 6-3, Boston Red Sox defeated Oakland Athletics 7-2 and Washington Senators whipped New York Yankees 4-2.

Angels scored four runs in the second inning with Mincher tagging his first runner and it looked like it might be a good day for Bill Rigney's club.

But the Tigers bounced back with their biggest inning of the year, scoring nine runs in the bottom of the second with homers by Cash, Freehan and Horton leading the attack.

Northrup had a two-run triple and Dick McAuliffe a two-run double in the big inning. Cash and Northrup hit consecutive homers in the sixth and Northrup slammed a two-run shot in the eighth.

The six homers tied a Detroit club record and gave the team 93 for the year—26 of them against California.

Brooks Robinson lagged a pair of homers for the Orioles but Baltimore didn't beat the White Sox until the 12th, when Fred Valentine led off with a triple and then strolled home following two intentional walks and an infield out.

Chicago had tied the game with two runs in the ninth and Pete Ward on first when Bill Voss was hit in the head by a pitch and Duane Josephson followed with a double. Voss suffered a fractured cheekbone.

Outdoor Tips And Tricks

By BOB BLAND

Smallmouth and largemouth black bass fishing season opened June 29, making all game fish seasons officially open in Ontario.

Bass fishermen in the Quinte and Hastings area will be on their favorite lake, bay or river just about every day from now until the end of the season.

The Ridley brohers, good fishermen, still like to fish in the Bay of Quinte for smallmouth bass using minnows. These boys usually come home with good catches. John Black is another good bass fisherman who prefers fishing in the Bay.

Point Traverse is the favorite spot for such fishermen as the Kellers, Jim Ebbier and Ray Zufelt, as well as many American Isaak Waltons.

Many other local fishermen such as Bob Davenport and Grant Parks prefer to fish Limerick Lake — the home of the smallmouth bass.

Largemouth bass can be caught in good numbers and size in Muscote Bay and in Saugwin Creek. Surface lures such as Crazy Crawler, Hula Popper and Jitterbug work well here if cast into pockets of weed beds, while a weedless lure also can be a good producer.

Live bait such as minnows, frogs and crawfish will still produce better fish in most bodies of water inhabited by bass, than artificial ones, but it sure is nice to see a good bass slug a surface lure and put on an acrobatic display while being played to the net.

Pound for pound a bass will outfight any fish that swims.

Musky season opened on June 15 but not too much success has been reported by local lunge fishermen.

Lake trout fishermen have been having good luck on almost all northern lakes.

Bob Taylor, Totten and gang headed for Algonquin Park for the long weekend and will likely report catching some good ones.

Terry Thompson and Les Backus have been catching quite a few nice speckled trout in our local streams, using worms, flies, Mepps and Super Duper.

With the rainy weather we have been having this month, bait dealers are having a rough time catching minnows. Creeks and streams are higher than at spring run-off time and it is difficult to run a seine to catch any quantity of minnows.

The cold weather has held back the growth of frogs and it will probably be a couple of weeks yet before any quantity of small green frogs are available for local fishermen.

Starting next week we are hoping to give a complete rundown on fishing luck in local lakes — where they are being caught; lures used and best times to fish for all types of game fish.

Catch as Catch Can

Jim French, Washington Senators catcher, comes up with a back-handed sprawling catch of Yankee Bill Robinson's eighth-inning pop foul at D. C. Stadium. The catch is seen through the backstop net. Washington beat New York, 4-2.

Bowerman Chases Homenuik Boys

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP) — Wilf Homenuik and brother Stan look enough alike to be identical twins and their performances Thursday left the gallery wondering which was which.

The Manitoba professionals each shot an eagle, were only one putt apart on the greens and finished, the first round of the Millar golf championship tied for the lead with three-under-par 68s.

And what's more, both agreed it was their putting that gave them the lead in the 54-hole tournament for a total of $6,000 and a first-place prize of $1,200.

Stan, 28, who plays out of Dauphin, Man., started his round with a 30-foot putt that earned him an eagle three. Wilf, from Winnipeg, wound up by sinking a 40-footer for an eagle three on the 18th.

"I just love to knock the ball on the fairway, on the green—keep it in play you know—and hope I can sink it down," said 33-year-old Wilf.

"I guess I tried harder today after being disqualified in the Quebec Open last week," said Stan.

He was disqualified at the end of the first round in Montreal last Thursday after signing his scorecard incorrectly.

Four golfers were hard on the heels of the Homenuik bothers going into today's second round.

Vaughan Trapp of Victoria Beach, Man., Moe Norman of Gilford Ont., and Gary Bowerman and Gary Slatter, both of Toronto, were just one stroke off the pace with two-under 69s.

Bob Cox of Vancouver started the first round with an eagle and two birdies on the first three holes, but finished with 70 to tie for seventh place with Fergus Gallagher of Toronto. Ross Henderson and Frank Whibley, both of Toronto, followed with par 71s.

The field of 126 Canadian professionals will be cut to the low 50 and ties after today's round, with the final 18 holes scheduled for Saturday.

Most of the field found the course in good condition but pin placements tricky over the 6,400-yard Georgetown Golf and Country Club layout.

"But the weather was excellent and that makes it great for any golfer," says Wilf Homenuik. He took 30 putts and Stan 31.

Wilf, bidding to defend the championship he won last year said his game has been below par this season.

"I played on the Caribbean tour and in a few tournaments in the U.S., but not too well."

He missed the first event—the Ontario Open—on the 10-tournament Canadian professional golf tour late in June and finished 103th in the Quebec Open last week.

Stan said he got his blazing start in the form of a "telegram from the members of my club just as I was stepping up to the first tee—sure gave me a lift."

Stan is the teaching professional at the Dauphin Golf and Country Club, "but my members don't mind—me travelling about the country for these tournaments."

Patterson to Meet Ellis In Bid for Third Title

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Floyd Patterson gets a chance in September to become a heavyweight boxing champion for the third time.

He signed Thursday to meet Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., Sept. 16 for the World Boxing Association version o the heavyweight title.

The fight will be held in the 52,000-seat Rasunda soccer stadium with Ellis defending the WBA crown he won last April by defeating Jerry Quarry in Los Angeles.

That was the final of the WBA elimination tourney to determine a successor to Cassius Clay.

Clay was stripped of title recognition by the WBA and the New York Athletic Commission when he refused military induction into the U.S. Armed Forces.

Joe Frazier of Philadelphia is recognized as champion, however, by New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Maine.

Patterson will receive 20 per cent of the gate with Ellis guaranteed $125,000 or 40 per cent, whichever is higher.

When Rocky Marciano retired more than a decade ago, Patterson and Archie Moore were paired for the heavyweight title. Patterson wpn.

Chartered Banks Buy Treasury Bill Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Chartered banks appear to have bought heavily into the federal government's new $150,000,000 issue of one-year treasury bills.

A weekly Bank of Canada statement showed the chartered bank holdings of treasury bills increased by $110,000,000 to $2,-160,000,000 during the seven days ended July 3.

The bills were offered through competitive tenders Friday, June 28.

Market experts predicted that banks were in a good position prior to the offering to add one year bills to their secondary reserves, which are made up of short-term securities.

Following Tuesday's reduction in Canada's bank rate to seven per cent from 7½ per cent, rates in the money market were also lower.

The average closing rate for day-to-day loans, granted by banks to finance investment dealers' inventories, declined to six per cent from seven days to July 3.

The closing average had been 3.50 per cent a week earlier, and 6.30 per cent two weeks earlier.

In Thursday's auction of government treasury bills, 91-day bills were bought at an average yield of 6.10 per cent, down from 6.56 per cent June 27 and from 6.66 per cent June 20.

The average yield on seven long-term government bond issues edged up to 3.67 per cent on July 3 from 3.62 per cent a week earlier.

The money supply, including currency outside the banks and bank deposits of the public and the federal government, increased by $67,000,000 to $25,-425,000,000 during the seven days to June 26.

As of Wednesday, the federal government's cash balances in the chartered banks and the Bank of Canada stood at $211,-000,000, down $63,000,000 from June 26.

The actual cost to Ontario, he said, is only $406,000.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — The industrial index on the Toronto Stock Exchange climbed to a new high for the year at 169.00, a gain of .87 in the first hour of trading today.

The three other major indexes also were up. Volume was active.

Dramasiea advanced 2 to 35½, United Fund Management 1¼ to 16, Leigh Instruments 1 to 43¾, Seaway Hotels ¼ to 12¾ and Revenue Properties ¼ to 31¾.

Among strong blue chips, Inco gained ¼ to 108¾, Canadian Imperial Bank ⅛ to 17¼ and MacMillan Bloedel ¼ to 25.

Ogama A slipped 1¼ to 4¢ and Consumers Gas ⅛ to 20¼.

Jockey Club lost 5 cents to $3.80. Class A shares remained unchanged, said Sunday racing at Fort Erie now depends on Bertie Township passing a by-law.

The Ontario legislature gave final reading to the Sunday racing bill Wednesday.

Algonquin Building Credits was allowed to resume trading, but no shares changed hands. Cecil H. Franklin of Toronto has made an offer to buy limited numbers of the common and preferred stock. Trading was halted Wednesday.

Industrials closed Thursday on the Toronto exchange at their highest level since Oct. 19. Volume was active.

Brokers said the market, which hit a new 1958 peak for the sixth day running, was being supported by institutions and private investors who accumulated their capital in cash until recently.

They also said that demand for blue chips was still exceeding supply, especially in the case of large orders. One broker was unable to fill two block orders for Royal Bank and CPR.

Leigh Instruments jumped 3 to 42¾, Falconbridge 2¾ to 104¾, Orbaxo 2¾ to 41¾, Keating 1¾ to 31, and Dofasco 1 to 19¾.

Jockey Club, the most active industrial, climbed 50 cents to 23.85 on 90,308 shares. A company spokesman said he could make no comment on the sudden spurt. E. P. Taylor, chairman, indicated last week that dividends might be resumed if Sunday racing and tax concessions were allowed.

Cotton Market Declines As Imports Increasing

MONTREAL (CP)—The decline in the cotton market is causing concern to the Canadian textile industry which is so heavily concentrated in Quebec.

Market figures for 1957, released Thursday by the Canadian Textiles Institute, show that cotton imports to Canada are increasing at a time when consumption "appears to be using less textiles made wholly of cotton."

Volume of imported fabrics increased to 238,000,000 yards in 1957 from 297,000,000 yards in 1956 and a number of mills dropped to 357,000,000 yards from 421,000,000 yards.

The comparisons were based on 1957 and 1953 figures to get a more accurate picture because the textile industry was severely disturbed in Quebec in 1956 by strikes stretching over a 5½-month period at a number of mills operated by the Dominion Textile Co. Ltd.

The decline in the cotton market is not without a similar picture in the entire Canadian textile industry which is among the three or four mainstays of manufacturing labor in Canada.

A spokesman for the Institute said employment in the textile industry as a whole dropped steadily from 1953 to 1957 and industry alone declined by 600 persons during 1957, coming down from a high of 18,300 in 1956 to 17,700 at the end of last year.

Officials in the industry are worried because they say Canada is the highest per capita importer of textiles and remains an easy market to crack, particularly by the low-income Asian countries and the Eastern European Communist countries.

As a solution to the problem facing the industry, they would like to see the establishment of a Canadian textile policy which would place a limit on the quantity of textiles that could be imported from the low-income nations.

One official said the industry would like to see "some sort of floor" established in the Canadian textile industry would be treated by the Canadian government in the same way that U.S. textile industries in countries exporting to Canada are treated by their governments.

The industry is continuing its drive for export trade—Canada now exports about 10 per cent of her primary textile products—and has increased exports to $49,000,000 in 1957 from $19,-000,000 in 1949, he said. "But the bulk of our markets remain closed."

The primary textile industry today is the second-largest employer of manufacturing labor in Quebec, exceeded only by the clothing industry, and making ahead of other such prominent industries as pulp and paper, printing and publishing and aircraft.

Quebec textile mills provide employment for more than 52,-000 people—about 60 per cent of the industry's national total—and the annual value of production is about $250,000,000.

Areas of Quebec depending heavily on the textile industry include the Eastern Townships and the St. Maurice Valley and, as industry spokesman said, any further decline could be a major blow to employment in these locations.

Wimbledon Post-Mortem

Pros May Seek Bigger "Open" Purse

WIMBLEDON (AP) — The professional tennis stars, only partly successful at the first-ever open Wimbledon, may press for bigger prize money next year.

George MacCall, the promoter who runs the National Tennis League, said its organization would have lost $20,000 by entering its stars in the Wimbledon tournament—even if they had cleaned up all the prize money.

One of MacCall's stars, Australian Rod Laver, plays in today's final. None of the other five reached the quarter-finals.

MacCall said: "We have to support Wimbledon, which is a symbol of world tennis. But we can't go on supporting Wimbledon at a loss."

MacCall is reported to have suggested that next year's prize money should be distributed among professionals—and registered amateurs playing for prize money—according to the order in which they finish. At present, if an amateur wins the prize money goes back into the kitty.

The All-England Club, which runs the Wimbledon tournament, offered £26,000 (about $67,600) in prize money altogether. At present, it looks as if almost half of it will not be paid out because amateurs did better than many of the pros.

In today's men's singles final Laver faced Tony Roche, another Australian. They are battling for a first prize of £2,000 with £1,300 going to the runnerup.

The two defeated semi-finalists were American amateurs—Arthur Ashe and Clark Graebner—so the tournament officials saved a total of £1,500 there.

There's also a 50-50 chance that the women's first prize of £750 will go back into the pot.

The final will be played Saturday between the defending champion, Billie Jean King of the U.S., who is under contract to MacCall and is going for the prize, and Australian amateur Judy Tegart, who is competing for expenses only.

Mrs. King overcame her old professional rival, Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain, 4-6, 7-5, 6-2 Thursday.

Miss Tegart upset U.S. Wightman Cup star Nancy Richey 6-3, 6-1.

Duke Opens Calgary Stampede

CALARY (C) — The Duke of Kent officially kicked off the 1968 Calgary Exhibition and Stampede Thursday night—half an hour behind schedule.

The delay occurred because the evening's champagne race took longer than anticipated.

The duke and duchess watched the parade from the second and third row of the grandstand. They were joined by Lt.-Gov. Grant MacEwan, Premier E. C. Manning, Mayor Jack Leslie and Stampede president Charles Kennedy.

The duke wore a white cowboy hat presented to him when he arrived in the city Wednesday.

He told the 20,000 persons who attended the opening that he and his wife were "tremendously pleased and honored" that they had been invited.

Although it was his first visit to Calgary, the duke said he hoped to come back, noting that members of the Royal Family had been in the Alberta city in the past and told him about western hospitality.

The Queen and Prince Philip were in Calgary in 1959 and the duke's sister, Princess Alexandra, visited the city last year.

The duke said the Stampede generated a feeling that Canada still has "wide-open spaces," something that could be envied in Britain.

On the stage behind the duke were four Indians dressed in colorful costumes and two scarlet-coated members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The Indians represented four tribes in southern Alberta, the Blackfoot, Sarcee, Peigan and Stony.

The duke expressed thanks for being made an honorary chief of the Blackfoot tribe in a ceremony at the Stampede's Indian Village in the afternoon.

Strictly Personal

Intellectual Abstract Thinker

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

A reader has asked me to try to settle a discussion he had with some of his friends about the difference between "intellectual" and "intelligent." He said that none of them could make a distinction between the two that would satisfy the others.

Of course, "intelligence" is almost impossible to define. As I have written before, it is a much-abused word in psychometry, and is much more variable, vague, and subjective than most psychologists would admit.

But if we concede that there are different kinds of "intelligences," there must be at least some difference between them and what we call "intellectual." An intellectual is one, in general, person with a special kind of intelligence — just as a musician is a person with one kind, an engineer a person with another kind, and a chess player a person with still another kind.

An intellectual is a person who is particularly good at thinking in abstractions, and in relating these abstractions to their particulars. It is not that the "size" of his mind is any greater, but that the "shape" is rather different from that of non-intellectuals.

Also, an intellectual may not be (and often is not) particularly intelligent in other areas of life, just as some master chess-players barely know how to tie their shoelaces, or some great engineers are quite primitive in their social thinking as they are advanced in their technical thinking.

What is perhaps the salient feature of the intellectual mind as Aquinas pointed out, is its ability to "combine and separate." That is, the intellectual is more able than others to see the differences between things which seem similar, and to see the similarities between things which seem different.

And this ability is precisely what makes him so irritating to other people. They like things in neat categories, in carefully arranged pigeonholes, in familiar configurations. The intellectual cuts across all these tidy mental arrangements, exposing contradictions pointing out paradoxes, and confusing the simple categories of the commonplace.

Of course, intellectuals can be just as wrong as they can be right. But this is true of any form of intelligence — indeed, the higher the intelligence, the further wrong it can go in its leap from unwarranted premises. Nobody-cast be as great a fool as an intellectual who lacks common sense; but it is dreadfully hard for the public to distinguish him from the intellectual who has gone beyond common sense.

Sunday School Lesson

When Truth Is Unpopular

By CLARENCE W. CRANFORD

Truth can be very unpopular. It can be so unpopular or distasteful, people hesitate either to speak it or to heed it.

Shakespeare illustrates this in his portrayal of Falstaff's death. In his anguish, Falstaff cries out "God, God, God." But Mistress Quickly, who is attending him, cannot bring herself to speak to the dying Falstaff about God. Though she knows Falstaff is dying, she tries to divert his attention from his true condition by telling him he need not trouble himself about such thoughts yet. She adopts what John Bellman calls a "chintzy heretient" toward the situation. Another writer, Kay Baxter, says that Mistress Quickly tried to "trivialize" death, and bring its mystery down to the level of a "tiresome visitor."

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for July 7: "Jeremiah's Prophecy Fulfilled," Jeremiah 38 and 39.

It is not always easy to speak the truth — especially if it is unpopular or distasteful. A doctor discovers his patient has a case of cancer. Shall he tell him the truth and urge him to put his house in order? Or should he let him live on in blissful ignorance of his true condition as long as possible? Shall a minister step on the toes of his members' pet prejudices? Or should he preach on "safe" subjects, and hope their prejudices will go away?

No one faced this problem more acutely than the prophet Jeremiah. He was unfortunate enough to live at a time when he believed it was a dead certainty that his nation would be defeated by the Chaldeans, whose capital was Babylon. Should he preach what the people wanted to hear, and lull them into a false sense of security? Or should he prophesy their impending doom, even if it meant he would be called a traitor, and urge them to prepare for it?

There were times when he would rather have said nothing but his conscience would not let him remain silent.

Twice Jeremiah lived through the invasion of his country. Twice he believed the enemy would be victorious. Twice he felt he must warn them that resistance would be futile. He believed, and preached, that peaceful surrender was the wiser course for Israel. (Jeremiah 36:3) This was too much for the political leaders. They cast Jeremiah into an empty cistern, and left him there to die in the mud at the bottom of the well. (Jeremiah 38:6)

But a humble servant could not accept this situation. He appealed to the king for permission to rescue the prophet. When permission was granted he pulled Jeremiah up to safety, and the prophet enjoyed the protection of the king's guard until Jerusalem was captured.

But if the truth of Jeremiah's message was hard to preach, it was also hard to heed. Twice he warned a king of Judah that resistance was folly. One king heeded him; the other ignored his warning. King Jehoiakim followed his advice and surrendered peacefully, and was permitted to live. He lived as a prisoner in Babylon for 37 years then was elevated by a new king to a position of prestige and honor. (Jeremiah 52:31-34) King Zedekiah listened to his advisers rather than to Jeremiah. Because he resisted, the last sight he ever saw was the execution of his two sons, then his eyes were put out, and he was taken to live out his life in blindness in Babylon, wishing no doubt, that he had shared the fate of his sons. (Jeremiah 39:6-7).

"Is there any word from the Lord?" (Jer. 37:17) is the question Zedekiah often asked of Jeremiah. (37:16) And this is the question that we still asking in a troubled world. Like the truth in Jeremiah's day, the answer to that question may be unpopular. Segregation is wrong. Violence is evil. Hate and revenge destroy. These are a part of God's word for every age. But it often takes courage to say it.

Fear has kept many a person from being a prophet. But fear of change has kept many a listener from heeding the warnings of his day. Centuries later, Jesus could say to the descendants of Jeremiah's hearers, "would that even today you knew the things that make for peace," (Luke 19:42 RSV) But men rejected Jesus' truth as they had rejected Jeremiah's.

Must people go on rejecting God's truth forever? When will the world have the courage to hear and heed God's truth that repentance is better than sin, love is better than hate, and brotherhood and justice are better than snobbery and special privilege?

Your birthday today: You will find yourself in many circumstances in the coming year. Long deferred changes become easier to handle, yet tend to be irreversible. Chores are seen in a new light. Today's natives are good at figuring, writing, or making money, but seldom manage well at more than one of these.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): Today the conservative approach may best results. Your patience with people will be rewarded.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Let financial matters stand. Use exceptional care in driving or handling tools. Be sure your mate understands what you plan to do, so that activities go smoothly.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): The candid, direct approach suits your mood today. Be free of malice when you speak out, and pace your words evenly. Wait for confusing circumstances to clear up in the evening.

CANCER (June 21 — July 22): Put in a steady day on the essentials. Spending is better delayed for better conditions. Correspondence is apt to be volatile.-Meditate a while this evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Enthusiasm can carry you into circumstances you had not planned on today. Use driving and other modes of conduct seems essential now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22—Jan. 19): Your work today is beset with distractions from surprising events and your over-reaction to them. Be quite assertive about what you want.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): If you simply accept what is provided by friends and fellows without examining them yourself, you'll do your friends and yourself a disservice. Check it all out first.

Kiesinger Doubted Atrocities

BONN (AP) — West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger said in an unprecedented court appearance Thursday that until late in the Second World War he had discounted Allied charges about Nazi mass extermination of Jews as "nothing but atrocity propaganda."

"It was simply inconceivable to me that such terrible things were happening," Kiesinger declared in a stifling courtroom in downtown Bonn.

Kiesinger was called to testify at a war crimes trial.

Indian Says PM Receptive

OTTAWA (CP) — Arthur Laing may be replaced as minister of Indian Affairs and northern development in the Trudeau cabinet, Walter Dieter, president of the National Indian Brotherhood, indicated Thursday.

Chief Dieter said in an interview that Prime Minister Trudeau mentioned a couple of other names for the cabinet post during a brief morning meeting.

Chief Dieter, who hails from the Peepeekisis Reserve 85 miles northeast of Regina, greeted Mr. Trudeau on behalf of the 235,000 treaty Indians in the brotherhood. He had come to Ottawa especially to see the prime minister.

"He was very receptive," Chief Dieter, a Cree, said. "He has very definite ideas. They seemed very good to me."

He said the subject of who might become Indian affairs minister arose. Asked by reporters whether he thought there would be a change, Chief Dieter replied: "I certainly hope so."

Chief Dieter said Mr. Trudeau mentioned a couple of names. However, the chief refused to say which ones.

Recounts To Be Held In 4 Seats

OTTAWA (CP) — Mike Starr's hopes are riding on nine little slips of paper.

For Tommy Douglas, the magic figure is 153 and he'll need a miracle.

The former labor minister and the New Democratic Party leader have little in common, but this week they share hopes for the overturn of their losses in the June 25 election.

Along with two other defeated candidates, they have filed for judicial recounts of totals that left them second best.

Mr. Starr's contest in Oshawa-Whitby has been a particularly close one.

On election night he trailed the NDP's Edward Broadbent by 213 votes, but the gap has since been reduced three times.

Discovery of an error the day after the election cut the margin to 62 votes. Addition of the service vote narrowed it further to 20, and a final count Tuesday reduced it to eight.

Mr. Starr's last hope for election now lies with the count that will be made by a judge in the presence of Returning Officer Ralph Wallace.

In Mr. Douglas' riding, Burnaby-Seymour, the armed forces vote left the NDP leader 152 votes behind Liberal Ray Perrault. But Mr. Douglas says there were "enough discrepancies" in the counting to indicate the need for a recount.

Creditiste Adelard Larose also has complained of irregularities in Sherbrooke, where he was first elected and then ousted on the basis of a service vote favoring Liberal Pau Gervais. There now are 126 votes separating the two men.

The fourth recount is in Leeds, where Liberal John Matheson, parliamentary secretary to former prime minister Pearson, lost by 33 votes to Conservative Desmond Code.

end vote.

Eight New Ministers Appointed to Cabinet

New Shuffle In 18 Months

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau indicated Friday his newly-created cabinet will be subject to gradual changes in both personnel and structure.

He told a news conference following the release of the cabinet list that minor personnel changes will be made as time passes. After that, he expects another major shuffle within 18 months or two years.

The Liberal leader said if some ministers do not perform as well as he expects, they will be changed.

The next major shuffle might involve creation or abolition of departments. He would start thinking about it in eight months or a year.

Mr. Trudeau said he will spell out shortly other internal cabinet changes, involving ministers without portfolio and new or merged departments.

The three ministers without portfolio will be given special responsibilities for particular subjects, he said.

He wants one of them to give particular attention to Indian affairs, another to housing. Citizenship would also get this special treatment.

At the same time, Mr. Trudeau declined to say which ministers would be given the responsibilities of the new departments.

Only Two Men Hold Old Posts

OTTAWA (CP) — A new cabinet with the personal stamp of Pierre Elliott Trudeau will be sworn in at Government House today.

The prime minister Friday night announced a thorough reshuffling of his administration to bring in eight new men, transfer 15 others and provide creation of three new departments.

Only two men, Transport Minister Hellyer and Defence Minister Cadieux, will hold the same posts they had in the Pearson government.

The appointments bring cabinet strength to 29 from 25, including six men in their 30s and three who were elected to Parliament for the first time in the June 25 election.

The freshman ministers are Eric Kierans, 54, former Quebec minister who was named postmaster-general and will head a new communications department, and James Richardson and Otto E. Lang, ministers without portfolio.

Mr. Richardson, 46, is a prominent Winnipeg businessman and Mr. Lang, 38, is dean of law at the University of Saskatchewan.

The new departments, besides communications, will be a ministry of regional development, to be head by Jean Marchand, and supply and services, under new minister Don Jamieson.

For the moment, however, Mr. Marchand will hold the portfolio of forestry and rural development while Mr. Jamieson will be minister of defence production.

Besides these new departments, Mr. Trudeau signalled a reshuffling of some other ministries.

Johnson Must Rest 3 Months

QUEBEC (CP) — In hospital with a mild heart attack, Premier Daniel Johnson will be forced to change his political style of one-man rule when he resumes his official duties in what could be two or three months.

The premier's doctor confirmed Friday night that the 53-year-old Union Nationale leader suffered the mild heart attack Wednesday, but stressed that the attack did not cause any physical damage to Mr. Johnson's heart.

Dr. Yves Morin, director of the Quebec Cardiology Institute, said:

"I think there is no doubt that he will recover completely . . . but it is a warning and the same thing will happen again if he puts himself in the same position.

"I can't say when he will leave hospital," Dr. Morin said. "But it is absolutely remarkable how he has recuperated. After one day of rest he was in great form. After this rest I can say he is in better shape now than he was a week ago."

Blaiberg Reported Very Ill

CAPE TOWN (CP) — Dr. Philip Blaiberg, who lived more than six months with a transplanted heart, is "very ill" with a lung affliction, Groote Schuur Hospital said today.

The hospital had announced Friday that pulmonary complications "are giving rise to concern." Medical Supt. Dr. Jacobus Burger said today Blaiberg still was very ill.

Hospital staff kept an all-night watch in his sterilized room.

The statement from the hospital, where Blaiberg received the heart of a colored (mixed blood) man, Clive Whaupt, Jan. 2, did not disclose the exact nature of the new condition.

Two Die With Hands Up Viet Cong Ambushes Pop Musicians

LONG BINH (AP) — A Los Angeles musical group was ambushed by the Viet Cong on a lonely South Vietnamese road Friday night and two jeep-age members of the group were killed as they tried surrendering with their hands up in the air. U.S. soldier and two other members of the group, including singer Paula Levine, 20, were wounded when half-a-dozen guerrillas opened fire on their pickup truck at point-blank range.

The girl said in a U.S. Army hospital: "I played dead, and that's the only reason I'm alive today."

The musical group, Brandi Perry and the Bubble Machine, had started out late in the day for the South Vietnamese coastal resort of Vung Tau, about 45 miles southeast of Saigon, to play for American troops.

Halfway to their destination, they were stopped by South Vietnamese militia guards who advised them to turn back.

A few miles along on their return trip, they ran into the ambush. Miss Levine said she crouched on the floor while the men got out, first thinking they were being fired on mistakenly by friendly troops. As they raised their arms in the air, the Viet Cong opened up again.

The two male members of the group killed were 17 and 19. Their names were withheld until next-of-kin could be notified.

The others wounded were Jack Rose, 18, a 21-year-old soldier escorting the group who was in serious condition, and Miss Levine who suffered fragment wounds in the back and legs.

Bone, an organ player with the group, was shot in the right hand.

After the shooting, Miss Levine said the guerrillas began searching the vehicle.

"I was crouched under the front seat, playing dead.

"I don't think they saw me."

Gun Battle Wrecks Quebec City Bank

QUEBEC (CP) — A wild gun battle Friday afternoon at a Lower Town bank in Quebec City left one man dead, two others injured and the bank a shambles of broken glass and splintered wood.

Police identified the dead man as Yvon Germaine, 38, of Quebec City, one of four men who attempted to hold up the branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Two other members of the gang were wounded in the vicious cross-fire traded by the would-be bandits and two private security guards as 12 customers and eight bank employees lay on the floor. They and the fourth bandit were apprehended.

Police said four hooded men, carrying revolvers and semi-automatic rifles, entered the bank shortly after 4 p.m. They fired several shots in the air and as customers and tellers threw themselves on the floor, they grabbed a money box and turned to make their escape.

The two armed guards, employees in plain clothes of Citadel Investigation Agency Ltd., were behind the bank counter when the gang entered and walled until customers and employees lay on the floor before opening fire.

21 Strikes Are in Progress

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario remains the focal point of labor unrest in Canada.

A Canadian Press survey shows the province has 21 strikes in progress, more than twice the total in all other provinces combined, with several more walkouts threatened.

The 12,000 striking Ontario workers include members of key construction trades, whose walkouts forced the layoff of numerous other employees.

There are nine other sizeable strikes outside Ontario, two each in Newfoundland, Quebec and Alberta and one each in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and British Columbia. They affect about 4,000 workers.

The St. Lawrence Seaway stoppage, now two weeks old, is Canada's only national strike. The 1,250 workers in Ontario and Quebec, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, want a 15-per-cent wage increase over two years. The seaway authority has offered 12 per cent.

But two more national strikes threaten. The Council of Postal Unions has promised a nation-wide walkout of its 24,000 members unless the federal government meets 40 demands in a new contract. Also threatening to strike is the 800-member Canadian Air Traffic Control Association, which has the power to shut down every airport in Canada.

Hardest hit in Ontario is the construction industry.

Ontario's beer strike-lockout, involving 3,000 employees of five breweries and Brewers Warehousing, entered its third week Friday. Union officials have warned they are prepared for a long layoff.

About 1,300 production workers at Orenda Ltd.'s Mississauga engine plant walked out Thursday midnight.

American Yachts Find Quinte Haven

American yachtsmen cruising the Bay of Quinte for the Fourth of July weekend were unable to find harbor dockage for the night. From 40 to 50 cruisers and large sailboats from the Rochester area are in Quinte waters for the weekend.

District Students to Start Summer Course at Kingston

School begins again early Monday morning for about 176 district students.

They are enroled at the summer school run by Mac-Arthur School of Education at Loyalist Collegiate in Kingston.

Secondary school students from Brockville to Peterborough will convene on Loyalist for summer courses designed to up-grade their academic standing.

The school serves a second function — the training of teachers. This is the last year summer school will be operated for teacher training. Beginning next year, all university graduates will be required to take the full year's course at a college of education.

The summer school runs from July 8 to Aug. 16. Belleville students travel by bus to Kingston, leaving at 8 a.m. and returning at 2 p.m.

Many students who first intended to take summer jobs, enroled in summer schools when they failed to find employment.

Last minute registrations were accepted until yesterday by high school assistant superintendent L. F. Reid.

"Grade 13 subjects are being taught at the summer school for the first time this year, and many students are enroling to get subjects they failed in June, instead of returning to school for another year," he said.

Each student takes two subjects at summer school, and must have a mark of 40 per cent in his June exams to be eligible.

Playgrounds Crowded At Opening

More moppets than ever will throng city playgrounds this summer.

Exactly 1,830 youngsters registered yesterday to participate in daily outdoor programs operated by Belleville's recreation commission.

Centre of activities will be 21 playgrounds spotted across the city.

The play areas swing into operation Monday at 9 a.m. and will be active almost until schools open for the new term.

Toronto Man Killed on 401

NEWCASTLE, Ont. (CP) — Fraheis B. Boisinel, 34, of Toronto, was killed early today when his car hit the median on the Macdonald Cartier Freeway, overturned and rolled into the path of another car.

The driver of the second car, Vidal Lavern Mills, 21, of Sarnia and a passenger Sharon Dennis, 21, of Courtright were treated for minor injuries.

Newcastle is 18 miles east of Oshawa.

Black Bear Injured By Car

TWEED — Officials of the department of lands and forests from Tweed are searching the woods west of Actinolite for an injured bear.

After a vehicle driven by John Allen Graham of Toronto hit a bear on Highway 7 near the Black River Bridge the injured animal got up and took to the woods.

The car had $150 damage.

It is not known how seriously the animal was hurt but members from Lands and Forests are trying to find it so they can either do something to help it or if the injuries are too serious, put it out of its misery.

ister without portfolio would get which responsibility. The three area Robert Andras, James Richardson and Otto Lang.

Mr. Trudeau said he wants to discuss new responsibilities with these ministers before announcing them.

Further light would be shed later on the supply and service department, which will be headed by Donald Jamieson, newly-appointed minister of defence productions, Mr. Trudeau said.

In other pending changes, Fisheries Minister Jack Davis will add forestry to his portfolio. Industry will be added to trade and commerce under Jean-Luc Pepin.

Also in transition is Jean Marchand, named forestry and rural development minister until a new regional development department is formed.

Mr. Trudeau said he didn't think the cabinet should be enlarged at the moment. But this did not rule out appointment of additional ministers later. Other departmental mergers are a possibility.

The Canada Development Corp., still on the drawing board, might be a shared responsibility of several departments. It would not be in the planned regional development department.

Only Two Unchanged

ister of energy, mines and resources, was named to head the department of industry and of trade and commerce, controlled separately in the Pearson administration.

Mr. Pepin will become simply minister of industry, trade and commerce.

Mr. Trudeau, announcing the shifts as a news conference, described this appointment as a deliberate move to place a French-Canadian in a post where he would be involved in high-level international negotiations.

In another combination, Minister Without Portfolio Jack Davis was named to fisheries and later will become minister of fisheries and forestry.

In addition to the three newcomers, five men who sat in the last Parliament were brought into the cabinet in Friday night's list.

They are:

H. A. (Bud) Olson, 62, member of Medicine Hat who switched to the Liberal party from Social Credit last year, named minister of agriculture.

Ronald Basford, 36, lawyer and member for Vancouver Centre who gained prominence as co-chairman of the parliamentary prices committee, named minister of consumer and corporate affairs.

Jean-Eudes Dube, 42, member of Restigouche who was chairman of the Commons external affairs committee in the last Parliament, named veterans affairs minister.

Robert Andras, 47, member for Port Arthur, where he owns an auto business, and formerly army major, named minister without portfolio.

Don Jamieson, 47, member for Burin-Burgeo and president of Newfoundland Broadcasting Ltd.

Mr. Trudeau promised precise details later on Mr. Jamieson's responsibilities for department of supply and service and on the other new departments.

But he said the communications department under Mr. Kierans will include telecommunications and satellite communications as well as responsibility for other scientific areas.

The department of regional affairs under Mr. Marchand—probably Mr. Trudeau's closest associate—will be charged with the prime minister's "Marshall Plan" project to put new life in the economies of poorer regions.

Allan MacEachen, 42, former health minister, takes over Mr. Marchand's job as minister of manpower and immigration.

Charles Drury, 58, who held industry, trade and commerce and defence production in Mr. Trudeau's interim cabinet, becomes president of the treasury board.

—J. J. Greene, 48, gives up agriculture in Mr. Olson and succeeds Mr. Pepin in energy, mines and resources.

Later he will become simply minister of industry, trade and commerce.

The Passing Parade

The Quinte chugs past the Loyalist on one of their 64 daily crossings of the Adolphustown-Glenora gap. The vessels link the two ends of Highway 33 in one of the few remaining ferry services in the country.

Ferry Captains Are Busy Men "Bridging" Gap on Highway 33

PICTON (Staff) — Eight sea captains in the county, with years of war and commercial sailing experience behind them, still ply the waters, but they drive home every night for supper.

Unwilling to leave the sea behind, they are the captains of the Loyalist and the Quinte ferries at Glenora.

"No one man with a family has any business being a sailor" are the sentiments of Capt. Henry Mitchell of the ferry Loyalist.

Like most of the other eight captains who operate the service, Capt. Mitchell has a rich background of nautical experience, but seeking quieter streams he is quite happy with the ferry service.

Capt. James Haylock, supervisor, says the service began back in the horsepower days. The ferries were towed from side to side by horses turning a treadmill.

Since its beginning in the 1800s a number of private owners operated at Glenora, until the project was taken under the wing of the department of highways in 1939.

The Loyalist, the larger of the ferries, was added to the run in 1954.

Today the ships are valued at half a million dollars but their benefit to the county is incalculable.

During 1967, 261,909 vehicles used the service coming and going from the county.

In June of this year, 22,506 vehicles crossed the water at Glenora in spite of the newly opened Quinte Skyway.

The service is widely publicized as a tourist attraction. According to Capt. James Daubney, anything that is free is a tourist attraction.

Capt. Daubney who is in charge of operations at the ferry, is of the old school of nautical adventurers.

He was in the navy for the duration of World War II, and saw two of his ships sunk, just after he had left their service. He was on runs in the North Atlantic, the English Channel, the Mediterranean and along the coast of Norway.

"I've seen enough action".

Following the war he was first mate on a Great Lakes steamship.

"It's a bit monotonous here, but I'm glad to be out of the rat race on the Great Lakes."

The ferry service does have its challenges. In each case, modern technology has come up with some form of answer.

Each ship is equipped with radar sets, showing in detail the opposite coastline. Once orientated, there is little problem sailing blind in fog or snowstorms.

Beside the bitterness of the cold, winter brings the threat of ice. Pipelines run from shore to shore on the bottom of the channel. Air from compressors on each shore is pumped along the lines to bubble to the surface, preventing any ice from forming.

The worst problem however is dealing with ice, trapped in and around the docks. If the ice piles up at the base of the docks, even in small quantities, it can prevent the boats from being moored.

Often there is little to do but smash it out by hand, or hopefully wash it out with the propellors.

The boats must fasten directly to the docks. They were among the first ferries in the county to be equipped with a method of limiting the effect on the boats as extra weight is added.

The ramp to the boats, is hinged. As cars board the ferries, the dock swings to match the rise and fall of the boats. A lot of mufflers are saved this way.

Each ship is equipped with its own method of reversing direction. The Loyalist has two diesel engines, operating two screws at either end of the ship. Return trips are accomplished merely by turning on the appropriate engine.

The Quinte, with a single diesel, is equipped with two driveshafts to two screws, at either end.

The ships can travel up to nine or 10 miles per hour, says Capt. Daubney. He pointed out that it is hard to judge, for the ships are no sooner under way, than they begin braking as they approach the opposite shore.

The Quinte can handle 12 cars per trip, the Loyalist 20. Some days, during the height of the tourist season, it's not enough said Capt. Daubney.

In that case, breaking from their normal schedule of runs — every 15 minutes during the day ,and every half hour during night the ships will shuttle back and forth non stop, to handle the flood of traffic.

On a normal day, fuel consumption stands at 50 gallons but is increased when the traffic demands.

Thirty five men work at the service. Each ship is manned by a captain, an engineer, a mate and a deckhand.

Although little can happen in the half mile stretch from shore to shore the ships pass a formal safety inspection each year. They are equipped with life boats, fire fighting gear, and life jackets.

"If anything ever happened, one ship could tow the other to shore" said Capt. Daubney, adding that to date, nothing of the kind has been necessary.

The Quinte area's little navy can well take care of itself, to say nothing of the traffic it bears.

It will be a pity ,to see it go, if and when, progress, replaces the grumpy little service, with a brand new, shiny stainless steel and concrete skyway.

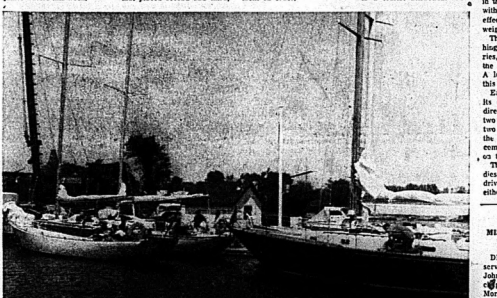
A Watchful Eye

Captain Henry Mitchell, one of eight captains manning the Glenora ferries, is seen at the wheel of the Loyalist.

Morch Boats Place High in Race

The birds are returning to the nest.

Such is the case at Morch's Manufacturing this week as many of the boats built by the company are plying their way from Rochester to dock at the boat-building establishment.



The boat enthusiasts are celebrating the July 4 Independence Day holiday in the United States. As well, they are taking the opportunity to have minor work done on their sailing boats.

It is expected that about 40 or 50 boats from the American city will be sailing in Bay of Quinte waters this week.

The visitation to Morch's which has become an annual affair begins with a sailboat race from Rochester to Presqu'ile and this year 23 boats took part.

The winner of the race, Madame X, is not a Morch product, but the pair of boats that placed second and third, Rampage, a red line and Mallard, a crusader (the first one built by the company) were both constructed by Morch's.

To date, Morch Manufacturing has produced 59 Corvettes and seven red lines. Although only one crusader has been constructed there are 14 of them on order.

And A Well-deserved Rest

A few of the sailing boats from Rochester stand at rest at the docks of Morch Manufacturing after completing a 23-boat race from Rochester to Presqu'ile.

The occurrence took place Friday at 10:00 p.m. at Rossmore.

A car driven by Richard Campbell of Whitby sustained $500, in damages at 11:50 p.m. yesterday. Charges are pending said an OPP spokesman here, but no details are available.

France Restored

France, miraculously restored to political and economic health by the election success of the Gaullists, is resuming its role of the Western world's maverick.

No sooner had the United States and Soviet Union signed the nuclear non-proliferation treaty — regarded as a significant milestone in the tortuous history of east-west relations — than France announced the opening of a new series of atomic tests in the Pacific.

Admittedly, a strong and confident France is better than one that has been reduced to shreds and political vacillation, as it was recently almost overnight in the wake of student riots.

Few believed even the redoubtable President de Gaulle would survive the sustained threat to public order and economic stability posed by the students. But they were wrong and the rest is history. De Gaulle obtained an overwhelming margin at the polls, annihilating the communist party in the process.

The result is that while continuance of nuclear tests in the Pacific runs counter to both U.S. and Soviet policy, the West stands to gain from a renewal of closer ties with France. The leftist menace in France having receded, it is believed the administration will now lean more to friendship with the United States and Britain.

Better that France maintain its independent posture as well as its military strength. The country cannot be regarded as a serious threat in the way that Germany once was, but the fact it is able to keep both east and west guessing represents perhaps another useful deterrent to open conflict between both ideologies.

Women's World

What are women doing these days — apart from worrying about their status? Making the fashion scene of course, from Belleville to Saigon and some are exhibiting an extraordinary variety of talents, from witchcraft to prosecuting.

For instance, there are those new mini outfits after the fashion of nun's and monk's garb. As might be expected, they are stirring some controversy. Another current fashion photo shows a French model festooned with "fashion watches," including some used as sunglasses. Others are on her wrists and around her shoulders.

The witch in the story is in the modern tradition. She is Judith Malls, who was pictured recently in her convertible and abbreviated dress and described as a wife, mother — and of all things for a young woman of such attractive appearance, a process engineer with an aircraft company in Newport Beach, California. Perhaps witchcraft is her way of getting away from the problems of higher mathematics. Recently she graduated at the Pennsylvania Life and Culture Institute at Lancaster, Pa., and told of a love potion made from clover leaves, honey, rose petals, rosemary and spider legs.

Well, well, what next? For that we turn to The AP (Associated Press) World, the press agency's interesting chronicle of the doings of its staff men and women around the world. In the current issue there is a picture of Dr. Tran Van Khiem described as the dean of the Saigon AP staff, cranking up his motorcycle to take the daily airfreight picture package to the airport.

Crossing the street in the foreground is a raven-haired beauty in a minidress and the photo caption says: "The girl at left? We do not know who she is but have left her in the engraving in case any of our girl watchers are interested."

Which goes to show that even in Saigon, despite bombs and bullets and constant danger, the girls still maintain their poise and the classic beauty of the Oriental woman, and there are also photographers who are not so embattled that they cannot turn their lenses on the brighter and happier side of life in war-torn Vietnam.

The Presence

It may be of little consolation to the Wooler family whose home has been the scene of mysterious rappings, but the Quinte area is not entirely unfamiliar with the supernatural. Belleville teacher Gerald Boyce recounted similar ghostly stories in a recent series in this newspaper. The Wooler "presence" would seem to fit into the realm of a poltergeist which the dictionary defines as a "ghost supposed to be responsible for table tappings and other mysterious noisy disturbances."

Three Times and Out for A Too Sympathetic Stanfield

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Nursing their bruises, the better brand of losers is looking at it, hopefully, this way . . .

. . .perhaps the beating he suffered will harden Conservative Leader Stanfield.

Painfully plain to see now he was simply too soft. Too much the gentleman, too. Just too reasonable.

Softies, it turns out again as it has always, are patsies.

Robert Stanfield began losing the election three months before it was called.

The losing started early last winter on the night he failed, incredibly, to support his own first motion of non-confidence against the government in the Commons.

The reason, said he, reasonably, should be apparent to all. The prime minister was out of the country on official business and could not vote, so it would be only the "decent," as he phrased it, and gentlemanly thing for him as opposition leader to refrain from voting. Anyway, he added, the prime minister requested it.

It is what is called "pairing" — you don't vote if the other half of your parliamentary "pair" can't. But it takes two to make a pair, and there is nothing remotely about pairing. You do it voluntarily.

Many of the Conservatives were aghast, the hard - bitten New Democratic crew amused, and the Liberals incredulous as Robert Stanfield kept his seat that night when the MPs rose to vote.

With much of the press and presumably some of the public, he got marks for his gentlemanly, if almost unprecedented action.

And the pragmatists among the Liberals and as politicians they are practical if nothing else, marked him down as an innocently trusting babe in the parliamentary woods.

He thought everybody in the Commons should observe such a code of courtesy — and maybe they should.

The process of losing continued almost immediately when he agreed to the prime minister's request for a 24-hour adjournment of the Commons on the defeat of the finance minister's tax bill.

The prime minister merely had to ask to receive from the Conservative leader not just a 24-hour adjournment of the House, but as it turned out, a stay of execution.

Again Mr. Stanfield thought he was doing the "right thing" in allowing the government he so surprisingly had tripped time to steady its faltering feet.

Ninety minutes after the Conservative Opposition leader, playing the gentleman again, agreed to the stay, the pragmatic prime minister took to the television networks to plead the defeat of his government hadn't really happened.

And again, incredibly, Mr. Stanfield believed it.

To be twice conned was not enough.

There was third time.

The discredited finance minister, breaking all precedent, and like the prime minister, bypassing Parliament, introduced" his new tax measures to — of all unlikely bodies — a press conference. Then "sold" it on TV.

And Mr. Stanfield, not wanting to further rock the economic boat that the finance minister and big spenders of the cabinet had come close to swamping, made no protest.

At least not the kind calculated to change his losing course.

There were further signposts along the road to election disaster.

Mr. Stanfield quietly accepted the prime minister's preposterous proposition that defeat of the government wasn't defeat at all simply because nobody was able, or perhaps even willing to present him breaking all the parliamentary rules.

Finally, with the election called, the Conservative leader always the gentleman, failed to insist that the new prime minister clearly answer some of the urgent questions that had been raised about his background.

Those questions were brushed off as "hateful."

Many a Conservative of both the "old" Diefenbaker and the "new" Stanfield guard pleaded that their leader ask the questions and insist on the answers.

Perhaps now, in the humiliation of defeat, Mr. Stanfield may find it possible to harden his heart and toughen his mind enough to fight the way the Liberals fought — to win.

The employees of Canada Cement Co. Plant 5, Point Anne held their annual picnic on July 1. A large crowd was in attendance at the Recreation Park. Two refreshment booths operated by the 1st Point Anne Boy Scout Troop were busy places and well patronized by young and old. In the early evening a soft ball game was played between Point Anne team and Quinte Beverages with Point Anne on the leading end of a 5-1 score.

Many beautiful garden flowers arranged through the lounge of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club made an inviting picture to the large number of guests who were present for the weekly afternoon tea. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. George Stobie, Mrs. R. B. Graham, Mrs. A. B. Hunt, Mrs. Morton Parker and Meribeth Stobie.

The act prohibited all forms of work, amusement, entertainment, sport, and almost all commerce from midnight Saturday to midnight Sunday. The act has been bypassed throughout its history by authorities ignoring it, taking advantage of loopholes or passing over-riding provincial legislation.

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—British forces made a naval air raid on Constantinople; Italian troops and their motorless along the Piave front; Australian troops advanced in the hills on either side of the Somme River; British bombers dropped 28 tons of explosives on the Flames and other targets.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—five airports clustered around the port of Catania in Sicily and Comiso all were attacked by Allied planes; Rear Admiral Lord Louis, a German naval expert, said the Allies had the upper hand in the submarine war; Gen. Henri Giraud, co-chairman of the French Committee of National Liberation, arrived in Washington.

"Man and His World" Has Character—and People

By GEORGE RADWANSKIT
In The Montreal Gazette

Man and His World is finally beginning to come alive with a character all its own.

It has acquired the one ingredient necessary to concoct an atmosphere — people.

They're coming in now, even on rainy days, in groups and batches.

For the first time this year, the parking lots are bearing testimony that this is an international rendezvous. The license plates on cars are again beginning to read like a directory of U.S. states.

The people visiting the site are enjoying Man and His World.

And even more important, by their presence they're creating Man and His World.

One thing is already clear—this is not Expo reborn.

It's a brand new entity, quite distinct from the great world's fair which spawned it.

And just as with the offspring of an illustrious human parent, you have to judge it on its own terms.

Expo was never a matter of buildings, magnificent as many were, but rather of spirit. While the buildings are still much the same this year, the spirit has changed completely.

Last year, there was a certain tension, an excitement that told you to hurry because this was a fleeting moment soon to disappear. It was a high-keyed sort of atmosphere, full of cheerfully jostling crowds, personalities, music, events, and a unique international flavor.

This year, Man and His World is much less a happening and much more a park.

It's a place to stroll now, not bustle. There are enough people to give it life, but few enough to let you go where you please without worry about lineups.

For people-watchers, it's a paradise unmatched by Expo. In those happily swirling crowds you could at best hope for a glimpse before the face — if you were looking at faces—had disappeared.

Now, the people are still as interesting, their homes are just as distant and the girls are just as pretty — but the people-watching arena is roomy and uncluttered.

In addition to your own quiet pleasure from looking at the exhibits, — and many of them are delightful, even better than last year—there's a lot of fun to be gained from watching the little human experiences that happen everywhere on the site.

There are moments and hours there for everyone, but not everyone is out there to enjoy them. Those who aren't are missing a lot.

Divorce Japanese-Style

Miami Herald

To the Japanese man in the street, equality for his womenfolk has meant the end of a preway of doing. Up until 1950 a bored or otherwise disenchanted husband could get a unilateral divorce by simply filing for it at the town hall. No alimony, no support, no bugging from his wife's lawyers.

Now, all is changed, and three times as many wives as husbands are seeking divorces. It costs 100 yen to file, but most sneaky wives can steal this out of the grocery money since it amounts to only 27 cents.

This could be worse for honorable husbands, though. Family courts do the whole job and he doesn't have to pay for a lawyer, either his or hers.

Another Cabinet Defection

Wilson Fights Rising Tide of Labor Party Unrest

By CY FOX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The resignation of another front-line cabinet minister, by-election setbacks and continuing economic jitters are giving critics of British Prime Minister Wilson new opportunities for seeking his replacement.

But Wilson, long conditioned to crises inside as well as outside his Labor party, has at least one source of strength in the complexities clouding any choice of a new leader.

Ray Gunter, the latest man to quit Wilson's cabinet, is following up his departure with cautiously-phrased encouragement for those who want a new chief and with much blunter warnings that Labor has lost touch with the traditional areas of its grass-roots support.

Gunter's departure, following that of George Brown last spring, deprives the Wilson cabinet of two trade-union stalwarts and adds to the possibilities of growing revulsion within the party against the prime minister's leadership.

Compounding the tension among his followers is the current jockeying for the position of party general secretary.

The rumbles from this direction, involving harsh words about alleged skullduggery on the part of organization officials, intensify the impression that Labor is anything but united at a time when the government faces grave problems of industrial unrest in addition to chronic economic difficulties.

Newspapers again are talking up the "Wilson-must-go" idea, to such an extent that at least one leader of Labor's left wing, Michael Foot, charges that a plot to oust the prime minister is under way.

Even his opponents give Wilson credit for courage, especially in the sort of back-to-the-wall situation he has had to face so often in recent months.

There seems to be hesitation among his critics as to how a challenge to his position could best be organized.

While Roy Jenkins, the suave chancellor of the exchequer, is regularly mentioned as a potential successor, he is anything but a unanimous favorite.

Citing statements by Jenkin's position, sources inside and outside the party mention other possible successors, ranging from Defence Minister Denis Healey to Productivity Minister Barbara Castle.

Much of Gunter's stature, during his years as minister of labor and then of power, resulted from his reputation as a steadily faithful supporter of the Labor leadership despite all stresses and strains.

It could be that as a cabinet defector publicly attacking the present direction of a hard-pressed party he may be undermining his own standing.

Statements by Foot indicate a reaction against Gunter, associated in the past with the party's right wing, on the part of Labor leftists.

On the other hand, the most recent by-election defeat, in which the late Sydney Silverman's seat fell to the Opposition Conservatives, pointed to a drastic deterioration of Labor's electoral position from what it was following the massive Wilson victory in 1966.

This factor, together with fears for the future of sterling itself, could prove decisive in the determination of whether Wilson should stay in the driver's seat or go.

New Hearing System for Son

Anthony Walker, a British hairdresser, invented this Russell hearing system in an effort to help his partially deaf son Russell. The system consists of a radio microphone for the teacher and a receiver and microphone for the pupil, who then can hear both himself and the teacher speak. It is claimed to be the first machine specially devised to enable partially deaf children to take part in ordinary conversation and to attend ordinary schools. Mr. Walker and Russell are shown using the machine at their Stratford-upon-Avon home.

Same Religious Books Studied By Protestants and Catholics

NEW YORK (AP)—For the first time in American religious history, many Protestant and Roman Catholic teen-agers are going to be studying about the Bible and basic Christian beliefs from the same textbooks.

Educationists of both traditions called the development a major breakthrough, through.

It was brought about through a combined publishing venture of the United Church of Christ and Herder and Herder, a Roman Catholic publishing house. They're putting out a joint series of teaching materials for their young people.

"We wanted to present the main premises and central concepts of Christianity without partisanship or sectarian positions," said Rev. Edward Powers, education secretary of the United Church Board of Homeland Ministries.

"It's a new way of doing it," said John Heidenry, managing editor of the Catholic publishing firm. "The Catholic Church is and no longer sectarian. It shares with the United Church the same approach to essential beliefs and their implications for living."

The educational materials, consisting of six booklets and a teachers' manual, are expected to be used by more than 250,000 teen-agers, beginning this fall, in the United Church and in Roman Catholic high schools and church classes.

The materials deal with reasons for commitment to Christian beliefs, making ethical decisions, the Bible and how to use it, the nature of the church and how it functions, worship, and serving the Christian cause in the world.

Two editions of the textbooks are being issued—a United Church edition and a Roman Catholic edition. However, the only differences were described as technical, usually involving terminology.

Examples of the modifications made are the Roman Catholic substitution of "priest" for "minister", "mass" for "worship service", "parish" for "congregation", and similar references to organizational structure.

Issues of continuing difference, such as the Catholic belief in papal infallibility in pronouncing doctrine and in the bodily assumption of the Virgin Mary, are not dealt with in the series.

U. S. Supreme Court Ruling Severs Morality and Welfare

WASHINGTON (CP)—A Supreme Court decision upsetting so-called "man - in - the-house" rules, which in effect punished children for their mother's moral shortcomings, means an estimated 200,000 to 400,000 persons will be added to the welfare rolls.

Nineteen states and the District of Columbia had various versions of the rule that the children of a woman who had sexual relations with a man not her husband were ineligible for welfare payments.

In some places, such as Washington, the rule applied only if the man lived with the woman and her children. In others, such as Alabama, a woman was considered to "cohabit" with a man if she had frequent or continuing sexual relations with him, in her home or elsewhere.

One Alabama official said the rule could be invoked even if the couple had sexual relations once every six months.

The recent Supreme Court ruling, written by retiring Chief Justice Earl Warren in a case brought by an Alabama woman, said it is "simply inconceivable . . . that Alabama is free to discourage immorality and illegitimacy by the device of absolute disqualification of needy children."

Immorality and illegitimacy should be dealt with through rehabilitation measures rather than measures that punish dependent children, the court found.

As a follow-up to the court decision, the federal department of health, education and welfare issued new regulations requiring states involved to notify all families rejected or cut off from aid under the rule in the last two years that they now may be eligible for benefits.

States cannot deny welfare to children solely because of "the inclusion in the family or the presence in the home" of an able-bodied man who is not their natural or adoptive father or the mother's husband.

Such men have no legal responsibility for the children's support while married or adoptive parents or stepfathers do.

A department spokesman said the ruling could raise the cost of such benefits by $50,000,000 to $100,000,000.

The case that brought this ruling on the 1935 Aid to Dependent Children Act centred around Mrs. Sylvester Smith of Selma, Ala., whose four children were denied aid in 1966 on grounds that she had sexual relations with a man in her home on weekends. The man lived with his own wife and their nine children, whom he supported, and he did not contribute to the support of Mrs. Smith's children.

One of the major problems is to locate and notify families who previously were refused aid but now are eligible. A health department spokesman said there would be no record of such cases since welfare departments had never been required specifically to identify the "man-in-the-house" rule as a reason for denying aid.

New Hope for Kenya's Abundant Wild Life Could Vanish in Forty Years

NAIROBI (Reuters)—Kenya's spectacular wild life may vanish within 40 years unless the government modernizes its conservation policies, an eminent British scientist warned recently.

Dr. Richard Laws' warning brought a denial from Kenya wild life authorities. If Kenya had no progressive game conservation policies it would not have employed Laws and other experts, said spokesmen of the tourism and wild life ministry.

Laws resigned from his $12,000-a-year post as director of a Tsavo National Park elephant research project after a controversy over elephant cropping.

He said before leaving Kenya for Cambridge University, England, in mid-June: "I don't feel very optimistic about the future of wild life here."

Laws spent most of the last seven years studying elephants in Kenya and Uganda. He was appointed director of the Tsavo elephant research project when it started in February, 1967.

The three-year scheme, sponsored jointly by the Kenya government and the Ford Foundation, studied the elephant population in and around Tsavo and the effects elephants have on vegetation and other animals.

There are an estimated 23,000 elephants in the park and another 12,000 around it; Laws and other experts believe that if their population is not drastically reduced the herds will eventually eat themselves out of existence.

Powder Puffers Fly Today

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Eighty-one planes with women pilots take off today for Savannah, Ga., on a 2,466-mile flight in the 22nd year of the Powder Puff Derby.

Of the 150 women entered in the race, some will be flying solo and some with co-pilots. There are prizes of $3,000 for the first five planes.

The pilots will be permitted to make eight stops, two of them mandatory. The planes must land at Corpus Christi, Tex., and at Greenville, Miss.

The event is sponsored by the Ninety-Nines, holding its international convention at Van Nuys Airport.

Last year's race champion, Judy Wagner of Torrance, Calif., isn't entered.

The winners will be determined by their ground speeds. Handicaps are issued before the race and the winners won't be known until all planes have crossed the finish line.

Deadline, however, is midnight, July 9.

Dispute Closes Place des Arts

MONTREAL (CP) — A dispute over a $451 permit fee involving the Union des Artistes and Montreal impresario Samuel Gesser, resulted in a shutdown of the city's Place des Arts concert hall Friday.

The union, which holds exclusive jurisdictional rights over artists appearing at Place des Arts, is demanding the fee for an act from India Indrani and her company of dancers and musicians.

The act is part of a Montreal summer festival of entertainment being held by Mr. Gesser in conjunction with the city's Man and His World exhibition.

The fee is levied on all foreign acts with the exception of those from the United States as the Union des Artistes has an agreement with American unions.

Indrani and her company opened at the Place des Arts Monday to favorable reviews, but Mr. Gesser told a news conference Friday he had been informed that performances could not continue before the fee was paid.

You will really have fun exploring Old Fort Henry. Each summer, 150-year Old Fort Henry comes to life as members of the renowned Fort Henry Guard swing into action on the parade square. The Fort Henry Guard is patterned after the British Infantry of 1867. You will enjoy watching these handsome "summer soldiers" perform the intricate and colorful "Retreat" Ceremony every Wednesday evening during July and August. You will have fun exploring the battlements, the cells, the underground "Guns Rooms," the old muzzle loading cannons (that still fire a salute every day). You will love having a holiday in history.

Ann Landers

Uncommunicative Dad Causes Unhappiness

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I will be 16 in three weeks. My problem is my father. He has said exactly three things to me in the last five years. Please don't think I am exaggerating because I can tell you what they were.

The day after Christmas in 1963 he said, "Get up off your fat rump and clean up the house. Or do you plan to let the boxes and wrapping paper lie around till next year?"

On January 2, 1964, he said, "I don't care if it was our party. Clean up the house."

Three weeks ago he said, "Either get a haircut or roll it up. You look like a witch."

ANN LANDERS

I have tried to start a conversation with him many times but he ignores me or talks to me through someone else. For example, if I say, "How come your son don't match? he'll say to my mother, "What is she bugging me about anyway?"

Please tell me how to deal with this problem. When I see other kids carry on conversations with their fathers I get very unhappy. — IGNORED.

DEAR IGNORED: Accept the fact that your father is a non-communicator — probably never was and never will be. You are not going to change him so you'd better change your attitude. I feel sorry for a man who is so walled off from his children that he can't even speak to them. And one day I hope you will understand how sad this is and that your resentment will turn to compassion.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I feel like I've been hit by a 10-ton truck. Please help me to understand what has happened to me.

Peter and I went together for nearly three years. We are not teen-agers, far from it. I am 25, Peter is 27. For the past two years I dated him and no one else. So far as I know, he was completely faithful to me also. Last February he gave me a diamond. We planned to be married in August.

We've been apartment hunting and made honeymoon plans. I've been buying linens and china.

Last night after dinner I felt something caught between my two front teeth. I took a toothpick and tried to dislodge what must have been a piece of chicken. Peter suddenly jumped out of his chair and said, "The wedding is off! I could never marry a woman whose manners are so poor that she would use a toothpick in my presence."

He then launched into a tirade about my upbringing and how all of it has become an issue as I really am — uncouth, coarse, vulgar, and "no lady."

I burst into tears, handed him his ring and he left. Please help me understand. I am in a state of shock. — WILTED ORANGE BLOSSOMS.

DEAR WILTED: A romance that could be felled by a toothpick wasn't much in the first place.

It should be obvious, even in your state of shock, that Peter used the toothpick episode as an excuse to crawl out of the commitment. Accept the fact that he lacks the maturity for marriage and consider yourself lucky to be rid of him.

Child Is Shy Since Hospital Stay

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My grandaughter is 12 and seems healthy, does well at school and is well liked, but seems so shy of older people, especially strangers. If one tries to draw her into conversation in our home tears will come, and perhaps she will leave the room.

She did not seem like this at two or three years of age but had a bout in the hospital at that time, and I wonder if something caused it, and will she grow out of it? — Worried Granny.

Dear Granny: She will grow out of it better if she has help.

Regardless of all efforts to soften the experience, a stay in hospital at the very tender age of two or three can leave damaging results. She got the idea away back there that Mummy and Daddy deserted her to strangers; not a conscious thought now, but a fully registered blow to her personality.

Help her, very gently, to come out of her shell. Help her to be host to a tea party with her pals. Develop her talent for dancing, or pumles, or games.

Best of all, get the skilled assistance of a child care worker at the Family and Children's Services of Hastings County, 311 Front Street, Belleville.

* * *

Dear Doris: For about 18 month: now, I've had great difficulty in accepting my Christian faith and the New Testament. I've spoken to my priest and a friend about this on a few occasions and they have helped quite a bit, but I still have trouble.

At times it gets so difficult that it feels like I've lost my faith. Can you suggest any books I could read which prove the truth about these things? — Wavering.

Dear Wavering: None of us has all the answers. The very fact that you make spiritual matters important and undertake to probe, is a good beginning.

Once it was thought heresy to believe that the earth was round. As you gain more knowledge of our universe, we revise our ideas about how it and we came into being. Does that change the central fact that it must have taken a Supreme Being to dream it all up — and keep in control?

Let your priest suggest to you the reading which you would find most helpful. If you would like the article written for me by Rev. Dr. Howard Outerbridge on the New Curriculum of the United Church of Canada, write in for it, enclosing 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Many rave found it enlightening.

Dear Doris: What is the proper procedure for passing the cake around, at a wedding? — Bride-To-Be.

Dear Bride-To-Be: I like it best when the bride and groom get up from their places, after dessert, and pass the cake themselves.

At a large wedding, there isn't much chance for informal visiting with the newly-married. Guests feel real good when bride and groom stop at their table to perform this gracious little service and exchange a light - hearted word or two.

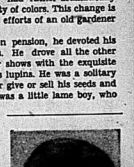
A GARDEN TOUR



(Conclusion)

"Come into the garden . . ." — Tennyson.

* * *

"The tall spikes of lupins," continues Miss Nell Merry concerning a tour of her garden, "bring to mind an enormous bed of them before the war memorial at Plymouth, England, with its hundreds of names of Plymouth men lost at sea during the two World Wars. The original rather watery pink and blue of the lupins had rather dramatically changed to a lovely variety of colors. This change is said to be due to the efforts of an old gardener named Russell.

"When he retires on pension, he devoted his life to improving lupins. He drove all the other gardeners mad at flower shows with the exquisite color combinations of his lupins. He was a solitary old man and would never give or sell his seeds and his one human contact was a little lame boy, who became his shadow.

Ethel Arlene Slater, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Slater, 110 Albert Street South, Orillia, Ont., formerly of 299 Bleecker Ave., Belleville, graduated recently with her Bachelor of Arts degree from Spring Arbor College, Michigan, majoring in music and English. Arlene attended the Belleville Collegiate Institute. She will be attending the Ontario College of Education at the University of Toronto this summer and has accepted a position as a teacher at the Adult Education Centre in Toronto. Arlene is a granddaughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. James Smith of Bloomfield. Arlene was the soloist at the Baccalaureate Service.

"Finally, a famous seed firm made him an offer. If he would sell his seeds to them, they would guarantee to care for his little friend, and that is how we have heard of lupins.

"All the flowers in the garden merely provide a setting for the roses. They are a great enhancer, but they are worth it. You have to fertilize them, water them, spray them, powder them. If you take your eyes off them for one week, you may find them devoured by noxious bugs, but they are worth all your love and effort. Next to love, roses are perhaps the most popular subject for the poets. Not only the Persian but ancient Persian and Hindu poets have built a whole mystique about the rose.

"There is one famous castle in England where they show you the room in which Shakespeare mentions dramatically in his play, Henry VI, when the two quarrelling lords each plucked a rose to be his party's symbol. The Lancastrian lord plucked a red rose and the Yorkest, a white.

"There is a Dorothy Perkins rose in my garden which for 40 years was pink, but a few years ago, I had two extremely insistent men build me a fence. For weeks they trampled over my poor Dorothy. I thought she was dead, but ever since, her flowers have been blood red.

"The last flash of color in the garden comes from the chrysanthemums, China's gift to the Western world. Their delicate colors leave a beautiful memory behind. As the days get shorter, I go out anxiously each morning to see if the buds are showing color, and feverishly head to the "mums" to see if they should be given shelter.

"Usually, in spite of dark premonitions, they are covered with boughs for the last time in the season the vases are loaded with flowers.

"Then comes the death of the garden. The roses are hilled up, the chrysanthemums are given winter protection, the compost heap is spread. The snow falls — and we await the glorious resurrection of the Spring."

Thanks and appreciation are extended to Miss Merry, and it is hoped she will soon pay readers another visit.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "Tim had to drive four other boys home after the party last night and it made him an hour late getting home himself."

Father: I wish I had never let him get a car, but when he earned the money at his summer job, I didn't see how I could refuse."

Even though a teen-ager earns the money for his car, he should not have unrestricted use of it. It's up to the parents to see that the car is not an excuse for abandoning curfews or family rules.

Father: "If you want to drive your friends home, you will all have to leave the school a little earlier, so you can get home yourself at a reasonable time. Explain it to the boys and I know they'll co-operate if they want a ride."

Rocking Chairs French Canadian Invention

Rockers are considered to be a French - Canadian invention, designed for grandparents to pass time sociably in their later years. The use of a rocking-chair implies a age, and the average person, if asked whether a rocker was older than an armchair in the same style, would unhesitatingly pick the rocker.

Neither assumption is correct. The first reference to rockers in the Province of Canada is by an English writer, Cutler who in 1787 refers to "his great armchairs that they put in rocking-chairs and sew a great deal", the first reference to the popular pursuit of a rocker and its use.

Cornelius Krieghoff, the best known painter of Quebec interiors does not feature any rockers. His characters are either sedately seated or entering at the point of imbalance on a sleigh or snowshoe chair. It was not until past mid-century that rockers begin to appear in fashionable pictures in this country and then about equally distributed through British and French-speaking Canada.

Most modern chairs are built with comfortable rockers that extend well to the rear. The converging arc brakes the chair and the drawback prevents chair and occupant from going over backwards. There must have been some experimentation and the first grandmother unusually spry to retain her equilibrium. Early Shaker furniture from the settlement near Albany, N.Y., slat back in style with short, parallel rockers may have been the original styling. If that was so, the longer converging rockers are later; the fruit of Shaker experience.

Numerous Canadian rocking chairs exist from the period before 1850. Almost all are simply chairs set on rockers. About mid-century chairs, designed specifically as rockers appeared. "Boston" rockers, similar to the one illustrated, appeared simultaneously, in large quantities, all over Canada and the States. Perhaps some Shaker influence can be traced through the Lake Champlain route to Quebec. The later "Boston" style has prevailed, and the same style in the same painted and stencilled finish continues to be made in Quebec to this day. Covered rockers are advertised as solid maple and sell for upwards of $75 new, in furniture stores.

The rocker illustrated retailed for $1.25 anywhere in Canada between 1840 and 1900. The seat is probably pine, spindles and back maple or birch; and since the whole thing was painted it didn't much matter. If you scrape it down its variety of woods will probably claim its value and authenticity. Currently it sells for the same price as a new model and in the future probably here if the finish is in good condition.

Old rockers are usually worn on the bottom as this one is. The rockers are pine and wear quickly when dragged over the floor. The rockers themselves can easily be replaced or filed down.

Fried Chicken for Group

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: On our holidays we visited a small-town church fried chicken supper. This church has put on this chicken supper for several years and it has become an anticipated event in the community for everybody can have as much chicken as they can hold. Our own home church would like to do something similar as a building fund raising project. A member will sell us chickens wholesale and a local grocery store is allowing us a discount on all other supplies. All we need is a good recipe for Fried Chicken, preferably done in the oven. Could you help our worthy cause? — Helen J.

ANSWER: Amounts for Oven Fried Chicken below serve 25 generously. You did not mention the number of people you expect. I would suggest that if you expect, let us say, 150, that six members of your committee each make at home and bring one batch as follows.

SATURDAY

Dinner Menu

Broiled Bacon - Wrapped Beef Cakes; Mashed Squash; Asparagus; Four-Bean Salad (see Fri.); Strawberries and Cream; Tea.

OVEN FRIED CHICKEN (serves 25 generously)

Allow 1½ chicken legs per person — that is the equivalent to two drumsticks and one thigh. This is generous but one drumstick and one thigh might seem inadequate for hungry young people. You will need 1¼ cups butter or margarine, 2½ cups flour, 2 teaspoons dry mustard (optional but recommended), 2 tablespoons paprika, 2 teaspoons pepper, 3 tablespoons salt and 1 or 2 tablespoons celery seed (optional). Shake these dry ingredients together in heavy paper bag and shake chicken pieces in them. Melt 1 cup butter or margarine in large roasting pan or broiling pan which is width and depth of oven. Place the dredged chicken pieces in the butter in the pan and turn them over once. Dot with remaining butter. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 45 to 50 minutes. Turn chicken once during this period. Ten minutes before serving turn oven heat to 450 deg. Fahr. and bake 10 minutes longer to brown and crispen chicken.

NOTE: Chicken should be in one layer in pan so you may have to have two pastful.

Trudeau Cabinet Is Possibly Youngest Since Confederation

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Trudeau increased membership in his cabinet to 29 from 25 Friday and the average age of members dropped to 47.1 years from 49.

The new cabinet is possibly the youngest since Confederation and for the first time it comprises members all born in the 20th century.

Twenty-one ministers—almost three-quarters of the cabinet—are under 50. Six are in their 30s and 15 in their 40s. Only five are in their 50s and three in their 60s.

Jean Chretien, moved from revenue to Indian affairs and northern development, at 34, remains the youngest cabinet member.

Paul Martin, the former external affairs minister and now minister without portfolio and government Senate leader, is the oldest member at 65.

When Prime Minister Trudeau, himself 48, formed his "caretaker cabinet" last April 20 the average age was 49.

This compared with the average of 52.1 years last Dec. 14 when Lester B. Pearson announced his retirement as prime minister and national leader of the Liberal party.

Mr. Pearson was 70 at retirement and older members in his cabinet who left the treasury benches with him were Jack Nicholson, 66, the labor minister who since has become lieutenant-governor of British Columbia, and Robert Winters, 58, who left the trade portfolio to return to business life.

Besides Mr. Chretien, members of the Trudeau cabinet in their 30s include Donald S. Macdonald, 36, president of the Privy Council and government House leader; John Munro, 37, health and welfare minister; John Turner, 39, justice; Ron Basford, 36, consumer affairs; and Otto E. Lang, 36, member for Saskatoon-Humboldt, minister without portfolio.

Mr. Pearson was the oldest member of his administration while Mr. Trudeau at 48 is just about a year above the average.

The cabinet of former prime minister John Diefenbaker averaged 53.4 years at the defeat of his Conservative government in 1963.

A few months before the defeat of the Liberal government of Louis St. Laurent late in 1956 the average age of the cabinet was 57.

Hummingbird

This is the United States Air Force's XV-4B Hummingbird II which can take off and land vertically. It is equipped with four J-85 engines mounted vertically for direct lift and two horizontally for lift-cruise. The safety rig, called an "inverted telescope," allows testing of the aircraft on the ground from full position as chief coroner for Metropolitan Toronto, variously termed Mr. A Man's "disgrace," Ontario's chief coroner "stupid" and a recent inquest a "mock jury."

The NDP member said of the supervising coroner, Dr. H. B. Cotnam:

"He's not a bad man; he's a particularly stupid man."

During his speech, made as the house debated spending estimates of the attorney-general's department, Dr. Shulman told members:

—A "blanket" ruling by Dr. Cotnam that coroners must not pronounce death has led to a health hazard being created by decomposing bodies having to be taken to hospitals.

—Mr. Wishart has stopped an important research program he had launched as chief coroner which involved use of newly-dead bodies in cars being crashed as safety research.

—Money is being wasted because of a legislative "mistake" which requires coroners to sign some death certificates twice in cases where bodies are cremated or taken outside the country for burial.

—A policy of automatically holding inquests in cases where persons died soon after release from hospital, introduced while he was chief coroner, has been discontinued.

Dr. Shulman said the government has "turned back the clock" to the days before he became chief coroner when coroners were "getting things covered up as soon as possible, muzzling the press, placating the family, keeping everything calm and speeding on to the next disaster."

He also complained that the attorney-general had intervened to prevent him from getting a hearing before the public service grievance board when he was fired and told the house his successor as chief coroner is being paid more than he was with fewer duties.

He said he had checked records last week and found Dr. Cotnam was signing routine cremation certificates contrary to policy established when he was chief coroner. "If he's doing it for the extra $10, the attorney-general should give him a bigger salary instead."

Mr. Wishart replied that civil servants could not reply to allegations in the legislature. "I think this is typical of the conduct of the honorable member which I deplore."

The NDP member said an inquest last month into the death of a Kirkland Lake boy who had been the victim of "medical mistakes" had been conducted by a coroner who had played a part in treatment of the boy.

He said the chief witness at the inquest had been the doctor in charge of the mistaken who was also the coroner's partner in practice. "Yet the attorney-general saw nothing wrong with that."

Shulman Blisters Coroner Arrangements

TORONTO (CP) —A blistering speech in the legislature Friday by Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) on the subject of coroners brought a retort from Attorney-General Arthur Wishart that two hours of the House's time had been wasted.

"Many of the things raised by the honorable member don't deserve either comment or response," Mr. Wishart said.

Rail Slowdown Ends in Britain

LONDON (AP) — Britain's railways were returning to near normal today after a pay settlement for 270,000 employees who had been on a slowdown strike for 12 days.

The nationalized rail system promised full commuter services Monday for the first time in two weeks.

It said some trains would run Sunday as well and west coast vacation centres. Last Sunday the system closed down because the railwaymen refused to work Sundays or overtime.

The settlement was reached Friday night in talks between the National Union of Railwaymen and the national rail board's chief negotiator, Len Neal. It provides for immediate pay increases of four per cent for lower-paid workers and three per cent for others. Previous pay averaged $28 to $64 a week, including overtime.

Fare Warning

LONDON (CP) — Employees at the BBC are spending too much on cabs, says the publicly-owned corporation's accountants. Production staff were allocated $200,000 for taxi fares last year—but they spent $650,000. They have been told to cut the costs as part of an economy drive.

Comic Strip Violence Is Deplored

TORONTO (CP) — An Opposition member of the legislature Friday deplored newspapers which promote violence "in a society that has had enough violence."

Tim Reid (L—Scarborough East) quoted dialogue from a comic strip in a Toronto newspaper Thursday:

"We've burned her spine, yanked her toenails, and still she refuses to talk."

"Shall I proceed with other tortures?"

"No, take her into her cell . . . for now. It's been a pleasure . . . we'll meet again—soon."

Mr. Reid made a thinly-veiled suggestion that the government should censor such material.

"In my opinion if the newspaper editors do not exercise a better sense of social responsibility to do their bit to stem the propagation of violence in their 'funny' strips this government has a direct responsibility to do so."

Speaking in the legislature's budget debate, Mr. Reid said it was no wonder some young people "opt out of society, the kind of violent society so-called 'funny' in our newspapers."

Tweed Personals

TWEED - Leo Kent of Belleville, has been engaged by the members of Tweed Village Council as part-time constable to assist Police Chief George Hall (also formerly of Belleville) on the weekends. Mr. Kent served on the Belleville Police Force for 12 years, mostly as a traffic officer. He is a graduate of the Ontario Police College.

A bridal shower was held in Flinton, in the United Church basement on June 21st, for Miss Sheila Hawley, bride-to-be. The hostesses were Mrs. Veronica Clarke and Mrs. Mary Ellen Pringle.

Pupils from Grades 6,7 and 8, at the Central School, in Plevna were treated to a trip to Upper Canada Village June 21st. Rev. John Lendrum, Mrs. McKinney, Mrs. Sweeney, Mrs. Bill Gort and Mrs. E. Gemmill, were chaperones for the day. Mr. Lombard is the new pastor of the Anglican Church. Mrs. McKinnon and Mrs. Sweeney are teachers at the school, and Mrs. Gorr and Mrs. Gemmill are both members of the school board.

The United Church Women of Actinolite, held their June meeting in the afternoon, recently, also a bake sale and bazaar was held. Many visiting women of the district were in attendance.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Readers have praised The Free Press for its decision to drop the Dick Tracy comic strip because of what the newspaper said was its "constant emphasis on violence."

The daily strip appeared in The Free Press for the last time June 12.

Managing Editor Ivor Williams said the assassination of Senator Robert Kennedy last month had no bearing on the cancellation.

The newspaper said in an editorial June 13: "Those who draw the strip might claim that their hero always triumphs over evil, that criminals always suffer their deserved fate, that there is frequent emphasis on the techniques of law enforcement. All true, but in our judgment, all true, but in our judgment, all false, as the superficial cloak for a consistent pattern of violence."

The newspaper has received letters from readers commending the move.

Poverty of Indians Is Called Time Bomb

REGINA (CP) — Premier Ross Thatcher said Friday in a review of Indian and Metis living conditions in the province that Saskatchewan citizens were "sitting on a time-bomb which, if not defused by action, could explode within a decade."

He told the Metis Society of Saskatchewan that many white citizens had no idea of "the abject poverty and deplorable living conditions" in many Indian and Metis communities in the province.

"Educational standards are usually sub-normal. Housing conditions, in many cases, are unbelievably bad."

He said unemployment is widespread among Indians and Metis and many of the unemployed were not equipped for any job.

Tugboat Captain Fined For Kingston Pollution

KINGSTON (CP) — A tugboat captain was fined $500 in county magistrate's court Friday in this city's first pollution conviction.

Capt. W. G. Bates, master of the tugboat Graeme Stewart, was charged after inspectors of the department of transport discovered oil floating in the water around the vessel in Kingston harbor early in November last year.

The boat is owned by Mc-Allister Pyke Marine Salvage Ltd, of Kingston.

The inspectors were investigating fuel oil pollution along the shores of Lake Ontario between Amherstview and Amherst Island.

In a Montreal laboratory, they found that the oil slick in Kingston harbor matched the tug's fuel. Capt. Bates pleaded guilty to a charge of polluting the harbor.

He pleaded not guilty to a charge of polluting the Amherst Island area and the charge was dismissed.

Maximum penalty is a fine of $5,000 or six months in jail or both.

Singer Fears Police State

TORONTO (CP) — The legislature was told Friday that unless the government promptly requires police to obtain Ontario Supreme Court orders before they tap telephone lines "we will have "the most frightening aspect of the police state.'"

Vernon Singer, QC—(Toronto Downsview) made the comment in urging Attorney-General Arthur Wishart not to "pass the buck" to Ottawa by insisting amendments to the Criminal Code are required.

Mr. Singer said the Supreme Court authorization should be given only in cases of unusual gravity—and "police should be forced to convince the court they cannot gather their evidence in any other way. The court order should also specify which officers could listen to the conversations and for what periods of time.

Mr. Singer also called for a change in the Evidence Act to outlaw evidence gathered by police tapping. He said he would more severe penalties for unauthorized wire-tapping.

Vernon Singer indicated he would give the house a full statement on the matter Monday.

Mr. Singer said the Telephone Act contains clauses providing for $50 fines for anyone interfering with, damaging or preventing use of a telephone and for wire-tapping for the purpose of a phone conversation without prior authorization.

He said another act incorporating the Bell Telephone Co. in 1880 makes it a misdemeanor to intercept telephone messages but provides no penalty and has not been tested in the courts.

Bowerman Ties Homenuik in Millar Classic

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP) — Gary Bowerman of Toronto has discovered a system for beating the tricky greens at the Georgetown Golf and Country Club.

"I prefer to get my approach shot on the fringe of the green and chip it up to the pin," the blonde professional said after shooting a two-under-par 69 Friday to tie Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg for the lead in the 54-hole Millar golf championship.

Homenuik and Bowerman both had four-under-par 138s going into today's final round.

"I took 30 putts today—two worse than yesterday—but I'm trying to use the pitch-to-the-pin method every time I can."

The treacherous greens caught Homenuik off guard Friday, but the touring professional completed the round with a one-under 70 after taking 35 putts compared to 30 the previous day.

Obviously displeased, Homenuik said:

"My round is on the board and I've got nothing else to say about it."

But Homenuik's look-alike brother, Stan from Dauphin, Man., who had tied Wilf for the first-round lead with 68, had much more reason to be displeased. Stan slipped to 75 during Friday's round, wound up with a two-round total of 143 and dropped to 12th place.

Three players were one stroke behind Bowerman and Wilf Homenuik going into today's round. They were Frank Whibley and Ken Duggan of Toronto and Vaughan Trapp of Victoria, all with 139s.

Duggan's five-under 66 Friday was the best round of the tournament.

Alvie Thompson, Jerry Magee, Gary Fawcett and Gary Slatter, all of Toronto, were tied for sixth place with 141.

Wilf Homenuik was not the only player displeased after Friday's round. Moe Norman of Gilford, Ont., the leading money winner after the first two tournaments of the Canadian professional golf tour, threatened to pull out of the championship after taking a 75.

Norman, who shot a 69 in the first round of the $6,000 tournament, paid off his caddy and said he would not play in the final round although his 144 total was well below the cutoff point of 153.

Officials said later that Norman had agreed to play the final round, and would be in danger of suspension from the tour if he refused.

Fifty-seven of the starting field of 128 Canadian professionals qualified for today's final round. First place is worth $1,200.

A brief but heavy downpour struck the 6,400-yard course early in the afternoon Friday and golfer Stan Golightly's umbrella was hit by lightning. He continued to play and finished with 87 for a 174 total.

Gordon Cochrane of Brantford shot the most spectacular second-round of the day. He carded three eagles and a birdie, but finished with 76. He had scored six birdies while carding a 72 Thursday.

The tournament is the third event on the 10-tournament Canadian tour. The top 12 Canadians at the end of the first nine tournaments will qualify for the tour championship in September.

The field was scheduled to begin teeing off today at 10 a.m.

Laver Proves Pros Tops

Rod Laver, Australian tennis pro, stretches for a return on his way to the men's singles championship in the first Wimbledon Tennis Open Championship. This was the first year in the history of all-amateur Wimbledon that the pros were eligible. Laver won the same title in 1961 and 1962 as an amateur.

Laver Wins 3rd Wimbledon Men's Title in First Open

Rod Laver, 29-year-old Australian tennis pro, won unlimited Men's Singles title at Wimbledon Friday by downing another court moneymaker, Tony Roche, also from down under.

The red-headed Laver slammed Roche with wristy volleys and spinning backhands to win 6-3, 6-4, and 6-2.

Laver took the titles as an amateur in 1961 and 1962. This is the first time in its history that the tennis classic has been opened to both pros and amateurs.

Laver said the tournament had been riddled with upsets — seasoned pros going out to amateurs — but thought things would be different at later Opens.

"This year all the pressure was on us. This pros versus amateur thing made it tough. After this one, I think the amateurs will have to live up to their records of this year. They will have to prove that they can keep on doing it."

When asked jokingly if he would now turn amateur, Laver's freckled face split into a big grin.

"I reckon I turned amateur to play here."

His three-year contract for $90,000 a year runs out in January 1971.

In his last year as an amateur in 1962 Laver won everything in sight, the grand slam of Wimbledon, Forest Hills, France and Australia and the Italian and German titles as well. In the lucrative world of professionalism, where newspaper scores pop up in tiny type and records are hard to trace, Laver has been supreme. The bookmakers made him even money against the finest tennis field of all.

A mild man off court, Laver is a terror on it. He has been the scourge of tennis for nearly 10 years, and his shattering victory ranks as a pair with his under - an - hour destructions of Chuck McKinley and Marty Mulligan in 1961 and 1962. He becomes the first man since Fred Perry (1934-5-6) to take the coveted award of the game three times. And a cheque for $4,800 goes with it.

It took Laver time to solve Roche's spining southpaw serve and his record shows that he was able to get only four points in as many games from Roche at the start. Typical of Laver, the four points were enough. They gave him the service break he needed in the eighth game of the first set.

Roche hit the shot of the day midway through that second set, a running, off-balance forehand from far out of court that rocketed diagonally past Laver. He swung his racquet out, inches off the burned turf, and scooped the ball over as the cheers rang down. Second later, in case anybody had missed it, he did it again.

Then in a brilliant streak Laver was unbelievable. Backhands and forehands sped by the lunging Roche, and a final one whipped forehand across court forced Roche into error. Laver was at 4-3 on the break, and had the second set in 20 minutes on a love game as Roche sprayed that flat first service high into the screen.

There was little that Roche could do. Primarily a clay-court player (French and Italian champion in 1966), he has been the top money winner among the professionals, and by defeating Rosewall here earlier proved his aptitude on grass. The slots were there, but yesterday the flare was missing and Laver ran out five consecutive games to lead 4-0 in the third set. Then it was game, set and match at 6-2 and the crowd rose clapping in tribute.

13-Inning Win
Woods Construction Downs Madoc Nine

The Belleville Joycees senior baseball team and two Commercial Softball League teams combined some of their players Friday night in order to allow the Woods Construction Senior Softball team to down Madoc 4-3.

The winning run came in the 13th inning of the tie game when Bobby Boyle who pitches for Stinsons in the Commercial League, poked a single, and was driven home by a double from Ralph Plant, mainstay of the Belleville Joycees Senior Baseball club.

Ethier pitched for the locals allowing three runs on nine hits, and two walks while fanning 12.

R. LeSage and G. Owens did the slab honors for Madoc, allowing four runs on 11 hits and three walks while striking out five.

The locals copped their runs in the sixth, eighth, 11th and the winning run in the 13th. The visitors scored two in the sixth and one in the 11th.

Top hitters for the locals were Jerry St. Denis, with a single, Ralph Plane with a double and an RBI, Gary Boyer with two singles, Larry Mavety with a single, Terry Wellesley with a double and a single, Bill Barberstock with a single, Boyle with a single, and Ethier with a triple.

Top plate men for Madoc were T. LeSage with three singles, G. Atkinson with three singles, C. Dinato with a single, and R. LeSage with his single.

Wilt Chamberlain Traded to Lakers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain, Philadelphia 76ers' brilliant but stormy-center, has been traded to Los Angeles Lakers for three players and cash, the Associated Press has learned.

Chamberlain, greatest offensive player in National Basketball Association history, was dealt to the West Coast team for centre Darrall Imhoff, guard Archie Clark and forward Jerry Chambers. The amount of cash involved was not disclosed.

It also was learned Friday that Jack Ramsey, 76ers' general manager for three years, was chosen as the new coach to fill the post vacated by Alex Hannum. Hannum, only coach to lead the team to an NBA title, resigned recently to go with the Oakland club of the rival American Basketball Association.

The trade was expected to be announced Monday or Tuesday.

The trade obviously solved a dilemma that has troubled the 76ers since the end of the 1967-68 season.

Ramsey admitted the 76ers were having trouble signing the record-breaking 7-foot-1 star—as is the case every year.

National League Standings Hit

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

St. Louis Cardinals and Cincinnati Reds came up with some late-inning lightning Friday night but the thunder belonged to Houston Astros. And when the day's schedule was over it looked as though an earthquake had struck the National League standings.

The leaping Redding Cards tied the score with two out in the ninth inning, then edged San Francisco Giants 4-3 on Tim McCarver's run-scoring single in the 12th.

A two-run double by Lee May in the 11th put the Reds a 2-0 triumph over Los Angeles Dodgers. And the light-hitting Astros exploded for five runs with two out in the ninth and outslugged Atlanta Braves 13-9.

In another night game, Chris Short fanned 10 as Phillies polished off New York Mets 3-1. Bob Veale, spun a two-hitter as Pittsburgh Pi rates blanked Chicago Cubs 4-0 in an afternoon contest.

St. Louis' victory increased the Cards' lead to nine games over Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, tied for fourth starting the day but now in a virtual deadlock for second. They leaped over the Braves and Giants, each 9½ games back.

Philadelphia moved into sixth place, 11 games out, while the Dodgers dropped to seventh, 12 back. The Mets, Cubs and Astros remained eighth, ninth and 10th, respectively.

Ninth-inning singles by Ed Spiezio, Jullvan Javier and Curt Flood enabled the Cardinals to send the game into extra innings.

Flood opened the 12th with a single off Joe Gibbon. After Orlando Cepeda forced him, Mike Shannon doubled Cepeda to third and McCarver punched a single to left.

The Giants took a 3-0 lead in the sixth on Willie McCovey's sacrifice fly and Jim Hart's two-run homer. But the Cards got two runs back in the seventh on Jim Davenport's three base throwing error.

CBS Playhouse Is Writer's Theatre Designed for TV

Barbara Schultz, executive producer of CBS Playhouse, gives her views on TV writing.

By BARBARA SCHULTZ

NEW YORK (AP) — What is there about the CBS Playhouse concept that is supposed to make this series different?

The Playhouse is a writer's theatre. The plays commissioned, developed and finally selected for production must be original, contemporary and specifically designed for the medium of television.

Since this is a writer's theatre —and to accomplish what we want to accomplish—the writer must be given his head to write that which he sincerely desires to write.

Writers for the Playhouse chose those topics which genuinely concern them and engage their imagination and their urgent feelings. To quote E. B. White: "Whosoever sets a-pen to paper, writes of himself knowingly or not."

But authors for a CBS Playhouse production must write in terms of a medium where intimacy, closeups and detailed exploration of character best tell a story; where broad issues must be dramatized through personal and particular conflicts.

Television audiences may number in the millions, but plays are actualy viewed in small groups, often by only one person. A strong emotional identification with the characters on the home screen must therefore be established.

Each of the five CBS Playhouse productions to date has been written expressly for the medium, and each has had a life— a world—of its own and a point of view rooted in reality. To be specific, take the most recent Playhouse presentation, Tad Mosel's Secrets:

Its theme was the broad issue of invasion of privacy, but its story was an intensely personal and individual one. And that story was told in a form which the author freely admits was unsuited for the stage or motion pictures.

It has been said that the Playhouse is challenging dramatists who claim that there is no place in television today for the kind of work they want to do.

Challenge or not, CBS conceived the Playhouse as a television theatre in which to offer gutsy original plays straight out of a writer's mind, plays that would stir his conscience; put him on his mettle and leave the individuality of his own voice intact and undampened. And then to produce the end result with far more care and affluence than would have been dreamed possible 15 years ago during the so-called Golden Age of television drama.

The Playhouse makes a conscious effort to do each play as it is seen by its author. We try in every way possible not to change the concept of the play, but instead to achieve its best potential. There is no altering or rewriting or tinkering to fit the notion of a particular director or the style of a particular actor. We look for stars or people with marquee value to bolster a role or a whole script. We cast to fit the role.

Automatic Money Changer

Leave it to the French to come up with the closest thing yet to everybody's dream: a money machine. This girl has just received 200 francs from a new automatic money distributor outside an Auber Street bank in Paris. The only catch is that it's not free. A bank client must insert a magnetic identification card into a slot and form a secret number on the keyboard before he receives three 50 franc notes and five 10 franc notes. The machine operates 24 hours a day, but only for those whose account can stand the withdrawal. (AP Photo)

Record 1968 Levels Reached Among Industrials on Market

By GERALD CLARKSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Industrial shares continued to surge to record 1968 levels on Canadian stock markets this week.

Leading groups were retailers, construction issues, metal chemicals, paper and forest products and trust rad loan stocks. Golds so treated

The advance involved a wide range of secondary issues as well as blue chips, and observers say the real source of strength is in the pent-up cash reserves of institutions and private investors who have similately re-entered the market.

These funds, which had been piling up since uncertainty seized the investment world after the devaluation of sterling in November, now are hitting prices beyond the reach of foreign news.

A partner in one of the largest brokerage firms said that people who have been sitting on their money too long—because they could not see which way things would go during the earlier monetary crisis and gold boom—now are trying to get in before prices hit the ceiling.

Traders report an excess of demand over supply, and they said large orders for quality stocks were hard to fill. One broker was unable to find two blocks of Royal Bank and CPR for a customer Wednesday and said the best he could get on the spot was 1,000 Royal Bank shares.

Fraser Research Ltd. of Toronto recently reported a major change in trend from study of the long-tem behavior of seasoned industrials.

The firm said that from a technical point of view "the Canadian market now has the essential ingredients to support a very healthy advance." However, a re-escalation of the Vietnam war could upset everything.

Fraser thought the election of Prime Minister Trudeau with a strong majority has helped to kill two serious market headaches—high interest rates and the possibility of secession by Quebec.

But looking at outside influences, most of the old problems still seem to be there.

Despite the final passage of the U.S tax increase-spending cut bill, many economists are now saying that it was discounted by everyone in advance.

They do not believe it will do very much to reduce inflation in North America or to improve the stability of money. The United States promises to get a bad press, and some analysts think this is why so much cash has been pouring into Canadian stock markets.

The sharp spurt on the main Toronto and Montreal indexes has been consistently independent of Wall Street for the past two weeks.

In Britain, the position is probably worse than in the U.S. The London Economist said: "Sadly, the pound sterling has passed the stage of being vulnerable to the news of the day. There is not all that much confidence left to be eroded."

However, the pressure to record drop to its lowest point since devaluation was due to the seasonal withdrawal of funds by foreign banks to improve their mid-year balance sheets—not to the rail strike or the latest trade and balance of payments deficits.

The increase in both bank rate and taxation in France was thought by European bankers to mean President de Gaulle will not devalue the franc in the immediate future.

Nevertheless, the Paris stock exchange suffered from a slump combined with a swift rise in the price of gold, which hit a record $42.56 US an ounce Friday. Other centres were unaffected because the Paris gold rush was largely confined to French residents since the upheaval.

Leading gold stocks, which usually move closely in line with the free bullion markets in London and Zurich, were also small losses. Dome fell 2¼ to 64¼ and Campbell Red Lake 1¼ to 32¾.

Although experts say the price of gold will almost certainly be doubly over the next decade, they expect a lower trend for at least six months and probably a good deal longer.

Unexpected highlight on the trading floor was the heavy turnover in Bell Telephone, which jumped 75 cents to $3.85

This lack-lustre stock, with a history of declining profits and a worse earnings forecast, was bilt by the prospect of Sunday racing in Ontario. Last week, J. P. Taylor, chairman, indicated dividends would be resumed if Sunday racing and tax concessions were allowed.

The racing bill received its final reading Wednesday on the Ontario legislature.

Among heavy stocks touching highs for the year were Bell, Inco, Int'l Nickel, Ont. Hydro Power, Dofasco, Steico, CPR, Simpsons, Montreal and T. D. Royal Trust and the big chartered banks.

On index of Toronto, industrials gained 3.36 to 180.87, base metals 1.72 to 106.63 and western oils 2.28 to 210.19 Golds fell 6.45 to 207.27.

Volume was 14,704,000 shares for the week compared with 23,382,000 in five sessions last week. Advances outnumbered losses 648 to 276.

On the Montreal and Canadian exchanges, the composite index rose 3.36 to 162.60. Combined volume was 5,250,000 shares compared with 8,307,000 the previous week. Gains outnumbered declines 229 to 95.

Foreign Brands of Beer Starting to Trickle In

TORONTO (CP) — With their native soils at a premium since the brewery strike began June 21, Southern Ontario beer drinkers saw a trickle of hope Friday:

Imported brands started moving again.

The Liquor Control Board of Ontario announced it has arranged last transportation into Ontario of 6,000 cases of imported stock that had been trapped in Quebec ports by the St. Lawrence Seaway strike.

J. G. Bourne, LCBO general manager, said the beer has been unloaded from ships at Trois-Rivieres and Montreal. It had been shipped from Germany, Holland and Denmark.

Another estimated 4,000 cases were believed to be on ships between Halifax and the seaway locks and more en route across the Atlantic, he said.

Mr. Spragge said the beer would be taken to Toronto by train or truck. Some would be distributed to LCBO outlets in other parts of the province.

Meanwhile, Formosa Springs Brewery Co. Ltd., 35 miles southwest of Owen Sound, whose workers are not affiliated with the striking International Union of Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers, has been contributing its 45,000-bottle-a-day production.

But Formosa sold its Friday output of 1,000 cases to the close Monday and Tuesday to catch up with the mounting demand.

It is been the same story with Doran's Brewery in Northern Ontario, which sells beer in Sault Ste. Marie, Timmins, Sudbury and Port Arthur. Its union contract expires next year.

The strike started when 300 workers at the Toronto plant of Molson's Breweries walked off their jobs. Immediately, the brewing industry locked out 2,700 employees at five Ontario breweries and the Brewers' Warehousing Co. Ltd.

The workers seek a package of increases and fringe benefits totalling $1.25 an hour. The breweries have offered 18 cents in wages over three years and fringe benefits valued at an additional 25 cents an hour. Present wages range from $2.54 to $3.51 an hour.

Bruce Mather, spokesman for the brewery workers, said the brewery workers, said the imports were not considered an interference with their dispute.

Some Ontario residents have tried to bring beer in from here across the border, only to run into stern customs officials.

Customs seizures of beer have been reported at Wolfe Island and Thousand Islands in the St. Lawrence River and at Windsor.

G. Harry Sheppard, LCBO commissioner, said at least one attempt to have beer imported from the United States failed when the U.S. brewery refused to ship the beer.

Mr. Sheppard said one hotel in the province had placed an order with the LCBO to order a shipment of beer from Buffalo. But the U.S. brewery refused to fill the order because it might complicate its own relations with the union representing the Ontario brewery workers.

Mr. Sheppard said no U.S. beer is ordered in normal times but that under LCBO regulations any individual, hotel or liquor outlet could order a shipment of foreign spirits and the LCBO would fill the order.

A spokesman for the Detroit-area distributors of Pabst Brewing Co. of Milwaukee expected by would be able to meet any order the LCBO might make.

In Cleveland, a general manager of a plant operated by the U.S. subsidiary of Carling Breweries there had been no orders from Ontario since the strike began and that filling any such order would be "a fairly ticklish situation."

Employment News

By: J. R. STAVELEY
Manpower Counsellor

The local employment picture as reflected by job vacancies listed by employers with the Canada Manpower Centre, emphasizes no one field of regular employment.

The limited labor demand from both industry can, to some extent, be expected at this time of year. Several of the larger local Industrial's go on a prolongessives, or total production shut-down during the firm's annual holiday period. In the Community in recent years, this has occurred after the middle of the month. Under these circumstances, any planned or additional hiring is deferred until early August when normal production resumes.

The backlog of planned construction is on the uptrend, especially in the field of municipal and educational projects. Increased construction produces strong influence on other employment fields. Surveys have revealed the major portion of employment generated by construction interests is in industries supplying materials and services for construction.

The following employment opportunities are available at this office.

In the female division locally, there is a requirement for mature housekeepers who would be willing to work on a live-in basis. Experienced waitresses and a qualified short order cook, including an experienced cook are in demand by restaurant operators. An institution requires someone to work in the laundry room. An experienced laundry operator is preferred but consideration would be given to a qualified applicant who would be trained in this line of work. There is a limited number of positions available on a casual basis. Other vacant positions call for registered nurses, an experienced egg grader and a meat wrapper.

In the male division locally, there is the excellent position calling for a mechanical engineer possessing one-to-three years industrial processing experience. Another attractive position calls for a mature person experienced in various types of personnel testing.

A qualified class 11 stationary engineer is still being sought by a mining company located near a neighboring town. One of the community's leading industries, a pleasure-sailing-boat manufacturer is looking for a qualified cabinet maker with interior woodworking and finishing of sailing boats. A rural farm employer in the district of business required a saddle maker experienced in making either Western or English saddles. An experienced general hand, preferrably a man ried man, is required by a farmer a beef herd, supervise the transactions of the tomato crop and other related farm work. This position is on a year-round basis with accommodation provided on the farm. An industrial plant is seeking a qualified managerial person for employment work. In demand also are qualified automobile service managers.

If you aninterested in any of these positions, seeking other employment or thinking of reentering the labor market, you are invited to contact the Canada Manpower Centre at 224 Church Street, Belleville, or telephone 962-8681.

Top Airline Pilot Held Only Private Licence

WASHINGTON (AP) — A man who worked his way up to a top pilot's job with a major airline before it was discovered he held only a private licence has been barred from flying anything permanently.

The national transportation safety board said Friday it has upheld earlier findings in the case of Jimmie H. Lane, 35, and has closed the book on him.

The Federal Aviation Administration discovered early last March that Lane, then of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., had been flying as a pilot for Eastern Air Lines since 1957 although he held only a private pilot's license. That licence authorized him to fly only single-engined planes, and did not qualify him to carry passengers.

The FAA said Lane altered the certificate to make it resemble the card of an air transport pilot.

After attending Eastern's pilot training school, Lane advanced progressively during his 11 years there, with the $30,000-a-year salary class.

He flew the busy New York-Washington shuttle service regularly, and had a perfect safety record.

He was suspended by the FAA inspector checking his competence to become a DC-9 jet captain.

Eastern fired him, and last March 4 the FAA ordered suspension of revocation of his only flight document, his private pilot's certificate.

Lane appealed to the national transportation safety board, contending that with his long experience and accident-free record he should at least be allowed to continue flying private planes.

The board's chief hearing examiner, Joseph C. Caldwell Jr., concluded an oral hearing in Miami and upheld the FAA.

Rylstone Personals

Another old Rylstone landmark has bowed to progress. The dandy school has been closed, after being the centre of education for the community for four generations. The union school was closed last year at the end of the term. For the past year, grades one to five have attended the ninth line school, while grades five to eight were taught at rylstone school by Miss Anne Turner. Beginning in September, all will be taken by bus to Marmora Public School.

Congratulations are extended to the High School award winners from Rylstone who received awards at the Stirling High School Commencement held on Friday afternoon at the Stirling Theatre. They were: Grade 9 George Reid, geography; Kathy Thompson, home economics; Tom Mumby, history; Ken Thomson, French. After the commencement exercises, the parents of the six students entertained at the school, where they were served refreshments.

Kiesinger Seeks Trade Conference

BONN (AP) — West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger called Friday for a summit conference of the European Economic Community and the Common Market to push expansion of trade between the two.

Promising maximum West German efforts to convene governments of the six Common Market countries as soon as possible, Kiesinger told a parliamentary debate: "We have got ourselves into an intolerable situation (in the movement to liberalize trade)."

Kiesinger also said Bonn is not making withdrawal of the last French occupation troops a key part in discussions with President de Gaulle when the French leader comes in September for the semi-annual France-West German consultation. France and West Germany are allies.

The Common Market countries besides West Germany and France are Belgium, Italy, The Netherlands and Luxembourg.

cision whether to sign the pact.

He said he is confident the United States would provide adequate assurances of West German security as party for the pact. But if these are not backed by the Soviet Union "then a completely new situation will arise," he added without elaborating.

Kiesinger said Europe's policy toward Eastern countries will strive "to see further headway toward continental unity, noting that a European economic union had been stalled since early 1967.

He said the British membership application would be a big part in discussions with President de Gaulle when the French leader comes in September for the semi-annual France-West German consultation. France has vetoed British entry.

Burning Food Destroys Its Values

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: My 10-year-old son has a craving for "burned-to-crisp" food. If I have cheese on something in the oven, he won't eat it until it turns black. Sometimes he has to be done to a hard brick.

I am worried because I heard somewhere that the carbon (I think that's what it's called) that is found in burned food is injurious to health.

My son promised to abide to your reply. — Mrs. M. S.

What you are worrying about probably is related to fat dripping onto hot coals while broiling meat. That, incidentally, appears to be a much overrated matter so far as any risk is concerned.

When you burn your young-ster's food, the black stuff is principally charcoal— that is, carbon. It is a harmless substance and, in fact, powdered charcoal is sometimes used medically.

I see no particular harm, therefore — except that the burned part has had the nutritional elements in it destroyed, the protein and vitamins turned into carbon, and the carbohydrate burned out.

He gets the nutrition of the inside part which isn't burned but this over-crispy cooking is a waste of good food.

Dear Dr. Molner: I have had Bartholin's cysts about 20 times in the last five years. They usually break and drain by themselves, but several times I have had to have them drained by doctor. Is the only alternative surgery? — M. W.

Yes, because these, like any other cysts, follow the same pattern. A cyst develops when some opening or duct becomes plugged, and matter builds up inside, causing pressure.

The pressure can be relieved by puncturing the cyst and allowing it to drain, but unless the membrane lining of the cyst is removed, the opening can and over and the entire process repeats itself.

This is a fact which I have tried repeatedly to make clear in this column.

Merely draining a cyst is very often just a temporary measure. Opening the cyst surgically and cauterizing the membrane to destroy it is the route to permanent solution of the trouble.

• • •

Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any way to get rid of the discoloration that is left after a cut heal? My cat has scratched up my legs pretty badly and I am very self-conscious about it. — E.N.

There is no way to hasten the change in color of the scars—but there are excellent cosmetics which your doctor or druggist can tell you about) designed to cover such marks.

Better tell your cat to be more careful. There's also a thing as cat-scratch fever which can make you quite ill, and you are lucky not to have contracted it from so much scratching.

Or maybe it would be more effective to have your cat's nails trimmed.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a woman of 50, not overweight. I have what my doctor called a tightening of the rectum. He advised me to use surgical belly and dilate it with my finger, which I cannot do.

I am very miserable with this condition and always have to use an enema. Is there any help for me? — M. T.

Your doctor gave you good advice, and you should follow it. If you use an enema, you can dilate the tissues. Don't expect to bring relief overnight, but gradual, gentle and persistent stretching of the tight tissues should help you. Use a small finger cot on the index finger and lubricate it well.

Police Desire Further Tests As to Exact Effects of Mace

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mace, a type of stunning gas and a relative newcomer to the arsenal of police weapons, has not been used much in Canada so far. But already police everywhere are debating its merits and one attorney-general has warned publicly of its possible danger.

Police used the tear gas-type chemical this week to break up a street disturbance in London, Ont., and Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said in the Ontario legislature that any force in the province using Mace could be liable to legal action if permanent injury was caused.

A Cross-Canada Survey by The Canadian Press Friday shows that some police chiefs, such as Gordon Preston in Windsor, Ont., consider Mace a "humane and effective" alternative to police clubs and guns.

But the Windsor force, like the RCMP and forces including those in Winnipeg, Kingston and Galt, Ont., want further tests to determine the exact effects of Mace. The federal health department is studying the chemical for the RCMP.

Police in the United States, where it was developed and manufactured, have found Mace effective in handling riots and unruly demonstrations. But critics say it can cause permanent injury in some cases.

Sprayed from an aerosol can, it can render some persons unconscious. A noticeable effect is a burning sensation in the eyes.

Although expensive, Mace has a life expectancy of four to five years. While tear gas has to be shot from its bottle all at once, Mace can be sprayed in small quantities.

Police forces in Canada's two largest cities, Montreal and Toronto, do not have Mace. Forces in both cities have organized, or are organizing, special police units to handle riots or violent demonstrations.

Forces with Mace, or an equivalent in stock or on order include, besides London and Windsor: Vancouver, Quebec City, Calgary, Saint John N.B. Sudbury and Moose Jaw, Sask.

Several other Ontario forces had Mace but withdrew it after a warning in an American magazine two months ago.

Vancouver's deputy police chief, John Fisk, said Friday a liquid tear gas similar to Mace has been ordered and will be used primarily for handling disturbed persons, but not for riots or crowd control.

The chemical has been used in at least five Ontario communities to handle crowds and prisoners and to subdue hysterical men. In Waterloo, Ont., police used Mace on a man who wouldn't stop beating his wife. Police used the spray about five times before shelving it pending further tests.

In Waterloo and Windsor, Ont., police sprayed themselves with Mace before using it. None were injured.

In Hespeler, Ont., police carried Mace for three weeks, using it twice on persons resisting arrest. They now carry nightsticks again.

There have been no reported injuries from use of the gas in Canada. A youth sprayed in the disturbance in London, Ont., this week said the main effect was only a burning feeling in his eyes.

At a meeting of police officials from the Atlantic provinces in Summerside, P.E.I., Friday, several officers questioned said they were not interested in Mace until it was proven safe. Even if proven safe, they doubted it would be used widely in the Maritimes in the near future.

In Ontario, police in Brantford, Brockville, St. Thomas, Woodstock, North Bay Oshawa Whitby, Ajax and Brampton said they do not plan to buy it.

But Calgary Police Chief Dale Kent said his force was getting Mace in case a large disturbance ever developed. He said the gas is more humane than "a brisk tap on the skull with a night stick.

"Ordinary tear gas does not work on some people and the use of firearms is extreme," he said.

GM Argument for Dismissal Of Nader Court Suit Rejected

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York State Supreme Court has rejected the main legal arguments advanced by General Motors Corp., in seeking dismissal of a $26,000,000 invasion-of-privacy suit brought against it by Ralph Nader.

Nader, 34, a Washington lawyer who has crusaded for automobile safety and consumer protection, alleged in his suit that GM waged a concerted campaign to discredit his attacks on auto safety.

Justice Joseph A. Brust said Thursday in a ruling that the corporation had, in part, acknowledged many of the allegations "for the purposes of this motion."

"It is conceded," Brust wrote, "that General Motors, through its agents, made threatening telephone calls to plaintiff, tapped his telephone, attempted to entice him with women, 'shadowed' him in various places and caused him to be investigated by interviewing numerous of his acquaintances who could provide defendant with information about him."

The main legal argument by the GM lawyers was the contention that invasion-of-privacy suits were essentially applicable to commercial cases, such as the unauthorized use of an individual's name, picture or trademark for money.

"It is apparently true," Brust wrote, "that no reported New York case has ever involved an action based upon the highly unusual sort of conduct alleged against defendant."

Brust held, however, that the main issue was of broad constitutional rights, including the "right to be left alone."

Civil Liberties Body Probes Charge by Sirhan's Brother

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — The American Civil Liberties Union says it is investigating a claim by Saidallah Sirhan, brother of the man charged with murdering Senator Robert F. Kennedy, that his U.S. citizenship is being withheld.

Sirhan, 36, said he was scheduled to report to the Los Angeles naturalization board to be sworn in June 7. However, after the June 5 assassination, he said he was told not to appear.

U.S. immigration officials said an investigation was pending, but they declined to elaborate.

In jail awaiting trial is Sirhan Bishara Sirhan, 24, charged with the fatal shooting of Kennedy in Los Angeles.

The denial of citizenship, solely because a member of one's family is charged with an offence, is patently the clearest violation of elemental rights," the ACLU's chief defence lawyer for Southern California said Friday.

A. L. Wirin, the lawyer, added: "It is the application of the doctrine of guilt by association in its ugliest form."

Sirhan's family came to the United States from Jerusalem in 1957.

Broadcasters Must Bar Any Race Discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — Broadcasters who engage in racial discrimination will not be able to get their licences renewed, under a new Federal Communications Commission policy.

The commission announced the new policy Friday and proposed at the same time a new rule under which broadcasters would be required to file with renewal applications a statement showing what they are doing to promote employment and programming aimed at minority groups.

A spokesman for the National Association of Broadcasters in Washington said the organization would have no comment until it could study the commission's notice.

The FCC estimated it would take four to six months to put the proposed rule into effect, allowing for filing of petitions by all interested parties and public hearings.

Henry Geller, FCC general counsel, said the new rule also would require broadcasters to post notices in their stations and to explain on renewal applications that they are pledged not to discriminate against anyone on the basis of race.

Warren to Remain If Fortas Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earl Warren says he will stay on as chief justice of the United States if the Senate does not confirm Abe Fortas as his successor.

But Warren, 78, told a news conference Friday, he expects Fortas to be approved despite the declared opposition of 19 Republican senators.

Senator Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, leader of the Republican opposition bloc, declined comment on Warren's declaration.

But the Republicans, who claim supporters among Southern Democrats, say their campaign is based on principle more than personalities.

They have accused President Johnson of "cronyism" in naming Fortas as chief justice and long-time Texas friend Homer Thornberry as an associate justice.

They are mainly opposed, however, to what they call a "lame duck" president making a decision to run for re-election in November.

The Southerners have been critical of the court under Warren and presumably would find little difference between Warren and Fortas who often have voted together.

The chief justice said he left his retirement date open on a June 13 letter to Johnson.

Toronto Catholic Scholar Criticizes Pope's Statement

TORONTO (CP) — A leading Roman Catholic scholar Friday criticized Pope Paul's recent restatement of Catholic faith for failing to emphasize the "real issues" of today.

Rev. Gregory Baum of St. Michael's College said the Pope seems to overlook "the real issues which we are facing—the identity crisis, who we are as people, man against man, race against race, nationalism and war."

Pope Paul's creed, read in Rome last Sunday, restated the Roman Catholic beliefs: belief in God and the Trinity, the immaculate conception of Mary, original sin, infant baptism and the infallibility of the Pope.

He warned against the kind of research that damages the Christian doctrine.

"We are even Catholics allowing themselves to be seized by a kind of passion for change and novelty," he said.

Father Baum said all the real issues "seem to be quite secondary to him."

"To me they are central.

"Man is always tempted, because he is a sinner, to use creeds to evade the real problems of life."

Vickers-Zimmer Balks At China Damage Claim

LONDON (Reuters) — The Anglo-West German engineering firm of Vickers-Zimmer will not pay 2,500,000 (about $1,000,000) compensation demanded by China for alleged fraud over a contract to build a synthetic fibre plant.

A spokesman for the engineering firm in London said Friday night: "If the Chinese think they have a case they will have to appear before the Swedish arbitration court in Stockholm. This was dispute procedure agreed to by both."

This procedure was part of a $2,500,000 ($6,300,000) contract to build the plant in Lanzhow, capital of Kansu province.

Reports from Peking said the firm was accused of fraud, but the spokesman said no official notification has yet been received about the compensation or nature of the fraud charges.

In a statement announcing cancellation of the contract, Peking radio alleged that some of the men sent by Vickers-Zimmer to China were "spies under the camouflage of technological personnel."

It also said the company failed to comply with its agreement to "supply the best, most modern design technology, equipment and material."

It said the Peking municipal intermediate people's court ordered the company's staff to leave China within 10 days.

Stowaway Boy Is Peeling Spuds

MONTREAL (CP) — A high-spirited Scottish boy, who stowed away aboard a freighter to Canada, will be "peeling spuds" this weekend instead of visiting his best friend, Gordon MacPherson, in Milton, Ont.

Fifteen-year-old Steven Wallace of Glasgow succeeded in slaying hidden on the freighter Torr Head until a few hours before it docked in Montreal. Now he is not permitted to leave the ship.

Steven, a Grade 11 student, stowed away on the freighter 10 days ago. He was discovered just before the ship docked in Montreal Wednesday.

He probably will be put on another Head Line ship, the Innishowen Head, which begins a trip to Scotland Monday.

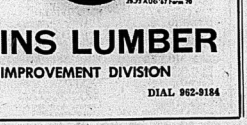
Now's The Time...

...To Add a Room



Most families can use more room in their home, but even if you haven't thought about it, you have no idea what a luxury a little extra space is until you have it!

We think most families should have what we call a "family room", a room where every member of the family can relax and enjoy themselves. A family room has a multitude of uses. It's a great room to entertain in, a great place for the kids to play, Dad can invite a few of the boys in for a game of snooker, Mom and her friends can watch their favorite TV programs in a relaxed atmosphere. Family rooms are fun rooms. They often contain such things as fireplaces, bars, pool tables, libraries, stereos, TVs, dart boards, comfortable furniture - just about anything you want.

Does that sound like a lot of money to you? Well, if you bought all these things at once it probably would be. But our home improvement division can build the family room itself for a lot less than you imagine. We'll build it any size you want and any design you want and it won't take us weeks to finish it.

Our home improvement specialist is Mel Abel, call him right away and he'll be happy to give you a free estimate at your convenience. No obligation, of course.

Take advantage of the summer months and have that extra living space built now!

ADVANTAGES OF GOING TO A PRIVATE BUSINESS COLLEGE

EVERY PERSON needs to have at least a basic commercial course before going on to any other profession, yet if this is taken in the Secondary School the educational background has to be limited to make time for it. In one year or less, you can have the advantages available to you at Ontario Business College which are:

1. Encouragement to work at your own speed. You do not wait for the slow learner, or speed up for the one who learns faster than you.
2. You may choose a partial course
3. You get individual attention.
4. You can begin now, at the first of any month.
5. You are ready for a position when YOU have finished your course, and not waiting for work at a time when the market is flooded with unemployed.
6. You can write each examination in the month the work on that subject is completed, and then you may fill that time with other subjects.
7. You can re-write any examinations the next month, you do not have to lose a year.
8. You can earn all it costs in your first two or three months of working.
9. Where else can you obtain a complete training for earning your living for the rest of your life at such a low cost? Compare, if you wish and then enroll at O.B.C.
10. You do not need previous commercial training.
11. Adult training a specialty.

France Is Preparing For Test of H-Bomb

PARIS (Reuters) — France announced Sunday night the detonation of a medium-sized nuclear device in the Pacific, signally the start of a test series expected to culminate in the first French hydrogen bomb blast in October.

A communique said the explosion occurred at 11 p.m. (6 p.m. EDT) over the French test centre in the Mururoa and Fangataufa atolls, 900 miles south of Tahiti.

In Tokyo, the Japanese foreign ministry said today Japan will ask France to suspend the nuclear test series immediately.

Informed sources said Sunday's test was carried out mainly to adjust measuring and observation instruments to be used in later blasts.

The second and third generation weapons of the French nuclear arsenal — warheads of land- and submarine-based missiles — are scheduled to be tested later in the series, the sources said.

The first French H-bomb is expected to be in the one-megaton range — some 60 times the power of the bomb that devastated Hiroshima near the end of the Second World War.

THE WEATHER

Synopsis: Mainly clear weather is forecast for southern Ontario today with temperatures expected to climb to seasonable low eighties. The weather in central and northern sections continues unsettled. Scattered showers and thunderstorms in northern sections are expected to move into southern Ontario Tuesday.

Dief Approves, Not Stanfield

MONTREAL (CP) — John Diefenbaker, former Conservative prime minister, says Prime Minister Trudeau has chosen a "very good" cabinet and that Eric Kierans in particular is "a worthwhile addition."

Mr. Diefenbaker made his comments Saturday during a private visit to Montreal's Man and His World exhibition.

He said a prime minister is always restricted by "racial, religious and regional limitation" in naming a cabinet, but Mr. Trudeau had selected a group representing all parts of the country on as fair a basis as possible.

Mr. Diefenbaker said his "dedication for a lifetime"—a one-nation theory—had been adopted by Mr. Trudeau.

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Stanfield said Saturday Prime Minister Trudeau's cabinet selections offer no evidence "of any bold new approach to the structuring of government."

"So far, the structure remains essentially what it has been," Mr. Stanfield said in a statement issued by his office here.

"In this respect, I do not see any evidence to support the prime minister's declaration that ministers, especially senior ministers, will have sufficient time or opportunity to work on development of policy."

Mr. Stanfield said the merging of the industry department with the department of trade and commerce "marks the failure of one of the most expensive and ill-advised experiments" of the Liberal government elected in 1963.

But he said it is strange that Prime Minister Trudeau intends to combine the fisheries and forestry departments. "It is difficult to understand the rationale" of combining these two departments into a single portfolio. Heading the combined departments will be Jack Davis, a British Columbia MP sworn in Saturday as fisheries minister.

Fires Kill 11

TORONTO (CP) — A family of four, including two young children, died in their beds early Sunday when fire swept through the upper floors of a rooming house in downtown Toronto.

Dead are Eve Gaudon, 36; his wife, Malva, 21; their son, Joseph, 2, and daughter, Julianne, six months.

CARBONEAR, Nfld. (CP) — Joseph Power, 59, and six of his eight children died early today when fire swept through their home in theis Conception Bay community.

Viet Cong Executes Prisoner

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. military spokesmen today accused the Viet Cong of executing an American major captured in an ambush.

"His body was found with one round fired in the back of the head at close range," a spokesman said.

The victim's identity was withheld until his next-of-kin are notified.

The ambush took place Saturday in Binh Thuan province, on the seacoast about 10 miles northeast of Saigon.

The officer, a senior adviser to South Vietnamese forces, was en route by jeep with his interpreter to join South Vietnamese militiamen fighting a Viet Cong platoon.

The interpreter was wounded, reports from the field said, but escaped and reported the major had been captured.

Quebec Premier To Leave Hospital

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Johnson, who suffered a mild heart attack last Wednesday, hopes to leave hospital in a few days and convalesce somewhere in the province.

The 53-year-old leader of the Union Nationale government joked Sunday with two CBC reporters for 15 minutes, until a nurse asked him to end the interview.

Dr. Yves Morin, director of the Quebec Cardiology Institute, where Mr. Johnson is being treated, said the premier's condition "couldn't be more favorable."

He said the premier's improvement since his admittance last Wednesday had been remarkable and no heart damage had been revealed by electrocardiogram test.

The premier told the reporters he would be delegating more work to his colleagues than he had done previously when he returns to the legislature in October.

3-Week Break Set Up

OTTAWA (CP) — The new Trudeau cabinet sits down today to begin the first of two periods of intensive preparation leading to the fall session of Parliament.

The 29-member administration is entering what amounts to 60 days of planning — in contrast to the much - criticized 60 days of decision at the start of the Pearson government in 1963.

Pearson government in 196.

Announced Friday night and sworn in Saturday, the cabinet or its committees will meet almost continuously this week and next to decide on over-all policy aims.

Then Prime Minister Trudeau has scheduled a three-week rest break, with only a "corporal's guard" supervising national affairs.

The second intensive work period will begin about Aug. 14 and continue for a month until the opening of Parliament, expected Sept. 12.

The vacation break will give civil servants a chance to work on details of the fall legislative program. And in its second work phase the cabinet will make final plans for the throne speech opening the 28th Parliament.

Some previews of the fall schedule emerged Saturday as the new ministers, in dark suits for formal clothes, were sworn in by Governor-General Michener at Rideau Hall.

Mr. Trudeau said changes in parliamentary rules and gov-

LBJ Seeking 'Road of Hope'

SAN SALVADOR (AP) — President Johnson set out from the capital of El Salvador today for quick visits to four other Central American countries and declared that he seeks "a road of new hope for this hemisphere."

Johnson, in El Salvador since Saturday for Central American summit talks, was bound for Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Honduras and Guatemala before settling down tonight at his Texas ranch.

In each country, he was dropping off one of the presidents who met with him during the weekend.

Johnson, in remarks prepared for departure ceremonies at San Salvador, spoke of "the new strength and promise that we have here added to our partnership." He cautioned: "The road that brought us here has no rainbow at its end—not yet."

Never before has any U.S. president visited all five Central American republics, and Johnson's reception in El Salvador seemed to indicate his effort was appreciated.

Despite some fresh eggs, paint bombs and raw potatoes thrown at him by student demonstrators against the Vietnam war shortly after his arrival Saturday, the crowds were big and friendly.

As he drove through San Salvador and the surrounding countryside Sunday, he climbed onto the running board of his long bubbletop limousine at least five times to greet close-packed street crowds, shake hands and deliver brief speeches over the car's built-in loudspeakers.

The most serious work of the weekend came Saturday, when the presidents agreed to push forward with the seven-year-old Central American Common Market. Johnson promised U.S help but the theme was one of self-help.

Johnson pledged an additional $65,000,000 in loans to promote economic and educational development projects.

The five common market countries face a worsening trade deficit, with not enough growth in their exports of coffee, sugar, rice and bananas to compensate for growing spending for imported manufactured goods and prime materials.

Finding Work A Full Time Job

These days, finding work is a full-time job for teenagers. With more younger people than ever, summer job opportunities are at a premium.

The squeeze is particularly tight on the older teen groups which traditionally have relied on seasonal work to earn university tuition fees.

Now, three young Bellevillians are aiming to alter the situation.

Opus Teens is the inspiration of Dale Sobel, 18, and two 18-year-old girls — Sandra Low and Gail Hayman.

Opus, which swings into operation today, is geared to be the contact point between teenagers and would-be employers.

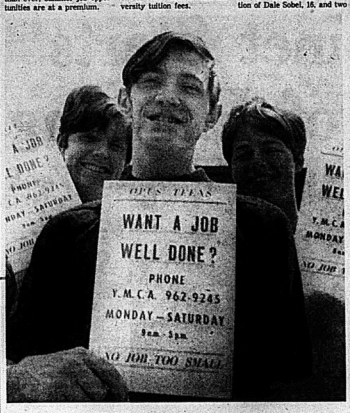
Sponsored by the city's YMCA, the teen trio hope it may partially answer the job problem now challenging their age group.

Mostly they are earning for the odd-job category—the kind of projects not handled through regular employment agencies like Canada Manpower.

Any job — from lawnmowing to organizing children's birthday parties, to babysitting and window washing—will be listed with Opus, which in turn will find the personnel to fill the demand.

"We think there's a lot of people who need jobs done," says Gail, "the kind the Manpower centre doesn't look after."

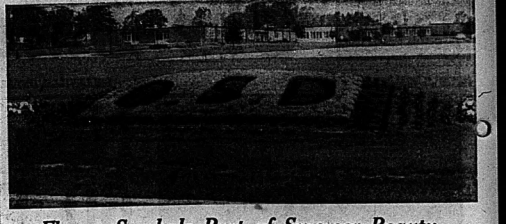
They began organizing Opus two weeks ago. Tonight, they hope to have their first full-scale meeting of job-hunting teenagers at the YMCA. Anyone needing the project's service can call there.



While ventures in the first year may not be high, every little helps when you're at university these days, Dale points out.

Tuition and residence fees are among the increased costs of a university education.

The student population is booming, far outpacing the growth of work opportunities.



Suddenly, says Dale, now nearing the end of his high school education, it's a serious situation.

"I'm going into grade 13," he added, "but already I'm worried over whether I can afford university."

They Want Work!

Summer job opportunities are at a premium but this teenage trio hopes to organize a work drive in the Belleville area. Opus Teens is the contact point, devised under YMCA sponsorship by Dale Sobel, Gail Hayman (left) and Sandra Low.

No Rush to Break Marriage Vows

Canada"s new divorce legislature came into effect Tuesday but there is no apparent rush in Belleville to end marriage under the new regulations.

Sheriff Ross Bailey of the County Courthouse stated yesterday that there were no petitions filed in Belleville since the new law went into effect.

The new legislation retains "marital offence" section of the old statute, adding homosexuality to the offences of adultery, sodomy, bestiality and rape.

Physical and mental cruelty are also grounds for divorce, as well as "marriage breakdown" which is concerned with such grounds and drug addiction and criminal tendencies.

Previously, persons seeking divorce generally had to prove adultery.

But it looks as if marriage is still going to hold out.

Even in Toronto Osgoode Hall officials placed six clerks on duty in anticipation of heavy numbers of petitions.

But only 84 actions were initiated all day.

None of the other major cities in Canada had any notable increases in petitions to report, with the exception of Calgary where the applications doubled.

Stores Provide New Facilities

TWEED — Jardine Hardware, Tweed, recently opened an annex for sporting goods and camping equipment next to the present hardware store, and have set up a number of attractive displays in the area formerly occupied by Woods Red and White Store. The stock will be changed in keeping with the seasons. It could well be called "The Four Seasons."

At the present time, the store is featuring boats, camping trailers, camping equipment, fishing and golfing equipment.

Jardine Hardware is the third place of business to undergo changes in Tweed village during the past few months. Earlier this year, Woods Red and White Store moved into a brand new Foodmaster at the northern end of Victoria Street, while Rupert's Drugs was enlarged and remodelled, with several new and attractive display islands installed.

On July 17 Harold Gall, plans to open the newly constructed IGA Store across the street from the site of the present store.

'Mace' On Hand In Napanee

Napanee police force is the only law-enforcement agency in the district to stock mace, the controversial riot-control spray.

But it's locked away in Chief J. J. Paquett's office awaiting word from the attorney-general's office concerning its possible ill-effects.

"I can't see any harm in it," Chief Paquette said today. "After seeing the company salesman demonstrate its use last December, I decided we should order a can just in case we needed it."

He admitted he could foresee little need for the chemical at the moment, "but if a man is running at you, spray from the aerosol canister will stop him at a distance up to 15 feet."

When the salesman for the American company which makes mace demonstrated it to the Napanee force, he touched a constable's cheek with the chemical.

"It closed his eye in a second and caused a burning sensation," the chief reported. "The salesman dashed cold water against the man's cheek and that killed the effect of the chemical immediately."

Chief Paquette said salesmen for the manufacturers of mace visited every police force in Ontario last December, to demonstrate its use and take orders.

The aerosol canister hangs upside-down on the policeman's belt, and sprays a concentrated mist of tear gas up to 15 feet.

"The burning sensation disappears in 24 hours," Chief Paquette said, "and we understand there are no aftereffects.

However, I think the attorney-general is concerned that some people may react differently than the average person to the chemical and wants to make sure no permanent damage would result."

Picton Jaycees Set Up Program

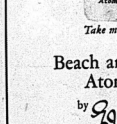
PICTON — Jaycees here will set their program for the coming year tonight.

The organization will concentrate on membership, said Past President Douglas Campbell.

Since they were chartered in 1965, membership has had its ups and down, beginning at 18 and dropping to six in the first year.

Presently the group consists of eight members although, Mr. Campbell says, four new members may soon be admitted.

The club hopes for a strength of 20 by the end of the year.



The greatest problem within the club is the number of transient members. Many of the Jaycees are bank staff.

One bank worker, Robert Bergeron, has just been transferred, reducing the club membership again.

Leadership training sessions will be stressed this year, said Mr. Campbell.

He explained that self-betterment is a prime concern of the Jaycees. Effective speaking and small-business-accounting courses will be taught although an instructor has not yet been definitely located.

Highlights of past years, Ladies' Night and Citizen-of-the-Year award night, will be held together, some time in September.

Sound of Music Fills Salvation Army Camp

AMELIASBURG — The sound of music has filled the air at the Salvation Army's summer camp on Roblin Lake here since the weekend began.

On Saturday, 104 students from the mid-Ontario division arrived for indulgence in an intensive program of instrumental and vocal instruction.

At the end of the classes awards will be presented to the highest ranking students, with divisional commander Col. W. T. Hawkes of Belleville officiating.

Students taking the course include 13 from Belleville, three from Trenton and one from Picton. There is a class of 20 girls between the ages of 10 and 17 engaged in special drill with timbrels, a pie-shaped percussion device that has identified the Army over the years.

The instruction is under the leadership of Cadet Price of Belleville and Lieut. J. Noseworthy, the Corps' officer at Tweed.

Music camp is not all study and practice, however. On Thursday evening a perfect has been set aside for the students to "get with it" when a combo-rhythm group named the Awakeners, from northern Ireland, stops for a one-night stand on its way to Montreal.

The six young visiting Salvationists, with leader Capt. James Currie's original compositions, made a hit in Great Britain, providing beat music as a medium to put across the Gospel's message.

The group will be visiting Trenton the following week for a public appearance before returning to Toronto.

Recently the Awakeners taped a variety of their numbers for channel 9 TV in Toronto.

Dead Fish Cause Problem

Cold Weather Blamed for Attendance Drop at Provincial Parks

15,000 Less Park Visitors Than Last Year

PICTON — Crowds were down but fish were up this week at area provincial parks. Visitors at the parks, most of them during the weekend numbered 3,144 at North Bay beach; 1,393 at the Sandbanks; 21,216 at Outlet Park and 2,353 at Lake-on-the-Mountain.

Park supervisor Robert Davison said this was an overall drop of 15,000 from the same time last year. He attributed the low attendance to cold weather.

The fish in question are piled high and dry on park beaches.

Mr. Davison complained the fish — known as scad or alewives — are worse this year than for some time past.

"They're twice as bad as last year," he said.

He said park workers are cleaning the beaches each day.

Jack Christie, director of Glenora fisheries station, explained the definite cause of death in the fish has not been established.

However, the prevalent theory made after studies since the early 1950s has it that sudden changes in temperatures are responsible.

Rising from the cold at the bottom of the great lakes to spawn, the fish are hit by sudden surface warmth and cannot acclimatize quickly enough.

Outlet Park is a regular little cul-de-sac located as it is a bay. It catches every fish that dies in the area, Mr. Christie said.

He pointed out that the fish were not native to fresh water but had been inadvertently introduced in 1870.

If it is of any consolation to Mr. Davison the problem is apparently not as bad as in the past.

Mr. Christie said that newspaper report of the 1890s said the fish were dying in such great quantities that they piled in windrows a foot deep along the lake.

In Lake Michigan at the present time, fish are plugging water intakes and are the source of government investigations.

Negotiations Deadlocked: Official

Strike in Trenton Said 'Almost Certain'

TRENTON — A union official today warned a strike by town outside workers is "almost certain" by Wednesday unless council takes action.

The warning was sounded in a statement issued today by Douglas Lindsay, district representative of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

Affected are 21 members of CUPE's Local 799 who work on sewer and road maintenance.

Mayor James MacDonald could not be reached for comment on the situation early today.

The union representative said negotiations seeking a 50-cent hourly raise over two years had been going on since November without the "slightest effort" by the town administration to reach an understanding.

The town has been represented by Toronto labor negotiator C. A. Morley as the men sought a raise from the basic $1.95 hourly rate. Conciliation proceedings later recommended a 20 per cent increase over two years.

Mr. Lindsay blamed the deadlock on appointment of an outside negotiator.

"Until last year, we had an excellent relationship with council," said the union official. "Since then, we've had the impression of talking to a blank wall."

The labor organizer pondered the terms of Mr. Morley's negotiating contract.

"Could it be that the longer the negotiations the higher Mr. Morley's bill to the taxpayers?"

The union spokesman called on council to step in and "do the job they were elected for."

"We've been more than patient — we've bent over backwards in an effort to come to an understanding. But we haven't heard from Mr. Morley or council since June 3. There's a limit to human patience."

He claimed the union has been "deliberately pushed . . . to the brink."

"Unless council wake up and face their responsibilities we have no choice but to call a strike, beginning Wednesday morning."

Its said both workers and public were "victims of council's inefficiency."

"Our dispute is with Mayor MacDonald and his council who shirk their responsibilities with the people who elected them to office."

The current $1.95 rate is $1-less than Ontario centres like Toronto or Oshawa, he said.

The union based its proposal on the increase granted outside workers in Belleville earlier this year. The city employees who previously earned $2.05 an hour were granted an increase of 50 cents, he said.

"Why the difference?" demanded Mr. Lindsay, "Be it Belleville or Trenton — or any other place — the sewage smells just as sweet. And the local bread costs just as much."

Trenton's Minor Sports Get $3,000 Per Year

TRENTON — The Supreme Court of Ontario has accepted the offer of the Trenton Rotary Club to channel a bequest of a former Trenton publisher into the development of minor sports in this town.

The late J. Nolan Sisson, bequeathed a sum in trust, with the stipulation that the interest on it should be used in support of minor sports in Trenton, Timmins and Lit-tle Current, Manitoulin Island (his home town) for 20 years.

He accompanied the bequest with the condition that a service club in each of the three communities must match the annual grant.

Victoria and Grey Trust Company, executors of the estate, announced the terms of the will in November, 1967, but found it necessary to ask the Ontario Supreme Court to interpret various clauses.

The Trenton Rotary Club was represented at hearings June 13 by the president-elect, Eben James.

At current interest rates, the estate is expected to provide an annual grant of $3,-000 to each of the three communities. It is understood the towns will receive grants dating back to the time of Mr. Sisson's death in June 1966.

One of the rulings of the Supreme Court was that the grants would be used to provide sports facilities, as well as to support the physical operation of sports clubs.

The late Mr. Sisson was publisher of the Trenton Courier-Advocate.

Thrill Seekers Throng To Wooler Home

WOOLER — Thrill-seeking spectators have been haunting this peaceful rural community since Fred Couthard feared an alien presence had beset his house.

Since the 58-year-old Trenton mailman revealed his beliefs last week, the activity inside his home has quietened down.

Outside, it's been another story, as a curious public visited the spot in a steady stream.

Also, Mr. Coulthard complained today, local pranksters have taken their cue from his reports of strange knockings and thumpings around his residence.

He says youngsters coveted in white sheets have climbed through the eves, banging on pipes and making strange noises.

Last week, Mr. Coulthard slept only intermittently as he and his older sons kept a series of overnight vigils on the bodiless intruders.

Over the weekend, the wearying pressure has so mounted with the arrival of crowds of spectators. So much so, Mr. Coulthard said today, he has had to take a week's sick leave from his post office job.

The last word on the alien presence is that it is no ghost, says Mr. Coulthard.

"Whatever has been rapping around here we've found the cause of it," he said today. "Something unusual has been going on and we've found the cause of it."

But said Mr. Coulthard, he would not at this time publicly reveal his explanation for the strong happenings in and round his home.

New Cabinet

Canada's new Parliament will be a hard-working one. The size of the Cabinet alone, and Prime Minister Trudeau's words at the weekend indicated as much.

Mr. Trudeau's proposal, moreover, to put "more politics into politics", has merit. This is one of the reasons behind his enlargement of the cabinet to 29 members whose average age of about 47 is believed the youngest since Confederation. The idea is that cabinet ministers themselves should devote more time to thinking their policies through, and to decision-making — rather than the brainwork and decision being largely the work of civil servants, with the ministers merely mouthpieces.

The personalities and the ministerial jobs they have been given make for interesting combinations. Like former Alberta Social Crediter Horace A. Olson as Minister of Agriculture; Eric Kierans, former president of the Quebec Liberal Party as Postmaster-General and Minister of Communications (a new portfolio); John Turner, former Minister of Corporate and Consumer Affairs as Minister of Justice, the position formerly occupied by Mr. Trudeau; and Jean Marchand, formerly Minister of Manpower, to the key post of Minister for Regional Development.

Mr. Marchand has the task of implementing Mr. Trudeau's election promise to eliminate regional inequalities by increasing and co-ordinating development programs in under-developed areas. This post is all the more significant when viewed against the background of the flight of population from rural and farm areas to the cities and the consequent intensification of city problems like congestion, pollution and inadequate housing.

The new cabinet is representative of every province except Prince Edward Island where the Liberals failed to win any seats. As Mr. Trudeau has indicated it is a group from which much will be expected, in terms of individual effort and of the progress and achievement to which Canada must aspire in these challenging days.

Youngsters' View

How do children view the problems of the day? Certainly they are more perceptive of ugliness and blight and things in need of improvement than most of their elders. The Grade 5 youngsters in Peterborough who have been taking a look at their downtown area are an example.

What about Belleville? It would be interesting to have the views of the young people here. City council and the planning bodies might learn something. And since it is the future we are expected to anticipate, who better to consult than the rising generation.

But don't say anything potential beauty of litter — because young people cannot claim any monopoly of virtue in this area. They are among the worst offenders; yet they scarcely can be blamed since they take their cue from an adult world whose sense of tidiness and responsibility often leaves much to be desired.

Downtown redevelopment plans, to include a mall and a "magic circle" traffic route and other improvements, were unfurled last year. There was considerable fanfare and publicity. A film was presented showing just what could be accomplished. But progress is a slow process of evolution. It will be years before Belleville's structural image changes appreciably.

Meanwhile there are any number of small improvements that might be effected. Crossing the footbridge for instance, do the children and adults see any shedding potential beauty of the river bank? We say "potential" because the banks, overgrown as they are with weeds, do not present the most attractive of scenes. Cut away those weeds and the river scene would be greatly enhanced. Ironically it is as dusk falls and the areas of weed are obscured that the river takes on a new attractiveness and even mystique. Like some foreign panorama not seen before.

But still it is Belleville, and when the dawn comes again and children and adults alike are crossing the footbridge they see those weeds — and other phenomena such as a large section of retaining wall in the parking lot behind the stores that has given way and slipped down the bank, carrying a parking metre with it.

Of such are some of the things that need improving in the city. We have fine parks, but there are the weeds too. And the litter. Let's try and improve the city's image in this regard.

Jean Wadds Only Casualty

All But One of Stanfield's Original Backers Survive

By DAVE McINTOSH

OTTAWA (CP)—Of the 17 Conservative MPs who originally backed Robert Stanfield for the party leadership last fall and who ran in the June 25 election, only one—Jean Wadds—was beaten.

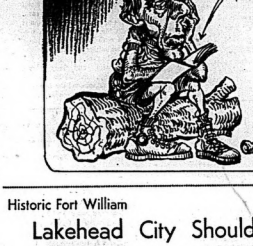
The surviving 16, or many of them, are likely to play an increasingly important and active role in the Commons as well as in the Conservative caucus.

Most of the original Stanfield supporters are young and aggressive. They'll have to be to take on Prime Minister Trudeau in the Commons.

There will be five openings on the Conservative front bench which had 18 members in the last Parliament. Four former cabinet ministers—Richard Bell, Davie Fulton, Michael Starr and Alvin Hamilton—were defeated and another, Gordon Churchill, did not run. Mr. Starr has asked for a recount in Oshawa-Whitby.

Only two of the original Stanfield backers—former defence minister Douglas Harkness and former revenue minister Hugh John Flemming—occupied front benches in the last Parliament.

Among those expected to move closer to the cabinet side are Gerald W. Baldwin, 61, Peace River, Gordon Fairweather, 45, Fundy-Royal, Gordon Aiken, 49, Parry Sound-Muskoka, J. Patrick Nowlan, 36, Annapolis Valley, and David MacDonald, 31, Egmont.



All these MPs were original Stanfield backers.

So were Michael Forrestall, 35, Dartmouth-Halifax East, Robert McCleave, 45, Halifax East-Hants, Donald MacInnis, 49, Cape Breton-East Richmond, Heath Macquarrie, 48, Hillsborough, Robert Muir, 48, Cape Breton-The Sydneys, Russel MacEwan, 52, Central Nova, Loyd Crouse, 49, South Shore, J. Chester MacRae, 55, York-Sunbury, and Robert C. Coates, 40, Cumberland-Colchester North.

Though the election knocked out only four front-benchers, the four were among the most powerful Conservative voices in the Commons. The loss of idea-man Alvin Hamilton has been a shattering blow to the party.

The Liberals have their own rebuilding job to do on the treasury benches.

No fewer than 10 persons who occupied cabinet seats in the last Parliament will not be around when the new one opens, probably in September.

Historic Fort William

Lakehead City Should Retain Its Identity: Toronto Plea

Letter to The Globe and Mail

Change the name of Fort William? (Bill and Art and Their Unhappy Views on Marriage — July 1). Oh, no! Next to Montreal, Fort William is the most important site in the development of a Canada stretching from sea to sea. From Fort William Simon Fraser set out to explore the Fraser River and David Thompson the entire Columbia, achievements that secured British sovereignty on the Pacific Coast and the Western anchor for Confederation.

Though the Nor' Westers' great hall fell into ruin the site has enormous historic significance, and vast modern tourist potential. Here in 1814 David Thompson hung the first map of the entire Northwest — the map that now hangs in the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto. Here, to add drama to the story in 1816 Lord Selkirk captured the partners of the North West Company with his band of mercenaries. Here, back in 1678 Du Lhut built his French trading post at the mouth of the Kaministiquia River.

Is there any reason why Canada cannot restore Fort William itself, as the United States has done at Grand Portage just south of the border, instead of tossing out a memorable name? Surely, we can keep our associations with this scene of the great days of the splendid Northwest spirit.

As for the tourist attraction, the very name of Fort William adds color to the heart of the mid-continent country of fine skiing, fishing and endless other holiday attractions. And to put the record straight, Fort William dates from 1807 when it was not named for the Honorable William McGillivray, chief director of the North West Company; Fort Arthur was not founded until 50 years later and named in 1870 by Col. Wolseley when he set out to curb the first Riel Rebellion.

If the Lakehead had no history, Lakehead would be as good a name as any for the amalgamated cities. But we, the people of Canada, are reminders of the heritage from which we draw our national strength and our visions for the future. We need Fort William.

Marjorie Wilkins Campbell
Toronto.

California Is Popular

Buffalo Evening News

California, passing 20 million population in the next year, is expected to reach 40 million by the end of the 20th century. If it does, that will be more people living in just one state than there were in the whole United States in 1870; more in California than there were in all of the Middle Atlantic and New England states as recently as 1950, all of which may seem to the Californians like a real estate promoter's dream, but to us it sounds more like an overpopulation nightmare.

The Blight of A City Seen by the Children

Peterborough Examiner

How dear to this heart are the scenes of my childhood.

When fond recollection presents them to view.

We wonder if Samuel Woodworth's lines, above, will have significance 15 or 20 years from now for the children of Grade 5 classes at Highland Heights School who have offered the planning board their views on the downtown area.

They see with remarkable clarity that all is not well. Three of the points they underline are need for more recreation areas, the removal of unsightly buildings and provision of more parking space. They note too that the central business district is not a good residential area because it is "too smelly, too noisy too dangerous, too crowded, too busy" and that children play in the streets.

Forgive us, children, for what you see. Adults, you must understand, do not always have your perceptiveness or sense of urgency and excitement. Unlike you, we are stifled by criticism, deterred by apathy, motivated by personal gain, bereft of lasting imagination, suspicious of innovation, embarrassed by the inadequacy of our resources. And we talk too much.

Observe and learn and be thankful that you have teachers with the good sense to encourage you to assess your environment. Store your notes and your impressions because if our planning malaise continues at its present rate the 11 we will surely come when your persuasions will be of vital importance.

Economy Is Healthy As Production Gets A Boost

The Globe and Mail

The Canadian economy is in pretty fair shape, but it is still going to require attentive nursing. Since early 1966 it has survived a period of very sluggish growth and a crisis for the Canadian dollar without either sliding into recession or succumbing to the crisis. This has required a flexible attitude on the part of the Government and the Bank of Canada, and at times, some fast footwork; and the need for neither is yet ended.

Still, things are looking up. Production has taken a spurt. During the first three months of the year, the gross national product — the total value of goods and services produced — was running at an annual rate of $64.8 billion, up 6.6 per cent over the first-quarter rate of 1967, and an increase of nearly 2 per cent from the rate for the last three months of last year. The production increase is believed to have continued.

This has been accompanied by a decline in the rate of price increases for goods and services, and in some cases — as, for instance, in a number of durable goods including new cars — in actual decline in prices. That is, there has been some tempering of inflation.

In one important area there has been a worsening — unemployment in May, seasonally adjusted, stood at 4.9 per cent, up from 4.8 per cent in April and higher than for many months. More people were employed, but the work force had grown more rapidly than the jobs available to it.

The employment picture could improve. Business investment in plant and equipment had declined during 1967, in turn by 2 per cent in January, February and March, thus perhaps belying the optimistic forecasts for economic forecasts. Non-residential construction has also advanced somewhat and there has been a boom in housing construction — up 20 per cent from a year earlier after a nine months' decline.

This housing boom was not expected to continue throughout 1968, but the decline in National Housing interest rates, though small at this point, may keep it moving. Further declines are expected.

Big Jetport for Florida

Regina Leader-Post

It is often said that Texans boast about having the biggest of everything. It now looks as though Florida, in one respect at least, will soon be able to put the western state in the shade.

Boosters of a gigantic airport that will straddle portions of Dade and Collier Counties in Florida predict it will make southern Florida the jet capital of the Western Hemisphere.

The proposed Collier - Dade Jetport will cover 23,320 acres — nearly 39 square miles — of Everglades land and water between Miami and Naples and easily claim title as the world's largest. It will have room enough and to spare to contain Idlewild, P. International Airport at New York, plus San Francisco and Los Angeles International Airports, with Washington National Airport thrown in. Two parallel runways will each be six miles in length to accommodate the coming jumbo and supersonic jets.

In addition, plans have been made for an advanced system of connecting local and interstate high-speed highways and rapid transit facilities.

Firearms Legislation: Japan Sets Example

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

A few days ago Japan took back the Bonin Islands from the United States in a belated settlement of the Second World War issue. As soon as the U.S. occupancy ended the Japanese officials called upon all islanders to turn in personal firearms.

Japan has some of the world's toughest firearms legislation, and the government points out that in the United States well-organized sportsmen and lobby groups are still trying to take the teeth out of a new gun control law that, in many opinions, doesn't go as far as it should anyway.

Only recently Time magazine published a study of the firearms situation in the United States. It produced the startling statistic that nearly 800,000 have died from guns in civil life since the turn of the century.

In contrast, 630,000 U.S. servicemen have been killed in all the wars in which the U.S. has engaged since 1776.

Last year there were 20,000 U.S. gun fatalities, a figure equalling all the American deaths in four years of fighting in Vietnam.

The United States leads the industrial nations in gun deaths by an overwhelming margin, the magazine points out that in 1962 there were 29 murders by firearms in England and Wales; 37 in Japan and 4,954 in the United States.

Each year more than 100,000 Americans were wounded by gunfire in their homeland.

Obviously these totals overwhelm the ancient U.S. claim that every citizen is born with a right to bear arms.

They are full explanation, and justification, for the Japanese decision to demand the islanders of the Bonins that the official attitude toward the ownership and use of firearms has been greatly altered.

The independence movement was promoted by British attempts to take over the colony in 1806. The inefficient rulers appointed by Spain were replaced by local leaders in 1810 and the congress which declared independence was summoned after a series of uprisings and civil war between the royalists and the republicans.

Minister's Appeal Ignored

Australian Gunman Still Holds Off 100 Armed Police

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — A Presbyterian minister who married besieged gunman Wallace Mellish to his hostage teen-age bride made a new appeal today for him to surrender.

Rev. Clyde Paton, chaplain at Sydney's Long Bay Prison, telephoned the suburban cottage where the 22-year-old ex-convict, armed with a shotgun, three rifles, a revolver and hand grenades, has defied more than 100 heavily armed police since Tuesday.

Mellish has threatened to kill "a thousand people" including his wife and baby rather than surrender and face a car theft charge.

Police said Paton spoke only to Mellish's 19-year-old bride, the former Meryl Muddle. Mellish has said he will trust only Paton.

Mellish's wife claimed Sunday in a phone call to a Sydney radio station that her baby was starving because she had no way of heating food for him because of an electricity failure. She also appealed for the police to go away and leave Mellish alone.

Detectives sighted wisps of smoke coming from the cottage chimney early today.

"I can only assume Mrs. Mellish has accepted advice on how to light a fire to heat food for the baby," Police Superintendent Don Fergusson said.

Police on the instructions of Police Commissioner Norman Allan, now have waited patiently seven days for Mellish to surrender.

Allan refused Mellish's demand for an electrician to repair a broken electrical circuit. Mellish had threatened to kill the repairman if he made a false move, and "we can't leave it to Wally to decide what is a false move," said Allen.

Mellish, his wife and their baby, named Lesley, have been subsisting on canned foods.

Meryl has passed up four chances to escape, detectives said.

They reported she was seen walking unguarded on the house's verandah four times and that she also has shouted insults at the police surrounding the house.

Allan arranged a wedding Wednesday for the couple, with the bridegroom holding the shot gun.

Allan, faced with criticism from newspapers and the Sydney Police Association, said police would continue to wait it out.

The Sydney Sunday Mirror, calling for Allan's resignation, said his tactics had taken the criminal investigation branch "almost to the verge of mutiny, partly because he ordered the suspension of six detectives caught drinking on the siege lines after they had been ordered to do nothing."

Riot squad detectives crouched in foxholes in the bush behind the Mellish house during the weekend and waited behind armor shields in the darkened house next door.

They are angry at their chief for the extraordinary lengths to which he has gone to try to placate the deranged gunman.

Allan, who is commissioner of police for New South Wales, arranged in waive the state marriage law demanding seven days' notice for weddings when Mellish promised to surrender if police allowed him to marry Meryl in his house.

Allan, a senior detective and Rev. Clyde Paton entered the house for the wedding. Mellish had arranged a table decorated with a base of plastic flowers as an altar. The police officers, who solemnly brought a wedding certificate and a $20 wedding ring, even shook hands with Mellish when he agreed to lay down his weapons before pledging "till death us do part."

The following day, Allan again entered the house, unarmed to try to persuade Mellish to keep his repeated promises to give up. This visited sparked the most staggering development of all, Mellish held a pistol to his bride's head and threatened to shoot unless Allan agreed to give him a machine gun. He finally accepted an Armalite which is the deadliest rifle in Australia.

Another detective marched into the house with the Armalite covered with a pink baby rug. He gave it to Mellish, along with 200 rounds of armor-piercing bullets and hot fish and chips from the mobile police canteen.

Mellish then released Allan who declared later that he was disgusted by reports that he had eclapsed on a bed in the house next door. "Thank God I'm made of sterner stuff that will not allow me to collapse."

Some detectives feel the bride will not leave Mellish even if she gets a chance because she loves him and wants to stay with him and the baby, which suffers from asthma. Reports say Mellish is the father of the baby and that his bride, a childhood sweetheart, is wanted for nonpayment of fines on vice charges.

Police are no longer supplying hot meals to the besieged couple.

During the weekend, hungry reporters clustered around a roadside campfire in the bitter midnight cold. "What are they giving him tonight, coq au vin or pheasant under glass?" asked one.

Quinte Area Militia Groups Complete Weeks Training at Camp Petawawa

PETAWAWA: The Canadian Armed Forces Militia of Ontario have completed a week of the most realistic and purposeful training ever undertaken by a reserve group.

Over 1,533 citizen-soldiers visited Camp Petawawa and they are the first such unit to have such a difficult purpose a regular task."

It was decided a year ago that the Militia would back up regular units and the training is a step toward this goal.

As a result more troops are firing more live ammunition than ever before. Also, for the first time, the Militia is working in the field with the regular units.

Said Capt. Cole Hale, Brigade Major, "this is the first time the Militia has been given a rebular task."

And those involved have taken to the new task with enthusiasm.

"This is the greatest morale booster I've seen in 15 years of camps", said Col. W. A. Maddox.

Those in charge call this year's exercise "a complete evolution in military training."

Approximately 55 per cent of the Militia are students in high school while the rest hold down civilian jobs.

Although there are 1,485 regular troops present at the camp most of the work is left for the reserve units. There is practically no classroom work as strict army training is emphasized.

As an example over 175,000 rounds of live ammunition had previously been fired over a five day period by the militia.

The emphasis toward realism can be seen when it comes to the area of target shooting.

But then target shooting is not the correct term as stationary targets have been abandoned.

In their place are ballons, towed along the ground by a sled. The sled itself is pulled by a truck with the aid of a series of wires.

In this way the troops are able to simulate enemy advancement.

Lt. Col. David Hanson of the 2nd Guards is in command of the operation and he says, "this gives the soldier a feeling of what it is really like."

The distance of firing can be varied as well as the number of ballons on the sled.

This training of the reserve, to take the place of full size regular units, has been taking place throughout Canada for the past six months.

The upcoming week at Camp Petawawa has been described by Col. Maddox as "the culmination of a long effort."

There are similar camps taking place all over Canada and operated on a parallel with Petawawa.

"It's a lot different from last year," said Capt. Hale, "and it should be a lot better."

Waiting for the battle to commence is Mike Durant of Belleville who is one of the Hasty Pees taking part in summer training at Camp Petawawa.

Belleville and Trenton Represented at Camp

PETAWAWA — Belleville and Trenton will be well represented during the week of intensive militia training at Camp Petawawa.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment are training at the camp with 24 members of the militia in the field.

The Commanding Officer for the regiment, Lt. G. A. Brown said, "The boys are really enjoying it more this year because of the added realism."

He said the boys work long and hard with an average day beginning at five o'clock and ending at one in the morning.

The average age of those in the Hastings Regiment is 17 but under camouflage it is hard to tell.

How do the boys feel about this "added realism"?

Michael Durant of Belleville says, "I like it a lot better: it makes more sense to do things like they're really done."

This pretty well summed up the attitude of the remainder of the regiment.

Battle Preparations

Two of Belleville's Hasty Pees prepare for a mock battle as part of their summer training at Camp Petawawa. Bill Mindenhall helps Gary Robb with camouflage material.

Cabinet Starts Work

ernment reorganization are among the priorities.

Finance Minister Benson said he expects to bring down a budget sometime in the fall.

Justice Minister John Turner said an official languages bill and the left-over legislation designed to reduce drug prices also are expected to be before the Commons early in the session.

He said he did not expect action until October or November on Criminal Code amendments introduced late last year by Mr. Trudeau when he was justice minister.

Mr. Turner said both he and the prime minister are committed to the bill, covering new laws on abortion, homosexuality, firearms control and several other areas.

But government decisions would have to be made on whether to break the omnibus bill into several parts and whether to allow free votes on some of the issues.

Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey indicated the government labor bill, which died with the dissolution of Parliament in April along with the drugs and Criminal Code legislation, also will not be reintroduced immediately.

He said the bill will be tied to recommendations of the Woods report on labor-management relations, expected in October.

The original bill provided for reorganizing the Canada Labor Relations Board and set out new laws on regional bargaining units which have been attacked by the Canadian Labor Congress.

The actual swearing-in ceremony Saturday was held in private.

Mr. Michener, who left afterward for a 22-day eastern tour, commented that the cabinet was the youngest in history, with an average age of 47, one year below Mr. Trudeau's age.

Allard Congratulates Unit

PETAWAWA — "I've seen those officers in the Militia today that I would be delighted to have in the regular force."

These were the words of Gen. J. V. Allard, Chief of Defence Staff, as he spoke after visiting Camp Petawawa on the first day of militia training.

He said the idea of the exercise is to get a full combat unit ready and he is pleased with what he has seen.

Speaking on Canada's views on overseas occupation the General said, "The first thing is to be wanted."

He referred to Cyprus and, as he said, "we were asked to go there."

"In the middle east we were not wanted and we left," he added, showing the other side of the coin.

How strong should Canada's forces be?

Gen. Allard believes that we "could have maintained all of our commitments with 110,000 troops."

The present figures point to 98,000.

The Chief of Defence was quick to point out that this was not the reason for this practical use of the militia.

"The militia have always been and will remain an important part of the forces," he asserted.

TABERNACLE U.C.W.

Tabernacle U.C.W. met in the ladies' parlor on Tuesday evening, June 25, with Mrs. B. D. Salsbury presiding in the absence of the president.

Excellent reports were given by Mrs. C. Hudson and Mrs. C. Mosier, delegates from Tabernacle U.C.W. to the School for Leaders recently held at Albert College.

The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Lena Wright and Mrs. Freda La Rue who in enlarging on her subject: "report cards," asked the sobering question "what kind of report card might God send home with you?"

Ladies of Unit No. 1 served refreshments during the fellowship hour following the meeting.

Responses to Food Depend on Color

If, upon sitting down for dinner, you were faced with a bowl of green mashed potatoes your reaction would be less than delighted. In all probability, you wouldn't venture even a first mouthful. Whether we are aware of it or not, our responses to food and other commodities depends largely on color. Colours can cause visual as well as physical reactions which have little or nothing to do with personal likes or dislikes. For example a red balloon is actually more exciting to a child than a blue balloon. The fact that the child might prefer the colour blue, has little bearing on the matter. Similarly, reds and oranges stimulate the appetite, while blues and greens discourage it. Red hot, bright and blue are quiet. Lilac, amber and pink have pleasing fragrances. Green and blue are fresh and translucent. Red, orange and brown appear hard, dry and rich and dull. Although responses to color do not change, preferences do. This year, the big colors are yellow, orange, red — may be copye. Next year the trend could turn to cool blues and greens. Companies such as Allied Chemical Canada who produce food coloring and paper dyes are constantly improving their dyes and conducting intensive research programs to predict the direction of color trends. But, whichever way the spectrum shifts, color — hot, cold, loud or soft — will continue to determine our responses to a much greater extent than the conscious level admits.

MR. AND MRS. STUART R. MUIRHEAD

Muirhead — Durno

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was the scene of the wedding on Saturday July 6, when Rev. A. L. Sutherland united in marriage Heather Dawn Durno, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Durno, of Belleville, to Stuart Robert Muirhead, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Robert Muirhead, also of Belleville.

Frank Martin rendered the traditional wedding music and soloist for the ceremony was Kenneth Graham.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a pure silk organza A-line gown with Guipuire lace trim at the neck and armholes. The full chapel train featured a centre panel of lace, with matching lace bow holding the four-tier bouffant veil. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink delight roses, stephanotis and falling streamers.

Matron of honor, Mrs. Donald deacon, sister of the bride was attired in a floor length coat style gown of heavy white corded cotton, with mandarin collar and a pink bow headdress. She carried a nosegay bouquet of deep pink and white miniature carnations with baby's breath and streamers.

Bridesmaids, Mrs. Donald Masters, sister of the bridegroom, the Misses Donna Durno, cousin of the bride, Clara Lynn Kellar and Heather-Eve

Ketcheson were dressed identically to the matron of honor.

Attending the bridegroom, was a brother Wayne Muirhead, while ushers were Gary Durno, brother of the bride, Larry Lightfoot, Ted Rowland, and Larry Soule.

The wedding reception was held at the Belleville Sailing Club. The mother of the bride received the guests in a two-piece costume of pure silk chiffon sheath with tucks and roll collar and coat, in schiaparelli pink with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The mother of the bridegroom wore a mint green dress and jacket of silk sateen with matching accessories and a corsage of pale yellow sweetheart roses.

For the wedding trip to Cape Cod and Atlantic City, the bride chose a hand crocheted sheath dress of powder blue wool with navy blue accessories.

Upon their return, the couple will reside in Belleville.

Fort — Frost

MR. AND MRS. D. N. FORT

Dr. Angus J. MacQueen performed the ceremony at Timothy Eaton Memorial Church when Karen Audrey Frost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Frost, of Toronto, was united in marriage to David Norman Fort, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Fort, of Belleville.

Organist David Ouchterlony rendered traditional wedding music for the June ceremony, and the soloist was Mrs. A. Slavin.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white full length re-embroidered lace gown and full length tulle veil with matching lace coronet. She carried a cascade of yellow roses and shasta daisies.

Maid of honor, Miss Susan Frost, sister of the bride, was attired in a full length empire-style gown of yellow tulle over matching peau de soie, trimmed with eyelet beading with green velvet sash. The headdress was of shasta daisies.

Bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Bull, Miss Patricia Inman and Mrs. A. Slavin, were gowned similar to the maid of honor. All of the ensembles were complemented by the lovely nosegays which they carried.

Ring-bearer for the ceremony was Larry Fort of Belleville, youngest brother of the bridegroom. He was dressed in white trousers, with a navy blazer.

Attending the bridegroom was John D. Fort, of Toronto; ushers were Arthur C. Fort, brother of the bridegroom, William Halperis and Alex Slavin, both of Toronto.

The reception was held in the Muir Park Hotel, the Terrace Room, Toronto.

The bride's mother was attired in a coat and dress ensemble in deep turquoise, of silk shantung with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of bronze shasta daisies.

The mother of the bridegroom was outfitted in an apricot linen and dacron ensemble, with matching accessories. The corsage was rosebuds and cornflowers.

For the honeymoon trip, the bride chose a coat and dress ensemble in a summer plaid of rainbow hues on a white ground with white accessories and a contrasting corsage of deep pink roses.

Upon their return, the couple will reside at 100 Gloucester St., Toronto until this fall, when they will leave to that Mr. Fort can continue his post graduate studies towards a doctorate degree.

There Are No Hyphenated Canadians

TORONTO (CP) — Ruth Gordon, editor of Canadian scene, wants to shy-pencil the hyphen out of Canada.

Miss Gordon thinks we should all be Canadians, not German-Canadians or English-Canadians.

"This isn't the aim of immigrants," she said. "They want to remember their native land but when they get their citizenship they want to be Canadians."

Miss Gordon is concerned that Canada may become a no-comers as people and help them over a period of adjustment.

"I'm convinced that one of the best ways is to make information about their new country available to them through their language," she said. "There is enough settling in new ways without insisting that English be the only means of communication."

She explained that Canadian Scene, on a budget of $20,000 a year, is a news service supplying information on history, social security, business, arts and industries to 95 newspapers in 32 languages. There is no charge for use of the material in the service.

Miss Gordon has the support of a number of university professors and Canadian writers who produce material at a nominal price for the non-profit service. And every two weeks the material is sent out in mimeographed form, in either English or translation.

Miss Gordon writes and edits the articles for the service and decides directly on the foreign language press. She knows the publishers' needs.

"They want to make information on Canada available," she said. "But many of them have to do everything from selling the ads to putting the paper together and the cost of translation is high.

"I'm no linguist, although I can read Canadian Scene — or credit line — in all the translations and I consider I'm doing well when I can spell it out in Ukrainian."

Piano-duet Plays Game of Musical Chairs

HAMILTON (CP) — In the last eight years, Patricia Elliott and Jocelyn Pritchard have given about 50 concerts as a two-piano team.

During that time they have never lived closer to one another than 1,700 miles, and their arrangement with their coach, Boris Roubakine, makes the whole relationship sound like a game of transcontinental musical chairs.

Mrs. Elliott is the wife of Rev. Dr. Clifford. A. S. Elliott, formerly of Hamilton, now of Toronto. Mrs. Pritchard is the wife of Rev. Hilda Pritchard, formerly of Edmonton, now of Vernon, B.C. Mr. Roubakine, formerly of the University of British Columbia, now is on the faculty of music at the University of Calgary.

The women met and first played together at a United Church general council meeting in Edmonton in 1960. They agreed on the spur of the moment to help out the meeting's lone organist.

"We just clicked," Mrs Elliott says.

For several years after that they met in person with Roubakine whenever he was in Edmonton. Now the only time the three can get together is when he happens to be teaching or adjudicating in a city where the women are playing.

The pianists must work on their own, with only a frequent exchange of letters as a guide, augmented by what Mrs. Pritchard calls several days of wild practicing before each concert.

They aren't sure how many concerts they have given, 50 is a guess.

Mrs. Elliott says: "It really boils down to tours twice a year. We can't leave our families any more than that. We get homesick about the 14th day and can't play. We also get homesick on the same day, and we rush home."

Both enjoy playing modern works and say they are interested in Canadian composers. ested in Canadian composers.

Mrs. Elliot says: "We try to get Canadian composers known. they are not played enough."

British Physician Warns of Perils Of Built-in Falsies by Injection

LONDON (AP)—There may be a built-in peril in those built-in falsies, girls seeking bigger busts were warned by a leading British physician Friday.

Injections of silicone fluid may add extra satisfying inches but they can lead to surgery, Dr. William St. Clair Symmers, 50, pathologist at London's Charing Cross Hospital Medical School said.

He claims to have seen 31 cases of disfigurement resulting from injection of substances such as paraffin, beeswax, shellac, putty, silk tangle and spun glass.

And he wrote in this week's British Medical Journal of three cases which went wrong:

—A 28-year-old Irishwoman, who spent three years as a topless waitress at an American resort, had received cosmetic treatment to maintain what he called "the excessively large bust necessary in that environment." Later she had to enter a British hospital because of a disfigured and lopsided bustline.

—A teen-aged American biology student, touring Europe, went to a London surgeon for her yearly "top-up."

"This turned out to mean replenishment by injections of silicone fluid to restore her bust measurement before she returned to vacation job as a get-together girl in a topless summery club," Symmers explained.

After her bust was enlarged, he said, "the revised contour was maintained for about four months; she then began to notice sagging."

After a second course of injections a year later, she began to develop mass of tiny but tender nodules, which Symmers said could have been caused by the silicone.

—The third case reported concerned a 22-year-old actress who was persuaded by her fiance to have a surgeon implant a sealed polythene bladder holding silicone breast. The plan was to control the size of the bust by injecting or withdrawing a salt solution. But the girl developed a fungus-type infection and had to go into hospital to have the bladder removed. Her breasts now are disfigured.

Symmers expressed the opinion that all injections to make breasts larger by introducing foreign materials "have proven highly unsatisfactory. The safest way, he thought, is the skilful transplantation of tissues from other parts of the body.

Otherwise, his advice to girls seeking bigger busts is: Don't.

Ann Landers

Wife Thinks the Pill Is A Family Affair

ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The other evening my husband said to me, "Did you take your pill, dear?" I replied, "You mean our pill, don't you? After all, The Pill is a family affair." He looked at me as if I had taken leave of my senses.

My husband is typical of the newly liberated male. To my way of thinking the American husband never did accept his share of responsibility in regard to sex and pregnancy. Now that we have The Pill the husband just plain doesn't want to be bothered with anything. The only thing on his mind is did she remember to take her pill or not?

Several months ago I read an item about a birth control pill for men. So far as I know that pill has never been perfected. And you can be sure it won't be since most medical research is done by men and they will shunt the responsibility off on the female as long as possible.

We women are partly to blame because we have let the men get away with it. I remember last year an unmarried career girl wrote and asked you if her gentleman friend should share in the cost of The Pill. (She was reluctant to ask him because she didn't know him well enough to talk about money.")

So please, Ann Landers, will you help me in my crusade to liberate the female by printing this letter? — FRAILTY THY NAME.

* * *

DEAR FRAIL: When a woman takes a pill it's her pill, whether it's an aspirin, a vitamin, or what have you — so stop trying to make it a family affair, Lady.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our 16-year-old daughter just started in date. Last night she came in at midnight (the agreed curfew) and invited her date to come in to talk.

Her father and I sat up and visited with them until 3:30 a.m. Was this proper. He is such an intelligent lad, we really enjoyed ourselves. Now, however, I wonder if perhaps we should have asked the young man to leave earlier. But how does one do this without being rude? Should he have left on his own? Please tell us what is correct. — TIME FLIES.

* * *

DEAR TIME: How nice that your daughter has such interesting friends, but no boy should sit around until 3:30 a.m.

You should not have asked him to leave; your daughter should have shown him to the door — at about 12:30.

Have an understanding for future dates: Home by midnight and the boy leaves by 12:30. And may I suggest that you and your husband visit with the interesting young man some Sunday afternoon?

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your answer to the woman who asked how to remove prune pits in company proved you don't eat out much. You said a person should put the whole prune in his mouth, eat around the pit and then transport the pit by spoon to the plate.

I don't know where you got this crazy idea but it's wrong. My mother taught us to put the prunes in our mouths and, when no one is looking, spit the pits into a napkin and put them on the plate.

One of the things I admire about you, Ann, is that you are big enough to admit it when you are wrong. I hope you will do so this time. — PROVIDENCE.

* * *

DEAR PROV.: I hate to take sides against your Mom, but spitting pits into a napkin and sneaking them on to the plate is not my idea of good manners.

Successful Living

Discretion Still Watchword

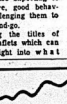
By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: My sister died suddenly and my brother-in-law has asked me to "sort of help" with telling his 12-year-old daughter the things she needs to know.

She is an affectionate child; always hugged and kissed my husband when we came. But I now notice that all male callers are greeted in much the same way, even an insurance agent, who was somewhat embarrassed.

She is always sitting on some man's knee, usually an uncle or a friend of her father's. I know she is innocent of any thought of odd behavior, but her body is developing into young womanhood.

How does one take over talking to and mothering a girl of 12? I see her about three times a week. — Auntie.



Dear Auntie: She is missing her mother and seeking warmth wherever she thinks she can find it. But she does need to use discretion!

Create a situation conducive to chit-wagging. Invite her over for the night. Let her help you get dinner; chat over doing dishes or over choosing a new dress. Have your baths together.

Be natural, comfortable. Laugh with her. Hug her. Let her get around to asking you questions, and show nothing but comfortable chumminess as you get into intimate issues.

You'll get there if you are patient enough and love her enough.

Dear Doris: How do you get along with an old father who is a bit childish? — Dutiful Daughter

DORIS CLARK

Dear Dutiful: "Childish" can mean so many things. Is he lovable but dependent, or peevish and spoiled? Is he demanding? Authorities suggest we see older, senile folk as being childlike, and actually treat them as children.

This means letting them lean a little, but also expecting of them obedience, good behavior, and challenging them to some git-up-and-go.

I'm sending the titles of books and leaflets which can give you insight into what gives here, and how to cope.

* * *

Dear Doris: I have heard that all the members of parliament, including the Prime Minister, do not pay any income tax on their salaries. They only pay on expense money.

I'll appreciate very much an answer on this matter. — Sam Four

Dear Sam: You got it twisted. They pay on their salaries just like the rest of us. But a certain percentage is earmarked for expenses, of which they have plenty, and this percentage is tax exempt.

Fair enough?

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa (AP) — The city council of this Indian Ocean city rejected an appeal from the public morals commission of the powerful Dutch Reformed Church to legislate against women's beach wear "which exposes the body indecently in public." The council's parks committee chairman, Katie Gelvan, said no step would be taken.

Man-sized Icing A Great Topping

By MARY MOORE

It was fathers' day at the experimental nursery school run by the university in our city. John had to take three year-old Sharon to the school, observe her play with other three-year-olds through the one-way glass, then take part in a discussion group with the other fathers, the social worker and nursery school teacher as Shirley has been doing every week for the past eight. The custom with the mothers is to take cookies to have with coffee during the discussion period and it was Shirley's turn. That made it John's turn. When asked what sort of cookies John would like to take, he said, "Man-sized with Icing." So we set to work on a large soft cookie with Burnt Butter Icing. At the nursery school the fathers paused in their discussion to remark, "These are different." "Delicious." "Hey, great man".

JOHN'S SOUR CREAM DROP COOKIES WITH BURNT BUTTER ICING

(48 large — easy to make in one bowl)

COOKIE DOUGH:

½ cup butter

¼ cup shortening

1¼ cups sugar

2 eggs

1 cup dairy sour cream

1 tsp. vanilla

2¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour

½ tsp. baking soda

½ tsp. baking powder

½ tsp. salt

ICING:

¾ cup butter (melted — see below)

1 cup sifted icing sugar

½ tsp. vanilla

1 tbsp. hot water

In large mixing bowl cream together until light and smooth the shortening, butter and sugar, then beat in eggs. Sift together the sifted flour, soda, baking powder and salt and beat in with the sour cream and vanilla. Chill dough. Butter baking sheets. For large cookies drop rounded dessertspoonful at least 2½" apart on pan. (Shirley only put six on each pan). Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. Time depends on size — so you must watch cookies and test for doneness — they should be only tinged with gold. Test one by breaking it in half to see if it is done. Cool on racks. Dough must be kept in refrigerator between the times you are filling pans.

COLORFUL FASHION — Leo Narducci includes the outfit at left in his '68 fall collection. The rayon faille Grover Cleveland collar, full sleeve and tongue-tie and the grey coachman's fleece cloth skirt give the look of separates. It is worn with a grey suede vest with passementerie design and a belt made of three chains of silver and gold twisted together. The dress at right from Tina Leser is a Pakistan mirror-embroidered petitpoint dress in soft blue-grey wool threaded with white, yellow and black. (CP Photo)

Police Evict Students

PARIS (AP) — The last major bastion of the student rebellion at the University of Paris fell without a fight today.

Police moved into the new medical school on the Rue des Saints-Peres at dawn and evicted the last 17 students holding out in the big four-storey building. The red flag waving over the roof was taken down.

The students, including four girls, whistled and booed as they were taken away for questioning.

The holdouts had been waiting for days for the police to come. They said they would not oppose them.

June 16 police took over the Sorbonne, the headquarters of the revolt, that started early in May and touched off France's worst post-war crisis. The school of fine arts, which produced anti-deGaulle posters, was taken June 27. Last Friday it was the turn of the school of science and the new Sorbonne annex on the Rue Censier.

There was no resistance at any of them. A few dozen students were taken to a police station, and some were held overnight. Some of them who wrote newspapers charging that they were not fed nor allowed to call their parents.

Police also arrested a few persons who were not students, including several of the "Katangese" who had made trouble at the Sorbonne. They got their name from some of their number who said they had served with mercenary troops in The Congo's Katanga province.

Woman Gets New Kidney

TORONTO (CP) — A team of six doctors led by Dr. G. A. Farrow Friday performed their second kidney transplant in a week as they replaced the kidney of an unidentified 41-year-old woman with that of a five-year-old girl.

A. E. Morris, assistant director of administration services at Toronto General Hospital, said in a statement the patient was doing well.

The kidney was taken from Diane Jones of Orillia who died Friday after surgery at the Hospital for Sick Children. She had suffered massive head injuries in a fall at her home the day before.

The other transplant occurred June 28 when Paul Desse, 16, of Barrie, received the kidney of Ian Bonella of Gravenhurst, Ont., who died of multiple injuries in a car crash.

Pilot Killed

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — Roland Reginald Perit, 45, of Toronto was killed Saturday when the small plane he was piloting crashed into Lost Channel, about 25 miles northwest of here.

Witnesses pulled him ashore where his wife Iria tried unsuccessfully to revive him with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. He was pronounced dead at hospital in Orillia.

Hot Rock Is Found After Quebec Visit By Nude Tiny Men

JOLIETTE, Que. (CP) — An egg-shaped piece of rock found in the middle of a burned patch of grass is the only evidence so far to substantiate reports last Tuesday of burning objects falling from the sky and nude little men.

Paul-Emile Desbiens, a 73-year-old farmer from nearby St. Paul, about 40 miles north of Montreal, says he is guarding the precious piece of stone with a shotgun until federal authorities analyse it.

He said Friday a farmer friend discovered the stone still hot Tuesday night after a large burning object that illuminated the sky fell into a nearby field.

Meanwhile, provincial police here confirmed Saturday they had received several telephone calls Tuesday reporting that nude little men had been seen running along a country road.

Constable Marcel Vaudreuil said no men were available to check out the reports. He brushed off the sightings by saying: "People were just having illusions." He did not say how many calls had been received by the police.

However, Montreal La Presse quotes Constable Michel Michaud as saying he and a fellow policeman did check on the nude men reports and arrived on the scene in time to see them jump into a ditch and flee. No one was caught.

Constable Michaud was getting married Saturday and was not available for comment.

Hundreds of persons in the Laurentian village near Joliette had reported seeing the strange tumbling ball of fire last Tuesday.

The ball of fire was reported seen at the same time in several parts of the northwestern United States, from Vermont to Maryland and from the Atlantic to Ohio.

Canada Fails to Obtain Man's Release by Cuba

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canada government has so far been unsuccessful in periodic attempts to obtain the release of Ronald Lippert, 36, of Kitchener, from a Cuban jail.

Informed sources say Canada might even be willing to make a man-for-man trade with Cuba for Lippert, sentenced to 30 years in jail in 1963 for allegedly flying explosives—hidden in meat tins—into Cuba.

Meanwhile, it has been revealed here that a Canadian double agent—his identity has not been disclosed—played a role in setting up the first spy swap between the United States and Russia.

Lippert was arrested in Havana after a flight from Miami, Fla., Oct. 24, 1963, in an aircraft owned by W. A. J. Garsat of Toronto.

Canada made vigorous representations in Havana in 1963 on behalf of Lippert. These representations were aimed mainly at persuading the Cubans not to shoot him. Periodic visits and attempts to obtain his release have been made since then.

Lippert's relatives supply money from time to time so that officials of the Canadian embassy in Havana can take food to the prisoner.

Canadian officials see Lippert every couple of months. At last report, he was in "reasonable" health and spirits.

The case of the Canadian double agent is nearly 10 years old but has never been revealed to the public in any government document or in Parliament.

Informed sources give these sketchy details: A.

K. S. Dorinkin entered the U.S. from Russia in 1956 as a film director in the public information department of the United Nations secretariat in New York.

Dorinkin was an espionage agent and one of his tasks was to obtain aerial photographs of missile sites near Chicago.

He recruited a Canadian to help him. But the Canadian became double agent and co-operated with Canadian and U.S. counter-espionage authorities.

The Canadian did not know Dorinkin's real identity at first. He arranged to deliver harmless aerial photographs of Chicago to the Soviet spy at a parking lot in Scarsdale, N.Y., on a November day in 1958.

The meeting was of course observed by American intelligence agents, who were able to identify Dorinkin.

The Russian agent was kept under surveillance in the hope that an entire spy ring would be uncovered. It didn't turn out to be a ring, just another spy.

A week after the Scarsdale caper, Dorinkin and Igor Vakovlevich Melekh, chief of Russian translation services at the UN, met an American recruited by Melekh, also with the purpose of obtaining photographs of missile sites.

Dorinkin and Melekh had double had luck because the American also turned out to be a double agent.

In January, 1960, the UN was asked to dismiss Dorinkin for clandestine activities and he left the U.S. less than two months later.

Melekh did not lead the way to any more spies and was arrested in October, 1959. The next year, he was traded for two American airmen shot down over the Barents Sea during an alleged surveillance flight to Northwest Russia.

This was the first such swap, at least in recent times. There have been several trades since, including those involving American flier Gary Powers, Soviet spy Col. Rudolph Abel and British agent Grenville Wynne.

Montreal Housewife Is Winner Of Top Prize in City Lottery

MONTREAL (CP) — The hand that rocks the cradle has a nifty way with Montreal's purse strings, as the results of the city's two "voluntary tax" draws show.

Mrs. Paul E. Lamy of Montreal Sunday became the second winner of the $100,000 top prize in the monthly scheme designed to offset a possible $28,000,000 Montreal budget deficit.

The month before, Mrs. Venita Barrette, also of Montreal, a widowed mother of 10 children, claimed the grand prize in the first monthly draw.

Mrs. Lamy, white-haired mother of five, took a cheerful look at two cart loads of silver ingots—weighing about 3,000 pounds—and gave Mayor Jean Drapeau a kiss as an audience of 400 roared approval.

She was one of 151 finalists from among more than 600,950 persons who won a total of $150,000 in the second monthly draw. Thirty won $1,000 each, 20 won $500 each and 100 gained $100 each.

The win climaxed three hours of tension for Mrs. Lamy.

As the first 100 names were called—the $100 winners, the $500 winners, and the thirty $1,000 winners—Mrs. Lamy waited.

Then there was no one else to call but her.

She answered, as the contest required, four of seven questions, as did all the other winners, and the money was hers.

Mrs. Lamy said she would buy a house with part of the winnings and invest the rest.

The questions asked of the finalists are based on fags about Montreal printed on the back of each $2 receipt mailed to contributors.

One of the happiest winners was J. A. Walsh of Kamloops, B.C., who told reporters his arithmetic wife was taken to hospital—at the weekend—"I think the excitement of getting a winning ticket affected her a bit"—and that the money would be used to help his 19-month-old granddaughter who is suffering from a serious heart condition.

Other out-of-Quebec winners, receiving $500 or more, were: $1,000—Gordon Barrett, Sullivan Bay, B.C.; Mrs. Grace I. Worrell, Coldwater, Ont.; Earle Klohn, Vancouver; J. W. White, Lemoust, B.C., John Tilley, Powell River, B.C.; Gordon L. Simpson, Hastings, Ont., Mrs. Dorothy Weaver, Chippewa, Ont.

$500—R. W. Williams, Willowdale, Ont., Stanley Knight, East Selkirk, Man.; Mrs. Barbara Lockhart, Mississauga, Ont.

One $1,000-winner, Frank Nadworny of Regina, was absent from the final drawing Sunday, and under the plan's rules he must answer his allotted questions at some other time before he can receive his money.

Micheners See Miners' Museum

SYDNEY (CP) — Gov.-Gen. and Mrs. Michener Sunday visited the 18th century French fortress of Louisbourg, then donned hard hats and rain slicks for a trip into a mine shaft at the Miners' Museum in nearby Glace Bay.

Despite misty rain Sunday morning the couple clambered across the ruins of Louisbourg. The sun broke through in the afternoon as they were met by about 1,000 persons at the Miners' Museum.

They arrived here by air Saturday afternoon from Ottawa to begin a 25-day tour of Cape Breton Island, Newfoundland and Quebec communities on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River.

About 250 persons were on hand at the airport where Gov.-Gen. and Mrs. Michener were greeted by Sydney Deputy Mayor Carl Neville.

Mr. Michener inspected a guard of honor—100 Cape Breton air cadets—and then proceeded to his hotel.

The fortress of Louisbourg, built by the French after 1713 and captured in 1744 and again in 1758 by English forces, is being restored as a national historic park by the federal government. The English destroyed it in 1760.

Restoration of the fort is expected to be completed in 1970.

Mr. and Mrs. Michener signed their names on a piece of stone in black crayon under the carved signatures of former Gov.-Gen. and Mme. Vanier, who visited the site in 1965.

The signatures will be carved into the stone by John Urich, masonry supervisor at the project, for display later in the restored fortress.

At Glace Bay, about 10 miles east of here, Mr. Michener and was met by Mayor D. A. MacDonald.

Mr. Michener cut a ribbon on an old train on display outside the museum and met the retired railway men who restored it.

In the museum he saw old mining implements and mailed rocks. In the damp low-clearance mine shaft, he and Mrs. Michener walked half stooped to see working conditions of the present and of 50 years ago.

The couple attended services Sunday morning at St. George's Anglican Church in Sydney. Today they attend a luncheon party before leaving for St. John's, Nfld. at 2 p.m. ADT.

Levesque Will Consider Separatist Merger Bid

MONTREAL (CP) — Rene Levesque, leader of the Mouvement Souveraineté-Association, said Sunday his executive council will decide this week "if and when" they will reconsider merger plans with the separatist Rassemblement pour l'independance nationale.

Last week the MSA suspended merger talks with the RIN following RIN participation in the St. Jean Baptiste Day parade riots.

Mr. Levesque said his movement is anxious to form a party which would contain as many groups as possible.

He said his group would fully support the proposals made by the leader of the RIN, Pierre Bourgault, at a weekend rally.

Mr. Levesque said some of the proposal made by the RIN showed a bit of concern over their future and the statement that they could seat 108 candidates themselves in the next provincial election should negotiations with the MSA prove unfruitful—"show signs of panic and weakness."

At a weekend meeting of the RIN, the group drafted a resolution which in part said the RIN wanted to see the "creation of one large single independence party in which it would contribute its knowledge and experience."

The resolution said if the RIN must carry on its political battles by itself then it will "continue its political action alone and elect 108 candidates in the next provincial election."

It also said the RIN refuses to engage in battles wit h other groups seeking independence but "we will present all our efforts against the opponents of independence."

Elevator Workers Likely to Strike

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — A new strike threatening the flow of grain from the Prairies is in the making.

If a vote to be announced Tuesday goes as expected, 1,300 terminal grain elevator workers in Fort William-Port Arthur will be poised to strike on word from their union leadership.

Spokesmen for the elevators say time after midnight Monday.

A walkout by the grain handlers employed in the 25-plus elevators in the Lake Superior twin cities, the greatest grain storage area in the world, would add a new dimension of damage to another dispute that has kept the St. Lawrence Seaway closed since June 21.

The unrelated seaway walkout already has cut off direct overseas clearances of grain from the Lakehead with its enormous storage capacity of more than 100,000,000 bushels.

A walkout shutting down the Lakehead terminals would force a embargo on rail shipments of grain from country elevators in Manitoba and most of Saskatchewan.

And it is at the country elevator that the farmer receives the initial payment for the grain he has grown.

The danger of a terminal elevator lineup grew enormously Sunday at a membership meeting of the Brotherhood of Railway, Airline and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees.

On a sultry day in a steamy meeting hall, an estimated 1,100 members of the union's Lodge 650 voted unanimously to back the recommendation of their negotiating committee that the report of a federal conciliation board be rejected.

A strike vote followed; a ballot that will continue today from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. to allow members who missed the meeting a chance to vote.

The strike ballot is expected to get equal membership endorsement. But Lodge President Frank Mazur said he didn't want to talk about deadlines.

"We don't want to strike," he said. "... If the companies sit down with us and give us what is fair and reasonable, there will be no strike."

The report of the conciliation board chairman, R. A. Gallagher, a Winnipeg lawyer, recommended a wage increase of 70 cents an hour over two years. The union's demand was for an increase of $1.25 hourly over a one-year contract. The companies offered a total increase of 42 cents hourly over two years.

The increase recommended by Mr. Gallagher—the union and company representatives filed separate reports—would bring wages for general elevator laborers to $3 an hour from the present $2.30, in four stages.

Aside from this labor dispute with its dangers to the national economy, the Lakehead is having its worst season in years in labor-management relations.

Copter Crashes, Two Die

NAKINA, Ont. (CP) — Two men surveying inland waterways for the federal government were killed in this northwestern Ontario community Saturday night when their helicopter crashed during a severe storm.

Dead are the pilot, Campbell Roy (Scotty) Ferguson, about 40, of Ottawa, and Keith Gowan, 25, of Hamilton.

Witnesses said Mr. Ferguson, a northern bush pilot, was attempting to land during a storm at Nakina airport when the helicopter hit power lines and flipped over.

Your Car

Driver Should Keep His Eyes on Road

By RAY STAPLEY

Recently I rode as a rear-seat passenger on an out-of-town business trip in a powerful luxury liner. As we drove through the heavy city traffic and headed for the highway the driver was most intolerant of minor errors on the part of other drivers and condemned them in no uncertain terms. On the highways he continued to rant on about erratic drivers being the cause of all accidents and at the same time the car's speed gradually increased along with his blood pressure. At about 88 miles per hour I automatically drew his attention to the speedometer. A trifle embarrassed, he dropped down to around 75 miles per hour, but pointed out that high speed was quite safe, providing the driver was alert, and anyway he said, it was difficult to accurately judge speed on today's expressways when floating along in our modern powerful cars.

The safety lecture continued and he would frequently turn his head, sometimes for up to three seconds, to glance at me in the rear seat, when making a point or to check my reaction. At 75 miles per hour, with the driver's eyes off the road for three seconds the car is almost itself uncontrolled for a distance of 330 feet. This head twisting continued throughout the whole journey and I was mighty relieved when the trip ended.

It is true that on long tripe speed can gradually increase without our realizing it and 80 miles per hour starts to feel like possibly 60, especially in powerful heavy cars. But the logical way to cope with this is to glance at the speedometer frequently. The police cannot accept day-dreaming as an excuse for speeding and where extremely high speed is involved the charge may be far more serious than just a speeding ticket.

While it is common courtesy to look right at a person during conversation, when behind the wheel passengers are far more relaxed when you settle for voice inflection to emphasize a point.

Bowerman Ponders Score

Bowerman Alone in 2nd

Homenuik Is Rolling On Pro Golf Circuit

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP) — The writers are long on the Canadian Prairies and Will Homenuik of Winnipeg probably decided that he would sooner knock a golf ball over green grass than chase a hockey puck over ice.

He made the decision 12 years ago and further convinced himself it was the right one by winning the 54-hole Millar golf championship Saturday and the $1,200 first prize.

Actually, Homenuik took $1,700 away from this southern Ontario community. He also collected $500 for winning the pro-am section of the tournament last Wednesday.

"I gave up hockey when they told me to report to Eddie Shore," Homenuik said.

He had played junior hockey with the Terriers in his native Yorkton, Sask., and was offered a professional contract with Shore, who owned Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League. Shore was known for his spartan-style training tactics and that possibly had something to do with Homenuik's decision.

The wiry touring professional wound up with a final-round 71 over the 6,400-yard Georgetown Golf and Country Club layout Saturday for a three-round total of four-under-par 209.

He had been two strokes behind Gary Bowerman of Toronto, who had tied him for the second round lead, after 14 holes, but rallied with birdies on the final two holes. Bowerman took extra strokes on three of his final four holes.

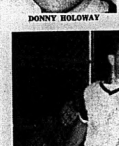
It was the second straight Millar championship for Homenuik.

Bowerman, who said he developed "a bad case of the shakes," finished with a final-round 74 and a 54-hole total of 212 to collect $950 for his second-place finish.

Ken Duggan, Frank Whibley and Gary Slatter, all of Toronto, finished in a three-way tie for third place with 213 totals and $625 of the $6,000 total prize money. Vaughan Trapp of Victoria, Gary Fawcett and Jerry Magee, both of Toronto, followed at 214.

Alvie Thompson and Gary Pitchford, both of Toronto, and Stan Homenuik of Dauphin, Man., and Moe Norman of Guelph, Ont., were at 215.

Bowerman said after that his finish was the best competition, but that lack of experience caused him to falter.



"Will's experience was bound to pay off in a situation like that," Bowerman said. "He plays under pressure once a week."

Bowerman is a club professional, who says he will be busy and unable to attend several of the tournaments on the Canadian tour.

Homenuik also won $230 in the Quebec Open to bring his official earnings on the Canadian tour to $1,430 this season. Earlier he had won about $4,500 on the U.S. professional tour.

Near-Perfect Game

Cheesemen's Holoway Hypnotizes Stinson Hitters

DONNY HOLOWAY

Donny Holoway was a pop-up away from perfection in Commercial Softball League action Saturday night.

The lanky Black Diamond pitcher hurled his team to a 1-0 no-hit win over second-place Stinson's Construction, with an infield error marring a perfect game.

Holoway's despair was a sixth-inning bobble by shortstop Dwight Rathwell, but he still had the satisfaction of manufacturing the second no-hit win thrown at Stinsons in a week. Brants turned the trick 2-0 Tuesday.

In the second game Saturday night, City Hotel downed a die-hard Point Anne team 7-5.

Fourth-place Black Diamond's margin of victory came with a clean first-inning home run by Jack Francis to right centrefield. The Cheesemen first-sacker caught one of Stinson pitcher Scotty Reid's drop balls that didn't drop and provided the winning tally for Black Diamond.

The win puts Black Diamond in the league's fourth spot with a 6-6 record.

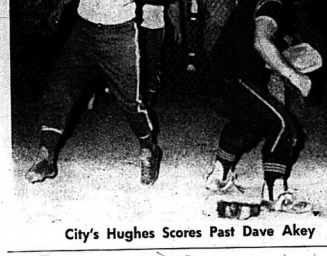
Scotty Reid gave up five hits for the loss while walking two and fanning four.

CITY HOTEL — 7

POINT ANNE — 5

In the City Hotel - Point Anne contest, Bob Davenport started for the winners and was relieved by Gerry Genereaux in the sixth.

The City Hotel hurlers combined to take the win after giving up five runs on five hits and two walks, fanning five.



Point Anne started with Ted Waite but put in Maurice Kinsmen in the third. The two Cementmen hurlers combined to take the loss while giving up seven runs on seven hits and five walks with three strike outs.

The score was 4-2 for City Hotel in the sixth when it looked like Point Anne might pull it out of the fire with a three-run rally making it 5-4 at the end of that inning.

But City Hotel came back in their half of the sixth to make it 7-5 and that's where it stayed.

Top hitters for the winners were shortstop Doug Hull with a homer in the fifth with no one on, out fielder Bob Brooks with a double that netted him a third-inning RBI, and Moe Hawkins with two singles. Davenport and Genereaux also collected singles.

Cementmen hitters were second-sacker Eric Maher with a homer and a single in the fourth and sixth which netted him three RBI's. Singles were collected by Jim Horwood, Rick Rosebush and Larry Fraser.

You've probably never heard of Dale Berning.

But one day last week, he was the smuggest man alive.

His 26-year-old spouse — Susie Maxwell Berning — had just taken the first-round lead in the U.S. women's open golf championship . . . and Dale had the satisfaction of saying she wasn't a match for his golf game.

A sit-back-and-paper himself, Dale told reporters he had to stop playing golf with his wife of seven weeks because his constant winning "deflated her ego".

Imagine what it would be like, golfing husbands, to have to ask your wife to give you half a dozen shots a round to even things up.

What sheer horror a skiing vacation will be for Nancy Greene's future husband.

It'd be something like an unknowing date saying to Abby Hoffman: "C'mon — I'll race you to the corner!"

Great galloping inferiority complexes, men, life would be unbearable!

One of our traditional sources of pride has been that we, as a group, have set standards of physical achievement that the ladies just can't hope to match.

But, at times, they give us cause for concern.

In golf, for example, although no woman pro could hope to match the tee-power of the Palmers or Nicklauses, the female duffing experts are considered at least on a par with the men in the delicate aspects of the game — approach shots, chipping, and putting.

Sam Snead learned this, much to his chagrin, a year or so back, when popular U.S. woman pro Micky Wright bettered his score in a mixed par-three tournament.

Women's hockey and softball teams are creating a sports sorority of their own locally, not to mention the dozens of feminine swings on golf courses, or deliveries on bowling lanes.

And "Powderpuff Derbies" at stock car speedways throughout the Quinte area are given top billing as genuine drawing cards.

It seems members of the gentler sex aren't taking a back seat to anybody these days.

Only Second Loss

Joyces Have "Grand-Slam" Blues

It had to happen sometime. And it did happen Saturday. The Belleville Joyces Senior EOBA club, who have taken batting practice on their opposition more than once had the tables turned at Orillia as they dropped their second game of the season 12-2.

The Joyces now stand at 8-2 for the year.

Both Joyce runs in the weekend Orillia game were on homers. The first tally was in the first inning as third-sacker Moe Hunter stepped into a pitch for his first fourbagger of the year.

The second Joyce run came in the fifth as lead-off batter for that inning, right-fielder Doug Dafoe, collected another solo shot.

The only other Joyce hits were a single apiece by the home-run hitters Hunter and Dafoe and three singles by first baseman John McKibben.

Randy Castellerin started for the Joyces on the mound, and was relieved in the seventh by Joe Hastings. Woodrow pitched for Orillia for the first seven innings then Dyment took over.

The Joyce pitchers gave up 11 hits for 12 runs while walking five and fanning two.

The Orillia nine picked up eight of its 12 runs on two grand slam homers. The first was in the fifth by shortstop Kerr and the second was in the sixth by pitcher Woodrow.

Owen, Orillia right fielder, also had a homer in the second with one on.

The Joyces didn't have much of a day at the plate with the exception of the homers by Dafoe and Hunter. They struck out eight times and never put together more than two hits in any one inning.

By CLAUDE D. TICE

A record handle of $16,336 was passed through the mutuels at the fairgrounds on Saturday night with 905 habitues on hand. The directors' decision to continue heat racing instead of race events is paying off because the bettors like this form of racing. Another reason the races are proving so popular is that the classifier is putting the horses where they belong.

The boys in the quinella betting in the fifth race went for Galdon Boy, who has been racing with the bearcats at Greenwood, and Nida Dillard who had three previous wins to her record. Both these horses fell by the wayside and Way Hal and Gramps Jack combined for a $85.50 payoff and a lot of the bettors were happy. Incidentally Way Hal set a new mark for himself in 2.12 flat for the mile heat.

For the first time this season a dead heat was registered when Elly May, teamed by Bernard Hunt and Magic Charm C, driven by J. Hunt-bach crossed the finish line together, Tye Venture, teamed by Clark Newton and owned by the Belanko Farms raced to a new record with a mile in 2.14. Mr. Newton is an old Belleville boy and has been around the race game for a good many years. The good trotter, Mr. Spudkey, owned and driven by Paul Collette is coming into his own and won his first race of the season in the first heat and paid his backers $10.10 for the win.

Cosy Cards Up Lead to 10 Games; Aaron Nears 500-Homer Plateau

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Seven days ago, St. Louis Cardinals were sputtering through a spell of misfortune—their league-lead had been cut to 6½ games and there was some hope the National League race might not be such a drab affair after all.

Forget it.

A couple of veterans did everything that was needed Sunday in delivering St. Louis's seventh straight victory, a 2-0 conquest of San Francisco Giants.

The triumph, coupled with Houston Astros' 5-4 win over Atlanta Braves and Cincinnati Reds' 6-5 loss to Los Angeles Dodgers, boosted the Cardinals' lead to a cozy 10 games heading into the three-day break for the all-star game.

Elsewhere Sunday, Chicago Cubs used a pair of dramatic finishes to edge Pittsburgh 5-4 and 4-3 and New York Mets whipped Philadelphia Phillies 4-2, after dropping the opener of a doubleheader 4-3.

Saturday, St. Louis blanked San Francisco 3-0, New York defeated Philadelphia 11-6, Cincinnati edged Los Angeles 3-2, Chicago took a pair from Pittsburgh, 6-1 and 10-2, and Atlanta swept a doubleheader from Houston 5-0 and 2-1.

Stan Brock and Curt Flood provided all of the Cardinals' run Sunday.

Brock's triple and Flood's single in the sixth halted a scoreless duel between winner Larry Jaster and Gaylord Perry. Then in the eighth, the fleet Brock reached first on an error and swiped both second and third before coming in on Flood's sacrifice fly.

Hank Aaron drove in all of Atlanta's runs and smashed two homers to up his career total to 495—just one shy of the plateau reached by only seven other major leaguers in history.

But it wasn't enough to overcome an early Houston uprising. The Astros exploded for four runs in the first when Norm Miller had a leadoff homer and Rusty Staub poled a three-run shot. Hector Torres's singled in the decisive run in the fourth.

Los Angeles spoiled Cincinnati an early 3-0 lead, then had to rely on pinch-hitter Len Gabrielson's run-scoring single in the sixth to snap a six-game losing streak.

Chicago rookie Jose Arcia's first major-league homer in the ninth inning produced victory in the opener with Pittsburgh. Don Kessinger's last-inning single with two out scored the winning run in the nightcap.

The Cubs were staked to a 4-0 first-inning lead in the opener when Ernie Banks hit the 11th grand slam of his career and his 13th homer of the season.

Indians Scalp 8 of 11 Opponents But Tigers Have Clawed One More

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Trying to catch the first-place Detroit Tigers is becoming a frustrating experience for some of the other American League teams.

Second-place Cleveland Indians have won eight of their last 11 games, but the Tigers have won nine of 11.

Third-place Baltimore Orioles have fon five of their last seven, but Detroit has taken six of seven.

Detroit used the long ball—three home runs, two triples and six doubles—to sweep a doubleheader from Oakland Athletics 5-4 and 7-6 Sunday. Going into the three-day All-Star break, the Tigers lead Cleveland by 9½ games and Baltimore by 10½.

The Indians beat California Angels 8-3 but lost the nightcap 9-7. The Orioles rallied for a 3-2 victory over New York Yankees after dropping the first game 3-1. Boston Red Sox swept Minnesota Twins 4-3 and 6-3. In the only single game, Chicago White Sox edged Washington Senators 4-3 in 11 innings.

Saturday, Oakland downed Detroit 4-1, California blanked Cleveland 2-0, Baltimore defeated New York 8-1, Boston took Minnesota 4-2 and Washington trounced Chicago 8-4.

It may be a little early for such things, but for the mathematically inclined Detroit's magic number for its first pennant since 1945 is 71, with 70 games remaining.

Willie Horton's 21st homer in the ninth inning for Detroit won the opener from Oakland and made Denny McLain—16-2—the winningest pitcher in the majors.

The long-balling continued in the nightcap—including Al Kaline's two-run homer—but it took a seventh-inning single by rookie shortstop Tom Matchick to bring home the winning run.

Oakland's Sal Bando belted three homers in the doubleheader and Reggie Jackson two.

Duke Sims drove in four runs with a homer and single as Cleveland took its opener from California behind Dick Tiant, who won his 14th.

Don Mincher's two-run homer gave the Angels a 7-1 lead after seven innings of the nightcap, but his two-run single in the ninth was the difference as the Indians rallied.

Carl Yastrzemski socked a homer in each game as the Red Sox swept the Twins. Joe Foy slammed a two-run homer in the nightcap.

The Yankees clipped Baltimore in their opener on home runs by Roy White and Andy Kosco and Mel Stottlemyre's four-hit pitching. But a tie-breaking, ninth-inning homer by Fred Valentine gave the Orioles the nightcap. Elrod Hendricks homered in each game for Baltimore.

Wayne Causey scored the tying run in the eighth inning and singled home the winner in the 11th as the White Sox edged Washington. Mike Epstein's fourth-inning homer had put the Senators ahead 3-2.

THE CAR BUYER'S PROBLEMS

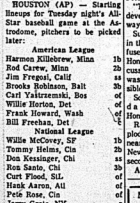
CRITICS AND WELL WISHERS

It's always nice to be complimented. But it's much more helpful to be constructively criticized.

It has always seemed to me that the Complaint Department of an automobile dealership is one job that the "Boss" has to manage. It is the customer who decides if a business succeeds or fails and the head man should keep his ear keyed to the customers feelings.

I'm speaking now of reasonable and justified complaints — and there are some in the best run enterprises. Most are caused by misunderstanding or oversight that could be easily rectified if the customer would bring the complaint to the dealer's attention.

If you are not satisfied with a service job on your car, or if something promised was not delivered, you are doing your dealer a service by bringing it to his attention. If he is interested in keeping you as a customer he will do his utmost to right the wrong.



Of course there is the kind of complaint that has little real substance but where our emotions are offended. Even in this case, talking it over with your dealer will most likely to straighten matters out than letting it build up into resentment.

No one ever improved on just compliments. A quality dealer is no exception. If there is something wrong, he wants to know about it, for his own sake as well as yours.

Grand Prix Tragedy

French Auto Racer Killed in Test Car

ROUEN, France (Reuters) — Jo Schlesser, French racing driver, was killed and 10 spectators were injured when he crashed Sunday during the French Grand Prix won by Belgian Jackie Ickx.

Schlesser, 40, was competing in his first formula one grand prix in eight years in an experimental Japanese Honda. The car had caused a row among company officials and drivers earlier.

The lightweight car, which has a V-8 air-cooled engine, was tested by John Surtees, No. 1 Honda driver, for the first time only last week.

After learning Honda intended to race it, Surtees told reporters Friday:

"The car needs to be properly developed and this is the wrong way to go about it."

Surtees, who finished second in the rain-swept grand prix, refused to comment on the crash. Honda officials would not discuss it beyond saying the car was not fitted with the best possible tires for wet conditions.

Schlesser, married with a daughter, was driving for Honda for the first time.

Race officials said his car exploded after striking a bank near a light hairpin known as New World Corner during the second lap.

A witness said he appeared to lose control on the wet track. After hitting the bank, the Honda somersaulted twice and landed in flames by the side of the road.

Ten spectators in the crowd were treated for second-degree burns.

Schlesser was the fourth grand prix driver to die this year. Jim Clark of Scotland, former world champion, died after a crash at Hockenheim, West Germany, in April; Briton Mike Spence died from injuries suffered during practice for the Indianapolis 500 in May and Italian Ludovico Scarfiotti was killed when his car catapulted off a hill-climbing course last month.

Airman Moonlights On Mound

WASHINGTON (AP) — Darold Knowles, wearing two uniforms as part-time relief pitcher for Washington Senators and fulltime member of the United States Air Force, has had his brief fling as a moonlighter in the major leagues cut short by orders to Japan.

Knowles, leading the Washington pitchers with a 2.25 earned run average, has racked up a remarkable record by pitching in 30 games—high for the team—while playing only on overnight and weekend passes.

His short career as a cross country commuter, jetting from coast to coast to join the club on road trips on weekends, was ended by air force orders to head overseas in one week.

"He'll be very hard to replace," said manager Jim Lemon.

Yesterday's Stars

Batting—Sal Bando, Oakland Athletics, belted three homers and drove in six runs but was unable to prevent a 5-4, 7-6 doubleheader loss to Detroit Tigers.

Triple Winner Billie Jean Says All Netters In "Same Boat"

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Billie Jean King, third time Wimbledon queen, had praise today for organizers of the All-England tennis championships for staging the world's first open tennis tournament.

She said tournament officials were right in describing all players — pros or amateurs simply as players, leaving the amateurs free to compete in the Davis Cup.

"We are all in the same boat. We all make our living by playing tennis. Open tennis has proved itself, and I hope the whole world will come to follow Britain's example and call all competitors players."

The British told all Wimbledon competitors they would compete for prize money or just expenses as they liked. But they were all styled players, and the words pros and amateurs did not appear in the Wimbledon programme.

Of the £26,000 (about $67,830) prize money at stake, roughly half was not paid out because most of the amateurs did not ask for it. They had not been given permission by their national associations to play for money.

Professionals took some tumbles as the amateurs raised their game and scored upsets. But in the end, the pros dominated every title except the mixed doubles.

The organizers paid out the full prize money for the men's singles final—£2,000 ($5,200) to the winner, Rod Laver, and £1,305 ($3,380) to his fellow-Australian pro Tony Roche.

Mrs. King picked up the women's first prize of £750 ($1,950). But Australian amateur Judy Tegart, who lost to Mrs. King in the final, had opted to play for expenses only, so the second prize of £450 ($1,170) went back into the pot.

Pilot Film Produced for Negro Television Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—NBC is spending a few hundred thousand dollars on the proposition that advertisers and audiences will support a weekly television variety show enacted entirely by Negroes.

Last week the pilot film of Soul, a one-hour musical with Lou Rawls, Nipsy Russel, Redd Fox, Chambers Brothers, George Kirby and others was taped at the NBC Burbank studios. No one would say what the cost was, but comparable specials cost $300,000 or more.

The show is aimed for presentation as a special, possibly this fall, with the hopes that it might lead to a weekly series during the January switch in programming. That was the history of last season's biggest hit, Laugh-In. It is no coincidence that Soul is being presented by the Laugh-In menors, producer George Schlatter and his partner, Ed Friendly, and the writer-creator of the show, Digby Wolfe.

Schlatter and Wolfe discussed the origins of Soul.

"It happened on the night of the Emmies," said Schlatter. Laugh-In walked off with four awards that night.

"It was one of the great coincidences of all time," I told Digby that I had just received approval that day to go ahead with an all-Negro musical hour aimed for a weekly series."

"And I told George that just that day we had received approval from the Writers' Guild to admit three Negro writers for the purpose of working on just such a show," said Wolfe.

"These were people from the Watts Writers' Workshop, where I had been working for some time, and the discussion about the show had been going on for a year."

Enlisted for the project were neophytes Jeanne Taylor, Larry Reed and Cal Wilson. None had any professional experience except Jeanne Taylor, who had a play on the NBC special by the Watts' Workshop. The trio wrote the entire script of Soul.

"I think the show has a good chance of succeeding," Schlatter said.

"In the first place, it is contemporary. It has much the same irreverence and unpredictability that Laugh-In has. It moves into areas that are not normally discussed on variety shows.

"And it will have a modern look to it. The format won't be just like Laugh-In, because there will be an emphasis on music. But it will have a similar sense of pace. That is the modern method: audiences want their entertainment briefer nowadays; they don't want long numbers and sketches."

Wolfe added: "We are presenting the Negro viewpoint without venom. The show should be able to capture the Negro audience, because they will know that the show is about themselves. And I think it will get a large amount of white audience which will be attracted by the entertainment values."

'Cinderella' Successful At Stratford Festival

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — In true Cinderella fashion, British opera singer Patricia Kern left the scene of her triumph Saturday night in a horse-drawn coach.

Miss Kern, a star of London's Sadler's Wells Opera Company, made her North American debut here in the title role of Rossini's Cinderella, this season's Stratford Festival operatic offering.

A near-capacity, first-night audience of 1,400, many in a formal attire, gave Miss Kern and the Cinderella cast a five-minute standing ovation. Afterwards, hundreds waited outside the Avon Theatre to see her enter the coach that took her to an after-theatre party.

John Kraglund, critic for the Toronto Globe and Mail, said Miss Kern's Cinderella "must have been very close to what Rossini had in mind."

He said her "powerful emotional communication . . . conveyed every nuance of Cinderella's changing moods."

He criticized director Douglas Campbell's "natural penchant for coarse comedy," which was "essentially, the principal weakness of the production."

Laurentia Thistle of the Ottawa Citizen labelled Stratford's production of the opera "uneven" but said "Patricia Kern . . . fulfils all the demands of the title role" and "Jean-Louis Pelletier . . . handles the coloratura aspects of his role with fine aplomb."

Leonor Crawford of the London Free Press called Miss Kern "Cinderella in every note she sang and every movement and gesture," but criticized Pelletier, who she said "appears stiff and wooden on stage and has a voice of parts—that is, it separates disturbingly into a baritone quality and a lyric tenor with no bridge between."

Newman Says . . .

Ad Libbing Creates Problem

Ed Newman of NBC was among the network correspondents who, for hours on end, were on the air and talking during the slow progress of Senator Kennedy's funeral train. In the following column for vacationing Cynthia Lowry he was asked to describe the fine art of the marathon ad lib.

By ED NEWMAN

NEW YORK (AP)—How do you write a column about ad libbing on the air? Ad lib it, I suppose.

I have had to do a good deal of ad libbing of late—in connection with President Johnson's decision not to run again; after the death of Martin Luther King Jr., and again in connection with the death of Robert Kennedy.

Successful ad libbing depends first on not talking too much and too soon. If you dazzle them early, you may bore them later.

It depends in the second place on having a large and miscellaneous body of knowledge, and on the association of ideas— you see something and it reminds you of something else, ideally something relevant and illuminating. Even with the news department behind you, there is nothing so reassuring as ideas which you have not used running through your mind.

The next essential asset is calm. Consider President Johnson's announcement that he would not seek re-election. About 30 seconds passed between his announcement and my having to speak.

That isn't much time for reflection, and the only way to deal with such a situation after closing the mouth that surprise had opened, and opening it again with sounds coming out is to think out loud and make your analysis as you go along. You have also to avoid looking agonized while waiting for help to arrive.

How you look does not matter on the radio. The first lengthy ad libbing I did for NBC came at the funeral of King George VI in 1952. I was on the battlements at Windsor Castle, ready to go on as soon as the funeral procession came into view. For a variety of reasons, I was called in as the funeral procession left my view. Also, it was a cold day, I was wearing heavy gloves and holding a microphone, and couldn't get my notes out of my pocket. You have no idea how long 10 to 12 minutes can be.

Another necessary quality is the ability to think and speak while being spoken to. We wear a small device which fits into the ear and through which instructions are given to us, and through which we also hear the sounds of the event we are describing.

This explains how we know which correspondent is where, and when a piece of film or tape is ready to roll, and so on.

We may also be told that ambitious plans have fallen through, and that the task of filling large amounts of time has devolved upon us. The producer and director speak to us through this device, and feed us other information, and while nobody can do the talking for you, much depends on these men and their grip on affairs.

There is no other key to successful ad libbing. You have to talk to the audience if the way that is natural to you. Anything else, over the hours, would be an intolerable strain. In-other words, you have to be yourself for long periods.

Pound Jumps as OK Stabilization Loan Reported Approved

LONDON (AP) — The pound sterling jumped sharply on the London and Zurich foreign exchange markets today after reports that international bankers had approved a big loan to Britain to support sterling.

An announcement of massive new international support for the pound sterling will be made in London today, an authoritative source said Sunday.

Following a six-hour monthly meeting of Western central bankers, the informant indicated the parity of the pound is to be preserved at all costs.

The figure of $2,400,000,000 U.S. has been mentioned as the price the world is prepared to pay to put an end of international speculation against the pound.

Such a huge sum would virtually preserve sterling's stability for almost a decade, banking sources said. Previously, the bankers had resorted to much smaller standby credits to prop up the pound for short periods.

The amount, length and terms of the new long-term loan are being kept secret. The bankers agreed to make no statements in Basel. But Sir Leslie O'Brien, governor of the, Bank of England, told reporters: "You won't have to wait long."

This would be the first time the bankers have agreed on a long-term loan. Until this would leave the British economy free to recover, unfettered by restrictions in the pound on foreign exchanges.

Banking sources said the pound dominated the talks. It was generally agreed that no immediate action is necessary to protect the French franc, currently on the floor at foreign exchanges after the May-June crisis.

The state of the franc is likely to occupy a more important role at the bankers' next meeting, slated in Basel for September.

Prime Minister Wilson said in a speech Saturday that Britain was on the verge of an "economic miracle." That followed a European trip by Harold Lever, financial secretary to the British treasury, during which he is believed to have received support in France, West Germany and Italy for the sterling loan.

The pound rose to $2.38625 U.S. in early trading in London. It closed Friday at $2.3845, just above the $2.3825 level at which the Bank of England automatically starts buying pounds to prop up the currency.

The rate slipped to $2.3836 in swallied announcement of the loan.

In Zurich, the opening price of the pound was 10.255—10.256 Swiss francs, two centimes above last week's closing rate of 10.2535. It was the biggest gain in several months.

The Bank of England was believed selling sterling as the rate rose today to recapture some of the foreign currency it lost in recent weeks keeping the pound above its floor.

London banking sources said they felt the loan would be in the form of standby credits which would not affect Britain's trade deficits.

These sources said the loan indicated that foreign bankers think the British government's stringent austerity measures are working. The Labor government has been holding the lid on prices and incomes while making moves to boost exports.

77 Dozen Beer Cans Are Seized

CORUNNA, Ont. (CP) — Seventy-seven dozen cans of beer can beer were seized by an RCMP marine patrol boat Sunday when officers made a routine check on a 17-foot outboard motor boat.

It was the first large seizure of beer made in the Sarnia-Port Huron border area since the beer strike began in Ontario June 21.

Two Sarnia men were questioned when the seizure was made off Stag Island in the St. Clair River near here.

Thomas S. Smith will appear in magistrate's court this week to face a charge of illegal possession of goods illegally imported into Canada.

A second man unidentified was not charged.

The boat carrying the beer was impounded by the RCMP.

Dollar Rate

MONTREAL (CP) — The U.S. dollar in Canadian funds was unchanged at $1.0714. Pound sterling was up 11-16 at $2.56¼.

Yeast Used in Bread Is Harmless

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: What it meant by yeast infection? I have a slight bladder infection and was wondering if it could come from making my own bread (the yeast I use in the bread). — Mrs. M. S.

Yeast infections (of the bladder or other areas) are possible, but this doesn't refer to the useful kind of yeast you use to make bread rise.

The world is plentifully populated with all sorts of tiny forms of life. We lump them together as "micro - organisms." This includes bacteria viruses, funguses, yeasts and a variety of others. Or can you also call any of them "germs"? I suppose, although we principally mean a bacterium or a virus when we use that term.

Not all germs or micro-organisms are harmful. Many indeed are extremely useful to us. For example, there are different varieties of bacteria, as well as other micro-organisms, which are normally and helpfully present in the intestinal tract. They belong there. They are useful.

Only a minority of the known bacteria cause illness. Thus when we develop a harmful infection of some sort, antibiotics are used to prevent the harmful germs from multiplying. This gives the natural defences of the body a chance to overcome and destroy the disease germs.

But, it so happens, antibiotics also can interfere with the useful germs in the body. Hence, after extensive use of antibiotics, sometimes the natural balance of bacteria, yeast, fungi, and other micro-organisms is disturbed and it takes a bit of time for one's digestion to return to normal. Or various temporary disorders of the mouth may at times occur. The proper balance is needed.

Since there are both harmful bacteria and helpful bacteria, by the same token there also are many varieties of fungus, or of yeasts, or of say of micro-organisms. Many are useful; many are harmless; only relatively few are actually harmful or cause disease. (Some yeasts, as well as other micro-organisms do, however, cause a good deal of vaginal trouble, annoying, although of a minor sort so far as a threat to health is concerned.)

There is no point in trying to give you a list of the various yeasts. What is important is to understand that different kinds of yeasts exist, and the kind you use in making bread is one of the many useful types. It is not going to cause yeast infections.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am very seriously thinking of quitting smoking. There are so many things on the market, I would like to know the correct way to go about this. — P. M.

The pills and such, offered to make people stop smoking, are more a psychological prop than anything else, in my opinion. My best thoughts on the subject are contained in my booklet, "Tips on How to Stop Smoking." If you'd like the booklet, send 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of The Chicago Sun - Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 158, Dundee, Ill.

At least you've taken the correct first step; making up your mind to stop.

* * *

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter, 17, was told after an examination that she needed to be circumcised. I didn't know this was done to girls, but my husband says yes, occasionally. Can you advise us? — W. L. C.

It used to be done at times: I have not heard of it being done for a very long time now, and would be very apt to the need of it being done. I would have the girl checked by a gynecologist before taking any further action.

* * *

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

MOLNIYA IN SPACE

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia has launched the ninth communications satellite in its Molniya series, Tass news agency announced Monday. The satellite was sent up Friday to increase facilities for TV, radio and telephone communications with the far northern and far eastern parts of the Soviet Union, the announcement said.

Cities on and Under Water Are Forecast This Century

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — A United States architect predicted Sunday that underwater buildings and inland cities may be built in this century; and called for a "wholesale sacrifice of local government autonomy" to allow full development of waterfront areas.

Patrick Horsburgh of the department of architecture of the University of Notre Dame in Indiana, delivered the keynote address at the eighth annual Stratford seminar on civic design. He is a former chairman of the Hamilton-Wentworth planning area board.

The three-day conference, dealing this year with design of waterfront areas, ends Tuesday.

Text of his speech was released to the press before delivery.

Mr. Horsburgh said he is "much displeased by the general triviality of present urban development plans; it visited harbors, fussy light fixtures, flapping flags and the general flimsiness of the funfair scene will not do."

"The urge for cities to go forward into and on to the water will soon be as great as the forces which constantly oblige their inland expansion," he said.

In addition to rising into the air or penetrating into the ground, buildings must also rise from below the bottoms of bodies of water into the water and air above, he said.

Development of new materials and new systems of construction would allow the development of inland cities.

Actors Join in Appeal For U.S. Gun Controls

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of stage stars stepped into Broadway's Shubert Alley Saturday afternoon and staged a plea for stronger federal gun-control legislation in the United States.

About 1,000 persons stopped to sign petitions urging the Senate Judiciary committee to support such legislation.

Eydie Gorme, currently starring with her husband Steve Lawrence in Golden Rainbow, said:

"I don't understand the National Rifle Association's point of view. Nobody is talking about taking away or stopping the selling of guns. We're only asking that they be registered like cars, or fishermen or drivers."

Others who appeared outside the Shubert Theatre were Joel Grey, starring in George M; Betsy Palmer of Cactus Flower; Robert Goulet of The Happy Time; William Redfield of You Know I Can't Hear You When the Water's Running and Zoe Caldwell of The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Actor Warren Beatty, who starred as a killer in the movie Bonnie and Clyde, stood at home plate before the start of the St. Louis-San Francisco baseball game Saturday and appealed for congressional gun-control legislation.

Beatty was almost drowned out by mixed boos and applause from an estimated 30,000 fans in Candlestick Park. With Beatty was actress Julie Christie, wearing a mini-skirt.

Beatty is chairman of the artists' committee of the Emergency Committee for Gun Controls, headed by former astronaut John Glenn, a close friend of Senator Robert F. Kennedy, who was assassinated in Los Angeles.

9 Trade Unions For New Council

SUDBURY (CP) — Representatives of nine trade unions met here during the weekend to form The Council of Canadian Unions aimed at promoting a strictly Canadian labor movement.

The unions, all independent of the Canadian Labor Congress, are hoping to co-operate with the Quebec-based Confederation of National Trade Unions.

Roy Scranton of Sudbury, representing Local 598 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, was elected council president.

Harry Cooper of Toronto of the Canadian Union of Operating Engineers was named vice-president. R. Kent Rowley of Montreal, representing The Canadian Textile Council, was named secretary.

Each of the unions which include the Pulp and Paper Workers Union of Canada, from British Columbia; the Canadian Electrical Workers Union, of Vancouver; the Bricklayers and Masons Union of Canada, based in Toronto and the Kingston-based Independent Nylon Workers Union, will appoint a delegate to the executive.

Union officials say the combined council membership is 18,000 to 20,000.

Too Early to Discuss RCs in World Council

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — It is too early to discuss Roman Catholic membership in the World Council of Churches, the council's secretary-general, Dr. Eugene Carson Blake said Sunday.

In a comment on the address to the council's assembly here Saturday by Rev. Roberto Tucci of Rome, editor of the Jesuit Journal, La Civilta Cattolica, Blake called the speech "an important event" and a vital contribution to the deliberations of the assembly.

He agreed with Father Tucci's statement that the question of Roman Catholic membership in the council cannot be dodged. But he said it would be premature to discuss it at the Uppsala assembly because ecumenical development is at different stages in various parts of the world.

"If every place were as advanced as the most advanced places, we would be working on it here," he added, in a statement issued by his office.

Dr. Blake said difficulties would be created by an application for membership from the Roman Catholic Church because of its size, location in so many nations as the council's present membership and its "known power in the ecclesiology" or church structure.

Murder Suspect Captured

EDMONTON (CP) — Arthur Keith, 27, captured Saturday morning after a three-day bush search, is in jail awaiting preliminary hearing on a non-capital murder charge in the shooting Wednesday of Frank Buhler, 34.

Keith appeared in court here Saturday but no date was set for the hearing.

Mr. Buhler was shot in his bed in a cottage at Alberta Beach, Alta., early Wednesday, touching off a three-day manhunt in the resort area 45 miles northwest of here.

Keith was arrested at 1:25 a.m. Saturday in Alberta Beach when a policeman in an unmarked cruiser saw him make his way toward a water pump only yards from the cottage where Mr. Buhler was shot.

He was unarmed and surrendered without a struggle.

Jimmie Rodgers Out of Hospital

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Folk singer Jimmie Rodgers left St. Vincent's Hospital Sunday after his third operation in seven months to repair a brain injury.

Rodgers, 34, departed in a wheelchair, accompanied by his wife, Colleen.

His physician, Dr. Henry W. Dodge, said the success of the surgery was excellent, but he did not speculate on whether the singer would be able to resume his career.

A metal plate was placed in Rodgers' skull June 17 to cover an eight-square-inch section removed in a previous operation to relieve pressure on the brain.

Strictly Personal

Man and His Ideas Not Same

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I said of a certain man who has been much in the public eye lately, "He seems a little crazy to me," and I was jumped on by admirers of his viewpoint. "That's because you disagree with him," they protested.

"Not at all," I said. "As it happens, I agree with about 90 per cent of what he says—but I still think he's a little crazy. That has nothing at all to do with his viewpoint."

Most people can't understand this. They think if you agree with a man, he must necessarily be sane and rational; and if you think him irrational, it must be because you are prejudiced against his views.

We seem incapable of separating men from their ideas, or even from discriminating among the different ideas held by the same man. We seem to feel that a man must be accepted or rejected in toto, along with his ideas — but this attitude only makes for difficulties and frustrations, and is sadly unrealistic.

To take a case close to my own heart, I have always been a great admirer of the late G. K. Chesterton, both as a brilliant writer and as an incisive thinker. His biography of St. Thomas, for instance, comes closer to the heart of the man than any dozen learned tomes written by professional theologians.

But Chesterton had several blind spots and bitter hatreds. He didn't like Jews, he dismissed psychoanalysis as an evil fraud, and he espoused a cockeyed economic system called "Distributism." On these three matters, in my opinion, he was irrational and ignorant.

Nevertheless, the bulk of his work is richly rewarding, and I am grateful for that. It is not necessary, or even desirable, for me to agree with everything he wrote, and I would be doing myself a disservice if I rejected his work because of elements that repulse me.

"An idea," Don Marquis once said, "isn't responsible for who believes in it." Many people don't understand that. If the Communists believe something, it is not necessary for me to disbelieve it, simply because I disagree with Communism. Some of Marx's criticisms were very acute, and some were nonsense; it is up to me to separate the two.

Likewise, merely because a man voices a point of view I agree with, I do not have to regard him as either sane or sincere. There are demagogues on my side as well as on the other side; and a crazy man on my side can do it more harm, ultimately, than its enemies can.

"Discrimination" may be a bad word in sociology; it is an indispensable word in thinking — for the art of thinking, as Aquinas tells us, is nothing more or less than "separating" and "combining" ideas and the men who hold them.

Wings Of F-111 Broke

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wings of an F-111 broke off during a ground test for structural strength last January, two months before the controversial U.S. plane was sent to Vietnam, it was disclosed Saturday.

The defense department said a structural repair designed to correct the condition had not been incorporated into the planes sent to the war zone but that they were operating under limitations to reduce the amount of stress.

It said the incident in which the wings broke off involved "an overtest of the aircraft's capability" involving strains far beyond those expected during normal flight operations.

The wing failure in test was brought out April 24 by Senator Carl Curtis (Rep. Neb.) at a closed hearing of the Senate military preparedness subcommittee.

A transcript, censored by the defence department, was made public Saturday.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defence research and engineering, told Curtis that it "when one is making a test on aircraft components, one frequently stresses them to the very limit."

Foster said in a later report to the subcommittee that normal testing required to clear the plane for flight "generally were satisfactory and did not disclose any major structural difficulties."

Beware of Ides of March

Your birthday today: This is a year of dramatic confrontation—and cooperation, with the initiative in your hands. Consistent effort could produce rewards beyond expectations. The pursuit of ideal situations and perfect mates tends to precipitate trouble. Today's natives are inclined to concentrate on social, narrow goals.

ARIES (Mar. 21 — Apr. 19): While business matters improve, romantic interests will not bear pressure at all today. Easy does it!

TAURUS (Apr. 20 — May 20): Today has a promise of the sudden the incomprehensible. See that it is something nice. Short answers will only be regretted later.

GEMINI (May 21 — June 20): Save your money today. Instead of buying things which are not apt to work out, create something that serves your purpose. Avoid squabbles.

CANCER (June 21—July 22): If you must work close to others keep your own counsel. Let nothing in the way of definitive commentary come into your conversation.

LEO (July 23 — Aug. 22): Use your intuition to see beneath the surface actions of your loved ones. Original ideas wait in the wings; relax and let them come into view.

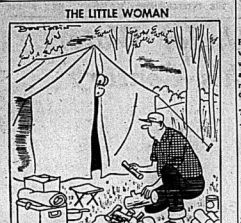
VIRGO (Aug. 23 — Sept. 22): Children or young people tend to be less inspiring, the young bring you joy today. Today, work cheerfully and impersonally; tonight, your hobby.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 — Oct. 22): Everybody is in the act today, and some lines are blurted out. With all the cross-talk you will find it wise to go about your own affairs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23—Nov. 21): Have patience with your emotion. Consider seeking free time. Such time is best used outdoors, watching or performing in sports.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 — Dec. 21): Avoid letting the minor discrepancies of today deep-into open breaches. The financing of group projects is precarious now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 — Jan. 19): Today is indeed mixed up, much like yesterday. This is one of the few days in which strangers are apt to be helpful.



AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 — Feb. 18): Work is plagued with either lack of cooperation or some shortage of observation. Be patience personified: meditation this evening will help.

PISCES (Feb. 19 — Mar. 20): Where you do too much too fast, your welcome wears out. Pace your efforts. This is a day to gather romance while ye may, for those eligible, that is.

Blaiberg Seems Likely to Live

CAPE TOWN (CP) — Dr. Philip Blaiberg, who has survived more than six months with another man's heart, today appeared back on the road to recovery after his second serious setback in recent weeks.

Blaiberg, 58, a retired Cape Town dentist, received intensive treatment with anti-lymphocyte serum Sunday to counter tissue rejection symptoms and an accompanying lung ailment, which had led surgeons to consider a second heart transplant.

His doctors indicated they no longer plan a third heart for him.

Blaiberg's wife, Eileen, said she was told by Dr. Christiaan Barnard, head of Groote Schuur Hospital's heart transplant team, that her husband's condition had undergone a "dramatic change."

"It's as if they had given new life to my husband," she said. "I'm hoping and praying the serum treatment will be successful."

Mrs. Blaiberg visited her husband Sunday and said he seemed much better.

Blaiberg had been gravely ill with hepatitis, double pneumonia and symptoms that his transplanted heart was failing.

A hospital bulletin Sunday night reported "definite improvement" in Blaiberg's condition and said: "His lung condition is improving."

The serum, developed in Denver, Colo., swallows lymphocytes, the body's natural weapon against such foreign invaders as transplanted organs and infection. It has been used successfully during the last two years in kidney and liver transplants to combat the body's tendency to reject foreign organs.

Called ALG, the serum is obtained from horses.

In all, 24 heart transplants have been performed in the world, and seven recipients are still alive, including Gaetan Paris, 49, of Montreal.

Blaiberg received the heart of a colored (mixed blood) man, Olive Haupt, Jan. 2.

Fijian's Employer Aids Him Fight Deportation

EDMONTON (CP) — A 23-year-old Fijian twice ordered deported by the immigration department has been told to appear before a special inquiry officer July 23.

Nisan Ali, a bicycle mechanic and locksmith, was first ordered deported in May, 1967, after he took a job without immigration department permission while in Canada on a visitor's visa. He appealed and the department allowed him to apply for landed immigrant status in Canada.

When he applied for this, Mr. Ali was told he was to leave Canada by June 5 because he lacked the necessary qualifications. He now is appealing this order.

Saturday, he received a letter from immigration authorities explaining why he did not have the necessary "qualifications."

Using a points system, the department said Mr. Ali had eight points for education and training, seven for personal assessment, one for occupational demand, two for occupational skill, 10 for his age, four for language assessment, none for relatives in Canada and four for employment opportunities. The points are based on a maximum of 70.

Mr. Ali's employer, William Pahal—owner of Western Cycle and Hardware in Edmonton—said it was the points breakdown to which he and Mr. Ali take exception.

"I am very much opposed to the four units for employment opportunities," said Mr. Pahal, who added that the scarcity of trained cycle mechanics should increase Mr. Ali's employment chances.

If it is found at the July 23 hearing that he still does not meet requirements, another deportation order will be issued for Mr. Ali, again subject to appeal.

"We will appeal," said Mr. Pahal, "He's not leaving Canada without a fight and we're going to fight all the way."

Forest Industry Talks Break Down

VANCOUVER (CP) — Contract talks in the British Columbia coast forest industry dispute broke down during the weekend as chances of a settlement for 26,000 workers appeared within reach.

The deadlock came Sunday afternoon when company negotiators—representing 114 operators—failed to return to bargaining sessions for further discussions on vacations.

Agreement on wages had been reached—a 36-cent an hour increase over two years. It would raise the base rate from $2.76 hourly to $2.94 now and to $3.12 an hour next year.

International Woodworkers of America spokesman Sunday night issued an appeal to workers to stay on the job today while attempts are made to break the deadlock.

The IWA negotiating team said it will be at the table at 10 a.m. today and expects company negotiators to also be present.

A statement by Forest Industrial Relations Sunday night said the industry has made its final offer. It said negotiations are at an end if the IWA rejects the settlement proposals. The IWA loggers' local has set Wednesday for a strike deadline.

"The union has publicly stated that the industry's wage offer is acceptable, but union negotiators refuse to accept the vacations proposal," said John Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations, which bargains for the companies.

The vacation package provides five weeks vacation after 25 years, four weeks vacation after 15 years, three weeks after four years, and two weeks vacation after one year.

The IWA wants four weeks holiday after 12 years and five weeks after 20.

U.S. Jet Hits Home In Chicago, Girl Dies

GLENVIEW, Ill. (AP) — A U.S. Navy Skyhawk jet crashed into a home Sunday and killed a 13-year-old girl. The pilot ejected and suffered broken legs and a broken arm.

Cynthia Masters was watching television in the den on the first floor when fire caused by the crash engulfed the family's $50,000 two-storey suburban home. Her mother, Jean, was in the backyard cutting the lawn and her father and brother were playing golf at a country club.

Witnesses said the plane, piloted by Lieut. William T. Reinders, a Vietnam war veteran, crashed moments after taking off on a training flight from the Glenview Naval Air Station. It was barely 500 feet in the air when it lost power and began falling.

Reinders, 32, banked the craft sharply, trying to turn back toward the airfield, but it plummetted into the home of Benjamin C. Masters, an acoustical tile contractor.

Reinders ejected and landed in a willow tree behind the Masters home, his parachute snarled in the branches. He was listed in satisfactory condition.

Japanese Office Hit by Bomb

NEW YORK (CP) — A bomb blast blew out the windows of the Japan National Tourist Organization offices in Rockefeller Centre Sunday. It was the second explosion in four days in the fashionable Fifth Avenue area, and the fifth since April 22.

The bomb went off about 4:45 p.m. in the closed tourist office in the International Building, directly across from Rockefeller Centre's outdoor restaurant and half a block from St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Injured were two passers-by —Mrs. Shirley Schwabe, 42, of Portland, Ore., and her daughter, Nancy, 16. A second daughter, Joan, 12, escaped injury. The Schwabes were taken to hospital for treatment of face cuts.

April 22, explosions shattered windows of the Spanish National Tourist Office, 4th St. and Fifth Ave., and the Mexican consulate, at 41st and Fifth. At the Spanish office, police found a red, white and blue sign reading "Cuba Power."

The Spanish office was bombed for a second time June 21.

On the Fourth of July, an explosion rocked the street-level Canadian tourist office at 5th St. and Fifth Ave.

None of the earlier blasts caused injuries, and all were set off during early morning hours.

After the Thursday bombings, the Federal Bureau of Investigation began examining the possibility that political motives lay behind the explosions.

Canada, Mexico and Spain all trade with Cuba and anti-Castro terrorists groups have vowed to retaliate on any country doing business with Castro's government.

Japan also trades with Cuba.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The secret exile terrorist band, Cuba Power, said today that its men had set fire to two plants inside Cuba.

"Cuba Power is fully responsible for the sabotage at Havana's Nico oil refinery and Orgulio's feed factory," the organization reported in a cablegram from Panama.

Havana radio has reported that two persons died, and 13 others were injured in the refinery blaze last Tuesday and that a fire damaged a chickey feed factory in Santiago.

The refinery, Cuba's largest, was taken over by the Fidel Castro regime from Esso Standard Oil Co.

People Sniffers Fooled by Chimps

LONG BINH (AP) — When Lieut. Lyle Jarratt was assigned by the U.S. Army to sniff people his reaction was: "You must be kidding!"

The people sniffer—a machine mounted in a helicopter and called a personnel detector by the army—came to South Vietnam last year.

It detects body odor.

Senior sniffer is Capt. Kerwin Sellers. The other members of the team are Jarratt and Sgt. Forest Sweitzer.

The only thing that can fool the machine, its makers claim, is a chimpanzee. Whether human beings like to admit it or not, the chimp smells just like we do.

Sellers, Sweitzer and Jarratt have been sniffing mostly over the jungles north of Saigon.

They mastered the job through "on-the-job training." There were no manuals on people sniffing when the machines first came out.

Sweitzer says he can now wing over the jungle and personally sniff out Viet Cong cooking fires, foodstuffs and other items, though he doesn't claim to compete with the machines.

The machines are so good ground commanders now demand them.

In the daily press briefing sessions held by the U.S. command in Saigon, the report of "sniffer mission" has become standard and military maps are dotted with "hot spots" that have been sniffed out.

Body Found In River

MONTREAL (CP) — A provincial police spokesman said Sunday an investigation is being conducted into the discovery of a male body in the Richelieu River near here.

The discovery was made Saturday night by two teen-age boys out on the river in row boat, the spokesman said.

The arms of the body had been severed at the elbow, the legs at the knee and it also bore wounds in the back resembling bullet holes. It had been found floating about four miles off Iberville, 30 miles southeast of here.

The spokesman said QPP investigators were trying to establish whether a pair of legs also severed at the knee and recovered from the river near the same spot in May, 1967—are part of the body discovered Saturday.

RYLSTONE — Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Spencer spent Monday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Paul McKeown and Mrs. Thomas McKeown and their guests, and Mr. and Mrs. John Duncan, of Hamilton, who have recently returned from a trip to the British Isles and the Continent.

Metal Workers' Strike Is Ended

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — London's striking sheet metal workers and roofers voted Saturday to return to work.

The strike, which started May 8, has tied up construction projects in London and St. Thomas valued at $50,000,000.

About 240 sheet metal workers and 70 roofers, who joined the strike May 29, voted to accept a contract offer granting pay raises of $1.60 an hour by the end of the three-year agreement.

The agreement with the 10-member Sheet Metal Contractors Association will bring the hourly rates to $3.70 for sheet metal workers and $5.92 for roofers by May 1, 1970. Under old contract, which expired April 30, they were paid $4.10 and $3.42.

Drum Corps Compete

BRANTFORD (CP) — Toronto Optimists, Canadian junior drum corps champions for the last three years, were dethroned Saturday night in competition with Toronto de la Salle.

Toronto de la Salle scored 77.13 points out of 100 and Toronto Optimists 76.93.

Third place went to the Otawa de la Salle cadets with 73 points.

Tonight, take your last hot drive. Head for a nearby American Motors dealer and take a long cool test drive in an air conditioned Ambassador. Check the full range of models available for immediate delivery, then check the price.

And when you do, remember this: a car without air conditioning is under-equipped by about $400—and that's as good-as being $400 over-priced!

Ambassador by American Motors is the only full-size popular-priced car that's fully equipped with free air conditioning.

PM Hushes His Cabinet

OTTAWA (CP) — Nobody's christened it yet but perhaps the latest parliamentary gambit might be termed the Hill Hush.

Prime Minister Trudeau unveiled his style of shushing at a Parliament Hill news conference Monday.

He told reporters after the first meeting of his new cabinet that he had warned his ministers to observe the traditional rules of cabinet secrecy and solidarity.

Ministers have always taken oaths not to reveal what takes place at cabinet meetings. Still leaks have occurred and Mr. Trudeau made it clear he has adopted a tough stance on loose-lipped ministers.

"I told them I might tolerate one mistake if it is not too serious, but not two."

He said the cabinet, sworn in Saturday, spent considerable time discussing secrecy and the importance of keeping a united public front on policy.

He told reporters he had warned the cabinet "to be very careful not to tell outside cabinet what went on inside cabinet . . ."

Johnson To Meet Thieu

SAIGON (AP) — President Johnson has agreed to meet President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam in Honolulu about July 20, Thieu's office announced today.

The meeting is a substitute days, and the two leaders will discuss the Vietnam war and the Paris talks between the United States and North Vietnam.

The meeting is a substitute for a two-week state visit to the United States which Thieu had planned to make late in July. He postponed it Monday, saying he couldn't be away from Vietnam that long because of the threat of a new major Viet Cong offensive.

Arson Charge Laid by Police

By HARRY MULHALL, Staff Reporter

Police this morning charged Peter Gilbert, 32, of Jones Street in Belleville with arson following a fire last night which threatened a hulking relic of the city's residential past.

Gilbert was arrested last night among spectators watching firemen fight the second alarm within hours at 101 Front Street.

Fire damage was light in both outbreaks, but smoke and water seriously affected the building, raised nearly 150 years ago. Police officials said this morning they are also searching for a second individual in connection with the fire.

Just before the last alarm was turned in, two men were reported by police to have been seen fleeing the building.

The first incident occurred in mid-afternoon when police dashed to the building when fire was spotted by men working nearby.

The blaze was minor and burned part of a wall and chesterfield in the only occupied portion of the big old building — the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Hillier.

The apartment was empty at the time. Mr. Hillier, 59, had been admitted to hospital Sunday and his wife was working at a Sürling shoe factory.

Fire Chief Ted Poste blamed the fire on a short circuit.

More than three hours later, smoke was spotted pouring from the opposite end of the building.

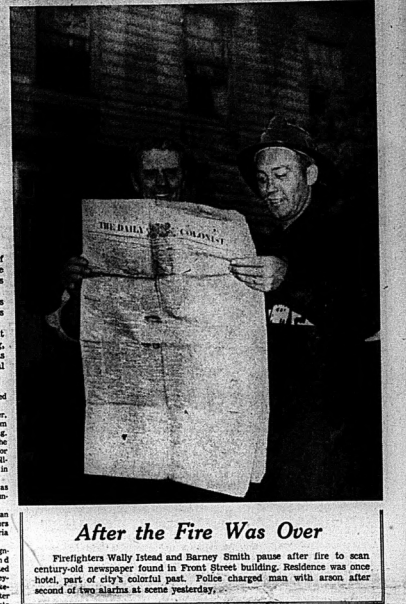
Firemen rushed back to the scene and this time fought for nearly an hour before controlling the outbreak — located in a basement corner.

Minutes before the fire was spotted, two men were seen running from the building.

Police later picked up a man among a crowd of spectators watching firemen from Victoria Park.

The building was first designed as a hostelry in 1820 and built by John Simpson. Located near the wharf area in the heyday of water commerce it likely did a booming business. Later it was converted to a private dwelling for a family named Wallbridge.

Firemen's efforts to quell last night's blaze revealed some memorabilia of the building's halcyon days. Newspapers of the 1850s came to light, some with the subscribing Wallbridge name still intact.



Its present owner was identified as Mrs. Herbert Belsey, nee Sen William Belsey, said last night he did not immediately know what decision might now be taken on the structure's survival.

Pulp and Grain Trade Strikes May Commence

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — Strike is the name of the game in northwestern Ontario and the impact of the labor unrest may be felt nationally.

In Fort William-Port Arthur, the building trade unions have gone out in a wage dispute that has tied up $20,000,000 in construction projects.

Since last Wednesday, in another wage impasse, 800 United Auto Workers members have been on strike at the Canadian Car Co. plant.

Today should bring decisions to two other labor fights, both with national implications. One will be an announcement of endorsement of strike action by approximately 1,300 terminal grain elevator operators in Fort William-Port Arthur.

Their walkout would close the 26 Lakehead terminal elevators. The immediate result would be an embargo on rail shipments of grain from country elevators in Manitoba and most of Saskatchewan.

Direct overseas clearances of grain from the Lakehead have been blocked since the St. Lawrence Seaway strike started June 21.

The other dispute, which would be felt nationally if it comes to a walkout, involves 15,000 pulp and paper company workers.

Their union representatives are working on a unified plan of action in the face of what spokesmen describe as an adamant, no-give stance on the part of management.

Union strategy meetings are being attended by 120 delegates representing 56 locals in the Central Canada Council of Pulp and Paper, Mill Unions.

Membership of the unions is drawn from employees at pulp and paper companies in northwestern Ontario plus one at Pine Falls, Man., and another at Beaupre, Que.

Regional giant is Abitibi Paper Co. Ltd. with two operations in Port Arthur and other Ontario plants at Fort William, Sault Ste. Marie, Sturgeon Falls and Smooth Rock Falls. Pine Falls and Beaupre also are Abitibi towns.

Other Ontario communities involved are Thorold, Port Frances, Kenora, Red Lake, Terrace Bay, Marathon, Kapuskasing and Espanola.

Abitibi towns are closest to settlement. Only ratification is needed and the result should be known within the week.

Strike votes have been taken in Kenora and Fort Frances, sites of Ontario-Minnesota Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. plants. Union security and wages are the key issues. Ontario-Minnesota is a subsidiary of Boise Cascade Corp.

De Murville Likely Premier

PARIS (Reuters) — Maurice Couve de Murville will be named premier when George Pompidou, premier for the last six years, hands the resignation of his present government to President de Gaulle Wednesday, well-informed government sources said today.

Kierans Studies Postmen's Demands

OTTAWA (CP) — The new postmaster-general, Eric Kierans, conferred with his department officials Monday night on the nation-wide postal dispute and possible courses of action.

Mr. Kierans was sworn into Prime Minister Trudeau's cabinet Saturday—at a time when the Council of Postal Unions is threatening a mass strike.

Earliest possible strike date is Wednesday, July 17.

A conciliation board now conducting closed hearings into the dispute has to issue a report Wednesday. If the unions reject this report, they can legally go on strike seven days later.

Said Rick Otto, acting co-chairman of the 24,000-member council:

"We are really expecting very little from the conciliation board."

The board, headed by Prof. Andre Desagne of Laval University, Quebec City, has been listening privately to the arguments of the unions and of the treasury board, which negotiates for the federal government.

Direct negotiations between the unions and the treasury board broke off in April after three months of fruitless bargaining.

Basic wage rates now are $2.75 an hour for postal clerks and $2.63 for letter carriers.

Details of the union demands have not officially been disclosed. But union sources outside Ottawa have said they are seeking a pay increase of 70 cents an hour.

Told She's Pregnant, Woman Shoots Intern

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police have charged Sang Rose Wu, 30, of Toronto with attempted murder in connection with the shooting Monday of a hospital intern who told her she was pregnant.

Deputy Chief G. B. Simmonds today said the charge of attempted murder has been laid and the woman now is in custody under police guard at St. Michael's Hospital.

"The charge has been processed through the court but she has not been served with the writ or cautioned because of her condition," he said.

Four hours after the shooting, the woman gave birth to a seven-pound boy.

Dr. Anthony Tripodi, 24, of Hamilton, who treated the woman, was hit in the arm, abdomen, ear and back.

Police said the woman, who gave a Toronto address, entered the hospital complaining of pains. Examination revealed she was pregnant and she was moved to the maternity ward.

About four hours later Dr. Tripodi went to examine her and the patient whipped out the revolver, which had been hidden under the blankets of her bed.

A nurse rushed into the room after hearing the shots, screamed for help and Dr. John Schonblum hurried in to find the woman still trying to fire the empty gun.

She was reaching for more shells from her purse when Dr. Schonblum overpowered her.

Aussie Gives Up

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) — Wallace Mellish, who held police at bay for eight days by threatening to kill his wife and baby, put down his guns today and surrendered because, he said, he wanted to join the Australian Army and fight in Vietnam.

The 23-year-old ex-convict walked quietly from his besieged house with their 13-weeks-old son in his arms. His wife Beryl, 19, walked by his side.

More than 100 police were dug in around the suburban house for the bizarre siege, during which Mellish used his threats to force police to let him marry Beryl, his long-time girl-friend, and then to obtain a high-powered rifle to add to his armory.

Away We Go for Another Year!

Belleville's playgrounds swung into action yesterday, with youngsters thronging all 21 outdoor centres in ideal weather. They all had that feeling of first-day exhilaration, demonstrated by 9-year-old Kenny Kingsman as he tried out slide at Parkdale playground. Kenny is only one of 1,800 who've registered for outdoor fun and recreation this year.

Daffodils Bloom In July

It's April in July in the garden of Mrs. Ivan Wright, 42 Forin St.

Or is it September in July?

Any you look at it, Mrs. Wright's plants have their season mixed. A King Alfred daffodil, whose companions finished blooming in April, popped into flower this week, to keep company with the dahlias, which shouldn't begin to flower until September.

The maverick daffodil has normal foliage and flower, but a stunted stem. It grows in full sun in the midst of conventional bulbs of the same species which bloomed earlier than usual this year.

Lloyd Syer, city parks' director, said today he could think of no environmental conditions which would retard the bulb's blooming until this late date.

"There is a possibility that bulb might be a 'sport', which could become the ancestor of a new species of daffodil." If the bulb repeats its freak blooming next year, Mrs. Wright may really have something," he said.

Mrs. Ivan Wright cultivates around the mixed-up daffodil in her Forin Street garden which came into bloom this week, more than two months after its companions of the same species had finished flowering.

Ameliasburg Museum Popular

AMELIASBURG — The new township museum has put this village on the map.

Lately there's been times when cars lined main street on both sides in the vicinity of the historical centre.

Since the museum was officially opened a week ago last Sunday close to 1,000 visitors have signed the curator's guest book.

The interest in the township's early history has appealed to tourists from as far away as Belfast, Ireland as well as a number of strangers from several of the United States. Canadians from Ontario and Quebec centres are also making tours of the premise.

One day last week a bus loaded with exchange students from British Columbia stopped at a time when it is normal for the village to be quiet and void of any vehicular activity.

It was a break in the life of this rural community that one looked for before the museum opened unless there was a major event like a big fire or the annual meeting and election of officers of some local women's group.

Ameliasburg which thrived in the early days may be coming back into its own because of the wealth of keepsakes township pioneers bequeathed their descendents.

Reeve Rodgers Says . . .

Religion, Education Not Combination

Religion and education are no working combination within the Ontario school system, Hastings County Council was told today.

"One should be confined to the church — the other to the school", Stirling reeve Donald Rodgers bluntly told fellow councillors as they convened today for a mid-summer session that seems headed for much debate on education.

His remarks came as council heard presentation of a committee report outlining county representation on the new county-wide education board system being readied for introduction in Ontario next year.

The report of council's educational committee suggested the divides Hastings County into six wards with seven representatives. It tells Belleville would have five representatives and Trenton two, under the new system. Separated schools in the county also would have two representatives.

But, Reeve Rodgers told council, he is concerned for the future of public school education in Ontario if it continues segregated along religious lines.

Roman Catholic schools were not the only ones involved, he emphasized. The Protestant faith also has various religious communities.

The points area already has Dutch church schools and United Church schools, he added.

"I don't know how far you can extend these privileges — and there'll be a demand for support," said Reeve Rodgers.

"But the same token there are a number of people who are atheists in this country — and are being forced to pay for religious education that they object to."

He views believed that religion could be provided as an option within the education system, giving all faiths the same consideration.

His said people were reluctant to discuss the issue.

But, added Reeve Rodgers, he was "sure there are many people of different faiths who believe this and are not content to forward and saying so".

The report presented by education committee chairman Mrs. Barbara Allan, reeve of Tweed, based school board representation on geovincial equalized assessment figures, ensures two members for the sparsely-populated North Hastings area. Thurlow township has one representative and Sidney township including Frankford and Stirling, two members.

A preoccupation of the committee was to ensure adequate representation for the northern municipalities, emphasized Reeve Allen.

Ward boundaries also were deliberately devised to leave municipalities intact, she said.

The report also recommends that Belleville be one separate school zone electing its own representative while the second separate school member be elected by Trenton and the rest of the county.

The committee also has discussed the possibility that Bancroft and Maynooth separate school zones be included in neighboring Peterborough County. Such an administrative move does not seem logical, said Reeve Allen.

The report will be debated further today after the noon-hour recess.

Following are the municipalities included in each proposed with the number representatives in brackets:

Ward 1 — Bangor, Wicklow, McClure; Herschel, Monteagle, Carlow, Dungannon, Mayo (1).

Ward 2 — Bancroft, Faraday, Wollaston, Limerick, Tudor and Cashel (1).

Ward 3 — Madoc township; Elzevir and Grimsthorpe; Madoc Village; Marmora and Lake; Marmora Village; Deloro, Rawdon (1).

Ward 4 — Huntingdon, Tweed, Hungerford, Tyendinaga, Deseronto (1).

Ward 5 — Thurlow (1).

Ward 6 — Sidney, Stirling, Frankford (2).

Foreign Beer at LCBO Last Until Strike End

TORONTO (CP) — Foreign beer released for sale this week by the Liquor Control Board of Ontario is the last the province's drinkers will get until after the beer strike, a union spokesman warned today.

LCBO outlets ran out of imported brands shortly after a strike by brewery and warehouse workers here. Only a trickle of supplies of Ontario-brewed beer June 21.

Now the board has released a further 40 imported beers to its outlets, along with 6,000 cases not delivered until now because of the St. Lawrence Seaway strike. A stampede of beer buyers is expected to clean out the supply quickly.

Another shipload of 25,000 cases is in mid-Atlantic — the only big supply order.

Harry Simon, spokesman for the 2,700 striking members of the United Brewery, Flour, Cereal, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America, said:

"This beer is the great summer import of beer from Europe, and was already ordered before the strike started. We don't object to that, and we'll make no attempt to interfere.

"But now that it's ordered now that the strike is on, we'll do everything we can to stop it.

"I know we'll have the support of the longshoremen and warehousemen declared it hot cargo. They've refused to handle strike-breaking cargo before, and its legal."

Meanwhile, another issue has been added to the union's dispute with the Ontario breweries and Brewers' Warehousing Ltd. Management has refused to give the workers their vacation pay until after the strike.

Mr. Simon said the union has written to the companies involved asking that the men be paid.

"If we don't get satisfaction, we'll ask the labor relations board for leave to prosecute," he said.

The employers have promised to re-instate the workers' vacations after the strike.

"The union's objection to this is very simple," Mr. Simon said. "This vacation money was earned last year. The vacation anniversary date is May 1 each year. The men earned the money before May 1, and are entitled to it now."

He said the men's vacations were scheduled months ago, and have rented cottages. Now they don't have any money.

"The employers are just taking advantage of the situation. This is a squeeze play — they're trying to starve the men out.

"It's not as if the men are doing anything illegal. This is a legal strike — a lockout, actually."

When negotiations broke down, management's proposals and benefit improvements worth $1.25 an hour. Management offered 85 cents.

Co-op Leader Dies

LA GRANGE, Ill. (AP) — Carlyle M. Hodgkin, 58, managing editor of the Co-operative Consumer, now known as Farmland, from 1947 until 1963, died Monday.

Strike Not Possible Before Friday: Mayor

TRENTON — A fast brewing strike by the town's Public Works employees will come to a boil before the end of the week.

One way or another it will be settled.

Mayor James MacDonald last night said there will be a special meeting of town council to discuss the situation.

The mayor added he wanted to hold this meeting before he gave any statement concerning his action on the situation.

"I want to talk to council and get their views on it," was the way he put it.

It was clear the meeting would be held before the legal strike date which the mayor believes to be this coming Friday.

The earliest legal strike date falls seven days after the conciliation report has been tabled.

However a union spokesman said that a strike will come by Wednesday unless "council faces its responsibility."

The spokesman has demanded council "do the job they were elected for."

2,600 Tour Museum

More than 2,600 people have toured Hastings County Museum since it re-opened May 17.

Among this number were pupils from 52 schools who visited the museum as part of their history course.

At a recent board meeting, historical society directors approved plans to set up a display of farm implements and tools at Belleville Fair in August.

Youth, Juvenile Are Charged

A 16-year-old youth, Patrick Cornelius Crosbie, of Belleville, and a juvenile have been arrested and charged with breaking, enter and theft, a Belleville city police spokesman said this morning.

According to police chief, Donald Yearwood of the Belleville police was making a routine check at the Orange Hall on Victoria Street, when he saw two male persons running from the building.

Chief Crosbie stated that a quantity of pop and potato chips were taken from the hall.

The display will attempt to bring alive the story of 19th century farming.

The county has been blanketed with 600 posters drawing the attention of residents and visitors to the museum's 41 attractions.

Other society activities planned for the future are weekend excursions to the museum in Shelburne, Vermont and to Dundurn Castle in Hamilton.

A Smoky Problem

Firemen work to extinguish blaze at one of Belleville's oldest homes yesterday. One man has been charged with arson as a result of police action following the fire.

The Fire Scene...

This was the scene on Front Street yesterday afternoon as firemen were called out twice to the same residence. On the first call, fire chief Ted Poste thought the cause of the blaze was a short circuit. Following the second call police charged a man with arson.

Trustees Raise

Members of the Hastings county school board, to go into operation next January, will probably receive higher honorariums than do present trustees.

But no one is able to predict the amount of the increase.

Under legislation introduced yesterday, some Ontario trustees will double their honorariums under the new county-wide board set-up.

Toronto trustees, now eligible to receive $150 a month, will be able to collect $300 a month next year.

Now, members of both Belleville Public School Board and Bay of Quinte District High School Board are eligible to receive $90 a month.

The amount is based on average daily pupil attendance. Both boards fall into the 3,000 to 6,000 average daily attendance category.

However, members have never paid themselves the full amount to which they are entitled.

Public school board trustees have always refused an honorarium for their services.

At the rate of $90 a month for each of the eight trustees and an extra 25 per cent of his trustees' honorarium, or $180 a year, for the chairman, the trustees save $5,940 of board money each year by refusing an honorarium.

Although high school trustees are entitled to $60 a month, and 8 mileage, the board's policy has been to pay for meetings attended and mileage.

Last year, the board paid a total of $5,940 in trustees' honorariums to the then 17 trustees and six non-trustee members of the advisory vocational committee.

Next January, the Hastings county board will have about 17,000 students, both elementary and secondary, under its jurisdiction. Trustees will number 16.

Campbellford Rioters

'Bully Boys' Are Fined $250

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP) — Three men called "smallmen big shots" by the prosecution were fined $250 each Monday on charges of unlawful assembly laid before the Riot Act was read here April 13.

Crown Attorney Geoffrey Bonnycastle, who called the Campbellford trio "bully boys," urged Magistrate R. B. Baton of Peterborough to jail Wayne Outwater, 22, Denis Ketcheson, 21, and Steven Foster, 20, with option of a fine.

They were charged after they threatened Police Chief Samuel Baird while he was doing off-duty work at a theatre.

Six other Campbellford residents were fined a total of $700 on charges of unlawful assembly and 13 youths and a girl were remanded to later this month on a variety of charges arising from the incident.

Peter Evergreen and Robert Kelly, both 25, and Joseph Kelly and Wayne Wiidman, both 21, were each fined $150 or 30 days in jail on charges of unlawful assembly.

James Reynolds and Eugene Parcells, both 21, were fined $50 and costs on the same charge.

Chief Baird testified during their trial that he was harassed and cursed by the three for four hours before they were arrested.

After the three were jailed, provincial police were called on to help keep order when a mob converged on the police offices demanding their release. It was then the Riot Act was read.

Campbellford is 25 miles east of Peterborough.

Hastings Historic Building Inventory to Be Compiled

An inventory of historic buildings in Hastings county gets under way today with the arrival in Belleville of two University of Toronto students to assist in the survey.

The Hastings inventory will form part of a national inventory, now under preparation by the federal department of northern affairs and national resources.

W. S. Goulding, professor in the faculty of architecture at the University of Toronto, is in charge of the project, and R. C. Greig of Belleville has been appointed to head the Hastings county portion of the work.

Every habitable building, house, church, shop, town hall and court house that is still usable, and that was built before 1855, will be recorded.

A terminal date of 1855 was set because it marked the coming of the railways and the transition from local craftsmanship to standardized building with manufactured materials shipped from large production centres.

The purpose of the survey also feel the mid - nineteenth century marked a decline in architectural taste.

"In some countries of Europe and in a few American states, a thorough record of historic buildings has been made," Mr. Greig said.

"As a result, if a new city development is to take place, if a highway is to be changed, or if one of these buildings starts to fall down, some action can be taken on the basis of the record."

"Without the record, it is difficult to take effective action to save a building, and if the building is destroyed, the community loses a piece of its identity and history and is the poorer for that loss."

The students, accompanied by local residents with a knowledge of the history of their area, will travel all the old roads in the county and early streets in each community, looking for old buildings.

They will record the type of architecture and construction of each building, date of construction, name of the original owner and the original use.

The survey teams will take two pictures of each building for inclusion in the records.

The two students will spend 10 days in the county, but it is expected work on the inventory by interested local residents will continue during summer.

Prince Edward County was surveyed last summer and an inventory compiled. Hastings County Historical Society compiled a similar inventory of Belleville buildings several years ago under Mr. Greig's direction.

Tenants' Tax Rebate: Payment by December

TRENTON — The Department of Municipal Affairs will be being informing Trenton residents of their upcoming shelter grant this fall.

Landlords will pay the grant by cash or cheque to their tenants before December 31.

For homeowners the grants will take the form of credit on their municipal tax bills.

The municipal assessment notices, aside from confirming the shelter rebate, will do the same for school support along with ensuring that the individuals name will appear on the voters' lists.

Letters were sent out yesterday informing residents of the DMA order.

The basic exemption for a Trenton homeowner, amounts to $59.40 for a year. Fall the full year tenant there is no need to apply for the grant as the onus is on the landlord to see that he gets his money.

The province will pay about $150-million in these tax reductions totalling 12½ percent of all residential property taxes.

The provincial government will reimburse the municipalities for the amount, of tax credit paid to owners.

Hospital Won't Follow Kingston's Example

Belleville General Hospital has no intension of following a Kingston example by operating its own ambulance service.

The new departure was set by Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, which recently announced intentions of inaugurating its own service within the next two months.

The Hotel Dieu plan was made possible through recent Ontario legislation.

John Kunetsky, assistant administrator of Belleville General, emphasized there were many complications to operating such a service.

Private ambulance companies already are providing excellent service in the area, he said.

(There are two ambulance companies in Belleville, one in Trenton).

"We have good service now," said Mr. Kunetsky. "Why should we ask for more headaches than necessary."

THE MISSING HALF

Fifty per cent of American children up to age 15 have never visited a dentist.

Tourism Requires Public Support

Tourism, an industry that is not easily identifiable, is one nevertheless in which everyone can participate and which everyone can support, according to Colin McDonald of the Ontario Department of Tourism and Information.

Mr. McDonald told Belleville Rotarians yesterday that tourism suffers for lack of general public support of its programs. As a government-sponsored operation, his department also has to compete for support with other government agencies.

Citing 1967 and Expo as the period of Canada's greatest progress in the tourist field, Mr. McDonald urged greater public involvement to help boost the industry still further.

The problem of getting across the facts about Ontario in the United States is extensive, Mr. McDonald said. How would the name "Moosonee" strike someone in Chicago? Would he eat it . . . wear it or what?

And this, despite the fact that last year every major U.S. magazine featured Canada — and not only Expo but Stratford, Old Fort Henry and other attractions.

Mr. McDonald said Ontario Minister of Tourism and Information, James Auld, has established an inter-departmental committee to assess the degree in all forms of recreation.

He described it as a "master tourist plan" that would place the province ahead of other parts of Canada and the United States in the tourist sphere.

The speaker included in his presentation the screening of the award-winning film on Ontario, "A Place to Stand."

Construction Totals $830,000

Building Starts Jump

Building starts in Belleville for the month of June are up considerably over those for the same month last year.

Construction totalling $830,995 began last month, compared with a total of $103,995 for the same period last year.

Construction began on 20 new residential units with a value off $306,000. Last year's total was six units, valued at $84,500.

A warehouse and factory at 35 Wilson Ave. is under construction by Development Assistance Belleville Ltd. at a cost of $94,500. No industrial starts were made last year.

Building of the Salvation Army Citadel on Victoria Ave. and the auditorium at the fair grounds added $200,000 to the new construction total.

Repairs and alterations to government and institutional buildings, begun in June, total $244,900.

Other construction that got underway in June, with the figures for June of 1957 in brackets, are: residential alterations and additions, $5,700 ($12,570); garages and car ports, $7,395 ($1,500); repairs to commercial buildings, $17,500. ($5,235.)

Nasser's Comeback

One of the strangest comebacks in the international leadership stakes is that of Egyptian President Nasser.

His military forces shattered by Israel's lightning campaign last summer, Nasser was reported then to have offered to resign. His stock at that time could scarcely have been lower. For weeks the Egyptian leader had been threatening to march on Israel, aided by the combined forces of neighboring Arab states. For Israel the breaking point came with Nasser's blockade of the Gulf of Aqaba, cutting off its access to the Red Sea. In the six-day war that followed the Arab armies were swept aside.

From Nasser's standpoint a greater humiliation could hardly be imagined. Yet if time has not healed the wounds, Nasser is still very much in charge. Such was his stature and popularity in Egypt and his influence among the other Arab nations, that he was able to weather the obvious threat to his position.

In this he was bolstered considerably by the Soviet Union. The latter sent naval forces to the Mediterranean and re-equipped Egypt's defeated forces. Now there is word that Egypt has offered to take back a United Nations peacekeeping force on its soil as part of an Arab-Israel settlement. This is another concession Egypt must have found difficult to make, since it was on the Cairo government's request that the Canadian and other international UN troops were withdrawn just before fighting broke out between the Arabs and Israelis.

As the author of his own misfortune last summer, Nasser, who last week was in Moscow for talks with Soviet leaders, must often ponder the ironies of history and the disastrous errors of political judgment that led to his country's defeat last summer. He must also realize that were it not for the support of Russia, and the absence of any other strong figure on the Egyptian political scene, he would today be just another forgotten personality in the intriguing realm of international politics.

Growing Up

A verse from what might be regarded as the "square" old days comes to mind with regard to today's younger generation and their apparent inability to amuse themselves — or better still, find something useful to do.

Teach us delight in simple things,
In mirth that has no bitter springs,
Teach us to rule ourselves alway,
Controlled and cleanly night and day.

Rudyard Kipling wrote those lines and if they sound off key in these modern, swinging times, they nonetheless are of value in an era when initiative in the young seems lacking and the mod cult in music and clothes and conduct is but a mask for a vast emptiness and even loneliness.

Elsewhere on this page today a Deseronto woman writes on the dilemma of the young. On the one hand there is the sense of alienation that separates many of them from their parents. Perhaps it is because the parents lose touch early on when they should be vitally involved in the upbringing of their youngsters — teaching them not only simple skills and initiative but also how to find "delight in simple things."

If the young people themselves, alienated or otherwise, can manage to break down their problems, doubts and anxieties, even their lack of communication with the adult world, and think positively, then there might be fewer walking aimlessly along Front Street, standing around in the same groups and even sitting on any handy set of steps.

Meanwhile, today's letter offers some good advice on how to start young people on the path to useful lives and at the same time how to keep in touch with them. Communication, so advanced in the technological sphere, sadly is conspicuous by its absence between young and old.

If such advice does not appeal to those who prefer to lounge around the mod circuit, pursuing a largely idle existence, that is their bad luck. But they, along with young people everywhere, might do worse if they read some other lines of Kipling's. They might be inspired to some greater undertakings. And the poem? It is called, simply "If."

Japanese Forge Ahead

The emergence of Japan as a major industrial nation and a producer of quality goods has been one of the most spectacular facets of the post-war period. In one sphere alone — auto production — output has risen to the point that Japan now ranks second only to the United States.

Production of vehicles last year, according to The Canada Japan Trade Council, reached a high of 1,375,000 passenger cars and 1,771,000 commercial units. Of these more than 562,000 were sold abroad.

Last year, moreover, marked the first time that Japanese production surpassed 3,000,000 units for cars and trucks.

PC's Election Advisers Were Eager But Inept

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Add post-postmortems:

You would have thought that the Conservatives might have taken a lesson from those Tory Pearson years of minority government.

But no.

They had seen Lester Pearson's "new politics" work and elected them, fall through four elections to produce the elusive majority with which a government does business.

But having seen all that, the Conservatives went for the same crazy kind of "new politics."

They ruthlessly purged the wizard of "old politics," John Diefenbaker, who gave them their greatest-ever taste of 208-seat-majority power — and they discredited all within the party who didn't subscribe to the doctrine of "new politics."

So they put the eggheads in charge.

They called their "thinkers' conference" at Montmorency, where Marcel Faribault proceed the fatal "deux nations" concept of federal Conservatism.

No matter, the exponents of the "new politics" told them, if the "deux nations" freak out produced a backlash in English Canada — it would sew up Quebec, wouldn't it, and what else really mattered?

Then they built themselves their "think tank" here in the Centre Block, using the offices of their MPs, absent on the campaign trail, to accommodate a school of professorial "new politics" types from the university campuses and an accompanying horde of college students.

These were the minds, wise in the ways of "new politics," who would fashion the victory.

Theirs would be the politics to win the votes.

Never mind that few of the students knew enough of the practicalities of politics "new" or old to know a polling station from a comfort station.

They would "think" the Conservatives to power and glory.

Well, you should have been here to see and hear it.

The students, assigned by the professors to "think" housing, didn't know — honest to Stanfield — that there was a housing problem.

How can such an unlikely thing be said of the young eggheads?

On the basis of the captain of the student "think-in" on housing policy calling up some old hands in the Conservative research office here and asking "where and what is the housing problem."

They were told, in full detail, nothing withheld from them.

And they produced the Conservative housing policy, ludicrous to the point that it quickly turned out to embrace four major measures already written into legislation by the Liberal government.

But not, incredibly, before they let Stanfield spell it out on the platform. Then only did they discover, to everyone's embarrassment save their own, that they had him "on-loong" in promise some of the things the Liberals already had done in fact.

Done in Parliament, and with the help of many Conservative Members.

Conservative National Headquarters here — apart altogether from "think tank" on Parliament Hill — was sacked in by a second cloud of young experts in the "new politics," most of them likely working on degrees in political economy or political science.

Those who saw them in action suspect that what they came to research — for election speeches and campaign policy statements — they did well if they managed to look up a name in the phone directory.

Certain it is that when they required firm facts and hard figures that go into the structuring of policy speeches, they didn't know where to look.

They couldn't be faulted for good intentions, energy, enthusiasm and endless drive. All they lacked was know-how.

Lost in a fog, they didn't know where to go and what to do if they got there. And in the organized confusion of the Conservative campaign, there seemed nobody around to tell them.

Unlike the Liberals, it was different.

They had the same swarm of eager young activists buzzing around.

But the pragmatic prime minister and such hard heads around him as Mac Friday extraordinaire, William Lee, shooed them all out where they could do some campaign good.

And that wasn't in any policy "think tank" or underfoot in national campaign headquarters.

It was out in the constituencies where their energy and enthusiasm were usefully harnessed in what was known as "the bleeding knuckle bit," knocking on doors, and even more usefully giving Liberal campaign rallies the look of crowds.

For the winning Liberals it was new "new politics," not the old "new politics" the Tories borrowed from Lester B. Pearson.

Big Wind In Ottawa

Ottawa Journal

The swathe of the Ottawa Valley which was socked hard by that blockbuster of a storm a week ago now has new insight into and fresh sympathy for those parts of the world where hurricane winds are a regular hazard.

Everyone will have his own story of how viciously the storm hit and of the barns and sheds, trees and flowers which came tumbling down — or, miraculously, didn't come down. Those who missed the big wind learned of it all with wonder and incredibility. But the stories are not exaggerated: it was frightening.

Trite as it is to say, this area was fortunate that the storm did not claim many lives and cause many more injuries and much more damage than it did. The accident toll from a "usual" holiday in the area was higher than anything wrought by the winds.

Pollution Hits Rideau

Ottawa Journal

The pollution of the Rideau River at Mooney's Bay is an indictment of man's criminal carelessness in allowing the despoliation of one of the natural beauties of this whole area.

It is far more serious than the loss of one beach. The pollution of the river endangers the health of those living along its banks and makes it repugnant to those who would use it for boating and other kinds of summer regration.

The constellation was revealed in the course of checks made just prior to the opening of the Mooney's Bay beach. The health of the river should be a matter of continuous concern. Water purity tests should be regular and frequent, swim season or not. No public health function is more important than keeping watch on a river which flows through the heart of Ottawa. Ottawa officials should know that.

Do Men Still Rule The Roost ?

Letter to The Globe and Mail

Your correspondent, Sick of Suffragettes, misses the point of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women. However much one may wish to skip over this stage and get down to the hard issues of housing, welfare and children's rights, the fact remains that male politicians, economists and business men, who hold the real power for decision making in this country, will not listen to the truth about these issues from people of little household pets.

Only when women exhibit a sure grasp of the issues, and do not confuse politics with plumbing and welfare with charity, law with straightening out parking tickets and economics with the family budget, will they be listened to with any attention.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

July 9, 1948.

One of the highlights of the recent meeting of the Fair Board was the presentation of an Agricultural Service Diploma to Elmer Sandercock, MPP, past president, for meritorious service to agriculture. Harry Rollins, president of the Fair Board, in making the presentation expressed on behalf of the Fair Board, the appreciation of the Board for the great effort exerted by Mr. Sandercock for Belleville Fair and for agriculture during the past number of years.

July 12 will bring two old friends together, Frank Scrivens now 69 years of age and Jamie Clarke, 74 years of age, were buddies when the famous Belleville Kilties band toured the world in 1904. Frank has come specially from Toronto to be with his old friend.

A list of all available players was put in a hat and the result of the draw will compose four teams to be managed by Walter Gerow, Ed. Thomas Joe Goyer and Allan Meagher. The players must play with the teams with which they were drafted unless a change is agreed to by the four captains. Harry P. Ellis, YMCA physical director was elected treasurer for the league.

Interest Rate Drops

Hamilton Spectator

The easing of the Bank of Canada interest rate from 7½ per cent to 7 per cent, although modest, is a welcome relief. Interest rates have reached such a high level that they are inflicting hardship and are meeting with resistance.

The 7 per cent is what the Bank of Canada would charge if the chartered banks borrowed from it. They seldom do. The rate is therefore the lending bellwether and when it is reduced, the chartered banks reduce their interest charges, just as they increase them when the bank rate goes up.

Interest rates have leapt upward with astonishing speed. A little more than nine months ago, the bank rate was 4½ per cent. It jumped to 5 per cent on Sept. 27, to 6 per cent on Nov. 29, to 7 per cent on Jan. 21 and to 7½ per cent on March 15.

There is still a long way to go before interest rates return to normal. Encouraging is the 10 per cent surcharge on U.S. income tax and a $6 billion cut in the American budget deficit, which promises more responsible spending. A sharper pencil will go over Canada's own spending. Canadian reserves of gold and U.S. dollars are more substantial than they have been for many months, although the result has been produced partly by borrowing from sources as diverse as West Germany and Italy.

Against these hopeful signs for greater stability and consequently lower interest rates, must be set Britain's sorry economic state, borrowing to pay back borrowed money, and harassed with a serious railways strike; the woes of the French franc and the weird and unsatisfactory two - price system for gold which obviously cannot last. Perhaps, after all, even half a point reduction in interest rates is wonderful in the circumstances.

Letters to the Editor

The Dilemma of the Rising Generation

Editor,
The Intelligencer.

I read your editorial about children ad the holidays prompted by a Belleville mother's letter. I wonder why holidays have become such a problem to parents and children. Is it that the parents just don't want the children underfoot?

The holidays are no longer than they ever were, yet there are so many more things to do than there were when we were kids and even when my children were tots and up through teenage.

I just don't understand it. They seem to need so much more attention (publicly). Instead of finding their own amusement or their parents finding it. Parents don't take an interest in their children and teach them that they share the home and should take an interest in it too. They should have a little patience showing the children how to help, both inside and in the yard. They can also take them shopping and teach them how to choose the best article for the money. Some don't want to bother teaching their children but there are many tricks in shopping, like chances in price and quality in materials, and so on. They can help in the mornings and then, weather permitting, have lunch outside. Use trays and let them do the preparing some days. Outside eating saves a mess in the house and they love it.

Also I'm sure many churches have vacation schools without charge, and why can't mothers go with the smaller ones to the park at least one day a week. I did. The kids are more important than a few dishes each day. Any thing knickknacks, use some paper dishes, read a chapter or two from a book to them as they eat. Let them read aloud too and listen—it's god for them.

They'll grow up and you will soon be wishing you had them back again.

Don't think teenage all they want is to be together, so let them find some snacks and have a record hop in your home one week, afterwards let them clean up themselves. There are fine galles for indoors or for lawns if available. There are paint-by-number kits, model kits and fret-work kits. And there are plenty of elderly folk who perhaps would like a messenger at times or some books brought from the library. One mother of tots from a group could have a sort of kindergarten once a week in the morning and let the other mothers free and each take one day a week. It's not hard, a few games, coloring, sing songs and some freshie and cookies. It's also a great joy to listen to each little child.

Kids love water — lots could have a tub in the yard if not near the beach. Also they like to put on their bathing suits if they want and run up and down in it. Children also will play hours on a stool at the sink, doing some dishes or even just washing doll clothes. So they make a mess — it's not that big a job to clean up.

I could go on. Ours had to help around the house and the rest of the time just had a long enough to-do all they wanted to do. We never thought of the city taking care of ours. Are they or the parents no initiative today? Do they want to be continually entertained? If so, then they get no home life at all. Is that really what the parents want?

I couldn't be more pleased when I hear of things for children but I think they are getting far too much attention. Did you ever notice how miserable and sad looking are the ones who get everything, and how smiling and happy lots of really poor kids are?

Editor,

On behalf of the Almonte Athletic Club, the Royal Canadian Legion I wish to commend those students from Belleville and surrounding community, who competed in our Track and Field Meet on July 1. Their, conduct, enthusiasm and eager participation, under the leadership of Mr. Gord Smith, is worthy of the highest praise.

We are convinced that the parents of the participating students, as well as those of Belleville, are justifiably proud of their splendid showing.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

July 8, 1968 . . .

The great British parliamentarian and political writer Edmund Burke died 171 years ago today—in 1797 after living through two great events in the century —the American and French revolutions. The purpose of both ported the American rebels, not on theoretical grounds of the Declaration of Independence, but simply because he felt British rule had gone too far. He opposed the French revolution because he thought it was based on false rationalism and saw the violence involved.

1822—British poet Percy Bysshe Shelley died.

1833—A great fire swept through the city of Montreal, killing more than 100 persons and destroying three-quarters of the city.

Second World War

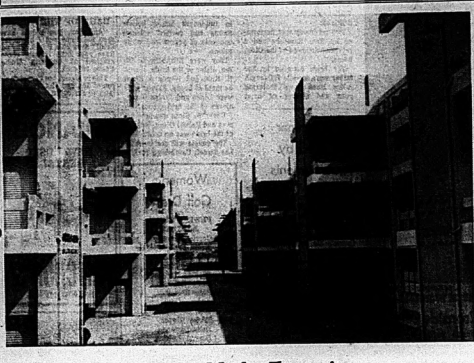
Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—Russian sources announced the Red Army dash from the Volga machine a great blow and had thwarted a German attack on the Kursk front, killing 30,000 Germans, destroying or damaging 1,330 tanks and downing down 628 airplanes in the first three days of fighting; Allied marine and ground patrols pushed forward from the beachheads they established on New Georgia Island to feel out the Japanese defence perimeter around the Munda air base.

Johnson May Be Planning Busy Season of Globetrotting

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The announcement that President Johnson has agreed to meet with South Vietnam President Nguyen Van Thieu this month has increased speculation Johnson plans a busy season of globetrotting.

Tre president returned from Central America Monday only hours before Thieu's office in Saigon announced the meeting planned in Honolulu about July 20.

There already has been strong speculation that Johnson, who made a 41/4-day around-the-world tour last December, might range all over the map during the coming weeks.



There was talk of possible Johnson trips to Africa, Asia, South America and Europe—perhaps even to Moscow—before his term ends.

Wherever he goes, Johnson would be hard pressed to top Monday's record of visiting five countries in seven hours. Starting out in El Salvador, he travelled 1,050 miles to Nicaragua, Costa Rica, Honduras and Guatemala.

He operated a homeward-bound ferrying service for the presidents of the countries who had joined him at the weekend Latin summit in San Salvador.

Each of Monday's stops followed a pattern; Johnson never left the airports, stayed in each country about an hour, exchanged formal speeches with the host presidents and mingled with leading citizens at informal receptions.

The president's purpose in going to Central America was to dramatize progress by the region's seven-year-old common market and point to unfinished tasks ahead.

Manitoba Mine Goes Broke-- Town's Population Drops to 600

BISSETT, Man. (CP) — The adage "good as gold" loses its meaning in this once-prospering south-central Manitoba community.

The town's sustaining industry, San Antonio Gold Mines, is bankrupt and its 100-plus employees are disturbed. Hope remains only for the able-bodied who can, or are willing to, ply their trade elsewhere.

"I'll stay as long as the electricity stays on," said a retired miner who lost part of a lung to silicosis after 25 years in the mine.

The end was not unforeseen.

The mine had been bailed out of financial difficulties before but the death knell was a fire that burned an elevator hoist at ground level and stranded valuable equipment below ground. It would cost $150,000 to build another.

Last week, the company was placed in receivership on an application by Manitoba Hydro, a Crown corporation to which San Antonio built up debts of $118,000 over the last nine months.

Since the beginning of the mine's troubles in 1962, the town's population has slowly dwindled to less than 600 persons from 1,100.

A special co-ordinating committee of the Manitoba cabinet has been established to look after the ramifications of the closure and ensure that essential services in the town are maintained for as long a necessary.

H. L. Stevens, Prairie regional director for the United Steelworkers Union of America, said those who lose their jobs will be offered employment in other mines throughout the province.

He said once miners are hired by other companies, the Canada manpower department will pay moving costs.

Besides the money owed Manitoba Hydro, the company has still to pay $80,000 of a $240,000 provincial government loan used to keep it open in 1962.

Suppliers have been demanding cash on purchases for the last few months.

Acting mine manager Cliff Gibson said the end was obvious when the hoist burned down.

"When we lost the hoist, we lost everything," he said.

Bill Anderson, 64, a former miner, discounts the likelihood of an area nearby being developed for nickel ore as has been suggested.

"They've been talking about that for 10, 12, 15 years," he said. "It's never been developed —there's no chance of that around here."

The town could become a veritable ghost town. Many homes already are boarded up and 20 recently-built company-owned bungalows will "just stand there," said Mr. Gibson.

No one seems to have a solution to the problem of keeping the community alive, and the residents are remembering a gold town to the east on the edge of Long Lake.

It was deserted in 1953 because the company—Ogama-Rockland—didn't have the money to mine the rich ore which still lies in the ground.

Republican Sweepstakes

Nixon Confident of Nomination

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former vice-president Richard M. Nixon says he is confident his primary victories will lead to the Republican presidential nomination, even should public opinion polls favor rival Nelson A. Rockefeller, governor of New York.

Public opinion polls involve only "about 3,000 people across the country," Nixon said Monday, and he said he doubts Republican national convention delegates will be swayed by them.

California Governor Ronald Reagan, meanwhile, brushed aside new talk by Rockefeller of a Rockefeller-Reagan ticket.

"I've made my position very plain," Reagan said. "I'm not interested in the vice-presidency at all."

Rockefeller had said the possibility of such a Republican ticket is "wide open. . . ."

On the Democratic side, Vice-President Hubert Humphrey said he is committed to seeing that all young Americans get "all the education they can take" and adequate food and housing.

In other political developments:

—Some 60 Alabama college students are going door-to-door for petition signatures to get third party candidate George C. Wallace's name on Massachusetts' November ballot.

—Nixon has 501 of the 667 votes needed for a first-ballot Republican nomination and Rockefeller has 182 in an Associated Press survey of delegates pledged, committed or publicly stating voting intentions. Humphrey has 677 of the 1,312 votes needed for a first-ballot Democratic nomination and Eugene McCarthy has 414.

—The Harris survey reports Democratic voters favor Humphrey over McCarthy 48 per cent to 40, but independent voters who were asked to state a choice for the Democratic nomination named McCarthy over Humphrey 54 per cent to 30.

Polluted River Dam Commenced

WOODSTOCK, N.B. (CP) — Damming of the polluted Presque Isle River near Centreville by two Centreville men on two bulldozers began shortly before 10 a.m. today.

The action was a protest against the situation resulting in thousands of dead fish floating across the international boundary from Maine for more than a week.

The damming attempt near the border on the New Brunswick side about 20 miles northwest of Woodstock was at a point where the stream is shallow, about 60 feet wide and three feet deep.

Two RCMP members patrolled the area "in case of trouble" but did not interfere.

Earlier, Robert Caines of Florenceville said the river would be dammed by mid-afternoon "unless the authorities move in to stop us."

Mr. Caines said "countless tons" of dead fish have washed down the Presque Isle from Maine since Monday.

"The water is so bad that we couldn't even use it for firefighting. It would foul our pumps."

The river rises in Maine and flows past Centreville 18 miles northwest of here in western New Brunswick. It joins the St. John River at Florenceville, N.B.

Once a thriving trout stream, Mr. Caines said the river has become "nothing more than a sewer" since an industrial plant opened operations in Maine.

"And we're getting as much support for our protest from across the border as we are on this side."

He said he had "eight bulldozers promised" to begin damming operations this morning.

"Two of them are from Maine. Residents there are just as fed up as we are."

Mr. Caines said the villagers would dam the river in a shallow section of rapids near the United States border.

Dobson's Death Recalls Beaverbrook Disagreement

LONDON (CP) — Sir Roy Dobson's death has recalled a story that he and Lord Beaverbrook had a sharp disagreement over the development of the Lancaster, the great RAF bomber of the Second World War.

Dobson, who died Sunday at the age of 78, was head of the Hawker Siddeley Group between 1963 and 1967. During the war he became enthused, over switching the two-engined Manchester bomber to a four-engined craft but Canadian-born Beaverbrook, minister of aircraft production, was reported unenthusiastic.

Then, according to the anecdote, went out with a truck one night and came back with four Rolls-Royce Merlin engines. When they were fitted, the bomber "flew like a fighter."

Subsequently the Lancs were turned out in hundreds here and in Canada and became one of the most successful planes of the war. Thousands of Canadian flyers swore by them.

The tough Dobson began as a fitter with the A. V. Roe firm in 1914 and later took over most of the planes that company turned out in the First World War. By the time of the Second World War, he was the company's managing director and later took over as chairman of the Hawker Siddeley complex with its extensive string of subsidiaries in Britain and Canada.

He presided over the parent company's controversial decision to shut down the Sydney, N.S., steel plant of the subsidiary Dominion Steel and Coal Corp. last year through purchase by the Nova Scotia government.

If Dobson was ruthless in chopping off unprofitable limbs of the Hawker Siddeley giant, he also could take it when a higher authority was dishing it out.

After the current Labor government came to power, it hit hard at the group by cancelling major aircraft orders. When Conservatives criticized the cancellation, Dobson called them "twerps."

Information Booth Open for Season

TWEED — The Tweed Tourist Information Booth in North America's smallest jail house, will be open to the public from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. from Monday until Saturday. On Friday evening, the booth will remain open until 8 p.m. and will also be open from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday.

The Chamber of Commerce will have 2,000 brochures printed this month, to promote the C. of C.

The proposed leaflet will tell the story of North America's smallest jail house, and promote the Winter Carnival, February 7th, 8th and 9th, 1969, as well as list the names off all Chamber of Commerce members under business heading where this is applicable.

While the Chamber of Commerce operates the tourist information booth in Hastings County, its location is such that the booth serves two tourist regions, the Highlands of Hastings and the Land O'Lakes.

The booth is "manned" by two attractive young women from the district, Miss Dianne Gumming and Miss Ann Alexander, who are in charge of the booth for this year. Both girls are familiar with the district and are only too pleased to hand out any information that might be requested. New literature racks have been built for the booth and there is a great assortment of maps, brochures and other items.

Ban School Rifles

NEW YORK (AP) — The president of the board of education has asked for an end to rifle teams in New York City schools because guns are "clearly an instrument of violence."

Mrs. Rose Shapiro, the board president, said Monday she would ask the board, which meets Wednesday, to end the $12,000-a-year program in 23 city high schools.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

A surprise party was held on June 20th at Alkins Hall, in honor of the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Harder. The guest list included family, friends and neighbors totaling 75 people.

Parish Members Bid Farewell To Ministers

ADOLPHUSTOWN - About 75 members were present when the Adolphustown, Hayburn, Sillsville and Consecon parishioners met at the Adolphustown United Church to bid farewell to their ministers Rev. Ron Pierce and Rev. John Neal, who left the field in charge June 30. Harold Allison acted as M.C. for the evening.

Short addresses were given by both ministers and Rev. Douglas Downing, rector of St. Albans the Martyr Anglican Church, who expressed regret that they were leaving. Both ministers and their families were presented with gifts.

Everyone enjoyed the singsong, games, recitations and good fellowship — especially the refreshments served by the ladies at the close of the evening.

The Pierce family is moving to Spiritwood, Sask. and the Neal family to Beaverton.

First Pastor Honored by Congregation

TWEED - In the community of Vennachar, north east of Denbigh, an unusually large number attended a recent Memorial Sunday, which took on special significance when the first pastor of the Free Methodist Church was singled out for special recognition. Reverend W. H. Gregory, of Verona, Ontario, in his 100th year, came to Vennachar 75 years ago and during the second year of his pastorate gave leadership to the building of a new church.

At the close of his second year pastorate, he married Caroline Briscoe, of Metawachan. Mr. Gregory is in remarkably good health for his years, but did not think it wise to try attending the Memorial Service.

His daughter, Reverand Sara B. Gregory, M.A., was chosen as guest speaker. A special feature was the presentation of the Free Methodist Church of a picture of Mr. Gregory with a brass plaque attached. Along with the picture, was a cash gift of the church of $15.00 in honor of the first pastor. This was given by the people who have lived, or whose parents lived in the Vennachar area: Mrs. Albert Faulk (formerly Sarah Wilson of Vennachar), of Kingston, was the chief promoter of the project.

Lorne Ball of Verona, Ontario, took part in the service which was in charge of the pastor, Rev. W. R. Lobsinger (Mr. Ball is a native son of Vennachar). A generous offering was received to assist with maintenance of the neat, well - kept Vennachar Cemetery.

MR. AND MRS. BARRY H. FLINDALL

Flindall – Ironside

Rev. William Lamb was the officiating clergyman at the wedding ceremony in Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, July 6 at 2 p.m. when Marianne Elizabeth Ironside, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Ironside of Belleville became the bride of Barry Harold Flindall son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Flindall, R.R.4, Trenton.

Traditional wedding music was rendered by the church organist Mr. Argan Macleod, who accompanied the soloist, Miss Elizabeth Woodcock of Belleville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of silk organza over taffeta with a scoop neckline. The sleeves, high Empire waistline and band near the hemline were all edged with Aurora Persian drop lace. The chapel length train attached under the back waist was edged with the same lace. The head piece was a large organza rose with rolled edges of petals attached to a four tiered, elbow length, scalloped illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white glamelias with stephanotis and leather fern.

The maid of honor, Miss Susan Ironside, sister of the bride, was attired in a Capri length gown of chiffon over taffeta. The straight lines of the gown were enhanced by the chiffon petal sleeves which were bell-shaped of Alencon lace finished with bobbin braid and a small self bow. The train attached at the shoulder line was made of matching Alencon lace with bobble braid edging. Her headpiece was a cluster of chiffon leaves with seed pearls in matching Capri Blue attached to a layered shoulder length illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white Shasta daisies, with blue ribbon.

The bridesmaids, Miss Judy Carlisle, Belleville, Mrs. Freda Workman, RR 1, Brighton, sister of the bridegroom and Miss Heather Frazer, Toronto, were attired identically to the maid of honor.

Attending the bridegroom was Mr. Wayne Flindall, Vancouver, brother of the bridegroom; the ushers were Messrs. Donald Gregory, Trenton, Calvman Nobes, Belleville and James Webb, Belleville.

Following the ceremony the reception was held in the church parlor where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a light blue crepe dress with matching lace coat, white ribbon hat, white accessories and a purse corsage of blue and white feathered carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother who wore a pink Irish linen dress with matching jacket, pink hat, white accessories, and a corsage of white feathered carnations.

For the wedding trip to Western Ontario the bride chose a pink sleeveless crepe dress with a white and pink patterned coat of chantilly lace, white chiffon petal hat, white accessories and a corsage of pink Delight roses.

Upon their retun the couple will reside in Scarborough.

U.N. Seminar Attended by Area Students

TWEED — Two students from a Tweed area High School were among the more than 100 students from Eastern Ontario attending a United Nations Seminar held at Queen's University in Kingston.

Miss Marlene LaValley and Evan Shugabeer of Tweed, students at the Tweed-Hungerford District High School, took an active part in the discussions. Marlene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick LaValley represented the United Arab Republic in the Security Council and the General assembly; while Evan represented Pakistan in the Security Council and Iraq in the General Assembly. Evan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Neugebauer.

The seminar, which lasted for four days, consisted of lectures, films, debates, tours, group meetings, Security Council and General Assembly meetings as well as social activities.

As a result of a panel discussion concerning the Human Rights of the Indians, the students got together and signed a petition to Prime Minister Trudeau, in hope that something will be done to assist the Indian people of Canada.

Husband Ignores Own Children; Fusses Over Others

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I have given my husband two lovely children whom he completely ignores, and has no time for whatever. Yet my sister's children he makes a terrible fuss over, fondles them, buys them things (his own have never even had a candy bar from him).

This is not my imagination, as my sister and her husband have remarked on it, and it is causing them a lot of embarrassment.

Also, it is making my children hate their cousins as they say, "Daddy loves them, and not us." I don't know how to deal with the situation. — Heartbroken.

Dear Heartbroken: I know a man who makes a tremendous fuss over the children of his oldest girl but none at all over his youngest son's happy trio. All are fine children in fine families. No sense to it.

Is your husband impressed in some way by your sister and her husband? Are they prosperous, or prominent, or fashionable? It may be he is reacting to a sort of charisma of his own imagining.

He might listen with amazement if you charged him with neglect; yet this being obliviously hurts. It would be a great pity if his boys were to repay him with similar treatment, some 15 or 20 years from now. And they will.

Unless he comes to see the error of his ways. Better lay it on the line before the situation gets completely out of hand.

* * *

Dear Doris: About a week ago I wrote to you asking for information about arts and crafts for a girl's camp in the Canadian North.

I was, frankly, amazed at the overwhelming amount of information and literature addresses you sent to me.

That was the most helpful response I've had from all the places I've written in. Thank you, Doris, and if I ever need help or information again I'll know enough to turn to you first. — Miss J. L. C.

Dear Miss J. L. C.: Bless you for writing to say so. You've made my day!

* * *

Dear Doris: I have been going with this certain guy for three months. I feel that I no longer love him. He broke up with a girl he had been going with for a year to take me out.

How can I get them back together? I know he still likes her because he talks about her from time to time.

I do not want to make enemies with him because his parents and my parents are the best of friends. — Ferne.

Dear Ferne: I can't quite see your even trying to manage his future as well as yours. You might tell him his old steady wants him back — if you know that she does — but don't invest in the idea.

Keep straight with yourself and him. This is the friendly, honest thing. Of course, if you have already declared you love him, he may wonder a little about what the word means to you. I do.

Kitchen Tested Recipes

An Excellent Addition to Veal

By MARY MOORE

This meal grew as the number of people coming for dinner increased.

It is a shining example of my sister Peady's ability to rise to the occasion.

What she had on hand and intended to use as the basis of her meat dish was 1¼ lbs. of stewing veal. Then the telephone rang. Result: two more guests for dinner. That made six in all. How to stretch that veal? In her freezer compartment she found a package of fresh frozen shrimp. Would they combine with veal? Sure.

It was wonderful and two guests came back for small "seconds".

PEADY'S VEAL AND SHRIMP RAGOUT

(Serves 6)

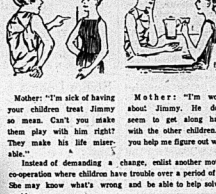
1¼ lbs. stewing veal cut into 1" cubes
2 tbsps. margarine (or butter or good quality shortening or oil)
1-3 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
2 cups boiling water
One 12-oz. pkge. fresh frozen shrimp
2 chicken Oxo cubes

TUESDAY
Dinner Menu

Swiss Steak; New Green Peas; Canned Harvard Beets; Waldorf Salad; John's Sour Cream Drop Cookies (see Mon.); Coffee.

½ tsp. Accent
About ½ pt. dairy sour cream
Noodles (see below)

In a strong paper bag dredge veal pieces in the flour and salt. Brown in large frying pan in melted margarine (or shortening, butter or oil). Add boiling water and simmer covered two hours or until veal is tender. About 15 min. before serving time add shrimp, chicken Oxo cubes and Accent and heat through until shrimp are thawed and cooked. Add sour cream and heat to just below boiling point.



Meanwhile cook noodles. You will need at least 3 cups dry noodles to serve six. Cook in boiling salted water until tender and drain through colander.

To serve spoon Veal and Shrimp Ragout over noodles on each dinner plate.

NOTE: This Veal and Shrimp Ragout would be a good item for a party served from your chafing dish. To serve 12 people double the recipe.

Points for Parents

By MARY BRYSON

Mother: "I'm sick of having your children treat Jimmy so mean. Can't you make them play with him right? They make his life miserable."

Mother: "I'm worried about Jimmy. He doesn't seem to get along happily with the other children. Can you help me figure out why."

Instead of demanding a change, enlist another mother's co-operation where children have trouble over a period of time. She may know what's wrong and be able to help solve the problem.

Ann Landers

Children's Pet Habits Fill A Certain Need

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was especially interested in your reply to the mother whose six-year-old insisted on dragging her faded, worn-out blanket everywhere. You said, "Leave her alone. She'll give it up when she's ready. I've never heard of a child taking a baby blanket on a honeymoon."

ANN LANDERS

Well, Ann, stick around for a few more years and you might hear of it. Our son Johnny is 15. His baby blanket fell apart years ago (he dragged it around until there was nothing left.) Then he developed a dandy substitute. Johnny twists the corners of his bedsheets into sharp little peaks and of course the sheets wear out in no time at all.

I am not complaining because apparently this twisting has filled an emotional need. Johnny has always been a wonderful son, a fine student, mechanically inclined and good in athletics. He is a thoughtful boy and never caused us any trouble. Perhaps letting him drag his blanket all those years and now twisting the sheets have given him the satisfaction other kids find in drag racing and breaking the law for "kicks."

If, when Johnny marries, he wants a baby blanket to take on his honeymoon, I'll buy him one. — WOULDN'T TRADE.

* * *

DEAR WOULDN'T: Your insight and wisdom have paid off I wish more parents had it. Too often children are nagged about trivial things which should be ignored — like dragging blankets around and twisting sheets.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your column on free love is additional proof that you always side with the women. Here's how it looks from a male point of view.

I am 30 years of age, a confirmed bachelor who never once mentioned marriage to a woman. I've had 32 affairs in the last three years and four turn-downs. I'm not handsome, not rich, not a great talker and I never made an active pitch in my life. My record of conquests is proof that American women are the most aggressive, sex-hungry females in the world. When I lived in Europe I didn't get one-third the propositions I get in California.

Now what do you say? — TRANSATLANTIC.

* * *

DEAR TRANS.: I say horsefeathers. If you never made a pitch in your life, how come the turn-downs? Your record proves only one thing — any dame can have an affair if she sets her standards low enough.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with interest the letter from the legal secretary who refused to notarize papers unless she had seen the parties sign.

Good for her, I, too, am inflexible in this regard — so inflexible, in fact, that I've been referred to as "that screwball." But it paid off.

Recently we handled a deed. I notarized the signature of all five parties. A lawyer of questionable character stated that all five signatures had been affixed by one person. He even lined up a phony handwriting "expert" to support his charges. The fool was laughed out of sight. Several witnesses said, "That screwball would never notarize a signature she didn't witness with her own eyes" — and that ended it. — UTICA, N.Y.

* * *

DEAR U.: How refreshing to find someone who sticks to the rules even in the face of ridicule. There is so much compromising, bending and breaking these days, I doof my bonnet to you for setting a fine example.

Friends Honor Bride-to-Be

FRANKFORD — On Wednesday evening a large number of friends were present at a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Murray in honor of Sandra Boyarchuk, bride-to-be, given by hostess Miss Heather Murray, assisted by co-hostesses Miss Linda Gunning and Miss Marjorie Carson.

The living room and dining room were gaily decorated with white, pink and turquoise streamers.

The honored guest's chair was decorated with pastel streamers and wedding bells. A colorful bridal hat was made and a number of pictures were taken. Lunch was served and enjoyed by all.

The refreshment table was concpied, steamed with white and turquoise streamers and umbrella with golden bells highlighted with a white bridal umbrella with golden bells and golden raindrops. A heart-shaped bridal cake in pastel green icing topped with bride and bridegroom, decorated with white icing adorned the centre of the table.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and assistants.

Belleville Bantams Split Two Games

The Belleville SACO Bantam OASA team won one and lost one in their two-game stay at the Bantam tourney at Newmarket, Ont., this weekend.

In their first game on Saturday, the locals took the win 7-6 over Niagara-on-the-Lake, in the second game, the SACO Jr. ran into the tournament winners, East Gwillimbury-Newmarket, and were dropped 8-0.

The East Gwillimbury-Newmarket team has won 20 straight games and took the tournament title.

In the first game, the winning pitcher, Al Travis, allowed six runs on seven hits and three walks while fanning five.

The losing pitcher, Matthews, allowed 12 hits for seven runs while walking two and striking out four.

The hitters for Belleville were Al Travis with a single and a grand slam homer, Herbie Painter with a single and a double, Bill Kirkham with three singles, and John Romano with two safeties. Top Niagara hitter was centrefielder Rive who singled, doubled and homered.

In the second game, Belleville pitcher John Sprackett ran into one of the top pitchers of the tourney, Galt's Don Scott.

Scott struck out 15 Belleville batters and watched the locals commit five errors in the third to give Galt five runs.

The winning pitcher allowed no runs on two hits and one walk with 15 fanned. John Sprackett allow four hits and seven walks while fanning two to give Galt eight runs.

Bill Kirkham collected both Belleville hits. Pitcher Scott helped Galt at the plate with a three run homer.

Strike Looms

NFL Owners Meet to Ponder Dispute

CHICAGO (AP) — National Football League owners pushed the alarm button Monday night.

Art Modell, owner of Cleveland Browns and president of the NFL, announced "pro football faces a long and disastrous strike" and then called for a full meeting of owners here today.

Modell's statement came after the NFL's Players Association said it had failed to resolve its disagreement with the owners over player pensions.

The players are seeking additional pension funds before the 1970 deadline desired by the owners.

Both groups met on the outskirts of Chicago Monday but reached no conclusion.

While the owners refused to give in to the players, the question of the All-Star game arrived.

Vince Lombardi, general manager of Green Bay Packers, who as the pro champions must meet the College All-Stars in Chicago Aug. 2, said "the game will have to be delayed or cancelled" unless the Packers have at least three weeks to get ready.

This resulted from an ultimatum by Modell to hold off the opening of all pro football camps until the present matter is settled.

San Francisco 49ers were to open their rookie camp Sunday and the Packers were among those scheduled to start workouts Wednesday.

Modell issued a statement that said:

"Despite having granted 21 demands of the players' union, pro football faces a long and disastrous strike on the sole issue of granting pension benefits in 1968 to players, who on the average, will not be eligible to receive such benefits until the year 2,000."

The players' stand, held by John Gordy of Detroit Lions who also is president of the Players' Association, is that the owners cannot contract for any amount of money concerning 1970 "when they do not know what the situation will be then."

TV Parlor Game . . .

The Climb to the Top

Peter Graves of the hit CBS series Mission: Impossible tells about some of the difficult times he faced during the long climb to the top.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—One of television's favorite parlor games is called "thing the hand that feeds you." It's played by actors and actresses in hit series usually after two or three years of having their stomachs fed and egos massaged.

At this point, the nouveau-star suddenly arrives at one or more of the following insights: (1) he has sacrificed his "artistic integrity" for a series which really isn't worthy of his talents; (2) he's "bored" with playing the same role week after week; and (3) he isn't getting nearly the salary or fringe benefits he deserves for "carrying" the show.

He confides in the press. "The truth is I'm ready for bigger things. I should be starring in major movies or playing on Broadway. But that fool I took on as my agent signed me to a long-term contract—I didn't know any better; after all, I was working at a gas station when we met—and now I'm stuck in this rotten show."

The actor who takes this attitude is naive or inexperienced or both, and for his own sake, ought to have some sense pounded into him. Instead, he's apt to suffer a worse fate. The industry just may call his bluff, and he'll find himself back eyphoking high octane.

What such performers forget, particularly when they start reading their own publicity, is that landing the lead in a high-rated TV series takes more than talent. It requires luck and timing and the contribution of directors, writers, cameramen, stage hands and many others.

I can speak from experience.

When I stepped off the train in Hollywood 15 years ago, I figured I was ready to storm both movie and TV citadels. After all, at 18, I'd been the youngest radio announcer in the history of station WMIN in Minneapolis and had received glowing notices from MacBeth and Of Mice of Men at the University of Minnesota.

I was fortunate enough to appear in several movies, including Stalag 17.

Finally I did get a television series, Fury. It wasn't exactly prime time (unless you consider Saturday mornings prime time) and while I was nominally the star, a horse had all the good lines. For the next six years, my fan mail came from youngsters, 6 to 10, who figured I was a lucky guy to get that close to such a smart horse.

Then came my second series, Whiplash. To appear in it, I went to Australia which hardly gives an actor the feeling he's the toast of Hollywood.

My third series was Court Martial, filmed in England and based on a two-part Kraft Suspense Theatre in which I'd starred. It didn't last long, but I had no complaints.

Finally, this past season, it happened. I was contacted by the producers of Mission: Impossible and was asked to create the new role of Jim Phelps.

After a 15-year wait, I'm obviously delighted. And I find it ironic and a little sad when performers, in other top-rated series, grouse about "artistic suffocation" and publicly call for their own series to fail as a way out of their contractual obligations.

To borrow a phrase from Mission: Impossible, that's self-destruction.

Time for Relaxation

It's Fun, Too!

Hours Are All Filled At Air Cadet Camp

Members of the Belleville 608 air cadet squadron are taking part in this year's summer training camp at CFB Trenton. There are 21 air cadets representing the squadron.

Counting Belleville's representation there are 16 squadrons at the camp this year.

Present are cadets from Stratford, London, Port Colborne, Welland, Newmarket, Kirkland Lake and Chatham.

Completing the list are cadets from Windsor, Peterborough, Lennington, Moose Factory, Kapuskasing, Trenton, Collingwood and Batawa.

The squadrons camp at the base for two weeks and participate in numerous activities over that period of time.

The morning hours are usually taken up by lectures, drills and exercises such as shooting practice. Every morning there is an inspection and parade.

In the afternoon sports and free-time are the order of the day. There are such things as movies to occupy the evening hours.

The best squadron on the parade square and the one shaping up the best in inspections, receives a plaque at the end of the two-week period.

The summer camp for air-cadets emptiomizes the aims of the Air Cadet League formed in 1941.

In the short space of time between its initiation and the present time the league has watched the fiction of rockets and space become a reality.

Under a philosophy that the young people of today will become the leaders of tomorrow, the league has sought to keep abreast of the times.

Squadrons from coast to coast contain about 30,000 air cadets who support aims which emphasize good citizenship training and the fostering of an interest in aviation.

The aims can be compacted into three main divisions "to encourage air cadets to develop the attributes of good citizenship"; "to stimulate in air cadets an interest in aviation and space technology"; and "to help air cadets develop a high standard of physical fitness, mental alertness and discipline."

Those responsible for the organization of the summer camp at Trenton spend a great deal of time ensuring that those aims are carried out.

Under Commanding Officer Major Norman D. Cairns, the camp supplies extra activities such as glider training at Mountain View, sailing on the Bay of Quinte and slot-car racing.

Epitomizing the spirit of the air cadets at Trenton's summer camp was a track and field meet held last weekend at the base.

Belleville's 608 squadron captured the meet with 89 points, winning over 332 Windsor squadron with 64 points and 714 Collingwood squadron with 58 points.

Individual winners from Belleville were K. Watson, D. Thompson, J. Tracey, A. Pearce, E. T. Tugnette and G. W. Gray.

A swimming meet and softball championship are scheduled activities to end the camp.

Historian Finds Trenton Area Happy Hunting Ground for Fossils

TRENTON — Trenton could become recognized as a landmark to the past due to the efforts of one of its citizens turned historian.

For the past three years an amateur historian here has unearthing segments of the past from the Lake Ontario shore.

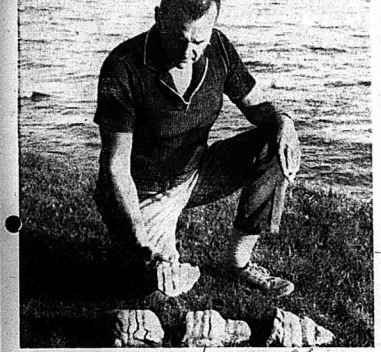
Arthur Holsey of R.R. 1, Trenton has discovered fossils dating back as far as 350 million years.

The fossils are classed as trilobites and have been collected along the shore of the lake at Sinson Block.

Mr. Holsey said trilobites are the earliest form of life on this earth and says "it is fantastic to find them in such abundance in the area."

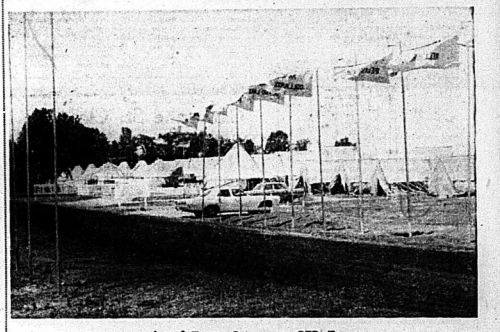
Recently the Trenton historian has found a different and, to his knowledge, an unknown kind of fossil.

These are conelike formations with even ridges throughout their length which he will send to the Royal Ontario Museum in Toronto for a geologist's report.



Asked what he would do with his relics Mr. Holsey said "if an outside organization such as the Royal Museum is interested I will co-operate fully."

In the Trenton district he can see no one "large enough to handle the fossils."



On a more personal level Mr. Holsey evaluated his hobby as "a contribution to the understanding of life on earth."

This will be the first time he has contacted an outside party such as the Royal Museum and he hopes that this will result in "some added recognition for the Trenton area."

His reason for going to the Royal Museum is due to the newly found unknown fossils which cannot be identified by Mr. Holsey's sources in this Summer Vacation May Be Great Fun But It's A Time of Much Idleness

BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

"Teen-agers with nothing to do," says the Peterborough Examiner. "It's a problem just about everyone discusses, but about which few persons do anything constructive."

What will Belleville's youth do this summer?

City police chief Douglas Crosbie, has a partial answer. "There's more teenagers on the streets in the summer."

Reasons for the popularity of street corners puzzle almost anyone who gives it some thought.

Dr. Evelyn Williamson, a psychologist, can shed some light on this question.

She explains that the younger teen agers are in the "gang stage" and that street corners offer an opportunity to get together with the boys.

They're too young to go out with girls, she says, but they are not too young to think about it and so they get together to look.

Older teen-agers that frequent street-corners are usually doing so for the same reason, she explains. They are at the same emotional stage as their younger counterparts. They are immature.

"It could be a means of rebelling. You know, 'I'll find my own fun'".

On the more practical side, "they're unable to find jobs," says Chief Crosbie. "The big problem is boredom."

He believes, though, that there are enough recreation facilities in the city if they (teens) want to use them. As examples he mentions baseball diamonds, beaches and parks such as the Sandbanks Park and the Outlet.

"It's not too far to drive to the parks. In bigger centres you can drive that far without leaving the city."

But the young people are still down on the streets. Any teen-ager will say that in Belleville "there's no scene."

One young adult was quite outspoken on the subject. "I think it's kind of a dull place. There's no place to go all the time. There should be some place for kids to go no matter what time it is."

Another one has stated: "I don't think there's very much for us to do."

"There's one dance every week, but it's too expensive to go. We have free concerts at Zwick's Island but you can't dance there."

Jim Wright, CJBQ radio personality, would agree that perhaps dances are too expensive for the average teen-ager.

"Dave's Gig", the weekly dance held Thursday nights at the arena received very good attendance a couple of years ago, but now only a few hundred people attend.

"I really don't know why attendance is low," says Mr. Wright. "There used to be a time when we were starved for entertainment. It was a novelty a couple of years ago to have big bands." According to Mr. Wright it may not be the same case now. It could be old hat.

A dance with the Paupers held a few months ago saw only a few teen-agers at the arena. According to music buffs, the Paupers are one of Canada's major groups.

To adults, the Tiki Club, it appeared, was a "scene" to the teenagers. It has been closed this summer for "lack of support" through the summer months.

Keith Whiteland, manager of the air - conditioned club, claims that teen-agers "certainly don't support what they have."

Tiki club problems he adds, are supplemented by false rumors spread by adults about pills and marijuana.

Yet, on paper, things should not look too dismal for Belleville's young adults.

Lloyd Doran, recreation director for Belleville, lists many physical sports such as baseball softball and lacrosse as possible outlets for excess energy. There is some form of physical sport almost every night of the week.

"I would assume that there is quite an amount of activity for them," states Mr. Doran. "We have three areas for tennis, not used to their maximum."

Plans for the courts now include instruction, complete with tournaments. The recreation commission is also putting into practice plans for archery classes, art classes, ceramic classes and bridge classes.

Mr. Doran, like Chief Crosbie, recommends provincial parks. "We can go 20 miles in any direction and there's a park."

Nothing to Do

A group of Belleville's young people find the Royal Bank steps a good spot to relax for some conversation.

Vote Permits Sunday Meets at Fort Erie

RIDGEWAY, Ont. (CP) — Sunday racing in Ontario got away from the gate Monday with a close vote in Bertie Township council permitting Sabbath meets at Fort Erie

But township voters can call it off next December.

Council voted 3 to 2 Monday night for a resolution by councillor Wilfred Cook which permits Sunday racing under recent Ontario legislation which permits municipalities to make the final decision.

Sunday racing had been banned under the Lord's Day Act.

Mr. Cook told council that Sunday racing at Fort Erie could give the township another $147,623—about eight per cent of its 1967 revenue of $1,926,700.

The assessment on water used at the track, he said, would provide $8,940—more than seven per cent of 1967's water bill of $125,000.

However Mr. Cook also got unanimous council approval for a resolution which would put the Sunday racing question to the electorate in a referendum next December—after the Jockey Club Ltd. completes its 1968 meetings.

Main opposition came from Reeve Bruce Finch, who said he called the Ontario legislature Monday and was told the bill permitting Sunday racing had not been given royal assent.

The bill received third and final reading in the legislature July 3 and becomes law as soon as it is proclaimed by the lieutenant-governor.

Reeve Finch said he does not oppose Sunday racing or betting but feels six racing days a week are enough.

Deputy Reeve Jack Willmott, who supported Mr. Cook along with councillor Earl Beam, said he does not feel that "this small body has the right to tell people what to do with their recreation time."

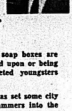
"The race track means a lot to the area and if they were to move their operation the township would be hit hard," Mr. Willmott said. "The Jockey Club can move anywhere. If they want to race on Sundays, let them try it."

Among the audience at the one-hour meeting were Rev. Burton Weber of United Brethren Church, near Fort Erie; Rev. James Sinn of Memorial United Church in Ridgeway and R. M. Bisher, a former high school principal in this community 15 miles south of Niagara Falls. All were on hand to object to the bylaw.

Earlier Jockey Club president George Hendrie said the club's executive committee would meet immediately if council passed the bylaw.

"If the council approves," said Mr. Hendrie, "we could conceivably have Sunday racing at Fort Erie by July 14."

It's Deserted Now, But...



Seats will be at a premium in the Arena Mexico in Mexico City in a few months from now. Here, the boxing and wrestling competition of the 1968 summer Olympic Games will be held. The arena, currently used for basketball, seats 14,463. (CP Photo)

If for no other reason, soap boxes are famous for either being stood upon or being ridden by derelict, helmeted youngsters down steep asphalt hills.

It's the latter use that has set some city youngsters banging little hammers into the night.

They're in the pit — or dad's basement — readying whatever kind of contraption they can devise to enter this Saturday morning's local version of a soap box derby.

They may be juvenile jalopies, but they're the most beautiful sight on wheels any 9-15 year-old entrant ever laid eyes on . . . because THEY had to build them.

A boy can't get away with just throwing a few boards together and mounting the result on four wheels.

A construction code, primarily concerned with the safety of entrants, has been laid down by the Road Angels' Rod and Custom Club, the local group of auto enthusiasts sponsoring this Saturday's derby.

You know, you just can't take things like brakes for granted, when you're dealing with a slightly over-zealous, if understated would-be Stirling Moss.

City merchants have preferred some prizes and Belleville's finest will police the Catharine Street course site, to round out the helping hands for the Mosport in Miniature.

The police department will block Cedar, Everett, Isobel, and Murney streets at Catharine to prevent an unknowing motorist from finding himself running third behind a few pieces of plywood.

Senior (aged 13-15) and Junior (9-12) entries will culminate their careers as designers-builders-owners-mechanics by also driving their inventions in the colorful event, due to get rolling at 2 p.m. Saturday.

Organizers realize that they won't have a soap box for each of the 400-plus entry forms in circulation to date, but are hoping that as many who still have time to bang that final wagon-wheel into place can meet Friday night's entry deadline.

We do too.

In addition to instilling youngsters with some notion of safety in vehicle construction and operation, Saturday's derby will be just plain fun.

Now, to get off my soap box.

Trent Valley Action

Sr. Woods Take 6th League Loss

Well, the Woods' Construction attempt at a local senior softball entry have been removed from just about every league in the area to field a team in the Trent Valley loop, and they still can't find a consistently-winning combination.

The hapless Belleville nine — and we MEAN nine — took a 6-2 clipping at the hands of a slick Picton Kinsmen squad at the Alemite last night to put the Woods' season's record at a dismal 2 wins, six losses.

Picton hurler Ken DeMille used a good drop to scatter seven Belleville hits, while fanning 10 in going the route. It took him exactly one hour and 20 minutes to dispose of the Woods in nine complete innings of softball.

Meanwhile, his mates were collecting solid hits off Woods' starter Bobby Ethier, who gave one of his poorer performances. Ether that, or the Picton batters really had his number.

The Prince Edward stickers battered Ethier for all six of their runs and all but two of their hits, collecting four tallies in the second frame, and adding another pair in the fourth.

Carl Boomhower, who started the game in centrefield, came on in relief of Ethier in the seventh and held the winners scoreless the rest of the way.

At the plate, a pair of Belleville Joyce Senior Baseball players — shortstop Wayne Woods and catcher Larry Murphy — led the way with a pair of safeties each.

Waverly and South Hastings baseball hurler Bill Barberstock (who played at first for the Woods last night) counted the locals' pair of tallies, coming home on fielders' choices in the seventh and ninth innings, respectively.

Pitcher DeMille and leftfielder R. R. Wilbrod each scored twice for Picton.

Derby Saturday

Catharine St. Closed While Soap Boxes Run

Police will begin clearing Catharine Street at 1.30 p.m. Saturday afternoon in preparation for the first Belleville Soap Box Derby since 1941.

The 1968 event will begin at 2 p.m. and is sponsored by the Road Angels Rod and Custom Club.

Entrants are reminded that all cars must be presented at the Road Angels Rod and Custom Car Show Friday night which starts at 6 p.m. at the Firestone Tire Store on Pinnacle Street. Friday night is also deadline for submission of entry forms.

Derby entries' cars will be weighed and safety-checked at the car show for Saturday's race.

The derby will have drivers in two classes: nine to 12 years, and 13 to 15. Prizes will be awarded in both classes for winners and for the best-constructed and best appearing racers.

Lacrosse Locals Lose First

Campbellford downed Belleville 11-7 Monday night in the locals' second outing in the Quinte Lacrosse Association.

Top scorer for the visitors was Jim Kerr who picked up three tallies. Fred Tanner and Rick Christie had two apiece for the winners while Bud Brannon had two assists to lead his team in that department.

R. McDougall, S. Castleman, B. Pudsey, B. Sidell, A. Partington, D. Lane, and M. Allore had a goal apiece for Belleville while R. Sidell led the locals in assists with three. M. Allore had one assist.

The loss puts Belleville 1-1 for the new season.

"Moe" Making Money

Moe Norman earned only $150 during last week's Millar championship in Toronto, but the colorful Gilford, Ont., golfer leads Canadian professionals in money won on this summer's Canadian tour. His total? A respectable $3,150 for the first three tournaments played on the pro circuit to date. Toronto's Alvie Thompson and Winnipeg's Wilf Homemuik trail with $2,016 and $1,430 totals, respectively. Former Bay of Quinte member Gary Bowerman, now of Toronto, has taken home cheques totalling $1,180 so far this summer.

Commercial League

Pt. Anne Win Tightens Standings

Point Anne downed City Hotel 4-3 in an eight-inning game and moved into a tie with Black Diamond for fourth place in the Commercial Softball League.

Point Anne is now 6-8 while Black Diamond is 6-6 with two games in hand.

Ted Waite and Jim Hunter took the win for the Cementmen with Waite going the first four and Hunter taking over for the rest of the way.

Gerry Genereaux did the slab honors for the Hotelmen.

The winners allowed three runs on six hits and five walks while fanning six. The Cementmen made two errors.

Genereaux allowed four runs on nine hits and four walks while fanning three. There was one City error.

The Hotelmen tied a 3-2 game up in the seventh. Doug Hull got on with a single, then moved to second on another single, this one by Brooks. Jack Hughes, the next batter, forced Brooks at second, but moved Hull to third. Hull then scored on an error by right fielder Ray Summers.

City Hotel went hitless and scoreless in the eighth to leave the score 3-3 when the Cementmen came to the plate.

Leftfielder Larry Fraser led Point Anne off with a single, then moved to second when Genereaux walked Jim Horwood. Rick Screbush forced Fraser at third and moved Horwood to second.

Centrefielder Horwood did not have long to wait on second. The next batter, second-baseman Eric Maher, poked a single which collected him an RBI as Horwood came in with the winning run.

Top hitters for the Cementmen were Waite with a double and a single and Fraser with the same. Eric Maher collected two singles and Summers was good for a double. Horwood and Hunter had singles.

City Hotel was led at the plate by Doug Hull with two singles, Brooks, Hughes, Doug Murray and Genereaux contributed safeties.

Pilots Predict Pitchers To Control All-Star Classic

HOUSTON (AP) — Managers winner Don Drysdale of Los Angeles and Red Schoendienst of the National League predict a low-scoring mound duel in baseball's 39th annual All-Star game tonight.

Schoendienst of St. Louis Cardinals, who will start 10-game winner Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers said:

"I lean toward a pitcher's game. This has been the year of big zero."

Said Williams of Boston Red Sox:

"I would say it will be a pitchers' battle. The pitchers should predominate."

He named right hander Louis Tiant of Cleveland Indians, a 14-game winner, to start for the American.

A "standing-room" crowd of over 50,000 is expected for the game starting at 8:15 EDT in the Astrodome.

The NL holds a 30-17 series edge, including five straight and nine of the last 10. The NL is a 7-5 Favorite.

The AL went through an hour workout Monday afternoon under order from league president Joe Cronin to get the feel of the synthetic turf. Most American Leaguers have never played in the Astrodome.

The players adjusted quickly to the fast surface of the turflike carpet.

Brooks Robinson, Baltimore Orioles third baseman, said the ball "bounces true, but it sure gets through the infield quick. I'd like to hit here all year. It would probably add 25 points to your batting average."

Frank Howard of Washington Senators, the leading home run hitter in the majors with 25, said he didn't think the ball carried very well.

Howard then proceeded to rip several shots into the left field seats—one over the 390 mark.

Some of the AL stars weren't on hand for the practice session, including Carl Yastzremski and Ken Harrelson of Boston, Bill Freeman of Detroit and Mickey Mantle of New York; the team captain and first player ever to hit a homer in the Astrodome.

Asked about the missing players, Williams said: "They've got commitments. The game's tomorrow not today."

Tiant admitted that he was tired from pitching 6 1-3 innings Sunday but said he could go two hard innings.

"This is most important start in my life," Tiant said. "It's one of the biggest breaks I've ever had."

Both All-Star teams came into the game with rather anemic batting averages. Team average for the AL is .265, with Yastrzemski at .301, the only .300 hitter in the starting line-up. The NL has a .278 average, with starters Curt Flood of St. Louis and Tommy Helms of Cincinnati hitting .316 and .302, respectively.

Williams said he plans to follow Tiant with John Odom of Oakland Athletics. He said Odom pitched last Friday and would be well rested.

Schoendienst said he wasn't certain who would follow Drysdale, who has a 1.37 earned run average and set a record of 58 2-3 consecutive scoreless innings earlier this season. It will be Drysdale's fifth All-Star start, tying the record.

"YOGI" BERRA HAS GAINED FAME IN BASEBALL AS A PLAYER AND MANAGER FOR THE N.Y. YANKEES AND AS A COACH FOR THE N.Y. METS. DO YOU KNOW HIS REAL FIRST NAME?

AL Stars Work Out in Dome

The above scene is the prelude to a momentous occasion in baseball history. Members of the American League team for the 39th annual All-Star game get in some practice in the Astrodome Stadium in Houston, Texas. Tonight's game marks the first time the annual baseball classic has been played indoors.

Debut as Star

AL Starter Warms Up With 5-Year-Old Son

HOUSTON (AP) — Luis Tiant played catch with his five-year-old son while the rest of his American League team-mates prepared themselves for tonight's all-star game against the National League.

And little Luis Jr. seemed to help his dad keep his mind off the likes of Willie Mays, Hank Aaron, Curt Flood and Willie McCovey.

"My arm is tired," said Tiant, Cleveland Indians' all-star game winner, who was picked by American League manager Dick Williams to start the big one.

"I'll try to pitch two innings, maybe they're easy ones."

Tiant worked 6 1-3 innings Sunday and will be pitching with just one day of rest.

"I was surprised when Williams told me I would start," he said. "But I like the idea.

"No, I'm not nervous, but the pressure of all the all-star game is great."

It will be the first all-star appearance for Tiant and he takes a 14-5 record a dazzling 1.24 earned run average with seven shutouts into the game.

He'll be going against Don Drysdale, making a record-tying fifth all-star start. Tiant's ERA is the only one on the American League staff better than Drysdale's 1.37.

"It has been a good year for me—for the pitchers," said the Cuban-born right-hander. "I think maybe we hire getting smarter."

Casper Tops Tour...

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP) — Billy Casper retained the top spot Monday in the list of the Professional Golfers Association top 10 money winners of the year and Tom Weiskopf, who backed into a victory at the Buick Open, was second.

Casper's winnings totalled $130,195 to give him a lead of $13,049 over Weiskopf. Weiskopf's prize of $25,000 for first place in the Buick Open gave him a total of $117,136.

Weiskopf won the open on the final hole when PGA rookie Mike Hill missed a five-foot putt.

Lee Trevino, who was in a tie for fifth in the Buick Open, was third on the list with winnings of $92,705 for the year.

George Knudson of Toronto has won $62,727 and is in eighth place.

Others in the top 10 announced by the PGA and their winnings are George Archer, $87,560; Miller Barber, $71,406; Jack Nicklaus, $69,406; Bobby Lunn, $67,238; Don January, $60,249, and Frank Beard $58,352.

...and Ditto Kathy

CINCINNATI (AP) — Kathy Whitworth tied for fifth place in the U.S. women's open golf tournament Sunday but held her lead in money winnings on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

Miss Whitworth, a three-time winner on the tour, now has won $21,055. LPGA headquarters announced Monday.

Mickey Wright, who finished second in the Open, and Carol Mann, who finished in a tie for third, closed in on Miss Whitworth. Miss Mann, who has won four times, now has $18,795 in winnings and Miss Wright, won $14,512.

Sandra Post of Oakville, winner of the LPGA title two weeks ago, won $840 in the Open in finishing far off the pace and now has accumulated $8,311 for sixth place in the money-winners list. Sandra Haynie is in fourth place with $11,546 and Clifford Anne Creed is fifth with $9,722.

Sports In Brief

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Lynton R. (Dusty) Boggess, 64, long-time National League baseball umpire known for his colorful stories, died in hospital Monday. Boggess began umpiring in the Western League in 1939. He reached the majors in five years after working in the Texas League and the International League. He umpired in four World Series and five All-Star games. Boggess, who retired in 1962, recently wrote a book entitled Kill The Umpire.

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes, tail-enders in the Eastern Football Conference last season, finally burst into the wind, as they whipped the Western Conference Winnipeg Blue Bombers 33-14 in an exhibition game Monday night. The Als had lost nine straight since their last victory, a 27-26 win over the Bombers last September. A crowd of 15,000 watched Montreal turn three interceptions and a fumble into four touchdowns after giving the Bombers the first touchdown in the game with less than five minutes played.

* * *

HAMILTON (CP) — Gene Coppetelli, an all-Canadian lineman last year with Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Eastern Football Conference, has moved to the National Football League. Coppetelli, a native of Sudbury, signed with Philadelphia Eagles Monday and will attempt to replace Jim Ringo, a centre who retired at the end of last season.

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill, Ont., four-time Ontario women's amateur golf champion, took the first round lead among qualifiers for this year's title Monday with a two-over-par 77. The top 16 golfers selected after the second round today start match play Wednesday. The championship will be played here Friday.

Scotian Trotter Draws No. 2

NEW YORK (CP-AP) — Fresh Yankee, Canada's bargain-basement trotter owned by the Down-East Farms Ltd. of Sydney, N.S., drew the No. 2 post position Monday for Saturday night's $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot and Roosevelt Raceway.

The four-year-old, bought for $900 in 1965, has been a big winner for its owner in the last three years, boosting its $7,400 money earned in 1965 to a whopping $69,450 in 1967. Last year it finished second in the international.

It will go to the gate Saturday as third choice in the betting at 7 to 2 odds.

Roquepine, the defending champion from France, drew No. 6 for position and was made 5-2 favorite.

Competing in Regatta...

Canadian Oarsmen Order Oodles of Milk

HENLEY ON THAMES, England (CP) — Canadian oarsmen on hand for Henley Royal Regatta are a wow with Thames Valley dairy farmers.

The eight-oar crew from Ridley College, St. Catharines, Ont., building itself up for competitions starting Wednesday, ordered 8 quarts of milk a meal for the duration of their stay.

"The boys were getting steaks for supper and seemed to be enough food, but they couldn't get enough milk," said Terence Creagh, past secretary of the Ridley Old Boys Association. But we've laid on this special order and our boys get plenty of milk now."

Ridley's first competition in the two-boat heats is Tiffin School from downriver at Kingston on Thames—not highly rated among the 25 English entries for the event.

The following heat would match Ridley or Tiffin against either Shrewsbury, the favored English crew, or Kent School, Conn., one of three U.S. entries along with Ridley and Stuart High School of Fairfax, Vt.

The third round of elimination heats could prove a North American affair between Stuart —U.S. high school champions— and Ridley or Kent, New England champs, for a slot in the semi-finals.

The Canadian scholastic champions, however, decline to look that far ahead, concentrating on a big-meals early-to-bed, early-rise regime.

The Ridley boys got first crack at the river for workouts at 7:30 a.m. Monday and today in a tight training schedule. Altogether 160 crews and scullers clamor for water time in preparation for 11 main events at the four-day regatta.

The Canadians were taken aback at first by the narrowness of the willow-lined Thames course of one mile 550 yards. It accommodates only two shells at a time while the course at St. Catharines can handle six abreast easily.

However, after a few training sessions, Ridley cox Rick Ivey of London, Ont., says the English Henley "seems quite comfortable."

In a Henley program with the smallest overseas entry in years, the glamor events are all-British.

Tideway Scullers of London are expected to eliminate London University and go on to beat Oxford in the three-crew Grand Challenge Cup for eights, oldest of the Henley events, established in 1839.

Ten Britons compete for the dubious honor of becoming the first British winner of the Diamond Sculls for 15 years—no all-Britons challenged this year—with persistent runner-up Harry Wardell-Yerburgh of Elon Vikings the favorite.

Cornell and Harvard, only overseas entries among 26 crews competing for the Thames Cup for eights, meet in the first heat. The winner is expected to meet Wiindin of England in the quarter-final in the next big test. The boat from Leander Rowing Club, an exclusive fraternity celebrating its 150th anniversary, is favored to reach the final.

The double sculls is a two-boat race, one pair from Tideway and the other from St. Ives, Cornwall. The Amlong brothers of Vesper and Jim of Philadelphia, are favored to outclass rivals among nine British crews entered for the silver goblets for paired oars.

Only three crews—Cambridge University, Midlands Nautilus and London Rowing Club—are competing for the Stewards' Cup, premier event for four oars, with London getting the bye to the final Saturday.

Canada Must Adopt Total Systems Approach Says Hellyer

MONTREAL (CP) — Transport Minister Paul Hellyer said Monday the federal government should adopt industry's "total systems approach" in government planning.

Speaking at a dinner of the Canadian and American institutes of aeronautics and astronautics, Mr. Hellyer said that under a total systems concept all factors involved in a planning action are viewed as parts of an integrated whole.

"If the federal government follows the total systems approach, individual government departments' programs should not only satisfy the goals of the departments concerned but also the larger total goals of the government," he said.

Mr. Hellyer said that ideally a single project would consist of a co-ordinated government effort in which all departments in which all departments would be co-ordinated together to plan the project.

"Frankly, I think it is the only approach which can hope to produce satisfactory results" he said. "Without total systems planning chaos will increase in proportion to the increase in urban growth."

United States industrial firms seeking Canadian government contracts must be prepared to give Canadians a share of challenging and sophisticated jobs involved, he said.

"One of the aims of the Canadian government is to provide challenging and productive jobs for all Canadians.

"Many Canadians want to be challenged by the more sophisticated work associated with the kinds of industries that you are concerned with.

"But even work in your industries is not always challenging unless it involves not only Canada-U.S. production sharing, but also research, design and development sharing."

He said under its new "total systems approach," the Canadian government will consider not only the cost factor, but also "the need for a more equitable distribution of opportunities to participate in these exciting fields," when deciding whether to award industrial contracts to Canadian or foreign firms.

But he was not advocating that "all government procurement be from Canadian manufacturers.

"I am saying, however, that the decisions as to whether we buy Canadian or foreign will be influenced by the goals of the total government," and that merely by the requirements of one department or of its budget alone.

As an example of how this policy would be put into practice, Mr. Hellyer described attitudes with which the government is approaching acquisition of a communications satellite.

"Considered in the narrow context of providing facilities for communications signals alone, the problem could well be achieved by purchasing a satellite from the United States.

"If you believe, however, that Canada should keep some capability to design and build satellites and consider this as part of the total requirement, then it is necessary to pay a small premium to have part of the research and construction done in this country."

In this view, he said, the government could fulfill "the larger goal of not just enhancing physical communications, but also providing interesting and challenging career opportunities for Canadians in the whole field of satellite communications."

To Your Good Health

Many Possible Causes of Vertigo

By Dr. Joseph G. Molner

Dear Dr. Molner: What would make a room, and pictures on the wall, seem to spin around? My husband almost passed out from this twice within a year.

When this happens he gets cold and his heart pounds. I had doctors both times but by the time they got here he was about out of it and felt fine the next day.

He has a tendency of low blood pressure and sinus trouble. He is 46 and otherwise seems healthy. — T. Y.

This is a form of "objective vertigo," or extreme dizziness when things seem to rotate.

I would prefer not to try to say what the exact cause may be in your husband's case. There are varying causes. Often vertigo is a result of some disorder of the balance mechanism, as in Meniere's disease or labyrinthitis. You ought to find my booklet, Dizzy Spells, of interest. (Booklet can be obtained by mail: send 25 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, envelope to Dr. Molner, in care of the Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate, P. O. Box 188, Dundee, Ill.)

Sinusitis can be a contributing factor in such cases.

You also mention low blood pressure. This does not ordinarily cause symptoms to the degree you describe. However, the possibility of what we call an "irritated carotid sinus syndrome" must be considered. To simplify it, that means a disturbance of circulation to the brain due to pressure on the side of the neck — it can be a tight collar or holding the head in a particular position or some such.

Another possibility is a disturbance more or less related to migraine, or to certain types of convulsive disorders.

If the attacks continue, it might be in order to consult a neurologist, as it is not always easy to identify the exact type of disorder without special tests.

Dear Dr. Molner: A young relative living in a foreign country (on contract) has been stricken with toxoplasmosis. Could you tell me something of this disease, duration, treatment, etc.? — F. H.

This is a disease of the central nervous system caused by a parasite called Toxoplasma gondii. It is widely distributed over the globe and appears to be spread by various wild as well as domestic animals. The disease is often associated with trichinosis or "pork worm disease." While the exact mode of transmission is yet to be pinned down, the disease is sometimes found to follow eating of undercooked pork or rabbit.

The eyes often are involved, in the form of uveitis.

In babies, the outlook with this disease is, frankly n o t good; with adults it is better. Treatment is a complicated program with pyrimethamine and sulfadiazine. Not infrequently, however, milder cases subside after many months without specific treatment.

Dear Dr. Molner: What could this be? I have something like an ulcer on the ball of my foot which won't heal. It is a deep hole with a hard ring like a corn around it. It started like a large corn. After two or three months the corn came out and a little blood dripped from it. — S. J.

Certainly appears to be an ulcerated corn. Infection is common in these, and can involve the deeper tissues of the foot and possibly the b o n e. There's no home remedy for it, but it should be treated by your doc or a podiatrist to prevent spreading of infection deeper into the foot.

Note to Mrs. B. H.: These "warts on the main organ" may be of different types; the only advice.I can give is that he see a doctor and find out what to do about them.

Silver Coins in Acute Demand As BC Investors Hoard Supply

VANCOUVER (CP) — The banks call it "acute" and some businessmen call it a "state of desperation."

But no matter what the description, all agree that silver coins are, to say the least, in short supply in Vancouver.

Businessmen who depend on a constant circulation of coins say that because of hoarders there simply are not enough coins going the rounds in the area.

The banks agree. They're especially short of fifty cent pieces.

The public, as opposed to coin collectors, has been hoarding silver coins because many coins contain more silver than their face value, say bank spokesmen.

David Wook, a businessman who runs a number of coin-operated vending machines, describes the situation as desperate.

Like other operators, he now must keep one of his trucks roaming the city circulating coins to various companies requiring change. But the truck can't keep up with the demand.

"We have been trying to supply dealers with coins so they could put them in their machines but it has reached the stage where we can only deliver to a few companies."

He said the main British Columbia branch of a large bank here—"a bank that should have coins if any have them"—can't not supply enough coins to keep his business going.

Robert A. Levy, owner of a coin-in-dealer shop here, says people are hoarding 25 and 50-cent pieces and silver dollars. Those minted before mid-1967 now contain more silver by today's values than the face value of the coins. Those minted after mid-1967 have less silver.

Silver now is selling in excess of $2 an ounce.

The only catch is that it is against the law to melt coins for profit. The government is faced with the problem of converting their paper profits into real money.

The United States now is started on a plan to bring in silver coins and melt them to retrieve the silver, producing new coins of a nickel-alloy composition.

Canada has announced its intention of producing the new types, said Mr. Levy.

Mr. Wook said vending-machine operators have been told by the government to expect the new nickel-alloy coins in October.

U.S. Banks Deny Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Banking leaders deny charges made in a congressional study that the power of some of the country's banks in the U.S. is snowballing dangerously.

"Misleading," said a spokesman for New York's chairman Manhattan Bank after a study by the House of Representatives banking subcommittee was released Monday.

"Exaggerations, half-truths and ridiculous conclusions," said a spokesman for Cleveland Trust.

Subcommittee Chairman Wright Patman asked Attorney-General Ramsey Clark to look into possible anti-trust violations raised in the study.

"The American economy of today is in the greatest danger of being dominated by a handful of corporations in a single industry as it has been since the days of the trusts of the early 1900s," Patman said.

"A few banking institutions are in a position to exercise significant influence, and perhaps even control, over some of the largest industrial empires in the nation," he added.

Main thrust of the study was its contention that banks' influence is exerted largely through the estimated $607,000,000,000 assets which banks hold as trustees for pension funds, foundations, private trusts and other actual owners.

More than 54 per cent of the total trust assets in the U.S. are held by 49 banks in 10 large cities, the subcommittee said.

And these some 49 banks, it added, "hold a total of 708 interlocking directorships with 286 of the 500 largest industrial corporations in the United States."

The Morgan-Guaranty Trust Co. of New York was listed in the report as holding large blocks of stock in Trans World Airlines and United Airlines.

Downward Trend Is Forecast By U.S. Economic Indicators

NEW YORK (AP) — Speaking economically, July may be remembered as much more than the midway point in a booming but troubled year for the United States. A year from now, July might also be recalled as the beginning of a new economic phase.

As the U.S. economy enters the second half, or the new phase, consumers are spending heavily and debt is rising. Unemployment is only 3.5 per cent of the labor force, but credit is costly, prices and wages are rising, and taxes are rising too.

Although the defects and needs of the urban economies are being exposed as never before, the problems and imbalances of the rural and farm economies are great also: Farm expenses are high or rising, while prices received are slipping.

In general, the economic boom, now more than seven years old, is so badly out of balance that prices are rising at the rate of four per cent a year. Many of these rising household costs are those they can't be avoided: in rents, medical and dental care, food, clothing.

Already the economic indicators, whose statistical arrows that point to future events, have begun to tilt downward, anticipating a slowdown because of a promised $8,000,000,000 cut in government spending and a 10-per-cent surcharge on personal and corporate incomes, scheduled to begin this month.

Gradually, as money is taken out of the economy the rate of unemployment should begin to rise, perhaps reaching more than four per cent of the labor force in the next six months This is one of the painful ironies of any slowdown.

Wage increases likely will continue at a rate of six per cent or so for a matter of months but will become increasingly difficult to obtain. Consumer spending may drop even though it hopefully, price increases will moderate and credit costs drop.

By early next year it may well be a brand-new economy— perhaps even threatened with recession.

There is a good chance the country will be clamoring for more expansion of the economy, for more jobs, for lower taxes and perhaps even for a bit more government spending.

Although this may be a new phase of the economic boom, or even the end of it, the excesses and defects of the last seven years aren't likely to be forgotten. Fundamental changes are being considered.

Medicare Will Require Better Facilities Use

SASKATOON (CP) — Universal medical care insurance will require better use of the facilities of health facilities, the Canadian Nurses' Association was told today.

Dr. J. N. Crawford, deputy minister of national health and welfare, said physicians will take over such responsibilities as pre-natal care, well-baby checkups, care of the elderly and rehabilitation because of the pressure placed on physicians by an increased demand for services.

In a reply, Dr. Robin F. Badgley, chairman of the department of behavioral sciences at the University of Toronto, told the more than 1,000 CNA members that Canada may be playing "an expensive and dangerous game of blindman's bluff" by assuming that money spent on medical insurance will improve the population's health.

Other speakers are major speakers in a discussion of national medical care insurance on the first day of the CNA annual convention.

Dr. Badgley said there is little evidence to prove that people will use health services if economic barriers are removed or that universal care will reduce disease sharply.

"We may be in danger of supporting programs which are little or no impact on the health of the people—moved to a level which will become well established, well accepted and utterly useless."

He said it is easier to ask for "more doctors, more nurses and more hospitals" than to examine the efficiency of existing programs.

He called for a fraction of governments' health budgets to be set aside "for the critical and impartial appraisal of the total system of health services."

Dr. Crawford said nurses will have to revise education programs to prepare students for broader responsibilities.

He predicted most provinces will have established medical insurance plans in co-operation with the federal government within a year and nursed duties will expand.

Nurses would work outside hospitals as an "extension of the physician's practice in the community" and do more ad-vanced clinical and screening work than they do now.

Ohio Teacher Killed By Parcel-post Bomb

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Daniel J. Rozek, a teacher who would have been 34 today, received a six-inch-long, cylindrical package in the mail Monday. The package exploded in his hands, killing him.

The mailman who delivered the package, Herbert Harding, said it had been forwarded from Columbus, and the Columbus address on the package had been scratched out.

Harding said Rozek often received mail forwarded from Columbus.

It was the second such death in Lorain County this year. A bomb package received by bus killed Samuel Hanfmeon Jr., 48, at his home in Avon Feb. 24.

The FBI linked that death to a love triangle involving a California man and woman. The California man's body was found later in a pond and no charges were pressed in the case.

Hamilton Has Ideas for Hire

OTTAWA (CP) — Alvin Hamilton has 20 years' accumulation of ideas, and he's ready to travel.

The former teacher, air force navigator, political organizer, cabinet minister and frontbench idea-man is "at liberty."

And his ideas are for hire.

Mr. Hamilton, one of several top Conservatives defeated in last month's election, plans to take a holiday.

After that, he said Monday, he'll come back to his home in the Ottawa suburb of Manotick and make himself available.

He said he is willing to work for provincial governments, foreign governments or private enterprise—on a contract basis.

"I wouldn't want to be tied down. I'd never make a good civil servant."

He's also weighing one university offer but has no plans to write. "I don't think I'm a good writer."

As a consultant, the 55-year-old former economics and agriculture minister is offering what he calls "the ARDA technique."

He attributes the ability to draw from various disciplines to work out a coherent solution to a problem that the economist, the geographer or the sociologist can't solve alone.

It is also ready to move back into politics at the drop of a suitable byelection.

After winning five elections in a row and spending 11 years as one of the party's top men in the House, Mr. Hamilton might reasonably have expected an easy run in the last election.

But his Qu'Appelle constituency was sliced up in redistribution and he moved to Regina East, where an NDP upswell he says he's not griping about the result.

"The regret in my case is that when you've reached your prime with so many ideas sitting ready, it's a bit of a heartsearched, waiting for a chance to utilize them, and suddenly the void—you don't know what the future holds."

Eleven years in Ottawa had given him a chance to solidify the "vague" ideas he brought into the first Diefenbaker cabinet in 1957.

"You just feel that when you come to the stage where you can do some good, you're cut off."

Strictly Personal

Regulation or Meddling?

By SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Antics with Semantics:

If it's going to help me, it's "government regulation"; if it's going to hurt me, it's "bureaucratic meddling."

My favorite example is "irony"; your remark was "sarcasm"; his remark was an "insult."

The self-evident proposition is one that is evident to yourself, if not to anybody else.

The retiring President of the U.S. National School Boards Association has come up with a fine one: A "premium bribe" is that community organization which opposes the school board's goals; a "civic group" is the community organization which agrees with the board.

Burning someone at the stake is "barbarous"; doing the same thing with electricity is simply "capital punishment."

Does anyone else remember Peggy Joyce's famous definition of "alimony" as "A system by which, when two people make a mistake, one of them keeps paying for it"?

A "treaty" is an agreement between nations not to break their word unless conditions make it advantageous to do so: a "pact" is an agreement between two nations to act the same way toward a third.

What is called in America a "Nehru jacket" is called in India a "prisoner's uniform" — for it is what Nehru refused to discard after his release from jail, as a defiant symbol of his continuing civil disobedience.

In medical parlance, the expensive diagnosis: "A subclinical infection with an iatrogenic origin," simply means "we can't find anything and we don't know what causes it."

"A vandal" is someone else's youngster doing what it you would call a "prank" if your son had been involved.

Finally, is what a country fights for when it runs out of real reasons.

"Civil service" is a system that protects people from being hired by political favoritism — and then being fired by ordinary standards of competence.

I am for "compromise"; you are for "appeasement"; he is for "surrender."

A "passport photo" is what your friends secretly think you look like; a "studio portrait" is what you fondly delude yourself that you look like.

Jeane Dixon's Horoscope

Your birthday today: The coming year will generally be busy but satisfying in terms of earnings. The main problem is to stay within your plans despite attractions created by neighbors. Today's natives tend to find no recognition of their talents.

Russia Has Already Designed 50-mile Bering Strait Dam

OTTAWA (CP) — Russian scientists have already produced engineering designs of a dam across Bering Strait that would radically change the climate of the northern hemisphere.

Such a dam—about 50 miles across—would allow pumping of cold Arctic water into the Pacific, permitting warmer Atlantic water to flow across the Arctic basin.

The latest Russian proposals are contained in an article by scientist P. M. Borisov in the Soviet publication Priroda. The article has been translated into English by Russian specialist E. R. Hope of Canada's Defence Research Board.

Borisov says it would take only three years to warm up the Arctic basin with Atlantic water to the extent that Arctic sea ice would disappear.

Temperatures in polar latitudes would rise 30 to 35 degrees. Permafrost would vanish. Tundra would be transformed into cattle-raising regions. Dry steppes would reappear in present-day deserts, including the Sahara.

Canadian winters would be warmer. But the level of the world's oceans would rise only about four inches in 50 years, River mouths would be improved, production of hydro-electric power.

Borisov gives no estimate of the cost of such a mammoth project. But he says countries of the world, particularly Canada, the U.S. and Russia, would have to co-operate to bring it about.

But Isov says the project would return the earth to its climatic conditions of 4,000 to 6,000 years ago, when the Arctic basin was ice-free the year round. Cooling began about 4,000 years ago, and has lasted to the present time.

The Russian plan would overcome the great difficulty posed by current flows.

The Gulf Stream in the Atlantic, most powerful warm current in the world, pours into the Arctic basin through the Greenland Sea. But it runs smack into the outpouring Arctic Ocean. The Arctic at its very entrance thus becomes a dead end for the warm Atlantic waters.

The Russian plan would make the Arctic a transit basin. Water would be pumped out, of the Arctic at Bering Strait, allowing the warm Atlantic current to flow across it.

This warmer water would literally liquidate the ice in three years and create more cloud, which would increase rainfall and raise northern temperatures.

The ice-covered Arctic, Borisov says, "constitutes an enormous squanderer of our planet's heat."

Transfer of Arctic water into the Pacific would cool the latter ocean. But especial study had shown that the maximum cooling would be no worse than the heaviest cold spells of the last century. The maximum cooling would occur for only two years—and then only in the warm season of the year.

The Russians apparently have thought of everything—or nearly everything. Borisov says foundations of Arctic buildings would have to be reinforced if the permafrost disappeared.

"But the expenditures for this purpose will be small in comparison with the huge gains resulting from the climatic amelioration," he adds.

Subtropical crops could be grown in southern Canada, for instance.

The Soviet document describes designs for a Bering Strait dam.

The barrier would be built in pontoon sections, each some 250 yards long. These sections would be prefabricated in Pacific coast shipyards and floated to the assembly point. They would be anchored with piles or by drilling.

The top of the dam would be tilted to permit ice floes to ride up on it and spill off on the southern side.

"In the future it will even be possible, in our opinion, to establish a really planet-wide artificial exchange of water," Borisov concludes.

School Trustees Can Double Pay

TORONTO (CP) — Legislation introduced by Education Minister William Davis in the Ontario legislature Monday gives trustees of new county school boards the authority to double their present honoraria to a maximum of $300 a month.

The legislation, in the form of amendments to the Schools Administration Act forming the new school boards by early next year, also provides that a board chairman may be paid up to an additional third of the honorarium, rather than the present 25 per cent.

This will bring the maximum annual honorarium for a trustee to $3,600, and $4,800 for a board chairman.

The amendments go before the legislature's standing committee on education for a clause-by-clause study today.

The amendments also repeal a provision permitting a child of 14 years or more to be kept out of school at home or for up to six weeks in other circumstances.

Trustees will also be permitted more liberal expense accounts, extending coverage beyond transportation, convention room and meals expenses. However, school boards will still retain the power to reduce any expense account.

Other amendments will increase board payments to parents of children who have to board away from home to attend school.

In other legislature business Monday:

—A week-long debate on the $83,660,000 estimates of the attorney-general's department ended with Attorney-General Arthur Wishart accepting suggestions for improving the provincial police. Mr. Wishart had been harassed with questions and criticisms about wiretapping and other police matters during the debate.

—Mr. Wishart told the house neither police nor the courts have authority to impose conditions ensuring the voluntary return to Canada of Toronto stock promoter Myer Rush, who is facing extradition proceedings in London.

—Mr. Wishart also said the province cannot undertake to find employment for policemen let out of their jobs when provincial police take over law enforcement from small municipal forces, nor can the change be delayed while a municipality tries to find them jobs.

—Health Minister Matthew Dymond told the house his department's air pollution control division is surveying air pollution problems in the Zorra area of Essex County.

Stowaway Boy, 15, Gets Leave to Stay

HAMILTON (CP) — An eavesdropping visit for Scottish stowaway Steven Wallace, 15, of Glasgow, has been approved by his mother, immigration officials and the steamship company that owns the ship he stowed away on for seven days.

Mrs. Robert Wallace said in a telephone interview from Glasgow Monday that her son can stay in Canada as long as he wants, provided he's back in Scotland when school starts Aug. 26.

Steve hid in a pile of sacks and netting for seven days aboard the Tor Head, a freighter owned by Head Line of Montreal. He was on his way to visit a friend, George MacPherson of Milton, Ont., who emigrated to Canada with his family three years ago.

Harry Wilson, a 61-year-old Hamilton businessman, arranged for his stay in Canada after seeing a picture of Steven peeling potatoes in the ship's galley—usual punishment for stowaways.

"That boy has courage," Mr. Wilson told us in an interview Monday.

"I called up our MP and Immigration Minister Allan MacEachen, another good Scot and personal friend of mine and the immigration people said he can stay.

"I'm hoping he's here today or tomorrow."

The Montreal shipping company had planned to return him to Scotland today.

Wishart to Study Wire-tap Control

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart welcomed Monday as "interesting and thought-provoking" a suggestion by James Renwick (NDP—Toronto Riverdale) that electronic eavesdropping be made a violation of civil rights in Ontario.

Mr. Renwick told the legislature that while the Criminal Code is a federal responsibility there is no doubt as to the province's right to pass a law creating a civil right for individuals to sue for invasion of a private communication.

He suggested the provincial law could act as a stop-gap measure until Ottawa amends the Criminal Code to make electronic eavesdropping a criminal offence.

He also suggested police forces in Ontario be required by statute to obtain permission from the attorney-general before doing any wire-tapping as part of criminal investigations.

Mr. Wishart said he could generally go along with the three criteria "but I should like to study them at more length."

As to the proposed law making privacy of communication a civil right, the attorney-general said it was "something definitely deserving of consideration and something which we will look at."

Mr. Renwick made the proposals as the house debated spending estimates of the attorney-general's department for 1968-69.

But the attorney-general took issue with Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Downsview) and NDP Leader Donald MacDonald when they said it might take the new federal cabinet and Parliament up to 18 months to act.

Mr. Wishart said the matter had been thoroughly discussed at a federal-provincial conference in February, 1967, and that the provinces had agreed on the need for changes in the Criminal Code to outlaw fire-tapping.

Wishart to Give Views on Mace

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart said Monday Ontario police forces will be given a "statement of views" on the use of tear gas like chemical Mace to quell disturbances.

Mr. Wishart told the legislature the statement, while not a directive as such, would outline a view shared by himself and the Ontario Police Commission that Mace should not be used.

Shulman Says Some Insurance Adjusters Try to Bribe Lawyers to Settle Cases

TORONTO (CP) — Lawyer-members of the Ontario legislature Monday demanded that Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) give names of persons involved in his charge that some insurance adjusters offer high fees to solicitors hoping that the lawyer will persuade his client to settle car accident claims.

"The system encourages corruption," the NDP financial critic and former chief coroner of Metropolitan Toronto told the house.

In an unusual action, Leslie Rowntree, minister of financial and commercial affairs and house leader, adjourned the debate for the night at 11 p.m. before Dr. Shulman had completed his 21-page prepared speech.

The house frequently sits until midnight, especially when party spokesmen are delivering opening statements on a new department's estimates.

Estimates for Mr. Rowntree's 19-month-old department had been introduced at 9:30 p.m.

Dr. Shulman's speech was based largely on letters he received after he advertised in Toronto newspapers for case histories on car accident insurance claims. He said he received about 300 replies.

"Almost to a person their message has been the same," he said. "The message is of abuse by insurance companies, of financial losses great and small, of wasted time, wasted money and human suffering."

Among charges made in his speech:

—Insurance companies "generally" insure a client's negligence, not his safety;

—Insurance companies delay payment of claims even after fair judgments have been made in attempts to "somehow establish that their client was not responsible";

—Insurance companies in settling claims "are not there to compensate the injured or the estate of the deceased but to protect their client and to strike the best deal they can so as to cut their own losses;"

—A "personal system" permits insurance companies to say "take what we offer you or be prepared to struggle through two or three years of court proceedings";

—Insurance companies make millions of dollars from human suffering without accepting their share of responsibility;

—Part of the suffering "is for the benefit" of the Ontario bar "who try accident cases and "make millions of dollars."

—Law students are instructed to make inflated claims on behalf of clients.

—Drivers are penalized by insurance companies although no criminal or quasi-criminal findings have been made.

—Cancellation of policies without cause becomes common knowledge in the industry although the driver himself is given no reason.

Dr. Shulman drew another lawyer, Vernon Singer (L—Toronto Downsview), to his feet when he implied that his client help plaintiffs to file inflated accident claims.

Mr. Singer was ruled out of order as he tried to interrupt the speaker.

He told the chairman, Allan Reuter (PC—Waterloo South), he would take issue with anyone who made charges like those of Dr. Shulman.

The NDP critic raised another storm of protest when he said "insurance companies are not the only profiteers from this situation."

Dr. Shulman said the "faultliability" system of accident insurance settlements is no longer acceptable in Ontario and should be replaced by a system paying compensation regardless of who caused the accident.

He said fault is difficult to establish; human suffering outweighs any reasonable punishment for fault; the administration of justice is threatened by the burden of cases now placed on the courts; the proportion of premiums paid out to accident victims is less than it would be under a without-fault compensation plan which would eliminate waste, advertising expense and "the huge profits of the insurance companies."

Debate on the department's $3,208,000 estimates resumes later today.

Court Will Reconsider Bail Money Disposition

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Donald Morand of the Ontario Supreme Court ruled Monday the court should reconsider its decision that Myer Rush was too ill in Panama to appear in Toronto May 21 on a stock fraud charge.

The new hearing began immediately after his ruling. It will determine whether Mr. and Mrs. Abe Rush, Yetta Herman and Sarah Kershbaum, the accused man's parents and sisters, should forfeit $40,000 bail because he failed to appear.

Special prosecutor Clayton Powell asked that the hearing be reopened because the Crown now has had a chance to investigate medical affidavits from Panama which had prompted the earlier decision that Rush was absent for good reason. The Crown had received them only two days before the hearing, June 4.

Mr. Justice Morand agreed that the court has a duty to assure itself it has not been misled by fraudulent evidence.

Bail consists of the parents' $30,000 house and $5,000 cash from each of the sisters.

Meanwhile Rush, 43, is in jail in London, charged under Britain's Fugitive Offenders Act. He was arrested at London airport June 21 after arriving from Panama.

Shulman Complains Children Kidnapped

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Arthur Wishart and provincial police were criticized in the legislature Monday night for the handling of cases involving the disappearance of two children and a man from a hospital.

Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) said nothing had been done by police about the "kidnapping" of Valerie and John Martin from an Oakville street May 15 by private detectives although the OPP is responsible for control and licencing o fprivate investigators.

Valerie and John are the children of Ronald Martin, a Brampton English teacher, and his wife. The couple are separated with Mrs. Martin living in California, the father retaining custody of the children.

Dr. Shulman said the children were taken from their grandmother by employees of Argus Detective Agency, Windsor, Ont., and taken across the border by car.

Mr. Wishart said a police investigation into the incident has been completed and turned over to the director of public prosecutions for action.

Dr. Shulman also asked for an explanation of the disappearance of Archie McCol of Jodiwood, Ont., whom he described as the designer of the bridges for the Macdonald-Cartier Freeway.

He said Mr. McCol was involved in an accident in which another person died, but could not be charged immediately because he was too injured.

He was taken to hospital where officials were to call police to lay a formal charge when Mr. McCol was able.

Mr. McCol called but went away without making an arrest after a conversation with Mr. Martin. Dr. Shulman said the man was re-admitted to hospital for a day, transferred to a convalescent hospital in Toronto and discharged in the company of his private pilot.

Mr. McCol has not been seen since, the NDP critic said.

The attorney-general said he knew nothing of the case and asked for written details so he could investigate.

Strikers Picket Trenton Town Hall

Postal Report Is Due

OTTAWA (CP) — The decision on whether Canada will have a postal strike this month comes closer today with presentation of a conciliation board report in the dispute.

The 24,000 letter carriers and postal clerks can legally strike seven days after the report is received by Chairman Jacob Finkelman of the public service staff relations board.

The three-man conciliation board, headed by Prof. Andre Desagene of Laval University, is to present its recommendations some time today. But they are not expected to be made public immediately.

More than 90 per cent of the workers, members of the Council of Postal Unions, already have voted to strike if a satisfactory settlement is not reached.

The postal clerks now earn $2.75 an hour or $5,735 a year while the letter carriers earn $2.63, the equivalent of $5,485 annually.

Price Spiral Slowed

OTTAWA (CP) — There is evidence that the speed with which consumer prices have been rising may be tapering off, if only temporarily.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics' announcement Tuesday of the June index—154.7 compared with 154.3 in May and 148.8 in June last year—showed a slackening in the annual rate of increase.

Three months ago, the consumer price index was rising at a rate of more than 4.5 per cent a year. In June, this rate was below four per cent—3.96 or less.

The summer months are usually characterized by smaller increases in living costs.

Vehicles Towed Off

By DON MacKENZIE, Staff Reporter

The Ontario department of transport safety check is knocking cars off the Belleville streets like a flyswatter hits flies.

Eleven of the 246 vehicles checked last week were in such bad shape that the plates were taken from the owners right on the spot. This ratio, 4.4 per cent, is above the average in checks in other cities.

To the tow-trucks go the cars and many of the owners whose plates were taken won't be bothering to make repairs.

Safety officer Robert Jones said that one man just broke down and cried when the test results were told him.

Looks are deceiving and this maxim holds especially true with automobiles.

According to figures released by the department of transport, only 10 per cent of all cars checked in the province for safety are passed.

And the rest are judged unsafe for the roads due to one defect or another, but in most cases the required repairs are minor and plates are not

Fewer Negroes Now Re-enlist

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negro re-enlistments in the U.S. Army have dropped dramatically, says a Pentagon report covering 1967.

Officials are reluctant to link racial unrest with the slide of Negro first term re-enlistment rates from 66.3 per cent in 1966 to only 21.7 per cent last year.

The report also reflects a decline in white first term re-enlistment rates from 30 per cent in 1966 to 12.8 per cent in 1967.

Biafra Fears Famine Relief Would Be Poisoned By Nigeria

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada stands ready to help alleviate starvation in Biafra, the rebel eastern region of Nigeria.

The problem is not one of relief supplies or transporting them but a political question, an external affairs department spokesman says.

Nigeria and breakaway Biafra have been fighting a civil war since last year. The food problem in Biafra now is so desperate that it will take a massive air or road lift into the region to cope with it.

At the request of the International Red Cross, Canada approached the Nigerian government to find out whether relief supplies could be moved into Biafra. This country gives diplomatic recognition to Nigeria, a Commonwealth partner, but not Biafra.

Nigeria said it was prepared to co-operate provided that satisfactory arrangements for relief shipments could be made with Biafra.

The Biafran rebels apparently fear that any food supplies coming to them through Nigeria would be poisoned by the Nigerians. They accuse the Nigerians of genocide—race slaughter. Nigeria denies the charge.

Nigeria maintains that Biafra wants to use direct food shipments from other countries as a political weapon to help stake out its claim to independence.

In the meantime, it has been estimated that as many as 1,000,000 of Biafra's 12,000,000 people will starve to death unless something is done soon.

Many countries have offered aid but their outstretched hands seemed to be tied by the political question.

The Red Cross is not affected by the question of diplomatic recognition of Biafra and would come, in the opinion of officials here, to be in the best position to try to solve the relief problem.

One plane chartered by the Red Cross crashed in an attempted landing in Biafra.

Britain and Red Cross Trying To Arrange Relief Shipments

LAGOS (CP) — British and Red Cross officials teamed up Tuesday on the gargantuan task of keeping alive about 5,000,000 inhabitants of about 20,000 square miles captured by federal Nigerian troops from secessionist Biafrans.

A British relief mission headed by Lord Hunt flew back to this federal capital after a study of refugee problems in the Midwest Region.

Lord Hunt and Dr. Wolfgang Bulle, field co-ordinator for the International Red Cross, will go to another area.

Lord Hunt is studying ways of spending a £250,000 British grant for emergency relief.

The Biafran government reaffirmed Tuesday that the only way to save lives in parts of the Eastern Region still under its control is an "immediate cease-fire and the creation of conditions which would enable the refugees to return to their homes."

Hunt said he was told in Benin in the Midwest Region that 50,000 persons were in need of immediate food and medicines.

In Geneva the International Red Cross committee said it has flown between 150 and 170 tons of medical supplies and urgently needed food to Biafra since February.

In the same period, slightly more was flown to federal Nigeria, an official of the all-Swiss committee said.

Compromise Hinted In Brewery Strike

TORONTO (CP) — A spokesman for 3,000 brewing industry workers left idle by a strike and lockout which has shut off Ontario's beer supply said Tuesday night their union is willing to meet industry officials in an effort to reach a settlement.

Harry Simon, spokesman for the striking members of the United Brewery Workers, Local, Soft Drink and Distillery Workers of America, said in an interview that union officials are ready to negotiate to reach an agreement.

"We are not strike-happy," Mr. Simon said. "We are waiting for the companies to change their position. The companies locked us out. It is entirely up to the employers."

A spokesman for the brewing industry expressed surprise at Mr. Simon's statement.

"If they are willing to compromise, they should tell the industry and on what basis they are willing to compromise," he said. "If they are in a mood of compromise and conciliation, we can get together."

There have been no negotiations since the strike and lockout began June 21.

But while industry and union officials appeared optimistic, $600,000 worth of bottle and keg beer sat unrefrigerated in a downtown Toronto warehouse while pickets debated whether it can be moved.

The pickets said they will vote today on whether they will allow Brewers' Warehousing to move the 125,000 cases of bottled beer and several thousand kegs.

Britain Protects Colored

LONDON (Reuters) — The House of Commons passed today a bill to protect Britain's 1,000,000 Negroes and Asians against discrimination in housing, jobs and other economic fields.

The bill passed after an all-night debate in which a powerful block of Opposition Conservatives rebelled against their party leaders. The vote was 182 to 64.

Forty-four Conservatives voted against the bill, although official Opposition policy was to abstain.

Quinton Hogg, chief Opposition spokesman on interior affairs, was shouted down by Conservative members when he told the House he was dismayed by racist feelings recently expressed in Britain.

Bomb-carrying Youths Escape

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A Secret Service agent fired one warning shot at two Negro youths he caught approaching Governor Ronald Reagan's home with two firebombs Tuesday night. The bombs did not ignite.

One youth jumped into a car which sped away and the other outran pursuers, which by that time included state police officers, the Reagan aide said. Neither youth was caught.

Scores of others were treated for minor injuries at first - aid centres at the scene.

Richard Sharpe, 13, checks out the steering of his soap box derby entry, "Cool Cat." He will race against a possible 50 other entrants at the Catharine Street hill on Saturday.

Soapbox Derby Entrant Set for the Big Race

With a growl and then a roar, "Cool Cat" emerges from the pits at 59 Frank Street. Piloting the vehicle is Richard Sharpe, 13.

"Cool Cat" is Richard's hope of victory at the Road Angels sponsored Soap Box Derby at Catherine Street Hill on Saturday.

With the help of a few friends, who add a little muscle power to the rear of the project, Richard pilots the soap box racer out to the roadway for a trial run.

This trial run will be the third for Richard who spent three months constructing "Cool Cat" for Saturday's races. Even though there are approximately 50 entrants in the race he's still confident of victory.

His derby car, painted green, is equipped with single drag brakes and steering. The work was done in his father's garage and he did it all himself, complying with derby rules.

Richard's car is sponsored by Canadian Tire.

What's going to happen to "Cool Cat" after the race? Richard doesn't know. However, sure of one thing. He's going to start on next year's racer as soon as possible.

Security Clause Disputed

Strikers Picketing in Trenton

By BOB AVERY
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton's municipal building was being picketed early this morning as 31 public works employees went on strike.

The long - threatened strike by the Canadian Union of Public Employees, local 799 became a reality at 6 a.m.

Strike action was called after town council and the union could not agree on a job security clause listed in the conciliation board report.

The clause stipulates that say work being done by the CUPE would not be contracted out during the agreement.

Council labelled this "an infringement of management rights" and pointed out there had never been any lay-offs in the past as a result of outside contracts.

Douglas Lindsay, national representative for the CUPE, said council had "taken a backward step".

He said council's own representative on the board had backed the job security clause.

All other demands by the union were met, including a six wage increase over two years.

Members of the union on strike are responsible for road maintenance and sewer repair.

Town clerk O. W. Larry sees no immediate need for worry as there is no large construction going on in these areas.

"They have been talking strike for a long time," said Mr. Larry, "so we were not taken completely by surprise."

The town clerk could not estimate how long it would be before residents of the town would feel the effects of the strike.

Concerning sewers, he pointed out that the workers involved were responsible for "the cleaning out of plugged sewers." But he could see no immediate problems in this or road maintenance.

Mr. Lindsay has other views.

"The only thing (sewers and roads) will go to hell," he said.

The union members will picket the building as long as possible said Mr. Lindsay in order to "close it down as long as we can."

Mr. Larry said he cannot say the strikers "doing any real harm" by themselves, but he noted the union had tried to sway the garbage workers this morning. They are under private contract and the attempt was unsuccessful.

Mr. Lindsay added that there were other town employees who seem to sympathize with those on strike, but due to private contract were unable to do anything.

Tax Exemption Scheme Bombarded by Councillors

Ontario's basic shelter exemption — the newly hanged and residential tax rebate scheme — came under bombardment in Hastings County council today.

The criticism was launched during debate on charges of inequalities in the property tax system as council entered the second day of its mid-summer session in Belleville.

Included in the broadsides were cynical chuckles at the fixed 10 per cent exemption that extends rebates to owners of summer cottages.

Reeve William O'Brien of Wollaston township drew applause from the floor when he quoted the instance of a U.S. lakeside cottage owner in his township who applied the exemption against his property taxes.

As a result, the owner didn't have to pay any taxes, said Reeve O'Brien.

But, on the same lake, the local owner of a vacant lot had to pay an $8 tax bill.

"It doesn't seem fair to me," puzzled Reeve O'Brien.

Thurlow reeve Horace Casey dubbed exemptions on cottages and hunting camps "absolutely ridiculous."

A cottage owner also is drawing the exemption on his assessed...

Plates of Cars Seized

seized.

Here, Belleville came in above average . . . but not by much, two cars.

The ten cars that were checked last week by the department of transport and Belleville city police only 27 were accepted.

Eleven were towed away.

"It doesn't give me a very good feeling not to need knowing how many more unsafe cars there are out there," said Chief Douglas Crosbie.

However, a note of optimism . . . 31 of the cars were rechecked after they had been seen by the nearest mechanic and were passed.

Then, a note of pessimism, the other 179 cars did not come back and nobody knows if their defects were corrected.

According to one official of the department of transport the Highway Traffic Act section dealing with vehicle safety is "30 years outdated."

As an example he referred to Section 35 (1) of the Highway Traffic Act which says that "every motor vehicle, other than a motorcycle, . . . shall be equipped with at least two braking systems, each with a separate means of application and effective on at least two wheels."

Most cars have four wheels.

However, the inspectors have to stick to the law and they have only two alternatives . . . remove the plates at the spot or lay charges.

Thirty-two charges were laid during the safety checks last week, according to the figures released by the police department.

And the checks will be continuing this week.

Housing Starts Increase

Dwelling units started during May increased all across Ontario according to the latest report from the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

June figures have not yet been released.

Starts totalled 8,578, a 4.4 per cent increase over the 8,213 units started in May of 1967.

Also on the increase were the number of NHA loans which were approved in May of this year.

They gained 27.7 per cent to 3,093 approvals — May 1967 saw only 2,421 units approved.

Starts in Belleville went up from 18 in May of 1967 to 53 in May this year.

From January to May this year the city has had 85 starts compared to only 32 the year before.

Completions have also increased locally from 27 to 46 and the largest construction category remains the same at 102.

Hastings County Approves $1,700,000 for School Expansion

Hastings County council has agreed to debenture nearly $1,700,000 for school expansion programs — pending provincial government approval.

But the move was marked by virtually a lone battle against a major part of the financing by council's only woman member — Tweed reeve Barbara Allen.

For Reeve Allen and her fellow councillors yesterday was an active day in the council chambers as the county government devoted the opening session of its mid-summer assembly to education problems.

The session saw council:

Agree to seek — over Reeve Allen's protests — approval for a $1,398,000 debenture covering expansion cost sat the Centre Hastings High School at Madoc;

Approve a $300,000 debenture — also pending provincial government endorsement — for a new area public school at Hermon, in Mayo township;

Adopt a by-law to set up the switch from local to county-wide school boards at-chon councils in the throes of the re-organization.

The upcoming changeover was the underlying factor of Lunch of yesterday's debate by the Hastings county government.

It predominated in Reeve Allen's lone fight against the Madoc high school issue as she lackled school board officials and her fellow councillors before losing 22-2 on a recorded vote.

The woman councillor vigorously fought the proposal that the county issue $1,398,000 in debentures for the Madoc school now being extended to meet increased enrolment when it becomes a composite institution under the new county system.

Instead, she wanted the debentures to be assumed next year — by the new county school board.

While thought must be given students, she felt some feeling should be spared for their taxpaying parents.

"Why does it have to be now?" she demanded. "Why does the county have to be burdened. . . ? Why could there not be a smooth transition in 1962 and let the new board sell the debentures?"

Assistant school superintendent Leslie Reid replied that the answer was easy:

The Department of Education had informed local school authorities not to await inauguration of the new school administration system to begin tackling its foreseeable problems.

"This is going on all over the province. This isn't peculiar to Hastings County," he added.

The plan was to issue tenders in early fall and build the additional areas through the winter. In the interim, student overflow would be housed at the Madoc armory.

Mr. Allen believed that by delaying the debenture issue better interest rates would be procured on the money market.

Marmora Reeve William Shannon was the first councillor to come to Mr. Reid's defence, reminding council it already had endorsed the new composite system last year.

"... Because the need was immediate we took this step, and this council did give approval to this very thing that Mr. Reid has outlined," he said.

Public schools already were swelling the space in be located by secondary schools under composite amalgamations and delays would create "dire need."

Reeve Shannon confessed the dispute was "embarrassing" and hoped school board officials would have "the fortitude to continue and implement the decision that was made last year."

"Last year's decision was an administrative decision," retorted Reeve Allen. "It had nothing to do with a building program."

"It was more than an administrative decision," countered Stirling reeve Don Rodgers. "We endorsed this program and we asked for it and the board is now trying to implement it."

A school area the size of Hastings County required planning, he added.

"You can imagine the embarrassment and difficulties this board is going to have if the program is curtailed for one year," warned Reeve Rodgers.

Reeve Jack Brown, of Bancroft, said interest rates were declining already. On the other hand, construction costs were climbing.

Of the 24 councillors present, Reeve Frank Peever of Monteagle was the only supporter for Mrs. Allen's objections when the recorded vote was called endorsing council to seek approval for the debenture issue.

However, the two dissenters had separate opinions when school trustees from North Hastings moved in immediately after seeking council agreement for a $300,000 debenture to build a new school at Hermon.

Reeve Peever felt the amalgamated school board should be left to decide the issue.

"I think it's the prerogative of the new board," he told council. "To decide otherwise would be an imposition on them."

Reeve Allen said she agreed with the construction of a new school because its need had been proven.

The need was outlined by school board chairman Daniel Kelly who said the school would serve surrounding northern communities like Boulter and McArthur's Mills while relieving attendance pressure on Bancroft and L'Amable schools.

Most outspoken support for the Hermon location came from two northern-township councillors, who decried their colleagues that life mixed more hardship in North Hastings.

Bancroft deputy reeve Earl Hawley felt Hermon was the choice geographic location for the new project.

"There's no way you can set up another school system in that particular area without creating hardship for the younger element," he said.

Enlarging established schools in the Bancroft area would mean having to transport young children up to 38 miles, he warned.

"It's not sensible — and we don't have to centralize to that extent," said Deputy Reeve Hawley.

Winter conditions also were a prime factor, reminded Reeve Edward Cuninngham of Mayo township.

In areas with no highways, northern weather conditions often made roads impassable and students sometimes cannot reach school, he warned.

Council voted to seek approval of the debenture issue.

The move was followed by endorsement of the ward system proposed by council's education committee for elected representation on the amalgamated school board.

But not before some dissenting voices were raised — notably by Rawdon reeve Burton Thompson.

The committee, headed by Reeve Allen, divided the county into six wards, electing a total of seven representatives. The crucial factor in the ward boundaries was to ensure that the northern township had a light on population, heavy on geographic sprawl — had adequate representation.

The committee, grouping the wards according to a careful equalized-assessment statistics, solved the problem by giving the 13 northernmost municipalities two representatives.

However, the grouping resulted in geographical patterns disapproved by Reeve Morton.

A man seeking election as ward representative might have some difficulties identifying with the voters in other areas of the ward, he said.

The reeve was critical of the assessment basis used by the committee in drawing the plan.

"There's such a thing as justice," retorted Reeve Allen. The county suffered geographic inequalities, she said, and it was necessary that the townships north of Highway 7 should have more than one representative.

Reeve Shannon said the committee has tried various combinations in develop "an equitable solution."

Deputy Reeve Hawley warned that North Hastings ratepayers might dissociate from the system with less than two representatives.

Reeve Morton renewed his objections as councillors supported the committee's plan.

"We're getting to the point up there in Rawdon where we have pretty well lost everything," he said. "Our council has become a small proposition anymore. We're being told what to do — whether we like it or whether we don't."

Family Service Budget Cut--$27,000

The Family and Children's Service of Hastings County has suddenly had to reduce its budget by $27,000.

The cut resulted from late arrival of Ontario government expenditure guidelines to children's aid agencies in the province, Hastings County Council learned yesterday.

Madoc reeve Tom Burnside, who also is president of the service, said the county agency had set its budget before the senior government guidelines arrived May 2.

To follow the instructions, expenditures had to be shaved — curtailing development of several projects.

Among other effects, the service will be unable to expand a foster-home project in North Hastings or fill a social-worker vacancy.

"This curtailment in the budget hasn't crippled the program for this year," said Reeve Burnside. "We're going to be able to live with it."

He doubted if the situation would be repeated in future years.

Construction Progress On New County Home Causes Disappointment

Construction progress on the new Hastings County home for the aged has caused some disappointments.

Hastings County council yesterday learned that problems at the new 110-bed Centennial Manor at Bancroft were mainly blamed on subcontractors.

The complaint was aired in a report from the county homes' board of management, read by its chairman, Reeve Delbert Harvey of Tyendinaga township.

"Your committee is not completely happy with the progress of construction . . ." said the reeve. "... The problem, however, seems to lie in almost every instance with the subcontractors."

However, residents were expected to be admitted shortly.

A former county warden, Dr. S. S. Lamb of Bancroft, has been appointed physician at the home.

Meantime, at Hastings Manor in Belleville, Dr. Van Blaksiee, who has tended home residents for years, resigned as of June 30. Dr. Clare Brant was chosen from six applicants for the post.

Hastings Council Briefs

At Hastings County Council:

Clarke Rollins, MPP Hastings, said yesterday he visited North Hastings lumber areas this week with provincial government industrial development officials.

Under discussion apparently were industrial uses for skalwood and woodchip products. However, Mr. Rollins gave no further details, although he was "hopeful" of an industry that would support "not only the area, but the county."

The provincial government has shot back a recent council resolution requesting Sunday hunting in Southern Ontario.

The government indicated it might consider the request if it involved only Hastings County.

Council filed the suggestion with its ARDA committee, after a caution from Reeve Donald Rodgers of Stirling:

"I'd expect there would be a considerable influx of (Sunday) hunters in Hastings County if no other county is going to follow suit."

The county still has to appoint a deputy to clerk-treasurer Carl Bateman.

Since council's last session, Port Hope accountant Edward Smith was chosen from 25 applications. His posting was brief. Shortly after, he accepted a business offer and resigned county employment at the end of June.

Heart Victims

Heart attacks of any intensity are not to be trifled with, despite the fact that complete recovery may be made from them and the patient emerge fitter than ever.

It is a pity a man must suffer such a setback before deciding there are limits to the strain he can place on his constitution. Yet this can be nature's way of issuing a warning and saying it is time to slow down, temporarily at least.

Quebec Premier Johnson is a case in point. All set to visit France, and following a prolonged period of political activity involving Québec's status and federal-provincial relations generally, it is no wonder Mr. Johnson was beginning to feel the strain.

The Quebec leader was reported in cheerful mood when newsmen saw him briefly in his hospital room only a day or two following the attack. His even lighting of a cigarette which in the circumstances seemed inadvisable.

Then again, it may depend on how heavy a smoker a man is. However, Mr. Johnson might better take up jogging — that master revitalizer so beloved of the folks "down under." For instance, famed New Zealand coach, Arthur Lydiard, recommends jogging for people who are out of condition including victims of heart attacks. It is done under medical supervision, depending on the person's degree of fitness, and is designed simply to improve circulation and strengthen the heart itself.

Mennonites Move

A group of Mennonites from Alberta, unhappy over provincial government efforts to further their education along with the rest of the population, and apparently anxious to achieve a greater measure of religious freedom, have set off for Bolivia.

They entrained recently for Miami and from there they will fly to Bolivia. Some remained behind and not surprisingly they were younger members of the sect who are quite content to remain in Canada. The strict and secluded life of the Mennonites and the aspirations of today's younger generation of whatever belief could scarcely be more at odds. One is reminded of the tragic plight of the population of Tristan da Cunha, evacuated to England after volcanic action rendered their remote South Atlantic haven inhabitable some years ago. Once exposed to the trappings of modern life no young person could easily return to the primitive life that went before. And while some of the older folk returned in due course the younger ones remained.

How the Mennonites will adapt to life in Bolivia is another matter. To start all over again after lifetimes spent here is bound to present many difficulties. And in the shaky state of affairs that is virtually the permanent status of the countries of Latin America conditions will be all the more uncertain.

As for religious freedom the countries of this region are not noted for their tolerance of alien religions. The Mennonites and their church group is only one among several living in Alberta, may find they are making a move they will live to regret.

U. S. Visitors

The popularity of Belleville and Quinte waters with northern New York yachtsmen has been demonstrated once again by the influx of visitors from Rochester and other points during the July 4 weekend.

The trouble is, docking space at Belleville is inadequate for any large number of visitors. This was apparent during the U.S. holiday period.

About 25 yachts were obliged to anchor at Sandy Cove, about three miles east of Belleville. In all there were about 50 U.S. cruisers and sailboats in Quinte waters.

The potential here is obvious. If Belleville can provide more docking space the city will be able to welcome that many more seeking visitors — and not just on holiday weekends but throughout the summer as well.

Under One Roof

One of the more costly facets of Government is the dissemination of information . . . the endless grind of facts and figures about the operation of the various government departments.

Each ministry has its information officers — there are some 400 of them in all — and Prime Minister Trudeau has indicated that this entire information service might be better off under one roof.

The idea has merit. Britain for instance has its Central Office of Information . . . and it may be just coincidence, if not something of a steal, that a comparable department is likely to be established in Ottawa under the title of Central Information Office.

Double Talk in Moscow

Political Implications Behind the Arms Race

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Double talk emerging from Washington and Moscow testifies to the anxiety of military leaders and their political allies in both capitals to hang on to their budgets.

Premier Kosygin had barely picked up President Johnson's insistent invitation to launch talks about limiting missile might before Soviet party chief Leonid Brezhnev unleashed a denunciation of America's "rotting, degrading, decaying society."

There also have been pointed warnings in Soviet military circles about losing the arms race to the U.S.—echoing similar leakage from the Pentagon here.

While Johnson was wooing Kosygin on disarmament, Defence Secretary Clark Clifford was leaping to the defence of the decision made last year to launch a $5,000,000,000 "thin" anti-missile defence against China.

Clifford reacted to a Senate thrust to kill the program by calling such a move a "serious mistake."

The pending U.S.-U.S.S.R. talks on limiting missiles bristle with technical and political difficulties and may develop like those seemingly-interminable negotiations in Paris on Vietnam.

The chief value, until something concrete emerges, will be the contact itself.

But the hard-nosed military establishments and their political allies in both capitals have given little indication of offering co-operation toward a scaling down.

The New York Times says of the Brezhnev attack that the "juxtaposition of conciliatory words and deeds must inevitably stimulate further speculation about differences between hawks and doves in the Kremlin politburo."

Kremlin watcher Victor Zorza describes in some detail a printed counter-attack by Soviet military's who say—like their American counterparts—that expansion of weapons forces is the best defence.

Zorza says the Soviet Union in recent years has given its military just about what it has asked for in spending money but that capital investment has had to be sacrificed in agriculture and industry and a crunch has developed on priorities.

The U.S., now spending about $80,000,000,000 on defence, decided to begin building the anti-missile defence as much for political reasons as military.

The basic premise was that the Soviet Union had begun one.

But the anti-missile system around Moscow is regarded as a pretty modest project, say such authorities as the Institute of Strategic Studies in London.

Former vice-president Richard Nixon, favored to be Republican presidential nominee, is an example of the political pressure for building the missile defence even though many think it will be obsolete by completion.

Nixon charges the U.S. is falling behind in the missile race and may be right in the sense that the two powers now are roughly on a par.

Nixon thinks that attack from the 1960 campaign of the late John F. Kennedy, who used it at a time when it was not really true.

Anyway, there is pressure on the U.S. government to keep the guard up while reaching for solutions to limit the arms race and while both sides have internal dissent.

That likely is why the talks have been set up.

The Great Marijuana Debate

Montreal Star

In a most interesting article in the B.C. Medical Journal last August, Dr. Conrad J. Schwartz, assistant professor of psychiatry at the University of British Columbia, said there was no evidence of "prolonged mental illness" from the use of marijuana and no evidence of physical damage from the drug.

However, Dr. Schwartz acknowledged that as with any intoxicating drug, accidents can occur in acute stages of intoxication, that the toxic stage in some persons might persist for a few days and result in confusion and inco-ordination, that abuse of marijuana seems to carry as many dangers as the abuse of alcohol and that some foreign-grown types of the drug are suspected of causing permanent brain damage.

Obviously the layman, let alone the doctors and scientists, does not know enough. What is needed is a new approach—with more evidence, fewer myths and less emphasis on the law. In a recent issue of Science, Dr. V. A. Dohner of Bellevue, Wash. offered some useful thoughts:

"If one wishes to deter young people from experimenting with drugs (he) should do it by investigating and reporting the reasons people feel the need to escape or alter reality through intoxicating or psycho-active drugs. This includes alcohol, barbiturates, amphetamines and 'tranquilizers' as well as the psychedelic drugs. Perpetuating myths or using scare techniques will only make them more inquisitive about the drugs or more resistive to giving up the habit. Nor will severe, punitive approach deter experimentation or misuse. . ."

The Soft Life — In Canada

Windsor Star

If Canadians enjoy a better life than most other peoples of the world — and most Canadians, on careful reflection, will agree that we do so — it is because we try harder. To continue this happy state, we must continue trying.

Many of our advantages are pure accidents of nature, for which we can take no national credit. Canada has natural wealth in land, minerals, power, and location for trade. Late discovery and colonization prevented overpopulation. Our healthy climate and wide spaces are natural inhibitors of epidemic disease.

All these factors give us a natural advantage over older, overcrowded, and economically retarded countries. We cannot boast of them, because they are accidental. We can however, take pride in the energy with which we put them to use.

Canadians live a soft life today, at least in comparison to the majority of the world's peoples. But it was not always so. Canadian pioneers worked hard to turn this from a disputed wilderness to a politically stable and economically prosperous country. Succeeding generations continued the work of the pioneers. Hard work was, and is, a Canadian characteristic. We have done well with the advantages nature gave us.

But such natural advantages are still purely Canadian. The United States had about the same advantages, and has developed them in an even greater extent. Americans, person for person, are materially richer than Canadians. But material riches are not everything. And the quality of Canadian life — those things of stability and tranquility and contentment that can only be partly defined — is higher than the quality of American life. And this we can claim as a factor of our own national making.

Too much wealth, too much prosperity, too much ease, can bring softness and decay to a nation. Canada has not yet reached this stage. But Canada is much further away from it, because of Canadian energy, and moderation, and perhaps caution.

John Calvin, the Church Reformer, was born 459 years ago today—in 1509. His doctrine asserts the dogma of predestination which says God has chosen certain souls for salvation and others for damnation and these decrees are unalterable. The reformer was born in Noyes, France, where he received a chaplaincy in the Roman Catholic Cathedral. Despite most of his reform work was done in Geneva, Switzerland.

1605—Czar Theodore II of Russia was murdered.

1832—Sir William Blackstone, the English jurist, was born.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—Prime Minister Sir Robert Borden attended a meeting of the war cabinet in London. French forces attacked Courcy north of Ourcq, on the Western Front; the hospital ship Carpathia was torpedoed in the Atlantic Ocean with a loss of five persons.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—Canadian, American and British forces under the command of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower invaded Sicily under cover of aerial and naval support and seized important bridgeheads west of Pachlo on the southwest tip of the island, southeast and south of Cape Passero on the southern coast: President Roosevelt and Pope Pious XII Allied soldiers would respect "the neutral status of Vatican City". Prime Minister MacKenzie King said Canadian armed forces are "in the forefront of an attack which has as its ultimate objective the unconditional surrender of Italy and Germany."

Cuban Hijackings

Bruce West in The Globe and Mail

If those sky-riding owl-hoots continue to divert U.S. aircraft to Cuba every time they want to drop in and pass the time of day with Fidel Castro, it looks as though the airlines down there will have to go back to the old Wells Fargo stage-line practice of having some one riding shotgun.

It is perhaps a measure of how greatly times have changed that the world's most powerful nation must sit helpless and impotent, while such brazen shenanigans are carried on. You can't help wondering what might have happened by now to some small island republic sitting off the coast of the Soviet Union if seven Russian planes had been forcibly diverted to one of its airports in the past few months. Or what would be happening if pilots of several Chinese aircraft had been driven at gunpoint to land in Formosa?

I think I know what would have happened. The governments of the islands involved would long ago have been warned to either arrest the hijackers and promptly return them to the mainland — or suffer the consequences. And I think you can depend on it that such advice would be heeded.

But, with the United States, it's different. It's a case of arm stern words or actions in regard to the current series of hijackings could set off a terrible ballaboo all over the world. The Fair Play for Cuba boys would be weeping copiously and here in Toronto you'd probably have to step lively to get a place in the picket line in front of the U.S. Consulate.

Thus, behind the glittering statistics remains the fact that the countries—together as they had individually—still rely on agricultural exports.

Their major market, of course, is the U.S. and continuous rumblings in Congress for protectionist policies are the outlook gloomy for expanding Central American exports.

Nicaraguan President Anastasio Zomora Debayle, with the support of several influential economists, feels the market should develop a whole new concept centred less on internal trade and more on establishing itself in the world market. To do this he would increase tariffs on imported luxury goods and raw materials to feed the area's newer industries.

He argues for concentrating on industries using native raw materials, such as textiles and soluble coffee, that could be sold competitively.

But the country are reluctant to undertake such sweeping changes.

So after all the high-sounding pledges exchanged in San Salvador, it can be assumed that Johnson returned home deeply concerned over the future of this "working model" of economic integration which was to be an example to other areas of Latin America.

World Markets Needed

Trade Imbalance Big Problem for "Banana Republics"

By ROD CURRIE

WASHINGTON (CP)—Behind the self-congratulatory rhetoric surrounding President Johnson's weekend meeting with the heads of the five-member Central American Common Market is a growing sense of dissatisfaction with the way the market functions.

Johnson termed the market an "adventure that now is a vivid example for the entire world." And indeed in the seven years of its existence the market has made giant steps toward its goal of freeing the traditionally-unstable states from their derisive reputation as "banana republics".

Still much remains to be done in edging them into the 20th century. The meeting in El Salvador revealed wide disagreement on how the job should be tackled. Some observers even see this split as a threat to the market's future.

The five countries, with a combined population of about 13,000,000 and a total land mass not much bigger than Newfoundland, are dependent on such commodities as coffee, bananas, cotton and sugar. For the most part these products sell on a depressed market while the five pay high prices for imported finished goods.

Under the common market scheme the five—Costa Rica, Nicaragua, Honduras, El Salvador and Guatemala—knocked down tariff barriers and constructed joint economic institutions.

At the outset the plan worked wonders. Trade within the market area soomed to $200,000,000 in 1967 from about $5,000,000 in the mid-1950s, and outside capital was attracted. Unfortunately, much of the new industry relied on raw materials imported under favorable tariff allowances while the finished products were being sold within the market area.

Study Not Initiated

CIA Denies Agents in Quebec

OTTAWA (CP) — An authoritative source said here Tuesday that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency has agents in Quebec checking on the separatist movement.

The U.S. embassy at first declined comment on the report. Four hours later, it issued this one-sentence statement:

"The Canadian Press report of today which alleges that the CIA is conducting investigations in Canada on the subject of separatism has no basis whatsoever in fact."

In Washington, the CIA declined comment.

In 1965, the U.S. defence department conceded that consideration had been given to studying the potential of any insurrection in Quebec, but denied published reports that a study had begun.

The source here said the CIA is paying University of Montreal and other students believed connected with the separatists to write accounts of the movement. As a result, it had gathered much material on the internal workings of separatist organizations.

The CIA was said to be interested because of effects on the U.S. in the event of Quebec's separation from Canada.

Louis Falardeau, secretary-general of the Union Generale des Etudiants du Quebec, said presence of CIA agents on the University of Montreal campus "wouldn't surprise us at all."

Pierre Bourgault, leader of the Rassemblement pour l'independance nationale, a separatist political party, said it is possible some students are collaborating with the CIA.

Meanwhile, some students at Carleton University here are reported to be objecting to creation of professorships of military and strategic studies at five Canadian universities.

The defence department will provide a maximum of $250,000 annually for the project, scheduled to begin this fall.

Besides Carleton, the universities taking part are Acadia at Wolfville, N.S., Laval at Quebec City, Queen's at Kingston, and the University of Victoria.

Czech Liberalism Upsets Soviet

MOSCOW (AP) — With Soviet pressure on Czechoslovakia building up amid Soviet troops staying on in the country, a Moscow newspaper charged today that counter-revolutionary forces have developed in Czechoslovakia.

"Counter-revolutionary" is the strong Soviet term for those who oppose Communist party rule. It has been used to condemn the Hungarian Freedom Fighters who were crushed by Soviet tanks in 1956.

"A dividing line begins to be clearly drawn in Czechoslovakia between the sober forces executing socialism and friendship with the Soviet Union and the anti-Socialist forces, counter-revolutionary ones in fact," the article said.

The article in Literary Gazette, an often non-literary newspaper that has led the Soviet denunciations of Czech liberalism, was an attack on a recent manifesto by Prague liberals.

PRAGUE (AP) — Czech Communist leaders were reported today to be resisting pressures from the Soviet and four other East European Communist parties to hold a summit meeting on Czechoslovakia's liberalization drive.

Czech sources said the suggestion for the summit was contained in letters to the Czech leadership from the Communist parties of the Soviet Union, East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria.

A Czech party statement said the letters "give impulses to a joint discussion of certain questions which concern the interests of our parties."

It added that while the presidium "considers it indispensable to discuss thoroughly the individual questions and to adopt a standpoint on them," it favors bilateral contacts.

It also said that the Czech party regards respect for each party's sovereignty "an indispensable condition for the successful development of the individual countries."

National Assembly President Josef Smrkovsky in disclosing the existence of the letters last week, said they expressed fears that the Czech party would lose control in the democratization drive.

Mellish in Hospital After Surrendering

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Wally Mellish was in a mental hospital today, unwanted by the Australian Army or the convicted prostitute he married while holding her and their baby son hostage.

The ex-convict, who held off police for a week by threatening to kill Beryl Muddle and their three-months-old son, left his house Tuesday and surrendered when the police promised he could apply to fight in Vietnam.

The army turned him down, and the police took him to the mental hospital.

Beryl, 19, who was married to Mellish last Wednesday on the second day of the siege, said she is "through with Wally for good."

"Most of the time I was tied up with a dog chain and belt," she said in a statement. "Sometimes I was chained to a bed or a chair. I was more worried about the baby than myself. Then he decided to come out. . . . Thank God it's all over."

The police did not enforce a warrant for her arrest for failing to pay a $42 fine for prostitution.

The police surrounded the suburban house July 2 after detectives tried to question Mellish, 32, about stolen car parts and he threatened to kill Beryl and the baby. The next day Police Commissioner Norman Allan arranged the marriage ceremony and provided a wedding supper, but the bridegroom reneged on a promise to surrender.

Allan also supplied Mellish with a high-powered rifle—hoping to lure him into giving up—when the youth decided his arsenal of shotgun, rifle and grenades was inferior to that of the police.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The Dutch, Hungarians and French sometimes call corn "Turkish wheat"; the Turks call it "Egyptian corn," and Egyptians settle for "Syrian corn."

Allan was severely criticized for this, and today his aide, Supt. Donald Ferguson, said he had put a small piece of wood in the rifle's mechanism so it would jam after firing one round.

The guests included the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. George Nicolson of Frankford and the bridegroom's mother Mrs. David May of Picton. Relatives and close friends also joined in the celebration.

On the Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. May entertained several square dance couples and their families to celebrate their silver wedding anniversary.

Outstanding Benefits for Women Discovered in This Century

TORONTO (CP) — The discovery of Pap smears and the development of birth control pills are two of the most outstanding benefits for women to come along in this century, says Dr. Henrietta Banting.

She says if women would have Pap tests done often enough, from the time they are about 30, cancer of the cervix could be detected and cured at an early stage. She compared the possibility in the control of tuberculosis made possible by chest x-ray, and cancer lacks the element of contagiousness to complicate the problem.

Dr. Banting is head of the Women's College Hospital cancer detection unit in Toronto.

She says cancer of the cervix was once rated as the commonest cause of death from cancer among women. Now it can be detected years before any symptoms appear and can be prevented from developing. The difference is the so-called Pap test, developed by Dr. George Papanicolaou in 1941.

Quick, simple and painless, it uses a smear taken from the cervix to show whether or not cancer is present, even in its earliest manifestation.

"It is a technique for finding the earliest changes in cells in tissue that may later develop cancer and before symptoms appear."

With early enough detection, she says, there can be a 100-per-cent cure rate for cancer of the cervix.

The test can be done by a family physician and, in fact, Dr. Banting says she would like to see the day when there is no need for her clinic to administer it.

"Ideally this should be a part of a regular examination that a patient should expect from her family physician. If he does not do it, it's up to the woman to ask for it."

Its cost is even covered by many medical insurance plans.

Why don't more women have the test done regularly? Dr. Banting says she thinks it is a combination of a healthy person's ordinary apathy about having medical checkups and the widespread fear of cancer.

"Many people have an old-fashioned and deep-seated fear of cancer. They have the conviction that cancer is incurable and once they get it nothing can be done. There are women who know they have abnormal bleeding or a lump in a breast and they hope it will go away or they resign themselves to what they think is their inevitable fate."

Dr. Banting says Pap tests should begin when a woman is about 30, although the cancer does sometimes appear in younger women.

"When a woman has had one or two negative tests, I think she need only get one every three years until she is 45. Then the incidence increases, and I think she should have it every year."

It is possible to do a self-examination for breast cancer. The Canadian Cancer Society can tell you how to get information on the simple process.

"Then if you do find a lump, go to the doctor immediately and get an expert opinion. It might be just a simple cyst or a lump that can be watched.

"Breast cancer has a bad cure record, but I think it's because it isn't found early enough. When it is there is a reasonably good chance of successful treatment."

Dr. Banting says gastrointestinal cancers now have the highest death rate for cancer among both men and women, followed by breast cancer then cancer of the cervix among women.

She says regular examinations and preventive measures as recommended by the Cancer Society can reduce the roll of all three.

Ann Landers

Woman's Conduct Is Reverse of Culture

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you say this woman's behavior is correct I will take your word for it and not give it another thought. Mrs. X is forever turning over the cups and plates

ANN LANDERS

when she attends a tea or a luncheon to see if it is bone china or something cheaper. I have seen her take eyeglasses out of her purse and examine the silverware.

She taps glasses testing for the true ring of expensive crystal. She fingers the tablecloth to determine the quality of the fabric. She sniffs book covers to learn if they are genuine leather or plastic. Once she touched a painting to see if it was a lithograph or an oil. The hostess was visibly irritated.

This woman is supposed to be one of the Boston Brahmins — beautifully educated and cultured to the core. What do you have to say about her conduct? — BROOKLINE.

DEAR BROOKLINE: Cultured people don't examine china and silver for hallmarks while visiting friends. And I don't believe the woman you described is beautifully educated. If she were she wouldn't have to ping the crystal, sniff books and touch pictures to learn if they are the real McCoy. She'd know.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I must comment on the woman who signed herself "Mother of a Ruined Boy." Some of the details were so close to my own life that I'm sure people who know me think I wrote it.

My son is 24 years of age and he can't decide what necktie to put on in the morning. If the eggs are too hard he throws them in the sink. We sent him to three different boys' camps and he didn't stay in any of them more than seven days. He was turned down by six colleges and when he was finally accepted by a small junior college he stayed only 19 days.

If his father didn't own a business he wouldn't have a job. When a girl turns him down for a date he cries. I have a 26-year-old baby on my hands and it is my fault. I ruined this boy and I am sad and sorry. Thank you for letting me get this off my chest. — ANOTHER FAILURE.

DEAR ANOTHER: Getting it off your chest doesn't help the boy much. He has needed professional help for a long time. See that he gets it.

* * *

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl with a strange problem. It is the way my boyfriend dances. It's not that he is a rotten dancer. He is very good. Too good.

I have done everything under the sun to follow him but I just can't do the fancy steps. I've practiced at home but it hasn't helped. If he would stick to simple dancing we would get along fine but he insists on doing the show-off stuff and it's not my style.

Why would a fellow embarrass a girl like that? Is there a solution? — TWO LEFT LEGS.

DEAR TWO: I know the type. He doesn't need a partner because he's always doing a solo.

Tell him you'd be glad to do the simple stuff but when he wants to try for the cup to please let you know so you can sit the number out and he can get a girl who will help him look good.

MR. AND MRS. WAYNE DOUGLAS HOPKINS

Hopkins – Goyer

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the scene of the recent wedding when Frances Phyllis Goyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Goyer, Belleville became the bride of Wayne Douglas Hopkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie D. Hopkins of Belleville, R.R. 4. Father B. Cummings officiated at the ceremony and wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Grant who accompanied the soloist Mr. A. Vogt.

The bride, given in marriage by her father wore a full-length gown of white peau de soie enhanced with flowing train. An organza petal headdress was caught to a bouffant shoulder-length veil. She carried a nosegay of red and white carnations.

Miss Jeanette Goyer, sister of the bride as maid of honor wore a yellow crepe floor-length gown with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of yellow and white mums. The flower girl Miss Carolyn Goyer, cousin of the bride was similarly attired but carried a basket of yellow and white mums.

David Lyons attended the bridegroom, while the ushers were Paul Hopkins, brother of the bridegroom and Brian Cornelson, Ottawa, cousin of the bridegroom.

At the reception in Club Canara, the bride's mother greeted the guests wearing a blue crepe dress with lace top, navy accessories and a corsage of pink and white 'mums. The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a pink crepe dress with matching lace coat, pink and white accessories and a corsage of 'mums.

Leaving on a wedding trip to "Man and His World," in Montreal, the bride donned a long sleeved white crepe dress with pink hat and patent leather accessories.

On return the couple will reside at 71 Alexander Street, Belleville.

Welfare Projects Discussed by CWL

TIMMINS — Involvement by 69,000 Ontario members of the Catholic Women's League of Canada in community welfare projects highlighted annual reports at the 21st annual convention being held here this week.

Christmas exchange programs, volunteer services, adoption and foster home-finding, assistance to unwed mothers, concern or the aged, family counselling, visiting the sick, personal contact with those in need, and work with youth groups were some of the projects listed by Miss Mildred Cleary of Cornwall, provincial social welfare convener.

Preventive work done by several CWL councils included study of alcoholism; encouraging good literature in preference to "smut"; literature; examination of the LSD problem; involvement in the rehabilitation of women prisoners in co-operation with the Elizabeth Fry Society.

Missions at home and abroad received financial support and articles of food, clothing, toys, and drugs. Support has been pledged for the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace. A rice luncheon will kickoff the support of the organization for the peace and development program during the convention.

Study of the causes of social welfare problems in an attempt to eliminate some of the social sores were reported by social action convener, Mrs. R. J. Ellinghausen of Owen Sound. The documents of Vatican II and other social teachings of the Church formed the base of the see-judge-act program carried out in the councils. Training sessions and workshops in social action were sponsored in a number of dioceses.

Mrs. Ellinghausen recommended that the CWL give consideration to the need for marriage courses for young couples contemplating marriage.

New Canadians received financial assistance and help in obtaining their citizenship papers from CWL members who also gave courses in basic English, Mrs. W. J. O'Brien of Worcester, citizenship convener, told the delegates.

Civic projects receiving support across the province included the Red Cross, Cancer Society, March of Dimes, mental health groups, retarded children's associations, Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, United Appeal and several others. Members have taken an active part in provincial and federal elections, Mrs. O'Brien stated. Many civic boards have CWL members as active members.

WEDDING

Wells — Katterheinrich

MARMORA — The First Methodist Church of New Knoxville, Ohio, was the scene of the wedding of Kathleen Marie Katterheinrich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Katterheinrich, and William Charles Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wells, Marmora.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Raymond Thompson. The organist, Mrs. Ferd Kuck, played a medley of wedding music while Miss Ruth Niemeyer sang appropriate nuptial selections.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor length sheer organza over taffeta gown featuring Victorian sleeves and an oval neckline with appliques of Alencon lace sprinkled with pearls. Her train flowed into chapel length illusion as she carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis. The fingertip veil was held in place by a pillbox crown, trimmed in Alencon lace.

Miss Sandra Minor, maid of honor, Miss Debra Katterheinrich, cousin of the bride, and Miss Bronna McCann were the bride's attendants. All were attired in floor length, pale green organza over taffeta gowns, trimmed in green and beige embroidery on the neckline and sleeves. Their pale green veils were held in place by tiaras trimmed in iridescents. Each carried a bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

Ted Nelson of Hamilton Ont. was groomsman with Thomas Katterheinrich, brother of the bride, and Steven Shelley of Kitchener as ushers. Brian Mawer, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring-bearer.

The bride's mother was attired in a two-piece silk print. Her corsage was of white carnations surrounded by white tea roses. The mother of the groom wore a dress of pink lace over taffeta with a corsage of pink carnations and red tea roses.

The reception was held in the church social room immediately following the ceremony.

For travelling the bride wore a blue linen suit with navy accessories. On return the couple will live in Toronto.

Travel Questions, Answers

BY THE ONTARIO MOTOR LEAGUE

QUESTION: We are considering spending our holidays on Manitoulin Island. Could you give us some information about it and how to get there.

ANSWER: This should be an interesting and varied holiday. Stretching along the top of Lake Huron between the Bruce Peninsula and Sault Ste. Marie, this, jagged 100-mile island has 100 inland lakes, deer, black bass and muskellunge — even a famous Indian powwow every summer. But it is much more than this. It is also richly rural, with handsome Black Angus and Hereford cattle grazing in lush pastures, while at the same time it can look so deprived, it seems like an empty, forlorn Ontario backwater. There are 500 miles of roads so you may explore it all at your leisure, and find beautiful sandy beaches as at Providence Bay.

The accommodation is also varied; good motels, lodges, housekeeping cottages, fishing camps, tent and trailer parks.

The outstanding events are: Gore Bay harness racing, July 31 — about 2,000 people usually attend and there's a $300 purse for each race; Manitowaning Indian Reservation powwow, Wikwemikong, Aug. 3rd to 5th. Last year 7,000 people came to watch the dances; Providence Bay fall fair on Aug. 30 and 31, and a half-million dollar cattle sale at Little Current, the end of September.

To reach Manitoulin Island, take 401 to 400, then 12 and 69 to Sudbury, then 17 west to McKerrow, then south on Highway 68 to Little Current, about 430 miles on excellent roads all the way.

Or you might prefer to drive to Tobermory at the tip of the Bruce Peninsula and take the ferry. It carries 150 passengers and makes four trips a day, three hours. Advance reservations are not required but be at the dock 30 minutes before departure. Tickets are $3.50 one way, automobile $6.50.

Night driving can be very tiring. On long journeys, the effort of staring constantly down the headlight beams is quite a strain on the eyes.

You won't help other drivers if you forget to lower your headlights as you close up on them prior to overtaking. If you dazzle them, there's the added hazard that they might swerve into you if they can't see the road ahead.

When you are driving a slower vehicle and someone wishes to overtake you on an unlit winding road, do all you can to help them. Naturally, out of consideration, most drivers won't use their main beams until they have pulled out to pass you. But, this makes the decision when to overtake more difficult.

This is where you can help the other driver a lot. When it's obvious he wishes to pass you, switch on your main beams. He can then see the road ahead clearly and decide when to overtake safely.

Luggage is every holiday's problem. Naturally you will have as much as you can in the trunk. Though this keeps the inside of the car tidy, the extra weight will aft of the rear wheels can drastically alter the car's handling.

Because the car is tail heavy the steering may feel less positive. Cornering and cross winds will affect it more.

To help cure this, you can stiffen up the rear suspension quite a bit by fitting heavy load lifters to the existing springs. They are designed especially for this sort of problem and can be obtained at most large motoring dealers.

When only two people are travelling in the car make use of the space between the front and rear seats. Much of the additional weight will be ideally where it should be — between the wheels — not suspended outside the wheelbase.

WINS POSSESSION

VANCOUVER (CP) — A 100-year row over possession of the only existing portrait of Simon Bolivar, the Latin American freedom fighter, has been resolved. The International Court gave the 24-foot-high portrait to a British Columbia rancher, Marquis de Maleisaye, Bolivar's most direct descendant. But the portrait poses a four-foot problem—the ceilings in his French family mansion, where he plans to hang the portrait, are only 20 feet high.

Points for Parents

By MARY REYSON

Father: "Let's get busy and get the work done. I'll start on the garage while you wash the car."

Son: "I hate Saturdays. All we do is work."

There are ways of making necessary chores pleasant and companionable. Work with your child when you can even if you don't complete as many tasks.

Father; I'll help you wash the car. Then we'll have a cold drink and some cookies. We can listen to the ball game while we work."

CHURCH GROUPS

DESERONTO — Members of the Hi-C's of Melrose United Church recently sponsored a Strawberry Carnival. The young people were in full charge of the carnival, which was held in the church grounds. The UCW and some of the fathers relieved them of responsibility in taking charge of preparing and serving the refreshments in the Sunday School rooms.

The young folk had created a real carnival atmosphere, with a rural twist. They had arranged pony rides, hay rides, a fish pond for the children a fortune teller, and games of skill, such as ring toss and bean ball games.

These young people are to be commended for their initiative and their parents and friends for their co-operation. Melrose is part of the Quinte charge, sharing its minister Rev. William Hendry, with Deseronto.

Main Point Is Self-forgetfulness in Making Friends

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: Please send me your leaflet on "Tips On Talking". Ten cents enclosed.

Do you have any leaflets to help a person feel, they are wanted and others consider them worth making a friend of them? — Wanting Friends.

Dear Wanting: There are books about it in your library. I could send you a leaflet called "Don't Be Shy" if you thought this might help; and a list of recommended reading is on its way to you.

In the search for friendship the main point is self-forgetfulness. Contradictory? Not a bit of it. Brood over the impression you are making and there is no time at all for reaching out to someone else's feeling of aloneness.

It is an exciting exercise in imagination to look around a room and picture just how that pale girl or the tall thin boy or the gracious grandmother feels about being there.

If you are astute enough you'll spot a need not far from you. One-two-three and you take the plunge right over to fill the gap. You are off! — on an adventure in friendship.

* * *

Dear Doris: Would you please straighten me out on this: IF a girl got married on the ninth of June and had her baby on February 14th, would this mean that she was pregnant before she got married? — Not Sure.

Dear Not Sure: No. Some babies arrive early. A good deal depends on the time of the monthly cycle.

Wagging tongues have no business with higher mathematics. If the child is born within wedlock to two happy parents, that's all that really matters.

* * *

To Forty - Four and Still Kicking: Better think again. If your lack of matriculation gives you an inferiority complex, which is worse: "plowing through high school math" or spending the next 44 years feeling like a no-account?

You are above average in intelligence; do you want everything handed to you on a velvet cushion? Governments across Canada have telescoped the curriculum. You can get individual help when you need it.

Better get started. The whole project can be fun.

* * *

Dear Doris: Could you clear up a difference of opinion about serving and removing plates at a church supper? From which side do you remove plates? — Amateur Waitress.

Dear Amateur: It's a perennial argument, but here is the lowdown. From a practical Canadian authority:

You serve and remove dinners from the left.

When it comes to items which are used at the right, like beverages and dessert silver, they are served to the right of the diner.

Simple squares of gingerbread are topped with a whip made from staple supplies — skim milk powder and fruit juice. Mary Moore gives you the One-Bowl Gingerbread recipe and method for the fruit whip. Summer cottage cooks will be interested.

Gingerbread Dessert for Cottagers

By MARY MOORE

For cottagers here is a slick trick.

You can use a packaged gingerbread mix or make your own (see below). The pay-off Is the topping.

Any good cottager has a box of skim milk powder on her shelf and cans of juice in the refrigerator. Below you will see how they are combined for a whip to top gingerbread or other desserts.

ONE-BOWL GINGERBREAD WITH FRUIT WHIP

BATTER:
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ tsps. baking soda
½ tsp. salt
½ cup sugar

Legislature Debate of Matters Before Court Is Questioned

TORONTO (CP) — A New Democratic Party member expressed alarm Tuesday night at attempts to make the legislature's sub judice rule a blanket excuse of debate on all aspects of a particular subject.

James Renwick, the NDP's deputy leader, also told the legislature he finds it unacceptable that discussion of matters of public interest should be delayed until late evening to avoid the press.

Mr. Renwick's remarks followed a move by Mines Minister Allan Lawrence, who waited until the legislature was nearly adjourned to protest debate on the Ord Wallington and Co. Ltd. criminal investigation because he hoped no members of the press would be left to hear the discussion.

Mr. Lawrence was protesting a ruling made earlier by the chair when he sought to have the debate ruled out of order as a matter before the courts.

Allan Reuter (PC—Waterloo South) had ruled that debate was in order as long as Dr. Marion Shulman (NDP—Toronto High-Park) confined his remarks to relationship between the Ontario Securities Commission and the company's customers.

Four senior executive members of Ord Wallington and Co. were arrested Monday on 31 charges each of stealing $173,009 from clients of their investment firm.

As the house rose, Mr. Lawrence, on a point of order, said the debate had included matters that affected the right of individuals before the courts.

Matters affecting the rights of anyone should not be referred to in the legislature where members have privilege, he said. An inflammatory speech had been made relating to the Ord Wallington matter, and even names had been mentioned.

It was possible that public opinion could be inflamed and the rights of accused persons prejudiced. He said he had delayed his remarks until most of the press had gone.

Mr. Reuter said his decisions are based on the circumstances of each debate and he had heard nothing in the Shulman speech to prejudice any charges that might be pending.

Dr. Shulman said the Ontario Securities Commission had failed to protect the position of Ord Wallington customers who completed purchase of shares through the company after the OSC had suspended its registration.

An OSC hearing April 16, 1968, had found that Ord Wallington did not have enough free working capital to meet its commitments, he said, and its registration was suspended.

Pending a further hearing that would determine whether the registration would be reinstated or cancelled, the company was permitted to complete trade for which it already had contracted and to make deliveries of securities to public clients. It was not permitted, however, to accept new business.

Laser-beam Cane for Blind Is Demonstrated at Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — An experimental and controversial laser-beam cane for blind persons was to be demonstrated today at the annual convention of the American Association of Workers for the Blind.

The white metal cane, the only one of its kind in existence, contains three beam producers and three receptors.

A laser beam is a uniform, intense beam of pure, invisible light that has been adapted to a galaxy of scientific uses since it was developed in 1960.

The cane's inventor, Thomas A. Benham of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa., is director of Science for the Blind, which manufactures electronic aids for sightless persons.

The cane emits laser beams from its upper half and receives the beams as they are reflected from objects in the environment on receptors in the bottom section.

One beam is focused obliquely upwards and senses objects in the area of a person's head and chest. A second beam is emitted horizontally and detects walls and blockages straight ahead of a person holding the cane.

A third beam is focused toward the ground.

The receptors convert the beams that bounce off nearby objects into radio signals. A high-pitched tone is emitted when the walker is near overhead obstructions.

A low-pitched tone that sounds like a bagpipe is sounded when changes, such as steps or a kurb, are sensed in the surface.

For objects directly in front of the person, the returning beam activates a tiny plunger just below the curved head of the cane, touching the carrier's index finger.

Critics of the laser cane are opposed to it because it cannot discriminate between objects in its path as devices available today can do.

Monday a blind Canadian inventor, James Swail, demonstrated his "sonic cane," a flashlight-type device that emits ultrasonic signals and picks them up when they bounce off obstacles.

Users of Swail's invention say they can "read" the radio signals and differentiate the sound of a picture on a wall, stairsteps and doors.

Government Planning Review Of All Information Services

OTTAWA (CP) — The government plan to review all of its information services in effect continues a project begun under the Pearson administration officials say.

They add that there is no indication yet whether the review could result in a centralized information bureau to handle part or all of the work now done by information branches of the various departments.

Prime Minister Trudeau told a press conference last week that he is having the whole area of information reviewed.

He felt it was "essential that the public be much more thoroughly informed about the contents of the laws and the significance of them. . . ."

An earlier one-man study of the information services by Jean David, former Montreal newspaper man, was halted late last year when Mr. David was killed in an auto crash.

Mr. Trudeau now is considering the choice of a successor to continue the work.

Officials stress that the aim of the study is not to produce a propaganda agency or to control news but to improve co-ordination and ensure maximum effectiveness of information services.

They point to increasingly complex rules covering welfare measures, manpower retraining and other areas where citizens deal directly with government.

But Mr. Trudeau also appeared to be thinking in terms of making sure the government gets full credit for its accomplishments.

He said one area where the public should be more thoroughly informed is on "the federal spending in joint federal-provincial areas where the provinces are going to get credit for it and all this type of thing."

Federal officials frequently have been miffed by provincial signs of publicity on joint projects giving no indication that Ottawa has put up much of the money.

But some of them suggest the problem could be better solved by ensuring equal credit in the joint agreement rather than by rival publicity claims.

The question of some sort of central control for the information services has been under study since the 1962 Glassco royal commission report on government organization, which called for better co-ordination.

It said the general picture of the services was one of a "blur of diffuse activity," with growing clusters of organization and a lack of central planning.

But it cautioned against one central organization, saying:

"In a government which rests on public opinion, fragmentation of the information function may, in fact, be reassuring."

Nurses Reject Move to Raise Minimum Salary Target $1,000

SASKATOON (CP) — Salaries, vocational standards and responsibilities were reviewed at the Canadian Nurses' Association's convention Tuesday.

Delegates defeated a motion to raise the association's recommended basic salary to $7,000 a year from $6,000. The salary recommendation is for a beginning nurse with a diploma. A CNA policy statement says pay for nurses with a university baccalaureate degree should be "substantially higher."

Salaries for nurses in Canada now range from $3,912 a year in Prince Edward Island to $5,700 a year in British Columbia. The CNA endorsed collective bargaining for nurses for the first time last year and recommends that provincial associations suggest salary levels for their areas.

The meeting approved a resolution asking that education programs be gradually phased out if they train persons not qualifying as registered nurses.

Kathleen Arpin of Toronto, chairman of the CNA nursing education committee, said the policy is a "long-term goal," although demands on nurses' time may make it impossible to remove auxiliary personnel from hospitals soon.

Another recommendation, returned to committee for study, asked that vocational programs be set up at the secondary school level for auxiliary health personnel of non-nursing status.

Other statements of policy approved by the convention asked:

—A voice for nurses in policy-making in hospitals or other health service agencies where they work;

—Authority for nurses to plan, implement and evaluate the programs of nursing care they carry out;

—Freedom from such non-nursing duties as pharmacy, admitting, dietary and housekeeping chores;

—Careful study of patients' safety and nurses' legal liability before giving any new medical responsibilities to the nursing profession;

—Development of a new nursing specialty, to be called a clinical specialist, a bedside nurse with a master's degree. (she would specialize in patient care instead of administration as most nurses with advanced training do now.);

—Support for continuing education in the form of financial grants and leaves of absence for nurses.

Rush Bail Seized

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Supreme Court Tuesday ruled the $40,000 bail posted for Myer Rush was to be forfeited by his parents and two sisters because the Toronto stock promoter did not appear on a charge of conspiring to defraud the public of $100,000,000.

Rush was scheduled to appear in court here May 21, but affidavits from three doctors in Panama stated that Rush would be unable to travel to Canada to appear. He flew to London June 21 and now is in custody charged with being a fugitive.

Earlier Tuesday, Mr. Justice Donald Morand ruled the affidavits were forgeries. It was on the strength of the affidavits that Mr. Justice Morand ruled June 4 that Rush did not have to appear.

The bail hearing was reopened Monday after special Crown prosecutor Clay Powell told the court the Crown had evidence the June 4 decision was based on false evidence.

Other affidavits taken since the first hearing by an Ontario Provincial Police officer in Panama showed that the three doctors had not examined Rush.

All three said they had not signed the earlier affidavits, that their signatures were forgeries.

Bail consists of $5,000 each from Yetta Herman and Sarah Kornblum and a $30,000 home belonging to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abe Rush.

Earlier in Tuesday's proceedings, Mrs. Herman said police know who tried to kill her brother-in-r bomb blast in a mid-town Toronto apartment hotel last November, and Mr. Powell has become a party to the terrorists by refusing to prosecute them.

Photography and Photographers

The Complete Photographer by Andreas Feiniger. —

The Complete Photographer is designed as a home course in the skills, techniques, profits, and pleasures of photography. It starts from first principles and explains the techniques involved in making a photograph step by step.

To Everything There Is A Season by Roloff Beny.—During the four years to which the book took shape in his mind, Roloff Beny traversed the length and breadth of this semi - continent. Everywhere he went his cameras were his constant companions. The beauty of this book has been achieved through the eye of the painter and the sensibility of the poet; it was for this reason that he elected to use poetry to provide the link between the visual images.

Manual Of Color Photography by E. S. Bromback. — Of special interests to all photographers are the introductory chapters in this book on the nature and perception of color the nature of the photographic image, and the nature of a color photograph. These deal with the very core of the subject with the object of creating an awareness in the reader of the possibilities and pitfalls that are open to anyone who has more than a casual interest in using colour.

Darkroom Magic by Otto Litzel. — This is a book on trick photography that tells how to achieve the desired effects of mirrors, glass, grass, or anything else the photographer might be inspired to use.

Karsh Portfolio by Yousuf Karsh. — Here in this lovely volume are memorable portraits for the Karsh portfolio: John F. Kennedy, Martin Luther King, Churchill, Queen Elizabeth, and many others. Each has been captured in that rare instant when the every day mask drops to reveal the inner power of the personality.

Photography From A. to Z. by Dan Daniels. — Photography from A to Z is the ideal information book for the photographic beginner. Mr. Daniels answers the most basic questions in photography. He explains what a camera consists of, how it works, and the way shutter speeds and apertures interact to control exposure.

Canadians Are Flocking To New Jersey Resorts

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Canadians are flocking to the New Jersey shore more than ever before. And they're staying longer than they used to.

The average stay in the Garden State by vacationers from north of the border now runs 12 days, compared with a week or just a weekend a decade ago.

The reasons vary. But Canadians who responded to questions at the point of entry into the Garden State frequently mentioned promotion, hospitality, American value on the Canadian dollar and the Garden State Parkway.

The state has stepped up resort advertising on radio and in Canadian newspapers to the point where it is beginning to pay off in thousands of additional tourists each year, particularly from Quebec. It also is working with key resort communities in Atlantic and Cape May counties and with the New Jersey Travel sponsoring travel exhibits.

A pert co-ed from Glassboro State Teachers College, Betsy Umdrid, held court at the U.S. Pavilion at Expo 67 in Montreal last summer, answering dozens of questions about New Jersey in general and the shore in particular.

"It was a very successful venture on our part," said Richard Larkin of the promotion section of the state conservation department.

Larkin asserted that one of the reasons Canadians return to New Jersey vacations is the hospitality of hosts along the entire shore.

"In hotels, motels and in private apartments, the owners seem to make a special effort to generate goodwill," Larkin said. "A special survey we had taken confirmed this."

Speaking of hospitality, Canadians also receive financial dividends in many shore communities, particularly in the southern part of the state where the Canadian dollar is often accepted at par.

"This gesture of goodwill is very well received," said Larkin.

The Garden State Parkway also allows the discount rate at its toll booths for Canadian vehicles.

The Parkway is credited by many travel experts as one of the major links in the Canadian travel boom. The 173-mile-long toll road runs to the southernmost part of the state and also provides access to the New Jersey Turnpike.

Vehicles with Canadian license plates move from the New York Thruway in increasing numbers every summer on to the Hillsdale interchange of the Parkway in Bergen County for the ride south.

Occupants are given bilingual leaflets written in English and French containing general information about New Jersey and the shore.

The state conducted a survey at the Hillsdale interchange last August of 1,000 cars bearing Canadian licence plates.

The interviews showed:

—80 per cent of visitors planned to vacation in New Jersey an average of 12 days per party.

—Approximately seven of every eight headed for southern beach areas of Atlantic and Cape May counties, concentrating on such areas as Atlantic City and the Wildwoods.

Seventy-nine per cent of the tourists interviewed were from Montreal and 13 per cent from Quebec City. The remainder came from Sherbrooke, Que., Toronto, Ottawa, Saskatoon, Halifax, Winnipeg and other areas.

Forty-five per cent indicated a preference for motel living during their stay in New Jersey, 35 per cent said they intended to stay in hotels and 12 per cent planned use of camp grounds or trailer sites.

Municipal Servicing Of Land Said Cheaper

TORONTO (CP) — A select committee of the Legislature was told Tuesday that the average home buyer would save more than $10,000 if municipalities were required to service all land developed within their boundaries.

Leonard Pulver of Toronto said in a brief to the committee studying the Smith Report on taxation that private subdivision development has increased the cost of servicing a typical lot of $8,450 from $4,400 and current interest rates on mortgages have pushed the total cost of servicing to the home buyer to $17,415 over 20 years.

Mr. Pulver, associated with a firm of planning consultants, said the cost to the municipality of installing the same services would be $4,000. "If this were financed on a 20-year serial bond at 6¼ per cent, the total of principal and interest at the end of 20 years would be $7,050."

Prudential Report Truth Not Checked

TORONTO (CP) — Leslie Rowntree, financial and commercial affairs minister, told the Legislature Tuesday the Ontario Securities Commission did not investigate facts set out in a prospectus filed June 14, 1963, by Prudential Finance Corp.

"In the absence of evidence to the contrary," Mr. Rowntree said, "citizens are assumed to be honest.

"The commission staff relied on the certification by the directors made in accordance with the legislation certifying that the facts contained in the prospectus constituted 'full, true and plain disclosure of all material facts' . . ."

He was replying to Donald Deacon (L—York Centre) who asked what steps the commission took to verify the accuracy and adequacy of information in the prospectus, filed three years before the firm collapsed.

Mr. Rowntree said the material in the prospectus was examined by commission staff only to see whether it met requirements of section 40 of the Securities Act, which listed the type of information to be included in a prospectus.

Mr. Rowntree also agreed to seek a second legal opinion on whether Metropolitan Trust Co. should be charged for its activities while a trustee of a trust indenture for the defunct Prudential firm.

Mr. Deacon said Metropolitan Trust should face criminal charges for helping Prudential violate the 1966 Ontario Securities Commission order forbidding it to sell new securities.

Car Insurance System Sound

TORONTO (CP) — A United States actuary studying the use of statistics to establish equitable automobile insurance premiums in Canada has reported the system sound, the Ontario legislature was told Tuesday.

Leslie Rowntree, Ontario's minister of financial and commercial affairs, quoted actuary Allen L. Mayerson in an interim report as saying:

"We . . . find no evidence to indicate that Canadian policyholders are, in any way, being victimized by the use of improper statistical or actuarial techniques."

Mr. Mayerson was commissioned by 10 provinces last year to study adequacy and fairness of the Canadian statistical plan in establishing premiums. His study is continuing.

NL Stars' Win Makes It 6 In Row

HOUSTON (AP) — Things happen when Willie Mays is on a baseball field, and that as much as anything tells why the National League won its sixth straight all-star game against the American League Tuesday night.

Willie made the difference again, scoring the only run in the National League's 1-0 victory in the 39th all-star renewal.

His first-inning run was all the Nationals needed with six pitchers sharing a three-hit, 11-strikeout performance.

American League players hit only three fly balls all night, none of them to Mays' centerfield zone in the Astrodome.

Mays, who became a starter because Cincinnati's Pete Rose broke his thumb Saturday night, opened with a single against Cleveland's Luis Tiant.

He led off first and Tiant threw to Harmon Killebrew. Mays stepped back, then again led away. Again Tiant tossed and this time Killebrew bobbled it.

"He said the ball moved," said Tiant about Killebrew. "I guess it curved."

Mays thought it glanced off his back. At any rate, the ball eluded Killebrew and Mays took off for second.

Now Tiant turned his attention to Curt Flood, St. Louis' centerfielder who was playing left because Mays was in the National League lineup.

Tiant fell behind and on the fourth ball, he uncorked a wild pitch that flew high over catcher Bill Freehan's head.

Tiant said he crossed Freehan up on the pitch, delivering a high fastball when the catcher called for a low curve.

"It can happen a lot of times when you get a strange catcher working with a strange pitcher," said Dick Williams, manager of the American League team.

Mays moved to third and with Flood at first and none out, it looked like a big inning budding.

The American League played the infield back, hoping for a double play. Willie McCovey cracked a sharp shot right at second baseman Rod Carew.

Carew hesitated for a fleeting moment, but Mays already was bearing down on the plate, so the Minnesota infielder went for the double play. The American League didn't know it, but they had won the battle and lost the war.

"I had no idea one run would win it," said Mays. "I was just lucky enough to score the winning run."

The hit that started the rally was Mays' 23rd and the run he scored was his 30th in all-star play—both records.

The National League pitchers came through beautifully.

Don Drysdale permitted a leadoff double to Jim Fregosi and the American League didn't have another runner until Tony Oliva doubled against Tom Seaver with two out in the seventh.

Twenty batters went up and down in between against Drysdale, Juan Marichal, Steve Carlton and Seaver. There was another two-out double in the eighth by Don Wert and nothing more.

Mays' Hustle Made Difference

HOUSTON (AP) — Hustle won Tuesday night's all-star baseball game and hustle has always been the trademark of 37-year-old Willie Mays.

Mays sat slumped in the National League dressing room and told how he scored the only run of the game in a pitcher-dominated 39th all-star battle.

For Mays, the San Francisco He scarcely smiled.

As the leadoff batter for the National League, in the first inning, Mays drilled a grounder between the hole at third base and shortstop.

He started his fancy dance jigging off first base and this seemed to make the American League starter, Luis Tiant of Cleveland, nervous.

Tiant lobbed over a throw.

Mays took another leadoff. first.

"The ball glanced off my back and I saw the first baseman Harmon Killebrew wasn't going to be able to handle it, so I took off," Mays said.

Mays dashed to third moments later on a wild pitch that also walked Curt Flood of St. Louis.

Then Willie McCovey of San Francisco hit a hotshot off the hard synthetic turf to American League second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota. Mays put his head down and bolted for the plate. Carew looked to home and decided to go for the double play.

WILLIE MAYS

"I had no idea one run would win it," said Mays. "I was just lucky enough to score the winning run."

Mays is so lucky he has scored a record 20 runs in all-star competition. Mays' single, his 22nd all-star hit, also is a record. Mays is lucky!

He was named Tuesday night's Most Valuable Player.

Asked how he felt about setting all-star records, Mays said: "Damned fine."

"I'm glad I was able to score the winning run," Mays said. "I wasn't supposed to play."

Mays the captain of the National League, wasn't picked on the starting team in his 15th all-star game.

Then Pete Rose of Cincinnati broke a thumb, leaving a spot in the starting outfield.

Mays refused to downgrade the American League although it was losing its sixth game in a row in the series.

Majors' Best Bats Tamed by Mound Stars

HOUSTON (AP) — "Pitchers dominated the game as they have all season," said Red Schoendienst.

"There was great pitching on both sides," said Dick Williams. "But that's the way it has been all year."

So the opposing managers, Schoendienst of the National League and Williams of the American League, saw eye to eye on what made the low-scoring 1968 all-star baseball game turn out as it did Tuesday night.

There were other factors, too — a big one being Willie Mays' opening single and skipsky-hop base running that brought in the Nationals' only run in their 1-0 victory.

But it was mainly a battle in which the all-star pitchers made the all-star hitters look as though they belonged on the awkward squad.

It was the Nationals' sixth straight all-star victory.

Buckets of champagne were available in both dressing rooms but only the Nationals popped the corks.

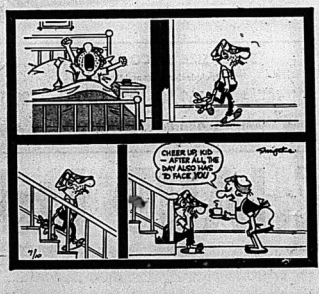
However, the American Leaguers took the loss in stride. The only hitter player was Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins—and it wasn't the loss Killebrew was the American League's first baseman, suffered a severe hamstring pull in his left leg while stretching for a low throw from shortstop Jim Fregosi in the third inning.

In obvious pain as he dressed, Killebrew shrugged off most questions with: "I'd rather not talk about it."

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, the starting and winning pitcher for the Nationals, said he relied mostly on the fast ball and slider.

Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants, another National League hurler, said: "We had great pitching and great defense. That's a combination hard to beat."

Tom Seaver of the New York Mets said low-scoring games have been the trend all year.



"Good pitching will overcome good hitting at all times," he said. "I didn't think there would be more than five runs scored in the ball game."

Schoendienst, who predicted a low score at his pre-game press conferences said: "In a game like this, the hitters don't see enough of the pitchers to get on to them."

Players on both sides said the 1-0 score was not boring.

"If I were a fan it would have been the kind of game that would interest me," said St. Louis outfielder Curt Flood.

Dammed River Should Return to Normal Today

CENTREVILLE, N.B. (CP) — Robert Caines, spokesman for a group of irate Centreville villagers who dammed the Presque Isle River here Tuesday to protest water pollution from Maine, said the river's flow should return to normal today.

Mr. Caines said a headpond of water backed up more than a mile by the nine-foot high barrier of mud gradually wash out the centre of the dam, allowing the stream to resume its usual flow.

"This is what we want," he said. "We had no intentions of damming the river permanently. We've made our point."

Resources Minister W. R. Duffie of New Brunswick said he had been advised by health department officials that operations to pick up the thousands of dead fish along the river's shores would begin today.

The dam was erected in protest the use of the Presque Isle as a sewage disposal area for two industrial plants at Easton, Me., about 20 miles up stream from Centreville.

Governor Kenneth M. Curtis of Maine said Tuesday that one plant stopped dumping its sewage into the river Monday.

Mr. Duffie said building the dam was an "unnecessary as well as illegal step" by the villagers.

Action taken by the Maine and New Brunswick governments had already resulted in plant production cuts at the source of the pollution, he said.

Mr. Duffie said an injunction could not be issued against the offending industries in New Brunswick courts because the provinces did not own any river-bank property.

James S. Erwin, attorney-general in Maine, said the state may try to deal with the problem as a civil, rather than criminal matter, by asking the courts to declare the river a public nuisance.

He expressed skepticism whether the International Joint Commission, which has jurisdiction over border rivers, could handle the problem.

"It takes them six months just to meet," he said.

A spokesman for the commission in Washington, D.C., said it is without jurisdiction in the matter until it has been contacted by either the Canadian or U.S. governments.

Mr. Duffie said the dam people of Centreville."

would only create a "dangerous problem and aggravate the solution."

Mr. Caines said the dam created "absolutely no danger at any time. Even if our dam could break there is another one just downstream that can take care of the backpond.

The dam has not caused any serious flooding, he said.

"I'm afraid he's not the turtleneck type. In order to wear a turtleneck, you first have to have a neck."

Teachers Are Exhorted To Back Bilingualism

FREDERICTON (CP) — Rev. J. Harold Cowsay, president of the Canadian Teachers' Federation, Tuesday urged delegates to the federation's annual meeting to adopt three motions concerning bilingual rights for French-speaking Canadians because "it is a question of simple justice."

Addressing a dinner at the opening session of the four-day national meeting, Father Conway said the time is past when teachers' organizations "caft sit on the fence and wait to see which way the pendulum is going to swing."

The federation's board of directors will propose that the organization "recognize the legitimate aspirations of French Canadians toward equality of status within Canada and the teacher's responsibility to influence public opinion to this end."

Another resolution calls on the CTF to approve in principle a recommendation on bilingualism and biculturalism which says: "We recommend that the rights of Canadian parents to have their children educated in the official language of their choice be recognized in the educational systems. . . ."

Czech Heart Recipient Dies

PRAGUE (AP) — Mrs. Elena Hovrathova, the first heart transplant patient in Eastern Europe, died Tuesday night five hours after she received the new heart at the Bratislava University Hospital.

Ceteka, the official news agency, reported the death today, saying that no more details were immediately available.

The 34-year-old woman was operated on by a team of 22 doctors headed by Professor Karol Siska. The heart for the world's 25th human transplant came from a 46-year-old man killed in a fall Tuesday morning from a window.

Shipyard Pact Signed

QUEBEC (CP) — An agreement has been signed between the union representing shipyard workers at Lauzon, Que., and the Davie Shipbuilding Co., it was announced Tuesday.

A spokesman for the union, affiliated with the Confederation of National Trade Unions, said at a news conference the agreement would re-open the George T. Davie shipyard.

About 1,000 workers were laid off when the shipyard was closed last month after being sold to the neighboring Davie Shipbuilding Co.

The agreement states that the shipyards will be re-opened only for repairs to the New Liakzard, a government-owned ship.

Churchill Aide Dies

LONDON (AP) — Sir Alexander Cadogan, wartime adviser to Prime Minister Winston Churchill, career diplomat and former chief British delegate to the United Nations, died Tuesday at his London home. He was 63.

He had served as chairman of the BBC and was permanent undersecretary of the British foreign office.

Cadogan accompanied Churchill to the summit conferences of the Second World War and prepared the first draft of the Atlantic Charter at 1941 meeting of Churchill and President Roosevelt at sea off Newfoundland.

Trenton Exchange Trip Ends

People Here Are Really Friendly, We Had A Great Time: BC Students

ROBERT AVERY
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — "The people here are really friendly, it's great."

These were the words of British Columbia exchange student, Lynette Goff as she attended a barbecue sponsored by the Trenton Kiwanis at the Lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Club.

The barbecue will be the last stop in Trenton for the 24 students from Victoria, B.C., who began their visit to the Trent area on July 24.

After the barbecue and drinks outside, the group went into the club house where they were entertained by Victoria folk singer, Albina Rocca.

The Kiwanis kept pace with entertainment provided by Bert Hayward.

Kiwanian president Frank Miron called the evening a "great success" and was pleased with the turnout which included Trenton youths who escorted the western students on many of their excursions throughout the area.

Lynette said she was impressed with the beauty of Trenton which "was much prettier than I thought it would be".

Jane Braden saw no difference "between the people here and the people at home, they're all the same—great".

"I like the boys here", was the way Rita Bray summed up the area much to the pleasure of the male occupants in the hall.

But one girl made a statement which met with shouts of agreement from all the Victoria scholars.

To Janis Yuen, "the people I have met have gone out of their way to help us, we couldn't have asked for more".

The students are part of a federal - provincial project called the Young Voyager Program and range from ages 15 to 18.

"We like the program of visits that were planned for us", smiled Cheryl Noren, "we really get to see a lot".

While in Trenton the exchange students have stayed at the homes of Trenton residents. Both students and families have labelled this a "great experience and lots of fun".

The evening was not without ceremony as President Miron presented the visitors with bracelets and silver spoons on behalf of Mayor James MacDonald and town council.

And their, were four adults who received deafening applause from the youth in the hall.

The wild clapping was for the Trenton hosts Jim and Pat Walker with the official escorts Sian and Dorothy McFarland.

A dance closed out the evening. The students will depart for Victoria on Thursday.

On leaving the club house Wendy Smith said, "It will be good to get home but we will always remember the friendly people we have met in Trenton."

City Officials Check New Traffic System

"It almost talks," said Alderman Arthur Keegan, speaking of the traffic systems that he and a committee of four studied last week.

Along with Alderman Keegan on a trip to Guelph and London, went Alderman Paul Russell, Police Chief Douglas Crosbie and Inspector Ralph Blatchford.

Their assignment: to study new traffic light systems and how they would work in Belleville.

The city now has a progression light system. This means that a driver going in one direction can expect a maximum of green lights and a minimum of red lights.

However, with a systemized setup progressions would be in operation in all directions instead of just one.

The MTS Traffic System control which Alderman Keegan said "talks" operates on impulses of sound.

Mr. Keegan, the committee chairman, said its uses are unlimited. For a couple of examples he stated that in bad weather it automatically slows down to safety speed and during a fire or other emergency the lights automatically go green before the engine passes by . . . after it passes they revert back to the regular program.

Whether or not a traffic light system of such high complication is necessary or worth while in Belleville, the chairman didn't say.

However, Alderman Keegan said he was very impressed with it, and felt it had many advantages that would help traffic, and pedestrians in Belleville get where they're going faster and safer.

The traffic committee will continue its studies of the situation here and in other cities throughout the summer, so that a thorough report can be delivered to council in the fall.

Cost of the equipment would be about $30,000 but Alderman Keegan said he hoped 75 per cent of the cost would be absorbed by the government.

"There are a lot of major arteries in the city," he said, "like highways 401, 2, 37 and 14, . . . the government should bear some of the cost."

The new system would also bring changes at the crosswalks as no cars would be allowed to turn during the duration of the walk sign.

More important, according to both Chief Crosbie and Alderman Keegan, is the fact that the system would plan for urban renewal.

"As soon as the Dundas St. Bridge is open Belleville's traffic patterns are going to change completely," said Chief Crosbie.

Employee of Wilson Concrete Successful in Bid for Degree

BARRY GRILLS
Staff Reporter

A Wilson Concrete Products Ltd. employee has proved that those with a will can find a way.

Andries VanAndel took a leave of absence from Wilson's for two years to further his education. While Wilson's held his job for him, he attended Queen's University and obtained his Bachelor of Science degree.

And what is more, he did it all with a language problem.

During the summer months when school was adjourned he worked at Wilson's.

He is now a member of the engineering sales department and is at present working on estimation.

A husband and father, he has two children, Fred, 10, and Dineke, six, and a wife, Gerry.

Mr. VanAndel was born in Sleeuwijk, Holland, in 1932. He took a course at a technical college in Utrecht where he obtained a diploma in civil engineering.

He then worked for two years with a consulting engineer.

In June of 1960 he and his family came to Canada and to Belleville where he started work at Wilson Concrete Products.

A few years ago he decided to go back to school to obtain a degree — and that's when the real work began.

Mr. VanAndel, who can sit and discuss topics such as philosophy and music for hours, knows well the problems he had with the English terminology needed at Queen's University.

He took philosophy while studying for his degree and he uses that as an example of the complications arising from words and phrases.

According to Mr. VanAndel, the dictionary was a well-used book while he was completing his university education.

It wasn't necessary for him to take the complete course at Queen's as he had received a technical school diploma in the Netherlands. He took two years to obtain his degree.

He admits that he had a certain amount of basic training at home in the English language, but this does in no way minimize the feat that he completed in May.

"Many words are not the same," he explains. The terminology in a subject like philosophy is confusing enough to a person born with English-speaking people let alone a naturally non-English person.

"As soon as you get deeper things it becomes a disadvantage to not speak English."

"My wife made all the studies possible by taking care of the children while I was at school."

Andries VanAndel has taken the bull by the horns and won.

Engineer at Work

Andries VanAndel looks over some drawings as part of his job at Wilson Concrete Products Ltd. He has just completed courses at Queen's University giving him a Bachelor of Science degree.

Society Tops Objective

TRENTON — The Trenton and District unit of the Canadian Cancer Society announced yesterday they had exceeded their $8,500 campaign objective.

Fred Preston, local chairman, said they had gone over the top in their recent campaign but a definite total could not be given as tabulating is done in Toronto.

All of the money was raised in a door to door canvass during the month of April.

Of the amount collected 70 per cent will go to cancer research, 25 per cent to service of patients and education. The remaining five per cent will take care of the overhead for the administration of the campaign.

Storm Cuts Phone Service

BANCROFT — A fierce summer storm that swept the northern reaches of the Quinte district yesterday cut telephone communications in this community.

The storm left the southern area of the district untouched as it dropped a third of an inch of rain here, accompanied by lightning and fierce winds.

Bell Telephone reports that service was disrupted for about three hours in the Bancroft, Maynooth and Gilmour areas.

Service to that area was restored at about 4.00 after the storm had subsided.

Quinte's Betty Ingram Qualifies

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Marlene Stewart Streit of Fonthill fired a one-under-par 74 at St. Catharines Golf and Country Club Tuesday to lead a group of 16 qualifiers into match play today for the Ontario women's amateur championship.

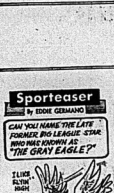
The score gave Mrs. Streit a two-round qualifying total of 151, nine strokes better than runner-up Mrs. R. W. Higgs of London, who had 160.

Defending champion Pam Miller of Oshawa, and Kay Heileur and Jane Kirkpatrick of Toronto were next in line with 161.

The top 16 scorers from Tuesday's and Monday's qualifying rounds begin match play for the championship which ends Friday on the St. Catharines course. There were 121 entries in the qualifying play.

Bonnie Mae Legge of Thornhill grabbed the last of the qualifying spots when she won a sudden-death playoff on the first hold against three other golfers. All had finished the two qualifying rounds with 168.

Others who made today's match play included Kay McNiven, Beamsville; Gail Borthwick, Hamilton; Susan Kampman, Kitchener; Betty Ingram, Belleville; Jocylene Bourrassa, Shawinigan Falls, Que.; Pat McClellan, Thornhill; Janet Toppin, Mrs. N. B. Panaluk, Tecumseh; Lia Ferrier, Cookstville; and Catharine Cartwright, Kingston.



Mrs. Streit, Miss Miller, Mrs. Borthwick and Miss Kirkpatrick will make up the Ontario team in the Canadian Championship in Montreal next month.

They were selected on the basis of scores in the two qualifying rounds here and two previous test matches.

Cheesemen's Win Creates Jam

Black Diamond Cheesemen created a traffic jam in the Commercial Softball League's second spot last night by pounding out a 12-1 win over Brants.

The field day for the Black Diamond crew started in the second with one run, but, for Brants, things got increasingly worse. The Cheesemen added three runs in the fourth frame, two more in the fifth, two in the sixth and finished up in the rain with four "insurance" markers.

Their win put Black Diamond in second place with City Hotel and Stinson's Construction, all sporting 7-6 records.

But the Cheesemen didn't do it all without any help. Brants committed four errors — one in the second and sixth and two to help those four seventh-inning tallies.

And then again, Black Diamond didn't do all the damage they might have — the game saw eight Cheesmen stranded on base.

Don Holoway, the Cheesman hurler who threw a near-perfect game against Stinsons last Saturday, had a no - hitter going in the fifth, then speeded up to get out of the evening drizzly.

He put his fielder's to work allowing a pair of Brant hits and the lone run by the Bodymen in the fifth.

He allowed a double by Brant centrefielder Ron Riddell and then saw Riddly score on a single by first baseman Mark Sheridan.

Holoway settled down as if nothing had happened in the sixth, but by then it started raining seriously in the seventh, he allowed hits by right fielder Herb Scrimshaw and another double by Ridely again.

The Cheesemen made only one error in the game.

Gary Mailer went the distance for the Bodymen, allowing 12 runs on 16 hits and handing out three walks. He fanned five.

Holoway gave up the one run on four hits while walking none and fanning seven.

The loss makes the cellar-dwelling Brants 3-11 for the year.

Shortstop Dwight Rathwell led the Black Diamond plate parade with two singles and a double. He also crossed the plate three times for the winners.

Three singles each were collected by catcher Don Wood and Cheeseman first-sacker Jack Francis.

Brian Smith collected a pair of safeties while pitcher Don Holoway socked a triple.

Single safeties were contributed by Wayne McTaggart, Gene Francis, Jack Gilby and Grant Collette.

Roberto Is On Defensive

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (CP) — Defending champion Roberto De Vicenzo of Argentina teed off in the first round of the Noble British Open golf tournament today with the modest conviction that at 45 he has as good a chance as any in the 130-man field to win.

"I'm 12 to 1, the bookies say," De Vicenzo said.

"But for my money everybody is 25 to 1. Any one of at least 25 can win it, Jack Nicklaus and all the others and me too, and so that makes all of us 25 to 1."

In fact, Nicklaus at 4 to 1 and Bill Casper at 5 to 1 appeared to be rather false favorites to master Carnoustie's 7,252-yard par-72 layout at such low odds.

A rapid shift in the weather put many of the golf stars in the running, including even some of the short hitters.

The North Sea winds which often turn Carnoustie into a tiger strangely were absent. Enough sun and overnight rain transformed the links into a sheer delight.

Come Rain, Hail, etc.. Mail Gets Through

For once, even a motorcycle cop should be been glad of the rain.

The wet weather stopped a Departmental Softball League game which saw the Policemen take a 17-8 beating from the Post Office.

The game was called after the 5th inning had innings but there was still enough time for the Mailmen to pound out 17 runs from Police pitchers Nelson and Goodwin.

The losers allowed the Post Office 17 runs on 18 hits and ten walks while fanning two.

The winners used two pitchers Jack Calnan and Bruce Nickle combined in the win, allowing eight runs on 12 hits and three walks, with one strike out between them.

Top hitter for the winners was George Johnson with a homer and three doubles. John Johns had two singles and a triple, Calnan had a double and two singles, "Soup" Campbell had three singles, Reid had a double and a single. Gord St. Louis of the Mailmen got his eyes to work drawing four free passes.

Power at the Police plate came from Morgan with two doubles and a single, Graham with a single and a double, Peters and Nelson with two singles each and Hall with a double.

At Zwick's Island

Top Archers Here Sunday

Some of the best archers in Canada are expected to draw their bows in an invitational Zwick's Island meet this Sunday.

The event will consist of F.I.T.A. (Federation of International Target Archers) competition, in which archers shoot 144 arrows, with a maximum 10 points per arrow.

The meet is one of about 20 that has been sanctioned by the national archery federation, and any records that may be established would be recognized by the official body.

Men's F.I.T.A. world record is 1,230 of the maximum 1,440 score, while women have 1,130 to aim for.

Shooting starts at 10 a.m. Sunday, and will likely last most of the afternoon. The public are invited to attend, at no admission charge.

Canadian women's titlist, Carol Armstrong, of Belleville and about 40 other top bowmen and women are expected to take advantage of Sunday's meet as a warm-up to the national archery championships in Regina later this month.

Think of a father's pride in seeing his hockey-playing son make the big time while most of his chums are still fighting junior or even juvenile ice wars.

But that parental pride can all too soon turn to remorse with the realization that there is more to life than chasing pucks or balls around.

Popular Peterborough sportsman Eddie Redmond is waging a personal battle against the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association's announced plans to lower its age limit for junior-classification players from 20 to 19, effective this year.

Redmond says a 19 age limit will "dilute" the calibre of junior hockey because it is usually not until his third year that the average junior counts into his own.

Redmond, who made more than a few friends locally when a member of the Whitby Dunlops, has a couple of major complaints in joining the fast-growing ranks of parents and minor hockey organizers prepared to fight the "18" ruling.

"There are two things wrong with lowering the age, he says. "It is taking away from when they are 19, and 95 per cent of 19-year-olds are not ready for professional hockey."

"Secondly, these boys are stopping their schooling a year earlier."

The father of flashy Montreal Canadiens' sophomore Mickey Redmond, Eddie can speak from experience.

A second son, Dick, is due to start his third season with Peterborough's junior "A" entry this winter, and it will be his last under the new CAHA ruling.

If the CAHA has its way, "now the local club, local fans, the boys, and the parents are all headed in the deal," he adds.

We think his second reason for opposing the CAHA's edict is the more vital one, in the long run.

Offers for a 19 jet alone a 19-year-old to sit on the benches of some of the best hockey teams in the world must be almost impossible to reject — even at the expense of schooling, which these days is pretty synonymous with "future."

Eddie Redmond is one of the lucky hockey fathers. His son is still in the limelight.

But what of the thousands of other junior hockey players across Canada who will see their sport become their profession, never knowing from one day to the next if they will be on the ice, let alone wearing their team's uniform next game.

The image of professional hockey scouts plucking hockey babes from their mothers and fathers with a wad of the green stuff may not be as far-fetched as many of us might like to reassure ourselves.

All this is a sound basis for a discussion on the merits of athletic scholarships.

But that's another story.

NL Stars' Win Makes It 6 In Row

HOUSTON (AP) — Things happen when Willie Mays is on a baseball field, and that as much as anything tells why the National League won its sixth straight all-star game against the American League Tuesday night.

Willie made the difference again, scoring the only run in the National League's 1-0 victory in the 39th all-star renewal.

His first-inning run was all the Nationals needed with six pitchers sharing a three-hit, 11-strikeout performance.

American League players hit only three-fly balls all night, none of them to Mays' centre field zone in the Astrodome.

Mays, who became a starter because Cincinnati's Pete Rose broke his thumb Saturday night, opened with a single against Cleveland's Luis Tiant.

He led off first and Tiant threw to Harmon Killebrew. Mays stepped back, then again led away. Again Tiant tossed and this time Killebrew bobbled it.

"He said the ball moved," said Tiant quoting Killebrew. "I guess it curved."

Mays thought it glanced off his back. At any rate, the ball eluded Killebrew and Mays was off for second.

Now Tiant turned his attention to Curt Flood, St. Louis' centre fielder who was playing left, because Mays was in the National League lineup.

Tiant fell behind and on the fourth ball, he uncorked a wild pitch that flew high over catcher Bill Freehan's head.

Tiant said he crossed Freehan up on the pitch, delivering a high fastball when the catcher called for a low curve.

"It can happen a lot of times when you get a strange catcher working with a strange pitcher," said Dick Williams, manager of the American League team.

Mays moved to third and with Flood at first and none out, it looked like a big inning budding.

The American League played the infield back, hoping for a double play. Willie McCovey cracked a sharp shot right at second baseman Rod Carew.

Carew hesitated for a fleeting moment, but Mays already was bearing down on the plate, so the Minnesota infielder went for the double play. The American League didn't know it, but they had won the battle and lost the war.

"I had no idea one run would win it," said Mays. "I was just lucky enough to score the winning run."

The hit that started the rally was Mays' 23rd and the run he scored was his 20th in all-star play—both records.

The National League pitchers came through beautifully.

Don Drysdale permitted a leadoff double to Jim Fregosi and the American League didn't have another runner until Tony Oliva doubled against Tom Seaver with two out in the seventh.

Twenty batters went up and down in between against Drysdale, Juan Marichal, Steve Carlton and Seaver. There was another two-out double in the eighth by Don Wert and nothing more.

Mays' Hustle Made Difference

HOUSTON (AP) — Hustle won Tuesday night's all-star baseball game and hustle has always been the trademark of 37-year-old Willie Mays.

Mays sat slumped in the National League dressing room and told how he scored the only run of the game in a pitcher-dominated 39th all-star battle.

For Mays, the San Francisco Hr scarcely smiled.

As the leadoff batter for the National League, in the first inning, Mays drilled a grounder between the hole at third base and shortstop.

He started his fancy dance jigging off first base and this seemed to make the American League starter, Luis Tiant of Cleveland, nervous.

Tiant lobbed over a throw.

Mays took another leadoff. first.

"The ball glanced off my back and I saw the first baseman Harmon Killebrew wasn't going to be able to handle it, so I took off," Mays said.

Mays dashed to third moments later on a wild pitch that also walked Curt Flood of St. Louis.

Then Willie McCovey of San Francisco hit a bolthot off the hard synthetic turf to American League second baseman Rod Carew of Minnesota. Mays put his head down and bolted for the plate. Carew looked to home and decided to go for the double play.

WILLIE MAYS

"I had no idea one run would win it," said Mays. "I was just lucky enough to score the winning run."

Mays is so lucky he has scored a record 20 runs in all-star competition. Mays' single, his 23rd all-star hit, also is a record. Mays is lucky?

He was named Tuesday night's Most Valuable Player.

Asked how he felt about setting all-star records, Mays said: "Damned fine."

"I'm glad I was able to score the winning run," Mays said. "I wasn't supposed to play."

Mays, the captain of the National League, wasn't picked on the starting team in his 15th all-star game.

Then Pete Rose of Cincinnati broke a thumb, leaving a spot in the starting outfield.

Mays refused to downgrade the American League although it was losing its sixth game in a row in the series.

Majors' Best Bats Tamed by Mound Stars

HOUSTON (AP) — "Pitchers dominated the game as they have all season," said Red Schoendienst.

"There was great pitching on both sides," said Dick Williams "But that's the way it has been all year."

So the opposing managers, Schoendienst of the National League and Williams of the American League, saw eye to eye on what made the low-scoring 1968 all-star baseball game turn out as it did Tuesday night.

There were other factors, too — a big one being Willie Mays' opening single and skippity-hop base running that brought in the Nationals' only run in their 1-0 victory.

But it was mainly a battle in which the all-star pitchers made the all-star hitters look as though they belonged on the awkward squad.

It was the Nationals' sixth straight all-star victory.

Buckets of champagne were available in both dressing rooms but only the Nationals popped the corks.

However, the American Leaguers took the loss in stride. The only bitter player was Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins—and it wasn't the loss Killebrew, the American League's first baseman, suffered a severe hamstring pull in his left leg while stretching for a low throw from shortstop Jim Fregosi in the third inning.

In obvious pain as he dressed, Killebrew shrugged off most questions with: "I'd rather not talk about it."

Don Drysdale of Los Angeles Dodgers, the starting and winning pitcher for the Nationals, said he relied mostly on the fast ball and slider.

Juan Marichal of the San Francisco Giants, another National League hurler, said: "We hid great pitching and great defence. That's a combination hard to beat."

Tom Seaver of the New York Mets said low-scoring games have been the trend all year.

"Good pitching will overcome good hitting at all times," he said. "I didn't think there would be more than five runs scored in the ball game."

Schoendienst, who predicted a low score at his pre-game press conferences said: "In a game like this, the hitters don't see enough of the pitchers to get on to them."

Players on both sides said the 1-0 score was not boring.

"If I were a fan it would have been the kind of game that would interest me," said St. Louis outfielder Curt Flood.

B.C. Boss Says NFL Turmoil Could Aid Canadian Football

VANCOUVER (CP) — Denny Veitch, young general manager of British Columbia Lions, says the turmoil in United States football could have a beneficial effect in Canada.

Veitch, in his second year as boss of the Western Football Conference club, was commenting on a statement that professional football is facing a "long and disastrous strike" over a dispute involving pensions.

Art Modell, president of the National Football League, made the statement Monday.

"The situation could have a feedback in Canada," Veitch said in an interview.

"The rookies in the U.S. might well seek legal advice to see what their position is. We wouldn't fool around with anyone under contract, but quite a few good players exist who nobody has signed."

Veitch was here handling the book work while the Lions continued to work out in the most luxurious training camp in Canada—at Royal Roads, near Victoria.

At camp and in the general manager's office most of the good words concerned Canadian quarterback Pete Ohler and import back Leroy Sledge—with words of praise left over for Jim Young and Garner Ekstran.

"Ohler looks like money in the bank," Veitch said.

Veitch says the spirit of the club is reaching the customers and that season ticket sales have hit 18,500 and "we hope to be above 20,000 season tickets by the time the season begins."

Reasons? "Sledge is a superstar; we have a colorful coaching staff and we have taken a more intelligent approach to the marketing of tickets."

The Lions are also working to make game night a festival in Vancouver with such half-time entertainment as 13 milers taking a crack at the Canadian record; Gordie Howe and Cyclone Taylor from the hockey world will be there; 130 members in the Lions junior band and another 40 musicians in the house band will back up 60 cheerleaders.

Over in Victoria, head coach Jim Champion, an insomniac prowls the hallways at the armed services college where the team is staying.

He praises the quarterbacks he will be forced to go with—Ohler and import Hank Schlictie who, in a recent scrimmage, "took the second unit right down to touchdowns without a lot of trouble."

Canuck Scullers Set Pace

HENLEY ON THAMES (CP) — Canada's Ridley College defeated Tiffin School of England by three lengths today in the first heat of the Princess Elizabeth Challenge Cup for schoolboy eights as the Henley Royal Regatta got under way.

The heavyweight Canadian crew from St. Catharines, Ont., averaging 174 pounds, went into an early lead and led by 3½ lengths at the three-quarter-mile mark on the one-mile, 550-yard River Thames course.

With both crews striking 37, the Canadians under the stewardship of cox Rick Ivey of London, Ont., held on to their lead at the one-mile mark and were going away at the end to win comfortably in 7:08.0.

The Canadian scholastic champions, who trained on big meals and plenty of milk, are on their first visit to Henley and are the first Canadian school entered at the famed regatta in three years.

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Meet actor Floyd Patterson, former world heavyweight boxing champion.

"I'm not nervous now but I don't know whether I'll get stage fright when I get before the cameras," he said Tuesday.

"My main concern at the moment is the fight in Sweden."

Patterson, 33, referred to his 15-round title encounter scheduled Sept. 14 in Stockholm with Jimmy Ellis of Louisville, Ky., the World Boxing Association champion.

Patterson is in Hollywood to make his acting debut in a segment of the television series Wild Wild West. He has a key role as an Oklahoma farmer of the 19th century whose land is beset by the bad guys.

A Knight For Soccer

LONDON (AP) — Matt Busby, the soccer manager who conquered Europe after surviving an air crash in Munich in 1958, was knighted Tuesday by the Queen.

At a ceremony in Buckingham Palace, the Queen laid a sword on Busby's shoulder and congratulated him on leading Manchester United to victory in the European Cup of Champions this year.

She discussed United's victory over Benfica of Lisbon in the final and said: "It was a wonderful victory. We were all so thrilled."

Busby, a former Scottish international, rebuilt Manchester United after the team was shattered in the Munich crash. The manager himself fought for his life in a West German hospital for weeks after the disaster.

Eight of his players were killed. Two others were so badly injured they never played soccer again.

A&P what kind of coffeemaker do you use?

It really doesn't matter.
Any coffeemaker can give you a good cup of coffee, providing you use a fine fresh coffee that is ground exactly right for your coffeemaker.

We've always known that the correct grind is important to coffee flavour. That's why, years ago, we developed Custom-Grinding. That's why we don't have just one or two grinds but seven different grinds... to fit any coffeemaker, including electric percolators, of course. (Ask for medium-fine grind for electrics.)

Custom-Grinding means a little extra work for us and a little extra time for you. (It takes 15 seconds to grind a pound.) But what a difference in flavour those few seconds make.

You know, there's only one reason we insist on selling custom-ground bean coffees... WE CARE.

Remember When . . .

Picton Game Ended In Barnyard

By Geo. H. Carver

It happened during a post-retirement ball session of the sports greybeards of the city and district.

"Do you remember" siphoned one Methuselah through his chin foliage, "the day one Bon Church later known as the 'Colonel' registered a full grown biddy hen at the King Edward Hotel in Toronto — and almost got away with it?"

That actually happened. It was during the 1933 season when the Picton Intermediates reached the Ontario Baseball Association finals clashing with the Southampton Fishermen, featuring the famous Lefty Goldsmith.

The Picton club was managed by Jack Vanover, well-known city hotel impresario, who took the club to the finals only to lose 8-2 to the Fishermen on a cold early October day in Guelph.

Picton's famous southpaw "Warpy" Phillips of Bloomfield had led the Picton team to the finals, losing 1-0 in the first of the best-of-three finals and winning 2-0 in the second tilt.

It was in the early days of radio. The Picton Chamber of Comerce had posted $100 for a live radio broadcast with the famous Wes McKnight of CFRB fame as the announcer.

McKnight graciously asked me to help in the broadcast. He took the first four and one half innings — I covered the rest.

Four inches of snow covered the playing field, also the top of the Guelph Exhibition where the broadcast took place, gasoline cleared the playing field in time for the game. The stadium roof remained snow-covered, too.

McKnight and I lay on our stomachs on the roof with melting snow dripping down our necks. The "mike" was a box-like affair. You talked straight ahead.

All went well until I took over, then the Picton management failed to give us the word of a pinch-hitter and for two innings I was a batter behind.

Fortunately there were no transistor radios in those days and the mistake went unnoticed until I got home when I discovered I had credited Roly Rorke with a home run when actually it was hit by Morley Durnford, the catcher, and a member of the O.P.P.

We travelled by car those days. By the way, the Picton team lost the game when Church took over from Phillips in the third and failed to stop the Fishermen. The score was 8-2.

We took off for home in cars. The car in which I was riding with Durnford and Rorke was in second place behind that in which rode Vanover, Church and other club members.

About 15 miles west of Toronto the Vanover-Church car slithered to a sudden stop. We pulled up a few yards behind it.

As we watched, Church and Vanover leaped out of the car and vaulted a fence into a field where a flock of chickens was feeding.

Vanover paused while Church chased the flock. It seems a bet had been laid between the two that Church could not bag-tie a hen.

In the meantime an irate farmer's wife was watching the caper. Church finally low-tackled a plump biddy and took it to the angry farm-wife. An exchange of money brought peace to the scene.

"See you in the King Eddy" the two yelled as they took the chick to the car.

The car in which I was riding pulled out in front of the Church - Vanover car. Something was afoot and we were afraid to be in on the kill. We arrived at the hotel a full five minutes before the hen-clutchers.

Then it happened. Church had made a halter for the hen out of a piece of string. He with Vanover led the frightened biddy into the hotel lobby, straight to the desk. In the meantime a gaggle of curious guests and others had gathered.

Church demanded a room for his chicken lady friend from the clerk and when refused demanded to see the law that prevented such action.

The embarrassed clerk had no answer and Church promptly started to lead his feathered mistress to the elevator.

Meanwhile a large crowd was enjoying the scene. Unfortunately for Church the now thoroughly frightened hen decided to lay a double-yolker on the floor of the lobby. And it was not an egg.

That did it. House detectives entered the drama and took over the scared eggless hen, confiscated it and said it could be picked up.

It never was. Somebody had a free chicken dinner.

Them were the days!

B.C. Skipper Ahead

KINGSTON (CP) — Steve Dupper of Vancouver scored back-to-back victories Tuesday to sail into the early lead in the Dragon-class Olympic trials at Kingston Yachting Club.

Paul Phelan of Toronto's Royal Canadian Yacht Club finished second in both races with Gerry Leiourseau of Montreal's Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club third. Only three boats, an unusually low number, are entered in the week-long trials to decide a Canadian representative to the Olympic water events this fall at Acapulco, Mexico.

Dupper won the first race, finishing 30 seconds ahead of Phelan. In the second race, the two exchanged the lead several times before the Vancouver skipper pulled ahead in the second-last leg.

Phelan, a 15-year veteran of Dragon racing, represented Canada in the 1960 Olympic water events in Naples.
